❖ Society Notes ❖

Mrs. George von L. Meyer is to furnish the North Shore with one of the novelties of the season, which is being greatly anticipated by those who have received cards. She is to give a dance in the Hamilton Town hall tonight—Friday—at which all the guests, both gentlemen and ladies, are requested to wear tennis costumes. One hundred and sixty cards have been sent out. The hour is announced as 9.30.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., sailed for home a day or so ago after a few weeks' trip abroad. He will join his family at Manchester the last of next week.

Mrs. Thomas M. McKee motored up from Beverly Farms to Manchester, Vt., to spend the week-end with her sister, Mrs. P. F. Smith. Mr. McKee sailed for Europe on Wednesday of last week for a short trip.

One of the largest and most fashionable parties at the Ferncroft Inn this summer was given recently by Mr. and Mrs. John R. McGinley of Pittsbug and Eastern Point, Gloucester, in honor of their daughter—second youngest—Miss Marion McGinley. Thirty-five young people were invited over there for the dinner—one of those broiled chicken dinners for which the Inn is famed—and the dance following.

Among those giving luncheons at the Essex County club on band concert afternoon, Wednesday, was Mrs. E. A. Boardman of Beverly Farms. Covers were spread for sixteen.

The stork paid a visit to the summer home of the Cuban minister, in one of the cottages at the Masconomo House, Manchester, last Sunday night and left a son to General and Mrs. Carlos Garsia Valez. The General was away from the summer legation headquarters at the time, on business, but he has since hurried home to be with his family.

Roger Noble Burnham, the sculptor, of Magnolia, has just completed a monument commemorating the battle of Point Pleasant, West Virginia, to be set up at that place shortly. The monument is an enormous bronze panel, containing sixty figures.

Tennis week at the Myopia Hunt club starts on Monday, the 13th. There will be mixed double and ladies' singles. The entries close next Wednesday, the 8th.

An interesting mixed doubles tennis tournament has been in progress at the Essex County club the last week, the novel feature of which was that players must be thirty years of age or over. The competition is for handsome silver cups offered by Lester Leland. Those taking part, and their drawings for the preliminary and first rounds, were: Mrs. E. P. Whitney and S. V. R. Crosby v. Mrs. F. G. Curtis and Marq. Montagliari; Mrs. A. Winsor Weld and E. K. Arnold v. March. Montagliari and C. C. Walker; Mrs. G. F. Willett and A. Winsor Weld v. Mrs. Boylston A. Beal and Garrard Comly; Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and W. D. Denegre v. — — —; Mrs. T. M. McKee and Count von Wedel v. Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and Prince Koudacheff; Mrs. Lester Leland and G. F. Willett v. Mrs. Philip Dexter and Philip Stockton.

Mr. and Mrs. Beacher M. Crouse and children have returned to their home in Utica, N. Y., several weeks earlier than they planned owing to the illness of Mrs. Crouse. The family arrived early in July, Mr. and Mrs. Crouse going abroad, and leaving their children at Brownland, in Manchester. Mrs. Crouse was taken ill in Paris a week before sailing for home. They returned to Utica last week.

Dr. John A. Brown and family are closing their cottage at Old Neck, Manchester, this week, and are about the first to return to Boston for the winter.

Mrs. Arthur Burnham and Miss Burnham of Brookline are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Noble Burnham at Magnolia. Miss Burnham is a splendid swimmer and has been the center of much admiration at Crescent Beach.

The annual meeting of the Manchester Yacht club was held on Monday afternoon of this week at the clubhouse. The following officers were elected: S. Parker Bremer, commodore; C. Howard Clark, jr., vice commodore; Francis M. Whitehouse, rear commodore; Arthur M. Merriam, secretary; Francis W. Fabyan, treasurer; David Fenton, measurer; T. K. Lothrop, jr., and Edwin A. Boardman, executive committee three years; George W. Mansfield, Charles E. Hodges, Augustus P. Loring, jr., John H. Storer, jr., and Norton Wigglesworth, regatta committee. The by-laws of the club were amended so as to admit summer members under certain conditions.

Miss May Loring, daughter of A. P. Loring of Pride's Crossing and sister of Caleb Loring owner of the Wolf, sailed that smart craft to victory in the sonder races at Marblehead Tuesday. It was the first known instance of a woman holding the helm in an international race. Miss Loring is a clever yachswoman and has participated in many races along the shore.

The play-off at match play for the scratch challenge cup at the Essex County club has resulted in Clay Arthur Pierce coming off the victor. Mr. Pierce met his brother, Roy C. Pierce in the finals recently and beat him 3 up, 1 to play. The members returning the best eight gross scores in the members' handicap of Aug. 7 qualified to play off for the cup. In the first round the matches resulted as follows: Paul Moore beat G. H. Crocker, C. A. Pierce beat G. E. Warren 2 up, R. C. Pierce beat G. F. Willett 1 up 19 holes, F. I. Amory beat Samuel Carr 1 up 20 holes. In the semi-finals C. A. Pierce beat Paul Moore 3 and 2, R. C. Pierce beat F. I. Amory 4 up. And in the finals the two Pierce brothers met, the older one winning 3 up, 1 to play.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Robinson are new arrivals at Brownland, Manchester, this week. They are here to remain for several weeks.

HORSE SHOW BIG SUCCESS.

Before Crowd of 2500 Miss Eleanora Sears Wins Three Cups and a Yellow Ribbon.

It is a general opinion that the horse-show and meet given on Crescent Beach, Saturday afternoon was the greatest event of its kind ever held at Magnolia. Society was there, the horses were there, the class was there, the money was there—everything that tends toward a successful show was there in abundance. Even the weather was with the show, for it was as fine a day as could be.

It is estimated that more than 2000 people were on the beach and witnessed the sports. Boxes had been erected in front of the big pavilion and each of the ninety-two were filled. Among those having boxes were General Garretson, Admiral Pillsbury, Prescott Bigelow, George H. Crocker, Arthur D. Cook, C. A. Potter, H. H. Adams, W. H. Coolidge, R. H. Depew, W. B. Wilkins, C. L. Holt, J. B. Lord, J. C. Kerr, F. D. Godley, W. H. Scudder, W. H. Hulick, A. B. Dewey, Eben D. Jordan, Mrs. Corlies, J. H. Walker and Claude Kilpatrick.

The Oceanside orchestra was stationed on a little stand erected on the beach in front of the pavilion. In the harbor off the beach were scores of yachts and smaller boats. Col. W. R. Nelson's large yacht, the Hoosier, was decorated with flags and burgees, and a large party of people were on board. Mrs. H. G. Curry's yacht was also decorated and a party was on board.

The long stretch of beach had been rolled and specially prepared beforehand and, shortly after two o'clock, the first event was started. It was the children's saddle class. The spectators were much surprised when a newcomer took first honors—Miss Leslie Bradley's "Bedouin," a post entry, and not on the printed list. Miss Alice Thorndike took second on "Jack Rabbit" and third fell to "Silver Heels" with Miss Harriet Fessenden up. In this event Miss Thorndike attracted much attention as she wore a long green riding coat, which she just brought from England, and which was the liveliest bit of color on the course.

In the runabout class, Miss Margaret Gummey, driving S. H. Fessenden's "Lady Love" easily won first. Miss Adele Ritchie, the actress, took second with "Gloria," Miss Eleanora Sears third with "No Name" and Miss Katherine Tweed, fourth, with "Ironsides." It was in this event that Miss Sears began her record-making. She captured only a yellow ribbon here, but before the meet was over won three cups in addition. Her performances were easily the most dashing of the meet.

The most spectacular events of the meet were the jumping classes, the flat race and hurdles. In the jumping events, the horses had considerable difficulty in making their leaps owing to the soft sand from which they had to jump. Considering this, their work was remarkable. In the ladies' and gentlemen's jumping class the mark reached was 4 ft. 6 in., and in the high jump, 5 ft. 11 in.

Alice R. Pierce (formerly Mrs. "Tom") did some striking work jumping with "Quail" in the sporting tandem. The participants were required to unhitch their leader and show him over three jumps. In that event she won the second cup, the first going to Miss Thorndike and Miss Tweed, with "Iron Duke" and "Ironsides." In the quarter-mile flat race, there was one of the prettiest finishes ever seen anywhere. A bay gelding and a brown, owned by George Chipchase of the Judge Moore stables at Pride's led away from the start and held it neck-and-neck to the wire. The bay, with Charlie Cooper up was declared the winner.

The keenest competition was in the high jump. Here Mr. Chipchase's "Brown Jug" and D. B. Wentz's "Highflyer" fought it out for first place, but finally tied at 6 ft. 11 in. Hall Gleason's "Brushwood Boy" also showed fine form and won third honors. "Happy Jack," who, it was expected, would make a great showing, refused to jump.

Much praise is due to Joseph Collins and J. Henry Coulter of the fashionable Coulter stables for the success of the show. It was under their management entirely this year, which accounts for the liberal patronage of society.

The officials of the meet were: Judges, George S. Mandell, Master of the Hunt at Myopia Hunt Club, Dr. S. A. Hopkins and Gerard Bement. In the ladies' driving competition, Howard Brown of Paris acted as a special judge in place of Mr. Mandell. Announcer, H. S. Ward; starter, J. H. Coulter.

The results of the events are shown in the following summaries:

ROCKPORT

After one of the busiest seasons in years the majority of the Rockport and Pigeon Cove hotels will close on Sept. 15. The Ocean View House at Pigeon Cove, and the Headland House and the Granite View at Rockport close for the season on Sept. 15, while the Glen Acre Inn at Pigeon Cove and the Straitsmouth keep open somewhat later, probably till Oct. 1. The long continued season speaks well for the popularity of the place and also helps to make up for the slow start of an unusually late season. While the number of guests along the Rockport shore have not been less this year than heretofore, the society season has been dull. The absence of the North Atlantic battleship fleet with the exception of a very short stay at the beginning of the season, tended to depress the social element at Rockport—it always takes the sailor boys to start the ball rolling. In a business way, the season has been more than profitable and all are looking forward to a big season next year.

Among the late guests arriving at the Ocean View House are Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Foss of Lowell. They motored over Sunday and have taken apartments for a two weeks' stay. They have been guests on the Rockport shore for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Chase of Boston are at the Ocean View House for a fortnight. Mr. Chase is a banking cashier, very well known in Boston banking circles.

Miss Josephine Brooks of Wellesley and Mr. and Mrs. Morse S. Downs of New York City were among the arrivals of the week at the Glen Acre Inn, where they will spend the next three or four weeks.

H. S. Bangs of Boston is spending a week at the Glen Acre Inn.

Mrs. L. Montaigne, a guest of many seasons on the Rockport shore is back at the Ocean View House to spend the remainder of the season.

Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Leonard of West Roxbury, came down to the Ocean View House Monday and have registered for a fortnight. They are motoring to the White Mountains which they expect to reach about Sept. 15. They will not return to Boston until late in October.

Mrs. C. A. Savage, of Newburyport, came over to the Ocean View House Monday for a fortnight.

BASS ROCKS

President Taft and his son Charlie visited the Moorland Saturday, spending the latter part of the afternoon and the early evening on the veranda facing the ocean. They were guests of Mrs. M. H. Perine of Cincinnati, O., an old friend. They came over about 3 o'clock after attending a reception for the members of the Gloucester Day committee at the home of John Hays Hammond at Gloucester. They did not stay for dinner, but motored back to Beverly.

Bass Rocks is just completing the greatest season in its history as a summer resort. Both the Moorland and the Thorwald have had a patronage broader than ever before, and, at both houses, the daily average in number of guests, has been higher than last year, which was considered better than any previous season. The Moorland will close for the season on Sept. 15 and, while the Thorwald has set no definite date for closing, it will probably end its season about the middle of the month.

Charlie Taft, son of the President, and Miss Lucile Smith of Beverly, were guests of honor at a small party given by the Misses Huston of Detroit, Mich., at the Moorland Sunday evening. Ten were present.

Army people continue to arrive at the Bases. The latest arrival is General S. S. Sumner, U. S. A., who, with E. R. Hastings came over from Washington to spend his vacation by the ocean. Gen. Sumner is registered at the Thorwald and will remain about two weeks. Before returning to duty he will spend a fortnight in the White Mountains.

H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Auto-Car Company of Toledo, O., is at the Moorland for a two-week's stay. He is motoring through New England in a peculiar car which he calls the "Bullet." The machine is equipped with a sheet-iron wind shield which completely covers the steering rod and rises to a point where the driver can just see over it. Altogether the machine looks like a monster torpedo and, it is said, it can travel just about as fast.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Brown of Syracuse, N. Y., are at the Moorland for the remainder of the season. Mr. Brown is president of the Smith-Premier Type-writer Company.

Commander Thomas Washington, of the Dolphin, the private yacht of the Secretary of the Navy, George von L. Meyer, has returned to the Thorwald after several weeks absence aboard the Dolphin. Mrs. Washington has been at the Thorwald since early in June.

EAST GLOUCESTER

The Hawthorne Inn, after a season of unequaled popularity, will close its doors on Oct. 10th. In every way the season has been better than in former years and the prospect is bright for East Gloucester as one of the coming big summer resorts of New England. Under the same management as the Hawthorne plans are afoot for the rebuilding of the Colonial Arms hotel which was destroyed by fire last year. The new hotel will be built of concrete in a very imposing style. Construction will be started next summer.

General Anson Mills, U. S. A., of Washington, D. C., arrived at the Hawthorne Inn Sunday after two weeks spent in the White Mountains. The General and Mrs. Mills have been guests at the Inn for several seasons and Mrs. Mills has always been prominent socially there. This season she arrived about June 1. The General came on the first of July and remained until Aug. 15 when he and Mrs. Mills went to the mountains. They will be at the Inn until it closes.

H. R. Labonaire and W. H. Labonaire of New Orleans are two brothers who are enjoying their first visit to New England. They are registered at the Hawthorne Inn for two weeks after which they will go to the White Mountains.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Shadman of Lancaster, Pa., are at the Harbor View house for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Look and Miss F. H. Look of Northampton, are motoring through New England and are stopping at the Hawthorne Inn for two weeks.

R. J. Burnwell of Baltimore is a guest for the month at the Hawthorne Inn.

Dr. and Mrs. James K. Loring of Philadelphia have taken rooms at the Hawthorne for the month of September. For the last several years they have come to East Gloucester late in the season to spend the beautiful New England Indian Summer at the seaside.

Among a number of far-westerners who arrived at the Hawthorne this week were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hoyt and family of Kansas City. They will spend the autumn on the shore.

BASS ROCKS

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Welch of New Rochelle, N. J., were hosts at a whist party at the Moorland Saturday evening. After the games, a delightful spread was served. Covers were laid for thirty.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Way of St. Louis, Mo., are at the Thorwald for the remainder of the season.

Off in one corner of Judge Moore's private training track at Pride's Crossing, away from the track and under the brow of the hill, is a little grass plat, surrounded by shrubbery and flowers. The spot marks the resting place of "Forest King," the famous heavy harness horse owned by Judge Moore. On one end of the little plat is a large boulder, on which is inscribed on a tablet of bronze the following: "Forest King, the Champion Heavy Harness Horse of the World, Born at Market Wheaton, Yorkshire, Eng., 1893, died at Pride's Crossing, May 25, 1908."

Miss Alice Cotting gave a luncheon of twenty covers at the Essex County club Wednesday afternoon.

During September the drag hounds of the Myopia Hunt club will meet at 6.30 a. m. as follows: Friday, 3rd, kennels; Tuesday, 7th, Hamilton meeting house; Friday, 10th, Hamilton Four Corners; Tuesday, 14th, North Beverly station. One horse runs. The pony drags will continue at 5.15 p. m., as follows: Saturday, 4th, Underhill's corner, Ipswich; Wednesday, 8th, Dry Bridge, Topsfield; Saturday, 11th, High street, Ipswich. Fixtures for the rest of the month will be announced later. Geo. S. Mandell, Master.

Police Baffled by Repeated Daylight Burglaries in and about Magnolia.

All attempts on the part of the police to trail the sneak-thieves who entered the house of Lucius Tuttle, President of the Boston & Maine Railroad, at Magnolia, Saturday afternoon and secured jewelry valued at $1000 have so far been in vain. The articles taken were two gold watches, two diamond rings and a diamond pin.

The burglars secured entrance to the house while the horse show was in progress at Crescent Beach. The stolen articles were on a dressing table in Mrs. Tuttle's room on the second floor. It is supposed that the thieves entered through a back door. This case is one of several reported among the Magnolia summer colony recently and none of the perpetrators have been detected.

BRILLIANT NAVAL WEDDING.

Mrs. Carroll Livingston and Lieut.-Commander McCormick to be Married Tomorrow.

The wedding of Mrs. Carroll Livingston of New York and Lieut.-Commander McCormick of the battleship Mississippi, which will be held at the MacDonald Cottage, Magnolia, at noon, tomorrow, will be a ceremony distinctly naval in tone and one of the most brilliant celebrated on the shore in years.

The knot will be tied by Chaplain Reaney of the Mississippi. Miss Katherine McCormick, a sister of the groom, will be bridesmaid and Lieut. Samuel McGowan of the Connecticut, and inspector of the battleship fleet, will be best man. About 60 guests, representing the relatives of the bride and groom and their intimate friends, will be present. Among the naval folk expected are Admiral and Mrs. Swinburne of Newport, Commander M. L. Bristol of the torpedo station, Lieut.-Commander and Mrs. Charles Kellogg, Commander and Mrs. J. T. Gerrold Kelley, U. S. N. retired, and Lieut.-Commanders Crank, Blakely and Sawyer and Capt. Sidney K. Evans, U. S. S. Minnesota. In the place of honor among the brilliant array of wedding gifts will be the solid silver service set presented to Mrs. Livingston by the ward room officers' mess of the Mississippi.

A dinner party in honor of Miss McCormick and Lieut. McGowan will be given tonight at the MacDonald cottage. Only the bridal party and a few friends will be present. After the wedding breakfast tomorrow, the bride and groom will leave in an automobile to spend part of their honeymoon. They will return to Magnolia shortly.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

In the past we always associated the electrically-propelled vehicle as something not yet sufficiently developed to attract the public for general use, and what was used were such vehicles as by hard work might keep up with a horse, but not as long as a horse, through lack of capacity to stow away enough "juice" to give a fair sort of a ride. Therefore, we were really treated to a great surprise when the representative of the Babcock Electric Co. upon calling at the Breeze office a few days ago, offered to take us to Beverly in his car, instead of getting there in the usual manner that a newspaper editor would have to go,—by train. The representative claimed that such methods were too slow for this electric age, and so we were treated to a ride in the Babcock Roadster. We certainly did get to Beverly in short order and upon inquiry

The most pleasing announcement along the Shore during the last week was that which came from the summer capital to the effect that President Taft and his family will be at Beverly next year. All arrangements for their stay, so far as tenancy is concerned, have been completed. The President made the announcement personally and emphasized the pleasure which he has had in passing his first vacation as President on the Shore. He said that the way the Shore people have treated him has been exceedingly agreeable and for this he expressed his utmost appreciation. While it is impossible to forecast the future, it is probable that the President's stay at Beverly next year will last two or three months. The next Congress will have no tariff bill to struggle with and will probably adjourn in early June. While it will be congressional election year, the long autumn trips will be few and it is likely that the President will be on the shore until Oct. 1.

One of the early autumn events that will prove of much interest to North Shore people will be a private dog show at Robert Jordan's kennels at Wenham. The plans for the event are yet immature, and the dates not yet decided upon. It will probably be on the first week in October.

Secretary of the Treasury Franklin McVeagh was a guest of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter of Beverly Cove during his visit to Beverly last week. Edwin V. Morgan, one of the younger American diplomats who has had a very eventful career, and who is now United States minister to Cuba, has also been a guest at the Leiter home recently. Mr. Morgan's first diplomatic post was as secretary to the High Commission of Samoa in 1899. The next year he was made secretary of the legation to Korea; the next, second secretary of the embassy to Russia; the next he was brought home to act in the State Department at Washington. In 1904 he was made consul to Dalney, Manchuria and, in 1905, minister to Korea. In the following year he was made minister to Cuba, a post which he has held since.

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz is leaving Manchester next Wednesday for her mountain camp at Jackson, N. H., to be gone the whole of September. She will return to the shore to close out the season. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes will accompany Mrs. Fitz for a few days' stay only. They will go on to some of the Maine resorts.

Earle Gould of Southboro has been spending a fortnight visiting friends at Brownland, in Manchester.

Mrs. Clarence Park has been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., at West Manchester.

The Francis W. Fabyans intended to leave Manchester yesterday to motor out to the Adirondacks for a week or so.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane left Manchester Thursday for a fortnight's visit to the Adirondack's, where they are located at Saranac Inn.

Miss H. M. Magee of Ober street, Beverly, figured in a runaway accident on Hale street, Beverly, late Friday afternoon but was not seriously hurt. A truck team, running away, overturned the coupe in which Miss Magee was riding.

Mrs. John T. Wheelwright of Pride's has been entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Merriam of Washington. Mr. Merriam was once governor of Minnesota.

One of the largest parties of the week was that given at "Vil al Mare," the delightful summer home of the George Lee's at Beverly Farms. The party was given on Wednesday evening and was an informal dance in honor of Miss Elizabeth Lee, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee. About sixty young people were invited.

George Copeland, jr., and Mrs. Graves gave an interesting recital on modern French and Spanish music at the home of Mrs. Godfrey Lowell Cabot, Beverly Farms, Wednesday afternoon. The function had a large society list of fashionable patronesses and was largely attended.

Many of the North Shore young people are taking active interest in pigeon flying and have become members of the West Lynn Homer Club. Among such are the McKean boys at Pride's Crossing. On almost every day of the last week pigeons have been let loose from various points. On Thursday of last week the pigeons were let loose from Lowell; on Saturday they were started from Ayer, Monday from Gardner and on Tuesday from Miller's Falls. Harry McKean has some 45 Homers and he has been using 30 of them in these flights. His birds are most all the sons and daughters of 500 and 600 miles birds. The pigeons are shipped to these places and set loose at a certain hour.

Mrs. F. L. Higginson will give a children's party at her Pride's Crossing estate Saturday afternoon. About 60 boys and girls have been invited. Sports will be indulged in and some sort of entertainment will be provided.

The Masconomo House at Manchester closed its doors this morning for the season. Manager Dutton says he has an option on a five years' lease of the property and that he intends to come back next year. The hotel has had the best season in years. At times as many as 125 guests were registered at the hotel, and not since early July has there been less than fifty, all of which would indicate that the hotel if modernized and properly managed would regain its old-time prestige as the leading hotel of the North Shore.

❖ Society Notes ❖

Col. and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson are planning on leaving Manchester next week to spend the balance of September at their estate at Lake Champlain.

Among the prominent people visiting the North Shore the last week was Secretary of State Philander Knox, who has been a guest of Henry C. Frick at Eagle Rock, Pride's Crossing. Secretary Knox came on to see President Taft, and he has been combining business with pleasure. Several little parties have been given during his visit this week to which he has been invited.

Society folk who attended the polo matches for the F. Blackwood Fay cup at the Myopia Hunt club Saturday afternoon saw some of the snappiest play of the season. There were two games, the Blues playing the Reds and the Greens playing the Whites. The Blues and Greens were the victors. The first game, between the Blues and Reds, had to go to extra periods and was finally won by a score of $4\frac{3}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$. In the second match, the Greens won by 6 to $3\frac{1}{2}$. F. Blackwood Fay refereed the games. The Blues and Greens will now fight it out to a finish.

At the home of John Hays Hammond at Fresh Water Cove Saturday afternoon, President Taft held a formal reception for the members of the Gloucester Day committee and their wives. The President had planned to be in Gloucester on Aug. 4, to attend the Gloucester Day pageant and it was intended that he should receive the committee at that time at Mr. Hammond's house. The tariff situation, however, prevented Mr. Taft from coming. The reception was abandoned but Mr. Hammond promised that the President would meet the committee some other time, and Saturday's reception was the result. The President, accompanied by Capt. Butt, and two secret service men came down from Beverly in an automobile, and, with Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Meyer, had luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Hammond. In response to a wireless message flashed from "Dick" Hammond's wireless apparatus at the approach of the President, the "Dolphin," the private yacht of the Secretary of the Navy, which was anchored in the harbor, fired the national salute. Following luncheon, the President met the committee and their wives on the broad veranda of the Hammond home, which faces the ocean. The members of the committee were introduced by Fred W. Tibbets, secretary of the committee. After their reception, the President rode away in his automobile to visit friends at the Moorland at Bass Rocks.

Society Notes

One of the many event which have made the last week a round of society pleasures was the sonder class races between the German and American boats at Marblehead. Every day on which waters of the harbor, too, were dotted with hundreds of crafts on which entertaining of one kind or another went on continually. Some of the yachts noted during the week were John Hays Hammond's "Wayfarer," E. C. Fitch's "Chanticleer," Frederick H. Stevens' "O-we-ra," Col. Charles Hayden's "Wacondah," Washington B. Thom-the races were held saw the club houses along the Marblehead harbor crowded with fashionable folk from all along the North Shore and from near and distant parts of the country as well. The races were made the occasion of many fashionable luncheons and dinners, both at the club-houses and the fashionable hotels and at private residences. At these functions, the German yachtsmen were often guests of honor and the American yachtsmen were also prominent in the festivities. Many of the cottagers entertained house parties and most all of the cottages were decorated in honor of the visitors. The had as their guests Miss Ethel Gibson of Nahant. Mrs. Abbott's father, Dr. Tiffany of Baltimore, who is spending the summer at the Hotel Preston, Beach Bluff, has also been over about every day.

At West Beach last Friday one of the private classes of the boys and girls along the shore had a sort of water carnival and there were some pretty close contests in the various events. In the one-half mile distance swim for children under 17 years, John Caswell was the victor. Others taking part in the race were James King, Nancy Cabot, Pauline Luke, Marjorie Lee and Elizabeth Bigelow. The short distance swim was won by "Wee" Lee. The diving contest was won by Jimmie King, who also won the 50-yd. swim.

There were 41 players in last Saturday's handicap golf tournament at the Essex County club, although but 15 of these turned in cards. Francis I. Amory won the net score prize with a 77, while lowest gross was handed in by G. D. Eustis, who comes from Cincinnati. His score was 82.

BALLAD OF THE PULLMAN.

BY JOSEPH A. TORREY.

We were crowded in the Pullman,
On either side three deep;
Without, a storm was raging,
Within, was little sleep;
For wailing babes and snoring men
Will make you swear or weep.

When the dull gray of the morning
Had o'erspread the Eastern skies,
There entered at the doorway
A creature I despise—
A train-boy with his basket,
Who called aloud, "Meat Pies!"

His entrance and his outcry
Had set us all agog,
When a fat man just above me,
(Who had slumbered like a log,)
Called back in mocking accents,
"What color was the dog?"

Then a ripple of light laughter
Ran up the car and down,
That, swelling to a tumult,
Did all our night-cares drown,
As the little vulgar train-boy
Quickly answered, "It was brown."

And I blessed the little fellow
And the man in the upper tier
Who on that drizzly morning
Filled all our hearts with cheer.
When the sun was shining clear.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLII.

Some German professor once said that vacations were for the purpose of giving teachers an opportunity to break ground in new studies, and for scholars to review old ones, which has a decidedly Teutonic sound; but no doubt the value of coming weeks and perhaps months in school will depend very much on the way in which teachers and scholars have spent their vacation.

Tools are kept bright by using them, and the mind is apt to get rusty by inaction; even times of recreation need not be altogether times of mental idleness; change is often better for both mind and body than total inactivity; how to proportion recreation to work, and how to make recreation subservient to the highest uses, is a great problem.

A new cook-book gives 106 recipes for cooking cabbages; reminding one of Mrs. Glass' famous recipe for cooking a hare, "first catch your hare;" most people find more difficulty in getting cabbages than in cooking them.

A doubt was expressed not long ago whether a certain religious body—not in Manchester, however,—was getting all out of its house of worship that had been put into it, and the thought came, can the value of a church in any community be estimated in dollars and cents; is not its worth less tangible, though none the less real.

A popular magazine writer, it seems, has discovered to her own satisfaction at least what becomes of those who pass into the realms beyond; they are "absorbed into the life absolute;" so now we know, and it is to be hoped are duly grateful that the old question is answered; the information is given as at first hand. And so the world wags on.

Of course we are making progress, but in what direction, we may ask, forward, or sideways; that is the question. Is Theosophy an advance on Christianity? Are its priests and priestesses wiser than apostles and prophets? They evidently think they are.

It would seem that personal immortality is the last thing desired by some of our religious teachers; they prefer Nirvana, or absorption into the infinite, or collective immortality as some call it—whatever that may be.

The great question is not, how much does one know, but what use does he make of what he knows? One man knows a great deal but he makes little use of it except to show it; another knows much less, but he makes good use of it for the welfare of others; the last will be in much more honor than the first when both come to give an account of their stewardship.

Mars Eclipsed.

Hundreds of North Shore people watched with great interest an eclipse of the planet Mars by the moon Wednesday night. The phenomena is apparent in this part of the world but twice in a century.

Occasional clouds and a sky not over bright, made the prospect rather indistinct at first. But, as the time went by and the night grew darker, both the planet and the moon were seen in better outline. Toward nine o'clock the planet and moon were observed drawing closer together until, finally, the planet was lost to view behind the moon. This state lasted for over an hour, then, suddenly, the planet again appeared, very indistinctly at first, on the other side of the moon. From then on it gradually came out until, at 10.30 o'clock, it was again shining brightly, apparently several inches away from the moon and rapidly moving farther away.

The beautiful night afforded a rare chance for observing the phenomena. Some of those who watched had dark glasses and others telescopes of 3 inch diameter and under. Through the latter, the action of the two bodies was very apparent.

Carpenters to Demand More Pay?

North Shore carpenters are interested in the agitation that is advocated by the business agents from eastern Massachusetts, and also the Boston council, to establish a 45-cent hour rate for the entire North Shore district to begin next May. Carpenters throughout the district voted this down for the past two years because they believe that the time was not ripe to make the demand.

Before a demand is made the question will be again put before the members for their approval.

Post 67, G. A. R., of Manchester, will be represented in the County G. A. R. parade at Beverly next Saturday, Sept. 11, by a good-sized delegation. The President will review the parade from a stand to be erected in front of City hall.

Mrs. Esther Miller Kitfield of this town died Monday, August 16 at the summer home of her niece, Mrs. Henry Wilson at Winniahdin at the age of 90 years. She was born in Gloucester on May 10, 1820. She married Benjamin Kitfield of this town and spent most of her married life here, being a member of the Baptist church for years. Of late years she lived in Gloucester. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Mehitable Kinsman and a number of nieces and nephews. The funeral services at West Gloucester were conducted by Rev. J. W. Ward of the Prospect street Methodist Episcopal church of Gloucester. Services were also held at the Crowell Memorial chapel, and the interment was in the family lot here.

The public schools of Manchester open next Tuesday morning,—the 7th. With the opening of school four new teachers will take up their work here,—new for Manchester schools, though all have had experience elsewhere. Of the four new teachers two are Manchester girls, graduates of the Salem Normal school. Miss Lena M. Jones will have charge of Grade 3, to succeed Miss Henry. Miss Jones taught in Hingham last year. Grade 4 the coming year is so large that it was thought advisable to divide it into two divisions and Miss Theresa Walsh, who taught last year at Everett, will have charge of the extra grade thus formed. One of the teachers from out-of-town will be Miss Gertrude Sherman of Dorchester, who will succeed Miss Taylor as teacher of Grade 1, and principal of the Price Primary school. Miss Sherman has taught very successfully for six or seven years, last year at Saugus. Miss Lola Durrell, who succeeds Miss Tozier as teacher of the 5th grade, was graduated from the Farmington (Me.) Normal school. She has taught very successfully for five or six years. At the High school the teaching force will be same as last year. Miss Kauffmann, who sailed for Europe last June has been granted a leave of absence until the first of October. Her classes in French, German and history will not take up their work until her return. Miss Kauffmann has been studying her subjects abroad this summer, and what her classes lose these few weeks in September, will be amply made up by the increased faculties gained by Miss Kauffmann in her studies this summer.

Manchester roads are now in the prime of condition and many complimentary expressions about the excellent roads here may be heard from motorists from distant parts, at the various hotels along the shore. While there are places, of course, where improvements may be made, and will be made before another season, yet the roads of Manchester as a whole are by far the best along the North Shore.

John Rogers Allen, one of our oldest and most-respected citizens, observed the passing of his 80th milestone Wednesday by having a sort of family gathering at Tuck's Point. A number of friends and relatives from out of town were among those present. The afternoon passed very pleasantly. Mr. Allen, though an octogenarian, belies his age, for he looks and acts as a man many years younger.

The course of the law in dealing with a Manchester young man—whose name we will not mention out of respect for his parents—ought to serve as an example for other young men. This party went to the postoffice last Saturday, got his father's mail, opened a letter containing a check, endorsed the check and cashed it at one of the grocery stores. The father made a complaint to the police and Officer Sheehan went to Boston Monday and run across the young man. In the district court at Salem, Tuesday, the fellow pleaded guilty to the forgery of a check and was sentenced to Concord reformatory for a minimum term of nine months.

Free Postal Delivery Service to be Instituted in Manchester by December 1.

Postmaster Samuel L. Wheaton was in receipt of a letter yesterday from the First Asst. Postmaster General C. P. Grandfield, stating that a city delivery service will be established at Manchester on December 1, 1909. "City delivery" is the official name of what we commonly term "free delivery."

The letter states that there will be three carriers and one substitute-carrier. Thirteen boxes will be placed at various points about the route and thirteen steel posts will be erected for the boxes.

This announcement ought to be received with a great deal of appreciation by Manchester people. There is probably not a town in the state, nor in all New England, of Manchester's population, that can boast of such first-class postoffice service as Manchester.

The town has been divided into three divisions, which in brief may be called the West Manchester route, the Manchester Cove route, and the School street route.

Route No. 1 (East) would include Beach street, from the Postoffice, Tapan, Sea, Masconomo to Proctor, Summer to the Cove school-house, Allen's court, Brook and Forest streets. Distance $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles. There are 110 houses on the route.

Route No. 2. Union, Washington, North, School (from North street to Baker's farm), Friend court, Pleasant, Rosedale, Lincoln, Vine, Brook, Desmond and Norwood. Distance $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles; 246 houses.

Route No. 3. Union, Church, School to North, Central, Elm, Morse court, Pine, Ashland, Bennett, Bridge to Beverly line, Highland, Harbor. Distance $6\frac{1}{4}$ miles; 150 houses.

More details regarding the installation of the service will be printed in the BREEZE from time to time.

Senator Shaw Not a Candidate for Re-election.

Senator James F. Shaw, who has represented Manchester in the senate for the last three years, announces today for the first time through the BREEZE, that he is not a candidate for re-election.

"To the Republican Voters of the Third Essex District:—

"Having been honored by the voters of this District with three terms in the Massachusetts Senate and with the approach of another election, I consider that it is my duty to state my position regarding seeking further honors in the coming Republican caucuses.

"I am deeply sensible of the great honor and confidence which I have received at the hands of the Republican party and the people of this district. To compensate for this I have given my best efforts to promote the interests of the District and the State at all times. To assist me I have had the loyal support of many members of the Massachusetts House and Senate to whom I am under deep obligation.

"After mature deliberation I have decided that I shall not this year be a candidate for any office. While I have been strongly urged to enter the Senatorial contest, I feel that I must devote my entire time to my business interests for the present."

Last Saturday one of the many children's out-door classes,—that meeting at H. M. Sears,—held some water sports at the Sears' beach, and some very interesting events were run off. Miss Phyllis Sears won the long distance swim, Elise Ames won the diving contest and Ollie Ames won the diving and swimming contests for the younger children. The long distance swim for the younger ones was won by Jean Murray, with John Hodges a close second.

Keith's.

That baseball is the American game, that it is a game with which every one is familiar was never better demonstrated than one afternoon recently in New York, when Cecil Lean, who had long been the star of the Kirke La Salle Company, sat on the back of a davenport, in his shirt sleeves and his coat over his arm and sang a song called "The Fan." This happened in a New York Theatre and before the chorus was finished crowded houses were shouting like wild.

The Sarah W. Whitman club held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hull, on Hart street, Beverly Farms, Wednesday. When the reports of the club's recent fair were read, it was shown that the sale had been a big success. The club wishes sincerely to thank its many friends who contributed so generously to the fair.

Lean with the song caught the spirit of the ball game and every move he made was a picture. He woke up next morning to find himself the most talked about comedian in New York. Mr. Lean will be the star attraction at Keith's next week, coming with Florence Holbrook who has been associated with him as stellar features of "The Soul Kiss." They have an act that will certainly be talked about as there has nothing cleverer been presented in vaudeville in recent years.

Fresh Vegetables in Cans

While the fresh-from-the-garden kind of vegetables is always most desired, yet there are seasons when these delicacies are not marketable to appeal to the moderate pocketbook. A provision is made for this by the modern method of sanitary canning. Freshly gathered, thoroughly ripe varieties are now preserved before they lose their natural crisp and deliciousness of flavor fully equal to the fresh gathered.

An Up-to-Date Grocery.

"The largest" this side of Boston is a distinguishing feature of which any store ought to be proud, but to combine with this, the finest in quality, the most up-to-date, the cleanest, the best ventilated and best lighted grocery store anywhere along the North Shore, are the essential features of the big success of the Cobb, Bates & Yerxa grocery in Salem. And then again, it is strictly a grocery store,—not groceries and provisions, not groceries and liquors, but a grocery and bakery,—the best, the finest this side of Boston. Many North Shore people, while motoring in Salem stop at Cobb, Bates & Yerxa's to do some of their shopping. Everything in the grocery line may be purchased there.

Fashions in Brick.

According to an article in Suburban Life for September, there are fashions in brick as well as in woman's dress. The writer says: "No longer are buildings built of red brick of uniform color and shape, laid in running bond, with narrow mortar joint, the whole giving the appearance of a painted surface ruled off with geometrical precision. This conventional style has been abandoned, and has given place to walls built of brick of varying colors, shapes and finish. The style of the mortar joint has also changed, with the result that today a brick facade is a work of artistic character, and the various styles of brick and of brick-laying offer themselves to an unending variety of architectural treatment."

On Tuesday evening, at the Women's Clubhouse, there will be an old-fashioned dance, with all the old-fashioned dances. On Thursday evening, progressive whist and Friday the usual embroidery class.

The first prize for the pool tournament at the Men's Club was won by Warren C. Johnson, and second prize by Harry Pitts. The first prize, a very beautiful cup and the second prize, a jointed cue were presented by C. I. Hood. The score of the final game between Johnson and Pitts was 50 to 42. The checker tournament was won by Fred Dunbar and H. Brown, second. The individual tournament in bottle pins was won by T. P. Patterson.

The dance held at the Men's Clubhouse Wednesday evening for the benefit of John Donovan who has been very ill proved a very pleasant affair. About 150 people were present and $60 was realized.

The usual dance from 8.30 to 10.15 o'clock will be held at the Men's Clubhouse Saturday evening.

"The Children of Far Away Lands" will be the subject of a stereopticon lecture at the Village church Sunday evening. The meeting will begin at 8.15 o'clock.

Jonathan May was one of the number from here who enjoyed the pleasures of the trip to Lake Winnepesaukee Wednesday.

A very pleasant incident occurred at the Women's Clubhouse last Friday evening when the members of the club presented the matron, Mrs. H. C. Foster, with a beautiful gold watch. Mrs. Foster has worked with great fidelity and success for "her girls." The club numbers over 250 and every member loves Mrs. Foster, so out of their summer's savings they contributed and bought this token of their affection. Mrs. Foster was sent out the first part of the evening and departed without suspicion; then the tables were spread, the decorations were brought from their concealment, the fruit punch was concocted and the members gathered in crowds. Chane's orchestra volunteered its services, and when Mrs. Foster returned she was welcomed with music and rejoicing; she was taken completely by surprise. The watch was presented in behalf of the club by Rev. F. J. Libby and Mrs. Foster's husband, who was in the secret, made an excellent speech of acceptance in her behalf. The selections were rendered by the orchestra and refreshments were served, followed by dancing and merriment until closing time came.

HOLMES' CENTENNIAL.

Rev. Clarence S. Pond Delivers Anniversary Sermon at Beverly Farms Baptist Church.

The Centennial of Oliver Wendell Holmes, so interesting to residents of Beverly, Beverly Farms and Manchester, from the many associations of the poet with those places in life, was the theme for a centennial address by the Rev. Clarence Strong Pond at the Beverly Farms Baptist church, Sunday. The service was very largely attended and many went away with a better conception of the poet than they had had before.

The Rev. Mr. Pond said in part: Of the many centenaries of 1909, local associations make that of Oliver Wendell Holmes of personal interest. A visitor in speaking with Dr. Holmes of the year 1809 reports him as saying, "Yes, I was particularly fortunate in being born the same year with four of the most distinguished men of the age and really I feel flattered that it so happened. Now in England there was Tennyson, Darwin and Gladstone, Gladstone being, I think, four months younger than myself. That is a most remarkable trio, isn't it? Just contemplate the greatness of those three men and remember that in the same year Abraham Lincoln was born in this country. Most remarkable!" And when the visitor added, "There was a fifth, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes," Dr. Holmes quickly retorted in his inimitable way, "Oh, that does not count. I sneaked in."

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes had a strong faith in God. This is expressed in his Hymn of Trust:

"O love Divine, that stooped to share,
Our sharpest pang, our bitterest tear,
On Thee we cast each earth-born care,
We smile at pain while Thou art near.
Though long the weary way we tread,
And sorrow crown each lingering year
No path we shun, no darkness dread,
Our hearts still whispering: 'Thou art near.'
On Thee we fling our burdening woe
O love divine, forever dear,
Content to suffer while we know,
Living and dying, 'Thou art near.' "

He was an optimist in sharp contrast to the depressing determinism of the theology current in his day and its consequent pessimistic tendencies.

He was broad as the river, deep as the canon. His was truly a liberal spirit. The spirit of his religion never froze through mere intellectuality into philosophy, a religion of reason and no more. He knew that there was another and spiritual side to which the intellect was servant and not master, "That there was a plant within him called Reverence, which needed watering about once every week." Such is true liberalism. There is the false liberalism of the Pharisee who can only worship God in the mould of his own thought, but the truly broad man is he who can reach out and find Him in worship though the form of the expression of devotion may be different from his own.

Holmes had a great faith in humanity in contrast with the dread doctrine of early years of the "worthless worm" of humanity. He was truly Christian in his conception of the dignity and mission of man. He sent a fair-shot arrow with its point touched with the poison of humor into the conception of man as without good. He suggested that the Medical Society "should refuse to give us an opiate, or to set a broken limb, until we had signed our belief in a certain number of propositions"—of which we will say this is the first:

"All men's teeth are naturally in a state of total decay or caries, and, therefore, no man can bite until every one of them is extracted and a new set is inserted according to the principles of dentistry adopted by this society."

The Professor says, "Why, no, that isn't true. There are a good many bad teeth, we all know, but a great many more good ones. You mustn't trust the dentists; they are all the time looking at the people who have bad teeth and such as are suffering from toothache. The idea that you must pull out every one of every nice young man and young woman's natural teeth! Poh, poh! Nobody believes that. This tooth must be straightened, that must be filled with gold, and this other perhaps extracted, but it must be a very rare case if they are all so bad as to require extraction; and if they are don't blame the poor soul for it! Don't tell us, as some old dentists used to, that everybody not only always has every tooth in his head good for nothing, but that he ought to have his head cut off as a punishment for that misfortune! No, I can't sign Number One!"

Holmes was again truly Christian in his conception of the dignity and mission of man. The orthodox and the heterodox can meet here, at least, whatever their theological explanation of Christ may be. He was all of God that man could be and all of man that God could be. God in his love expressed in Christ recognizes the worth of humanity. In Christ was the earthly power and heavenly heritage of humanity recognized. All can agree that God's love for humanity and man's noble destiny does not end at the grave. In the Chambered Nautilus the scientist becomes poet and the poet seer.

"Build thee more stately mansions O my Soul,
As the swift seasons roll,
Leave thy low-vaulted past,
Let each new temple, nobler than the last
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine out grown shell by life's unresting sea!"

Holmes caught and reflected the spirit of the modern scientific spirit and all that it meant. It strengthened, not wakened his faith. His faith remained ever true to the "spirit in man and the Almighty giveth him understanding." The terms of the expression of religion only change. Religion has nothing to fear from Science. Knowledge can only increase our wonder and awe of the Personality that orders and rules his universe with a firm and merciful hand of Providence and Justice.

Such was the Holmes you knew, strong in faith, in God and humanity, optimistic and cheerful in his attitude to the "earth born cares" of life; truly liberal and frankly scientific, yet spiritual in the interpretation of religious thought and action.

In preparing the centennial services the Rev. Mr. Pond invited Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson and Mrs. Juli Ward Howe to be present and speak. Neither were able to accept the invitation, but both sent letters expressing their sentiments.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's letter follows:

"Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was a merry man, ministering a good deal at times to that perception of the comic element in life which really lightens the burdens of life common to our human experience. He was at the same time a man of very earnest thought, and one who threw the whole weight of his ability and reputation on the side of righteous living. His fun never descended to frivolity and his serious writings, both in verse and in prose, are full of suggestion and of precious inspiration. I hold them to be of high literary value, and am glad that the occurrence of the centenary of his birth calls to mind so freshly the great and genial services which he has rendered to the reading and thinking world."

JULIA WARD HOWE.

A party of young people will go camping at the "Wigwam," West Gloucester, Saturday to remain over Sunday and Labor Day. The party includes Oliver W. Low, J. Larcom Ober, Miss Almira Williams, Miss Jeanette Bolam. The invited guests are Miss Marguerite Mitchell and Clifford B. Denison of Pawtucket, R. I., Mr. Forte and Miss Frances Blake of West Newton, Robert D. Bishop of Auburndale, Miss Evelyn Bailey of Newtonville and Miss Ethel Standley of Manchester. Mrs. Winthrop F. Low will chaperone.

The lawn party given last evening at the parochial grounds by the Oliver Wendell Holmes council, K. of C., was attended by a large gathering, all of whom, no doubt, had such a good time that they are today congratulating themselves that they did not miss it. The grounds were prettily decorated with lights and an orchestra furnished plenty of music. Dancing was one of the most enjoyed features. About the grounds were the refreshment tables, and games of a variety to suit almost everyone, all of which did a good business. The committee who had charge of the affair worked hard to make the party a success, and the result was very satisfactory.

To Expand As Rapidly As Necessity Prompts

Just start if you wish with but a section or two, this will look very tasty, making what is now termed a "Dwarf" case and quite stylish. You can then add to this much running as high as you like and away around your room, under window casing and into corners. We sell the famous ..Gunn..

The case made in Grand Rapids to suit particular folks. It has roller-bearing doors that absolutely will not "stick." It has no unsightly bands on the sides to make it look cheap. It is truly dust-proof, its doors overlapping one another. It stands as firm as a rock when you put it together. You can lift off the doors without taking it apart. It is finished just as nicely as any furniture that's made, and includes all sorts of devices for home or office requirements. We carry it in stock in Solid Mahogany, Imitation Mahogany, Quartered Oak, Weathered Oak and Plain Oak.

It costs just as little as any reputable case made and it really is lots better than any of its competitors.

❖ Society Notes ❖

The Robert Fulton Cuttings, who have been occupying the Walter J. Mitchell house at Manchester Cove, during July and August, left Manchester Wednesday for their home in New York. They will go to Tuxedo Park for the autumn. Fulton Cutting is returning home by way of the Berkshires in his "B. L. M." racing runabout. He is at Lenox over the week-end. Charlie Lawrence, who is home from Paris for the summer, and who has been visiting among his friends on the North Shore, motored out to Lenox, too, in his speedy runabout. Both young men attended the Lowell races the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Porter, jr., who sailed for Europe several weeks ago, are now in Switzerland. They will return to Manchester about the 7th of October, to remain the balance of the season.

The wedding of William Stuart Spaulding of Boston and Pride's Crossing, and Miss Katrina Fairlee will take place next Tuesday, the 14th, at 4 o'clock in the Fairlee home at Kenilworth, Ill. Several relatives of Mr. Spaulding will go from the North Shore to attend the wedding. It will be very small and quiet, as the prospective bridegroom is still in mourning for his mother, Mrs. M. D. Spaulding, who died at Pride's Crossing last summer. Mr. Spaulding is a Harvard '88 man.

On Friday of this week the Rev. William H. Dewart and family closed their summer home at Manchester Cove and returned to their winter home on Brush Hill, Milton.

An engagement of interest to North Shore people is that announced last week, of Miss Mary Gurnee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Gurnee of New York and Tuxedo, to Francis V. L. Hoppin of New York. The Gurnees are at Bar Harbor for the summer. Three seasons ago they spent the summer at West Manchester. Miss Gurnee is a sister of Mrs. Harry H. Thorndike of Boston, who, with her family, is spending the summer at Beverly Farms. The wedding will take place in New York shortly after the holidays.

Livingston-McCormick Nuptials at Magnolia Saturday Attended by Naval and Society Folk.

Society from New York and Washington, and a company of naval folk from the North Atlantic Fleet gathered at Magnolia Saturday noon to witness the marriage of Mrs. Charles Carroll Livingston of New York City to Lieut.-Commander Benjamin B. McCormick of the battleship Mississippi. The wedding was one of the brightest society affairs on the North Shore in a long time.

The ceremony was performed at the MacDonald cottage, Fuller street, the summer home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles R. Cornwall of New York City. The Rev. Fr. Reaney, chaplain of the Mississippi, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Healy and Fr. Fennessey of St. Ann's Catholic church. Miss Katherine McCormick of Troy, N. Y., a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Pay Inspector Samuel McGowan of the North Atlantic fleet was best man. The groom, the best man, and other naval officers present were attired in the splendid naval uniforms and these, with the robes of the clergy, gave the wedding a touch of solemn dignity that was very impressive.

The bride was gowned in gray panne velvet, princess with old rose sleeves and wore a pendant of aqua marines and diamonds, a gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was gowned in white net draped over a skirt of pink. A luncheon followed the ceremony and then the happy couple left on an automobile tour. They will return to Magnolia shortly.

Among the guests were Admiral Joseph E. Pillsbury, U. S. N., retired and Mrs. Pillsbury of Washington, D. C., Lieut.-Commander J. E. S. Kellogg, U. S. N., and Mrs. Kellogg of the Minnesota, Mrs. St. John Butler, Mrs. Janvier LeDuke, Mrs. George H. Schermerhorn, Mrs. Alice Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yates, Mrs. J. Livingston Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Scott O'Connor and Mrs. William Webb of New York.

The floral decorations were very pretty, the color scheme very appropriately being the national colors—red, white and blue. Some beautiful salvias were used in the red decorations, and asters for the white and blue, with a tinge of green asparagus, sprengeri and plumosa setting off the blooms. In the midst of the flowers was a beautiful silver cup which Lt.-Commander McCormick had won on

Mrs. Charles T. White of Boston, who has been at Brownland, in Manchester, all summer, has gone to Milton to spend a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Coolidge, before opening her town residence on Commonwealth ave. Miss Gertrude White is remaining at Brownland until the latter part of September.

Mrs. Ezra C. Fitch has been entertaining considerably on board the Chanticleer during the sonder races at Marblehead last week and this. Nearly every day she has been hostess for a party of ten or a dozen, serving luncheon on board. Mrs. Fitch gave a bridge of eight tables one day last week at her summer residence, "Riverhouse," Norton's Point, Manchester.

Dr. Charles A. Porter left Beverly Thursday for a fortnight's shooting trip in New Brunswick. George S. Mumford is accompanying him.

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz left Manchester, Wednesday, for Jackson, N. H., where she will spend the early autumn. Mrs. Fitz has a beautiful place at Jackson, her estate affording a magnificent view of the whole Presidential Range. She will return to Manchester in October for a day or two before opening her Boston residence for the winter. Mrs. Fitz's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Holmes, are to spend the balance of September camping in Maine.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Meyer, with the Misses Meyer and George von L. Meyer, jr., expect to attend the naval parade to be given at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York on October 1. The parade will be one of the finest ever held, and will consist of 80 or more battleships from many countries.

Mrs. D. W. Abercrombie of Worcester is at the Oceanside until the close of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fitch, jr., will live in Boston this winter instead of Montreal, as Mr. Fitch has taken charge of the Boston office of the Waltham Watch Co., of which his father is president. He will have temporary charge of the Montreal office also, but this will take only a small part of his time. They have taken a house at Brookline for the winter. Mrs. Fitch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tucker.

A woman dog nurse—a new London fashion—is to be introduced into New York by Mrs. Tyler Morse, the beautiful young wife of the former Boston dog and horse enthusiast. The innovation is certain to cause much comment in the fashionable circles of America, where Mrs. Morse is well known. The new nurse is on her way to New York from London. When on duty she will wear the trim uniform of the Canine Nurses' Institute with its scarlet letters embroidered upon the apron. The nurse will take care of Mrs. Morse's famous kennel of Old English sheep dogs. Mr. Morse all through his Harvard days, showed a strong liking for bulldogs and when he met and married Miss Allans Fuller had a helpmeet who entered into his sports with great enthusiasm. Recently, when they were abroad together, they became interested in the Old English sheep dogs and purchased the best pair obtainable. As a result Handsome Boy and Dame Doris, with a record of over 200 prize winners in England, reached New York. The dogs have since accumulated a fine bunch of blue ribbons on this side of the water. Mrs. Morse is one of the closest friends of the former Anna Gould, now the wife of Prince Helie de Sagan. Mr. Morse is president of the Bulldog club of America. The Morses have kennels in Danvers, near the home of Mr. Morse's mother, Mrs. Leopold Morse. Last season Mr. and Mrs. Morse had the Slater estate at Beverly Cove.

The racing rules of the Manchester Yacht club will govern, and all yachts of 16 to 25 ft. water line are eligible to enter. Besides the cup, there will be cash prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5. John Hays Hammond left Fresh Water Cove Monday for Arizona, where he has large mining interests which he is planning to look over and develop. Later he will join President Taft in the west on the latter's tour of the country, and he will return to Gloucester about November 1. Mr. Hammond recently deposited $200,000 in a bank in the City of Mexico, to bind an option on the Santa Gertrude Mines, situated in the Porchuca district, state of Hidalgo. The proposed purchase price is $6,000,000, Mexican money. Mr. Hammond and associates are also negotiating for the purchase of the La Blanca mine, in the same district, for $6,000,000, Mexican money. These two deals have been pending for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hopkins and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Luke and family of Baltimore, who have been at the Oceanside this season, left for their winter homes Thursday. Both have engaged suites for next season.

The children's party at Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson's, Pride's Crossing, last Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6, was a great success,—one of the most successful children's parties given on the shore this season. There were three-legged races, sack races, potato races, obstacle races, barrel races and flag race. The party was given for Misses Mina and Eleanor Higginson, and Master George. After the games all sat down to an al fresco lunch.

Two North Shore golfers have been taking part in the amateur golf championship in Chicago the last week,—H. R. Johnstone and George F. Willett, and both survived the match play of the first day. Both fell out, however, on the second day's play, but not until after some brilliant playing.

Mr. and Mrs. Tristram Coffin Colket have returned to Bryn Mawr, Pa., after a week's visit with Mr. Colket's sister, Mrs. Harrison K. Caner and family, at Manchester.

Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent, after a very pleasant summer with her father, Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, at Coolidge's Point, left last Saturday for her Boston residence.

Francis Lee Higginson, jr., who has been spending part of the summer with his family at Coolidge's Point, sailed Wednesday from New York on the Lusitania. He goes back to business in London. Mrs. Higginson went over to New York to see him off. She will remain on the shore until the first week in October when she, too, goes to Boston, and after a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Sargent, she will return to England, early in November.

Society Notes

One of the most select parties of the week was that given last evening by Mrs. Robert Stowe Bradley at her Pride's Crossing residence, for her daughter, Miss Leslie Bradley, in honor of Miss Helen Taft. There were about twenty present, all from the younger set. Dancing followed the dinner.

Mrs. Grant Forbes and little children, who have been spending part of the summer with Mrs. Forbes' mother, Mrs. R. C. Winthrop at Manchester, motored back to their home in Dover last Sunday.

Several North Shore families were represented at the Richardson-Hemenway nuptials at Hyde Park Tuesday. Henderson Inches, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Inches, was the best man.

Mrs. Philip McMillan has joined Mr. McMillan for a visit at Eaglehead, Manchester, with Mr. McMillan's mother. Mrs. James McMillan gave a dinner Monday night for twelve.

Among the stores remaining at Magnolia until the very close of the season is the Grande Maison de Blanc of New York City. At present it is showing a display of beautiful bed and table linens and a large assortment of articles suitable for Christmas gifts. The drive to the store from all along the Shore seems to be very popular and many fashionable cars and carriages are seen daily before the door.

The finals in the mixed doubles tennis tournament at the Essex County club were played last Friday afternoon. Mrs. E. P. Whitney and S. V. R. Crosby defeated Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and Prince Koudacheff, 6-1, 6-4. The men's singles were not played as not a sufficient number of entries were received to put on the tournament.

PRESIDENT TAFT CUP

Awarded to Commodore W. H. Childs and Presented by the President Yesterday Afternoon.

At the hands of President Taft, Commodore W. H. Childs of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club, yesterday received the President Taft Trophy Cup as a prize for the good work done by his little boat Joyette, in winning first honors in the German-American sonder class races.

The presentation was made on the deck of the Mayflower in the afternoon before an eminent company. The officers and crews of the competing vessels were present and received the congratulations of the President on their splendid work. Vice-Admiral Barandon participated in the function as the personal representative of the German Emperor.

During the afternoon, the waters of the harbor were alive with beautifully decorated boats, and a cloudless sky and flaring sun gave everything a touch of splendor. The Mayflower, dressed from stern to stern, was anchored in the Beverly channel early in the morning and the Sylph, similarly decorated, dropped down alongside. The invited guests began arriving at noon and navy launches were kept busy transporting them from the beach to the Mayflower. Among them were many members of the diplomatic corps summering on the shore.

The President came aboard at 1 o'clock. A short reception followed, at which the President shook hands with all his guests; then luncheon was served in the cabin. At the head of the table, Count von Wedel of the German embassy was at the President's right, and Vice-Admiral Barandon at his left.

During the luncheon the healths of the President of the United States and the Emperor of Germany were drunk, the former proposed by Vice-Admiral Barandon, and the latter by Commodore Clark. The presentation of the cups followed the luncheon. The President left the yacht Mayflower at 2.15 o'clock and the ceremony came to an end. As he left the vessel, a salute of 21 guns was fired for him and another of 15 for Admiral Banadon.

Among those present at the reception were:

The President; Capt. Archibald W. Butt, U. S. A., A. D. C.; Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, the Argentine minister, the Cuban minister, the charge d'affaires of Italy, the charge d'affaires of Austria-Hungary, the charge d'affaires of France, Capt. de Chambrun, military attache; the charge d'affaires of Russia, the charge d'affaires of Germany, Commander Rotzmann, naval attache; Baron Hartmann von Richthofen, second secretary; Mr. von Prittwitz and Gaffron, attache; Lieut. von Ernst, attache; the charge d'affaires of Siam; Census Direct-

ALONG THE CAPE ANN SHORE

EAST GLOUCESTER

The closing of the Hawthorne Inn on Oct. 10 will mark the end of the most successful season in the history of East Gloucester. Almost before there were any guests at the other hotels along the shore, scores were flocking to East Gloucester, to the Hawthorne Inn and the Harbor View and now these are the latest to close between Beverly and Rockport. The prospect for the coming year is also propitious. During the winter, ground will be broken for a hotel structure which, it is said, will surpass anything now standing on the shore. It will be raised on the site of the old Colonial Arms, which burned down last year, and will bear that name. It is not expected that the new hotel will be ready for occupancy before the season of 1911. It will be built of stone and concrete.

Mrs. S. H. Van Rensselaer of New York City, who rented the Nathaniel Gorton cottage on Eastern Point early in the season is preparing to make an extended stay and will keep open house until the late fall or early winter. The manner in which the summers of late years have hung on into the autumn promises a long spell of warm weather in October this year and Mrs. Van Rensselaer and some of the other cottagers are staying over to have its full benefit.

George D. Eustis and family of Cincinnati, who have been living in the Souther cottage since early in June, have begun preparations for the home going and will leave early next week. Mr. Eustis is a prominent banker in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Furman of Brookline, returned home early in the week after spending the summer in the Lewis cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt of New York City arrived in their private yacht Saturday afternoon and spent the week-end at the Hawthorne Inn. They came over from Bar Harbor and are on their way down the coast to New York. Saturday evening Mrs. Vanderbilt was hostess at a small dinner party for a number of friends who are at the Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Overton and C. E. Whiting of Washington, D. C., are at the Inn for a two-weeks' stay.

Henry S. Townsend and Maurice duPont Lee of Wilmington, Del., arrived at the Hawthorne Inn Saturday for the week-end. With Mr. Lee is the crack tennis player who attracted such attention in the tournaments on the Hawthorne courts last year.

BASS ROCKS

Sept. 15 is the date set for the close of the season here. On that day, both the Thorwald and the Moorland will close their doors and Bass Rocks will begin its long lonesome winter. Both the hotels have had a remarkable season, especially the Moorland, which had such a demand on its accommodations that an addition will probably be built during the coming winter.

"Tanglemoor," the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chauncey Brewer of Boston is silent and lonely these days. Though the season for returning to town has but begun, Mr. and Mrs. Brewer and their family went back to town Tuesday. They were one of the first arrivals of the season. In the family are John W. and Miss Genevieve.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dravo, Miss Louise Lowrie and Miss Alice Guthrie of Sewickley, Pa., stopped at the Moorland over the week-end while traveling by motor to the White Mountains and Poland Springs. The party will spend the early fall in New England and motor home about Oct. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, jr., of Overbrook, Pa., are preparing to leave their handsome cottage, "Tragibig-zanda," at the end of the week. They come every season to the Besses and, this year, were one of the earliest families to arrive.

Mrs. F. B. Dodge of Toledo, O., and her two daughters have left their cottage, "Under-the-Cliff" for their winter home. They have one of the most beautiful cottages on all the North Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Brunswick of Washington, D. C., are at the Moorland for a 10-day's stay. With them, as their guest, is Mrs. Charles Hussey of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Hussey's husband, Lieut-Commander Charles L. Hussey, U. S. N., arrived Monday and will continue with the party on a trip through the White Mountains and up into Maine.

Charles H. Leeds and daughter, Miss Katherine Leeds, of Stamford, Ct., are at the Moorland until it closes. Mr. Leeds is one of Connecticut's most distinguished lawyers. Miss Katherine is a very beautiful young woman, whose charms have attracted much attention about the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Townsend of Pittsburg are at the Moorland for a short stay. They will motor to New York from here and then return to Pittsburg.

ROCKPORT

While the Rockport season is hanging on better than it ever did before, there are indications that its close is not far off. Few of the cottagers have yet gone away, but many, especially those from the far South and West, who patronized the Rockport shore so liberally this year, are beginning preparations for departure. The closing of the Ocean View House, next Wednesday, will mean practically the closing of the hotel season and, after that, the Pigeon Cove end of Rockport will be a dull place until next season's opening. The Glen Acre Inn will remain open as long as the demand for accommodation keeps up. Both the Inn and the Ocean View House report an exceptionally good season.

Among the first cottagers to depart are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome H. Remick of Detroit, Mich. They left for home Monday. Mr. Remick is at the head of J. H. Remick & Co., music publishers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Himmelsbach of Philadelphia and their three children are preparing to leave within the week. They entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Himmelsbach of Pittsfield over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Thomas of Providence are among the late arrivals at the Glen Acre Inn. They came over by motor and, while they will make the Inn their headquarters, they will spend most of their time motoring up and down the coast. They will remain a month to enjoy Rockport's beautiful Indian summer.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McEwan of Albany, N. Y., are spending Mr. Ewan's vacation at the Ocean View House. Mr. McEwan is a wealthy coffee and spice manufacturer.

Miss Elizabeth Tracy of Boston, a guest of many seasons at the Ocean View House, has just returned from Europe, where she spent the spring and summer, and is now at the Ocean View for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ludlow, jr., and family of Montclair, N. J., are at the Ocean View House for the week. In the family are Miss Mildred V., Miss Louise and Miss Ruth. The family are motoring through New England and will visit Montreal before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Shattuck of Wellesley, guests of many seasons at the Ocean View arrived Monday for a 10-days' stay. Mr. Shattuck is a well known wholesale grocer.

PRESIDENT AT HORSE-SHOW

Watches Events with Interest and Presents Cups to the Winners. Some Others There.

The presence of the President, and the wealth, fashion and best horsemanship of all the North Shore, with an abundance of good nature on the part of the Weather Man all went together to make the annual open air horseshow of the Myopia Hunt club on Labor Day the greatest event of its kind ever held on the Shore. The President was a big drawing card; but not more so than the large list of thoroughbreds which were shown, some of which were cup and ribbon winners in the big international show at London last Spring.

Some of the stables showing their fine bloods were those of Judge William H. Moore of Pride's, Herbert D. Hestetter, T. G. Rice, H. P. McKean, George S. Mandell, F. H. Prince, Dr. S. A. Hopkins, Dudley P. Rogers, E. L. Dresel, and Walter Denegre.

The assemblage at the show was the most brilliant in years. Besides the President, Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer was there, and Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger, Governor Draper and Lieut.-Governor Louis Frothingham, the Marquis and Marchioness de Montagliari of the Italian embassy and many other foreign diplomats.

The scene of action was the polo field and the meet was started at 10.30 o'clock. The first event, the jumpers for junior riders, had 12 entrants. Two of the ponies were ridden by ladies, Miss Alice Thorndike on Jack Rabbit and Miss Anna Agassiz on Headlight. First prize went to C. G. Rice's Mahogany, a brown gelding, which took his obstacles with easy grace and cleared all barriers with plenty of space at first attempt. Wrenn and Small, two bay geldings entered by George S. Mandell were second and third.

Frederick Hostetter's chestnut mare Skidoo was first in the second class, the saddle horses for junior riders. Second ribbon was won by C. G. Rice's Dolly Gray and Miss Alice Thorndike on Jack Rabbit took third.

The hunting class was one of the most interesting events. The prize was the Abbott cup, and the entrants numbered 7. Colette, a bay mare owned and ridden by S. P. Mandell, 2d, won the cup and second and third honors went respectively to C. G. Rice's Malone and Traveler.

Miss Elise Ames' Laelia won the prize in the class for saddle horses, F. C. Hostetter's Skidoo was second and E. L. Dresel's Asa Jewell was third.

The best jumping of the day was seen in class five. Here Buckthorn won first place, with E. L. Dresel's Felspar second and F. H. Prince's Tartane third.

These events took up the morning and at noon an adjournment for lunch was made. The first thing on the afternoon program were the Masters' challenge events and these, begun at 2 o'clock, were just in progress when the President arrived. He came over from Beverly in his automobile. His machine was recognized far up the road and, as he swung into the field and the whisper was passed along that the President had arrived, the band left off the tune it was playing and began the "Star-Spangled Banner." With the first bar, off went every hat and a cheer arose.

The Masters' challenge event, the most important of the day, was won by S. P. Mandell, 2d. The cup was presented by President Taft. Second honors went to L. D. Ahl's Reparation and third to F. H. Prince's Hogan.

This ended the strictly competitive events, but there were other numbers of a mirthful nature that were carried out in very amusing style. One was called "Going to Jerusalem" and 24 horses and riders took part. By a series of amusing tests, this number was gradually cut down until but one remained, H. P. McKean, jr., and he was declared the winner. Dudley Rogers was second, and Miss Maria D. Agassiz, the last woman to remain in the competition, was third.

About 4 o'clock the President departed. A previous engagement would not permit him to stay and see an innovation at Myopia—pushball. With a ball five feet in diameter, two teams of three men each finished the day's sport. The contest was finally decided a tie. The teams were Harry Tweed, F. S. Von Stade and L. A. Shaw; Bayard Tuckerman, Charles Appleton and Cotton Smith.

The committee having the day and games in charge comprised Gerard Bement, Walter D. Denegre, George S. Mandell, Dudley P. Rogers and William H. Seabury. The judges were Col. Samuel D. Parker, H. P. McKean and Dr. S. A. Hopkins.

Dr. Charles E. Inches and family, who have been at the Ward cottage, Sea street, Manchester, the last month or so, are leaving next week for their country estate at Medfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott went to Newport today for a short stay.

Among the many large yachts on the North Shore the last week was the Viking, the beautiful large steamer owned by George F. Baker, jr., of New York, which stopped at Marblehead for a few days. During his visit to Marblehead Mr. Baker entertained several luncheon and dinner parties on board the Viking. Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bardley of the Pride's colony were among those entertained at one of these informal functions.

Handicraft Shop for the Blind.

The Handicraft Shop for the Blind on the Village Green at Manchester ends its second season Saturday, September 11th.

In closing regret is felt that the quaint little shop, which has been the Manchester summer home for the work of the blind during the past two years, will not be available another season, as it is to be removed this fall. It is hoped, however, to secure other accommodations in the neighborhood another summer, so that the Handicraft Shop may remain in the vicinity of its kind and helpful patrons.

The work of the blind as demonstrated and exhibited in this little shop has found many warm friends among the North Shore colony, and its reception there has been encouraging to those who so earnestly desire to further the welfare of the sightless.

After this week, the headquarters for selling the articles made by the blind will be at 383 Boylston street, Boston.

In closing, the directors wish to extend their most hearty thanks and acknowledgments to one and all of the kind friends who have in many ways, aided in making it possible for the shop to become so successful.

Every detail is brought out in the cleaning and dying of garments here. Every frill and flounce, every detail of ornament is carefully preserved in the process and brought out prominently in the finished garment. You will be delighted at the marvelous change effected, and our prices are moderate.

A branch office has been opened at the Western Union Telegraph and Novelty Shop, P. O. Block, Magnolia.

Dutton was seen running across the meadow on Beach street toward Smith's Point about 10.30 o'clock Saturday morning and it is common report that he put out to sea in a motor boat owned by a man named Adams, a son of the convicted "Policy King," "Al" Adams of New York. Adams was Dutton's financial support in leasing the hotel. It is said that Dutton owes his help $1600. Although it is reported that Dutton is now in New York, nothing definite has yet been received regarding his whereabouts.

The committee desires to state through the BREEZE that it will secure the necessary blanks from the Commissioner of Incorporation and will present same for signatures at the next regular meeting, Sept. 17. It may be necessary to hold a special meeting for further business, including the adoption of by-laws and election, or choice of officers of the corporation.

The membership of the society is made up of gardeners and many that are not gardeners, including members of the summer colony, from all along the North Shore, and this move on the part of the society will be met with much interest by the members who did not attend the meeting last week. The matter has been under discussion from time to time for the last five years. The committee originally was of five members and was made up of James B. Dow, Herbert Shaw, Alfred E. Parsons, William Till and the late John Baker.

The vote on the question of incorporations was 94 to 2 in favor.

Among other business transacted at the meeting last Friday evening was the election of Julius F. Rabardy to honorary membership; W. E. Morris of Gloucester was elected a member; Walter B. Jackson was rendered a vote of thanks for assistance given the show committee.

The subject for discussion at the next meeting, Sept. 17, will be "Gladiolii." B. Hammond Tracey of Cedar Acres, Wenham, as announced in our last issue will be one of the speakers. Mr. Tracey gave a very interesting lecture on this subject two years ago. The Discussion Committee has promised him a good reception and hopes for a large attendance at the meeting, also that every member will come prepared for a good debate and bring with him a few spikes of gladiolii or other seasonable flowers.

Sacred Heart Church Fair.

The fair held in the Manchester Town hall, all last week, in aid of the Sacred Heart church, Manchester, came to an end Monday night of this week with a grand ball. The hall was fairly packed and a very successful party was held. The fair was a splendid success, in every particular, and netted much profit, toward paying for the new church and parochial residence. Fr. Powers, who has taken up his new field of work in Chelsea, was here during the fair to assist in carrying it to success.

On Monday night the result of two very interesting contests in which everybody was interested, was announced. The contest between Miss Mary Davey and Miss White for a gold watch, resulted in the former's victory. Miss Davey had $230.30 to Miss White's $130.00. In the other contest, also for a gold watch, between Mansaul Bowers and Jerry Mullens, Bowers won. He had $214.60 to Mullen's $71.50.

E. C. C. Employees' Ball.

The 14th annual ball of the Essex County club employees was held last night in the Town hall, Manchester, and like those preceding it, was a grand success. It was the largest attended party of the season and was in many ways the prettiest and most attractive of the season. Stiles' orchestra of Lynn furnished the music. A splendid concert was given between 8.30 and 9.30, and dancing continued until 2 o'clock. The stage was beautifully decorated with ferns and palms and cut flowers. The dance was conducted under the direction of an efficient corps of officers as follows: Reception committee, Patrick J. Kelleher, chairman, Lawrence Mead; committee of arrangements, John J. Lavin, John Puttick, Bernard J. Doyle; floor marshal, John J. Lavin; asst. floor marshal, Lawrence Mead; aids, John J. Doyle, chief, Frank Griffin, Joseph Lloyd, Francis B. Colby, Charles Griffin, Dennis Mahoney, John J. McManus, Aubrey T. Roode, Jules H. Ibarra, Charles Grube, Owen Handsbury, James Stone.

Salem Banks Consolidate.

Announcement was made this week of the liquidation of the Asiatic National bank, for 75 years one of the leading banking institutions of Salem, and its consolidation with the Naumkeg National bank.

Pres. Geo. H. Allen of the Asiatic National bank and three of the directors will be added to the directors of the Naumkeg National bank. William O. Chapman, cashier, will be cashier of the Naumkeg and the clerical force of the Asiatic will be transferred to the other bank.

The combined capital and surplus of the two banks will be in the vicinity of $500,000 and the deposits about $1,500,000. This makes the institution one of the largest in the state outside of Boston. Pres. Faben of the Naumkeg is one of the youngest bank presidents in the country. He is 25 years old.

The Green Isle—Magnolia, Mass.

The green isle
Rises above the sea,
The ivy, and the vine
Grow there abundantly.
The isle is girt
About with rocks
Against which Old Neptune
In a rage, clashes the foam
From his hoary locks.
At other times
The sea lops aimlessly
The shore.
But when the wind
Is high, the breakers roar,
The children from the mainland
Come in little boats
To play awhile,
At being stranded
On a desert isle.
While in mid air
The sea birds softly float,
With wings unfurled,
Seeking their food
Beneath the waves.
In that lower world,
So rich in life,
In all its various forms,
That food for nations
Can be gathered
From its arms.
Years pass. Meanwhile,
The green isle slumbers on
And heeds not storm or calm.
The children grow,
Bring children of their own
To repeat the plays
That charmed their elders
In other days.

"EVERY Board of Trade in the county was represented at the Essex County association's outing at Nahant Wednesday."—News Item.

WHERE is Manchester's Board of Trade? Manchester was one of the very few towns in the county not represented by a delegation, though one or two of our citizens went as guests of the association.

If there is any one thing in Manchester with which everybody seems to be mightily pleased, it is the band concerts. Six of these have been given during the season by the Salem Cadet Band—the best in New England—and the last of the series was given last Friday night. It is the universal hope of the hundreds who have been attending these during the summer, that they will be repeated next year. And one feature of the concerts that may also be repeated to the satisfaction of all, is the beautifully illuminated common. The cost of such an illumination to the town is trivial, compared to the enjoyment which is derived from it. The concerts this year have been largely attended from beginning to end. Last Friday night fully fifty automobiles and carriages were lined along the street during the concert. Scores of our summer residents have shown their appreciation of the music by their attendance each night. Over 150 people from Beverly Farms and Pride's came down for the concert last week.

Road Census.

WHAT is believed to be the first time a complete road census has been undertaken in this country, was carried out by the Massachusetts Highway Commission. It was undertaken first to find out the relative importance of the different lines or routes of travel throughout the state, and secondly to secure a rough approximation of the relative use of such routes by motor and horse drawn vehicles. The plans called for a count of all vehicles using the state roads for a period of fourteen hours each day during the week at more than 200 stations scattered all over the state; with a twenty-four hour count at eleven stations on the principal routes of travel. The observers were selected by the chief engineers of the five divisions into which the state roads are divided, and were on duty every day from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m., and barring motor cycles, bicycles, pedestrians and cattle, will make a note of all traffic movements by their stations. An effort was made to have simultaneous census taken by the Metropolitan Park Commission on the parkways in Revere, Saugus and Medford, by the Boston Park Commission on Commonwealth avenue, and by the Newton authorities on the Newton boulevard. Some interesting results in the relation of traffic and the cost of maintenance under widely different conditions are expected.

The stretch of road between Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing was among the roads on which the census was taken in this section.

Help for Monterey.

The American National Red Cross has issued an appeal for money to help the inhabitants of Monterey. The early accounts of the disaster did not appear to demand international assistance, but later dispatches to the State Department are as follows:

In Monterey, about two thousand persons drowned and fifteen thousand were made homeless. Practically the entire population of one hundred thousand have suffered loss. Many small towns and villages of the Province have been destroyed.

The American Red Cross has appropriated $2,000 from the General Emergency Fund, and has sent this amount by telegraph to Mr. Hanna, Consul General for the United States at Monterey. He has been appointed representative of the Red Cross for this relief work. If necessary the National Director, Mr. Bicknell, will go to the scene of disaster to assist in the relief measures.

Much more money is really needed and will be forwarded at once. Kindly send your contribution to our treasurer, W. O. Chapman, Asiatic National Bank, Salem.

B. L. Allen has an interesting window display at his drug store in Central square. It is a collection of the prescription books used since the business was started in 1856 by the late Andrew Lee. The first prescription put up by Mr. Lee is written, and so on down through the thousands, until the present time, when the number has grown to the enormous figure of over 100,000, a record which any drug store ought to be proud of. Mr. Allen takes a great deal of pride in this collection of books, and rightly, too. They may be seen at the store at any time.

Among the Manchester young men starting away to college this year is Joseph R. Floyd, the third son of School-committeeman and Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd. Mr. Floyd left Manchester Tuesday for a long trip across the continent to Colorado, where he will enter the School of Forestry connected with Colorado College. Prof. William Sturgis, a son of Mrs. Russell Sturgis of our summer colony, who has been to Manchester on a visit this summer, is dean of the college. Mr. Floyd will take the four years' course, but having taken some special work along this line this summer, and intending to do special work all through the course, he will probably complete the course in less than four years. Mr. Floyd was graduated from the Story High school in 1908. He will break the monotony of the long trip to Colorado by stopping off one day in Chicago, where he will meet William Norie, a brother of George Norie of this town, an annual visitor to Manchester. Previous to his departure Mr. Floyd was honored by his friends Monday night at a farewell party at his home in Central square, twenty-four calling to spend the evening and wish him good luck. He was presented with a handsome suit case. On Labor Day a family picnic was held at Tuck's Point. This is the third of the Floyd boys to go away to college. Harry was graduated last spring from Dartmouth; Bert is a Cornell '10 man; Joseph probably will not return east until completing his course in 1912 or '13.

FORMER MANCHESTER TEACHER SCALES MT. HECLA.

Waterman S. C. Russell, head of the scientific department of the Technical High school of Springfield and a member of the Arctic club of America, and his wife returned to Springfield Monday night from an eventful trip of 10 weeks to Iceland, where they ascended Mt. Hecla, one of the three greatest volcanoes of the world. The intrepid travelers had the honor of unfurling the only American flag that was ever thrown to the breeze on a volcano in the Arctic regions.

Mr. Russell is well known in Manchester, being at one time principal of the High school.

The summer in Iceland is of brief duration, lasting only through June and July, but with the aid of the midday as well as the midnight sun, Mr. Russell accomplished much scientific research besides investigating the big volcano. In an interview published in Wednesday's Globe he said:

"We reached Reykjavik on July 12 at midnight, and found the sun shining. This was after an interesting horseback ride of 400 miles on Iceland ponies.

"I went there expressly for geological purposes, and principally to make the ascent of Mt. Hecla. The ascent of the famous volcano was made July 20 by Mrs. Russell and myself, and we had the pleasure of unfurling the only American flag that was ever unfurled on a volcano in the Arctic regions.

"Mt. Hecla, according to the measurements, is 5050 feet above sea level. It contains two cones, and the principal crater is in the higher cone. The last 3000 feet of altitude of the mountain is almost entirely covered with snow, and the crater is filled with snow around its rim. The center is empty and remarkably dry. The volcano, though not active, is not dead, and signs point to an eruption of tremendous proportions in the near future.

"Hecla should be classed with Vesuvius and Etna for frequency and violence of its eruptions, but the loss of life being so much less there than in those densely populated countries, its fame is not so widespread. It is one of the three greatest volcanoes in the history of the world. There is no volcano which shows such evidences of a great outpouring of lava. In 1848 it was in constant eruption for several months, and its ashes obscured the sun and were blown to the Shetland islands and to Norway.

"The mountain sent out streams of lava to the south which Mrs. Russell and myself traversed for 10 miles. The mountain is literally a great dome in the center of a cultivated field, and the evidences that it had wrought fearful destruction among the farmers years ago were to be seen on every hand. Like the dwellers near Vesuvius, those people are unmindful of the past, as their farms are situated close to the edge of the lava fields.

"We found our rainproof duck suits, which resemble khaki, entirely satisfactory for shedding water as we rode all day on horseback through a driving storm without getting wet and with comparative comfort. We visited Geysers and the Reykennes peninsula. The latter is covered with boiling springs and solfatara. Solfatara is a district where the dense volumes of solfa percolate through the ground. There are hundreds of thousands of tons of solfa on the slopes of hills or so-called extinct craters.

"We spent the remainder of our time studying the people, their customs and manners, and while doing this we lived among the former.

"On Aug. 8 we continued our journey to Denmark, where we spent the rest of our time in the Danish museum of northern antiquities. I have been a student of Arctic conditions since

I was a boy and I went to Denmark to carefully examine the material collected.

"I found that the Danish museum contained a much better collection of the North American Indian and Eskimo than we have here in this country. It also has a much better collection of the Siberian tribes."

Mr. Russell said that the specimens found in Iceland were not such as would attract the attention of a lay visitor to a science museum, yet to a geologist Iceland was one of the best fields for the study of the formative principles at first hand. His collection will be placed in the science museum of Springfield and includes specimens and very old and new lava and some excellent crystals.

Iceland, Mr. Russell stated, contains no granite, metamorphic or crystalized stone nor sandstone. He took his camera with him and obtained many good pictures.

Henry Brown of Magnolia and William McLaughlin of the Oceanside qualified for the finals in the individual tournament in candles. In the final match, Brown defeated McLaughlin two out of three strings and won the prize and tournament. McLaughlin won the cup for the highest individual score. His mark was 115. The tournament in candles was won by Harry Foster's team. It won 14 strings out of a possible 15. The team was composed of H. Foster, M. Flaherty, William MacDonald, J. MacDonald, and M. Revelas. The team captained by Fred Smith and made up of J. Mason, C. Van Hise, C. Stines and J. Kavanaugh won the tournament in bottle pins. The high score in bottles was made by Van Hise with 199. T. P. Patterson beat Van Hise in the individual tournament in bottles, two out of three strings. In the pool tournament, Warren C. Johnson won the handsome cup presented by C. I. Hood. C., B. & Y. REGENT FLOUR

In every particular this is a high grade flour that as a bread maker it is difficult if not impossible to excel. The cook who uses Regent flour has taken a long step in the direction of securing for the family the greatest measure of bread satisfaction. By actual comparison it has been shown, too, that a given amount of Regent flour will make more loaves of bread than an equal amount of almost any other brand on the market.

✠ Manchester ✠

Manchester seems to be figuring more than usual this year in the doing of the police courts in Salem and elsewhere. In the municipal court at Bangor, Me., last Friday, David E. Betts, a former resident here, was held in $2000 for the February grand jury on the charge of attack upon his wife, Hattie L. Betts. Being unable to get bail, he was sent to jail. A despatch says:

"The charge of assault was chiefly technical and was made for the purpose of securing the arrest of Betts and his detention for trial upon a more important charge—that of stealing from his wife $5000. Mrs. Betts testified that she had earned this money by conducting a laundry in Manchester-by-the-Sea and that her husband took it from her forcibly Monday last, in Brewer, to which place they had gone seeking a home. At the same time, Mrs. Betts said, her husband had attacked her and threatened to 'fix her,' declaring that if she told the police of what he had done he would 'put a bullet in her' when he got her in the woods. Betts left Brewer Monday with all the household effects and drove to Vassalboro, where he was arrested on Wednesday. On Thursday, on information reluctantly furnished by Betts, the deputy found $5000 in a box hidden in a hayrack in a barn in Vassalboro. Betts says the money is as much his as his wife's, but Mrs. Betts claims it as her own, saying that she did all the work in the laundry, while her husband 'simply hung around and bossed things.' "

Howard G. Catheron of Needham was in town over Sunday and the holiday, a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Benj. L. Bullock, and family, School street.

John Clark of Cohasset will succeed Nicholas Christian as gardener at the W. D. Denegre estate on October 1.

Frank R. Robbins, the popular coachman at Mrs. W. S. Fitz's, Smith's Point, left Tuesday with Mrs. Fitz's horses for Jackson, N. H., to spend the rest of the season.

Lewis Morgan returned Monday night from a fortnight's vacation trip to Harpswell, Me. He did not go to Nova Scotia as previously stated. While at Harpswell he had the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Cook and family, who are much in the public eye just now because of Mr. Cook's discovering of the North Pole.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Master Howard E. Morgan is ending his school vacation by spending this week at Roxbury, visiting relatives.

Miss Arietta Osborne, a sister of Benjamin Osborne, is suffering from a badly injured arm, the result of a fall.

The dedication of the new St. Luke's Catholic church at Hamilton took place today—Friday. Rev. Fr. Walsh of St. Margaret's church, Beverly Farms, preached the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Mayberry and child left the Farms Wednesday for a short vacation trip to be spent principally among relatives at Burton and Albion, Me.

Victor de Bellifroid and Miss Ida Cuendet were united in marriage at 5 o'clock last Saturday at the St. Margaret's rectory by Rev. N. R. Walsh. The groom is well known here where he has been located for several summers as riding master. The bride has also spent several summers here. She was a member of the Russell Codman household. The happy couple have taken rooms at Joshua Younger's cottage on Hale street until the close of the fall season.

Brockton Fair.

The Brockton Fair is planning this year to hold the greatest outdoor Athletic meet ever held in New England. They have gone to a great expense to build a $\frac{1}{4}$ mile cinder track within the oval of the Fair Grounds, with a good building for training quarters, supplied with shower baths, and other accommodations. Having this quarter of a mile track they are enabled to have a more complete meet than in former years, when they were dependent on the horse-track for their use. There will be another departure this year, the athletic games taking place on Thursday, Oct. 7, one of the big days.

On Tuesday, the first day, there will be the usual children's sports of all kinds, with basket ball and foot ball games: On Thursday, the 7th Annual Athletic meet of the Brockton Fair: On Friday, the 2nd Annual Marathon race.

The Athletic events have come into such prominence that the best athletes in the country are glad to come and take part in the games and races.

The standard of the prizes, established years ago by the Brockton Fair, has always been maintained, and when an athlete says he has won a prize at the Brockton Fair, his friends know that it is of the value claimed.

Among the events that are to take place on Thursday are the 100 yd. dash, 220 yd. run, 440 yd. run, 880 yd. run, one mile, three mile, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, shot put, 120 yd. high hurdle, 220 yd. low hurdle, and a one mile relay race, open to all Colleges, Athletic Associations, and Y. M. C. A's. The above makes a fine list of attractions, and assures all those interested in athletics that they will have a good day's sport if they attend the Brockton Fair on Thursday, Oct. 7th.

Old Planters Society!

The fall outing of The Old Planters Society will be held in Marblehead, Thursday, Sept. 16th. The formal exercises at the Lee Mansion, will begin at 3.30 and will include an address on Col. Jeremiah Lee, given by Nathan P. Sanborn, president of the Marblehead Historical society. At the conclusion of the exercises a basket lunch will be enjoyed at Castle Rock, Marblehead Neck. Friends of the Society are cordially invited.

Besides the regular orders of dances, the specialties, consisting of Scotch dances, the Highland costumes, and the music by the bag-pipes, made novel and interesting features.

Day Officer Calvin L. Williams and Mrs. Williams have spent a portion of this week at Briar Neck, Gloucester, where they have occupied Howard E. Morgan's camp, "Home Crest." Officer Williams is on his vacation.

A Woman's Suffragette Movement and Miriam O'Leary Collins at Keith's Theatre.

Intense interest in woman's suffrage, especially in Boston has resulted in a short play on the subject, written by one of the Suffragettes themselves—Mrs. Teresa Crowley, who was chairman of the big Suffragette meeting held in Symphony Hall, and conducted all the hearings on the subject before the Massachusetts' State Legislature.

The bill for this week will be notable in many respects. It will include Lewis Simon and Grace Gardner, who will return after one of the greatest European successes ever attained by American actors. They will appear in their former success, "The New Coachman."

Others will be the Temple Quartette who formerly appeared with "A Night with the Poets;" Ray Cox, the Southern girl; Alf Grant; Wentworth, Vesta and Teddy; Newhoff and Phelps and a number of others.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mrs. William C. Webster, formerly of the Farms, who has been quite ill at her home in Rockport, is reported to be improving.

Beverly Farms will be represented at the big old home week in Montreal next week by Alexander Sutherland who will leave tomorrow to spend his vacation in his native city. Mr. Sutherland is especially proficient in swimming and will enter for competition in the water sports carnival, one of the largest events on the week's program.

The Democratic caucus will be held at Marshall's hall, Wednesday evening, Sept. 22.

Much regret has been expressed about the Farms at the leaving of Dr. B. F. McGrath, of Beverly, who is about to give up his practice to pursue a special line of study.

Deacon and Mrs. Edwin Pride and Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Pride are home from a vacation spent with friends at Argyle Head, N. S.

The Farms school house is all set in order for the opening of the fall term next Monday. During the vacation, some minor repairs have been made to the building.

The Farms Republican voter will find much to interest him in the Republican caucuses which will be held on Sept. 21, probably at Marshall's hall. Delegates for the various conventions are to be chosen and some hot contests are on. One of the most interesting is that for Representative. This year Beverly has a representative and, among the ardent candidates for the position, are Morton C. Hadley, president of the Republican Club; William Galloupe, and former Mayor S. Harvey Dow. The voters will also have opportunity of choosing the members of the Ward 6 City Committee, which this year is changed from 5 to 7 members.

James D. Hooper has been drawn as a juror for the September term of the Supreme Court at Lawrence.

Clifford Dennison of Pawtucket, R. I., has been a recent guest of Oliver W. Low, at his home on Valley street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Pride closed their cottage on Hale street, Wednesday and have returned to their Winter Hill home.

If the weather next Monday morning is pleasant quite a number from the Farms will take in the Lake Winnepesaukee excursion.

Miss Marguerite Mitchell today returns to her home in Pawtucket, R. I. Miss Mitchell has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Standley.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Clifford of Auburn, N. Y., have been among this week's visitors at the Farms. Today they are leaving for a week's stay at Cohasset before they return home.

Looks Half Again As Much, And No Doubt That We Could Get It,

But we'd rather sell two of them and make the same amount on them, 'cause it makes us a bigger factor when we go to the market to buy.

Letting this principle apply throughout this great big store, and at the end of every season we are sought out as great big buyers.

Then, considering that we've 3 stores over which this practice prevails makes, really, the name of "Titus" one of the brightest in the Furniture and Carpet market.

It gets for us, first, the best lines, and we hold them, of course, exclusive—then we go at them for those especial concessions that give you such opportunities as this:

A Heavy Two-Inch Post Dull Finished Brass Bed

Its top rail made of square tubing. Its corner caps the new Colonial Door Knob Caps. The Uprights heavy 7-8 inch tubing. It costs, through our advance in buying,

Only $20.00

Just try matching it, please, where you like, 'twill impress upon you more our advantages.

Right here at hand. Everything to your satisfaction, and kept so as long as you wish it.

Our Year Book for 1910

which will supersede all previous issues, will be the largest in number of copies distributed, in the number of pages printed, and the most comprehensive and interesting catalogue we have ever published.

It is now in preparation.

Our Business Was Established in 1867. A department for the sale of fine jewelry and silverware, by mail, was organized about twenty years later and achieved immediate and marked success. The leadership then promptly secured has been maintained and increased annually until the immense volume of our business makes it possible to give our customers many advantages in exclusive designs and lower prices than can be secured elsewhere.

Our Forty Years' Business Experience has given us special facilities for knowing the needs of more than 250,000 customers, and makes it possible for us to illustrate an unequaled collection of most desirable standard articles, and a very great variety of novel and unusual things, many of them not procurable elsewhere.

We Use Our Best Efforts to convey by careful photographs accurate descriptions and definite dimensions, correct ideas of all the articles illustrated; but if any articles prove unsatisfactory, we will promptly exchange them or refund the money on notification.

All Our Gold Articles Are 14-Karat, with the exception of a few rings, locket, fobs, and collar buttons, where the quality is definitely stated.

All the Silver Articles Are Sterling 925/1000, and all articles illustrated of a quality and character distinctly finer than usually shown in catalogues.

When You Visit Historic Salem we shall hope to see you in our store, regardless of whether you have any immediate intention of buying. We are glad to meet personally those with whom we have been doing business pleasantly so many years.

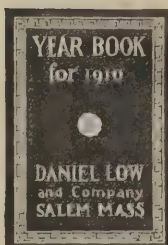

You Will Find in Our Retail Store, in addition to our very complete stock of gold and silver articles, many attractive souvenirs and a large variety of inexpensive, original, unusual, and interesting things—a few of which are shown and priced in the pages at the back of our book.

Our Retail Store occupies the site of the First Congregational Meeting House, built in 1634. It is at the corner of the two principal streets and overlooks Town House Square, where the Town Pump familiar to readers of Hawthorne, once stood.

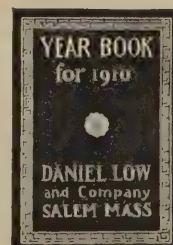

During the Past Summer we have had registered in our visitors' book at our store hundreds of names of our friends from all parts of America and from all over the world.

Attention Is Called to Our Foreign Department, a feature of our business. This has been found a very great convenience to thousands of customers all over the world.

We Prepay Mail and Express Charges on all articles in our Year Book except historic china and Sheffield plate, and we guarantee the safe delivery of every article. Our terms are for cash at prices quoted without discount.

Special Note—Your name and permanent address may be left at either our Salem or Magnolia stores, a register being provided for this purpose. This registration will secure for you prepaid when issued a copy of OUR YEAR BOOK for 1910 and all succeeding issues.

❖ Society Notes ❖

The President left Beverly Tuesday afternoon and on Wednesday he started from Boston on his long trip across the continent. The executive offices at Beverly have been closed, but Mrs. Taft is to remain on the North Shore for several weeks yet, probably until early November. It has been given out that she will remain here until Nov. 10. Robert A. Taft has gone to New Haven to take up his studies at Yale. Master Charlie sailed away on the Sylph the first of the week for New York and from there he goes to Watertown, N. Y., where he will attend his uncle's private school. Miss Helen Taft leaves Beverly shortly for Bryn Mawr to resume her studies. Mrs. Taft's sister, Mrs. Lewis T. More has come up from her summer home at Biddeford Pool, Me., and will remain at Beverly until Mrs. Taft returns to Washington. Mrs. Taft has not entered much into society this summer, due to her poor health. Now that most of the season's functions are over, she will, no doubt, be entertained more or less at small informal affairs at various North Shore homes. She is delighted with the North Shore and its surroundings and will probably return to Beverly next season in early June. The President will arrive in June, too, probably, and will be able to spend the whole summer here.

Mrs. Frances A. Lane, after spending the summer at Rye Beach, has returned to the North Shore for a short stay at the Oceanside, Magnolia. She returns next week to her winter home, 3640 West Pine Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. C. A. Munn and family, who have been motoring abroad all summer, are sailing for home on the 25th of this month. They will come to Manchester about the first of October to remain until the holidays.

B. Hammond Tracy, proprietor of the famous Cedar Acres gladioli Farm at Wenham, is developing some new varieties. One particular variety that he has been propagating for the past four years he has named the "Mrs. J. H. Lancashire," in recognition of Mrs. Lancashire's Michigan garden and her interest in gladioli.

:: At the Hotels ::

The Oceanside is having one of the most remarkable seasons in its history. Although the season is nearly over, almost to the date on which the hotel has always closed before, Sept. 20th, there are still 250 guests booked and, over the week-end, this number will be largely

Mrs. JOHN C. HOWE'S COTTAGE AT WEST MANCHESTER, FORMERLY THE HOPKINS COTTAGE increased. On this date a year ago, there were less than 200 guests at the hotel. Its increased patronage this year, the tendency of the guests to remain until the last moment and the large number of bookings already made for next year speak plainly of the wide popularity which the hotel enjoys and the remarkable success of its management, Messrs. Phenix and Greene.

Prof. A. L. Cross of the University of Michigan is spending three weeks at the Oceanside before returning to Ann Arbor to resume his pedagogic duties. He has been up spending his summer in New England, visiting the White Mountains and Poland Springs.

Miss Katherine T. Andrews of Chicago is one of the latest guests at the Oceanside. She is a very handsome young woman and has many admirers about the hotel. She comes to Magnolia in September most every season, the autumn on the shore being more pleasant to her than the summer.

F. H. Nash of Weston, Pa., arrived at the Oceanside Monday for the remainder of the season. Mr. Nash is a large and extensive manufacturer and is enjoying his yearly vacation.

❖ Society Notes ❖

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell and son, John, returned last week on the Deutschland in New York from Europe, where they have been motoring the last two months. They are back to their estate at Manchester Cove to remain during the autumn.

Mrs. Isaac G. Lombard, a guest of many seasons on the North Shore, returned to Magnolia early in the week after a two months' stay at Osterville, Cape Cod. After spending a few days at the Oceanside, she returned to her home in Chicago.

Good weather and a fairly stiff breeze is all that is desired now to make tomorrow's race of the Manchester Yacht club,—the last event of the season,—a complete success. There will be three classes—Crowhurst cup class, sonder klasse and one design class. The preparatory gun will be fired at 2.15. Yachts sailing in the Crowhurst cup race will start on the second gun at 2.20; sonder klasse start at 2.25, and the one design class start at 2.30. The Crowhurst cup is presented each year by Francis M. Whitehouse of the Manchester summer colony. The courses will be the same for all classes, except that the Crowhurst Cup class will sail the course twice over. The judges will be Com. S. Parker Bremer, vice Com. C. Howard Clark, jr., Francis M. Whitehouse, Arthur M. Merriam and George W. Mansfield.

❖ Society Notes ❖

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. House of Austin, Tex., arrived at Magnolia the latter part of last week and are registered at the Oceanside for the balance of the season. They have just returned from a two months' tour of Europe. Miss House returned with them, but she stopped over in New York for a wedding. She will be on to Magnolia to remain a few weeks. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. House went over to The Moorings, at West Manchester, and lunched with their daughter, Mrs. Randolph Tucker, and Mr. Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tucker. Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Tucker have returned to their Chestnut Hill residence this week.

Miss Katrina Fairlee, daughter of Mrs. Sidney Fairlee of Kenilworth, Ill., and William Stuart Spaulding of Pride's Crossing were married at the home of the bride's mother Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. As the groom is still in mourning for his mother, Mrs. Mahlon D. Spaulding, who died at Pride's last summer, the wedding was very simple and quiet and attended only by the relatives of the two families. Mr. Spaulding is a Harvard '88 man. Among the clubs of which he is a member, are the Somerset, Union, The Country, Tennis and Racquet, Eastern Yacht, Harvard and University of New York and the Exchange Club. His Boston residence is 99 Beacon street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Rice, jr., and daughter, Miss Anna Rice, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hinckley of Philadelphia, Pa., make up a motoring party which arrived at the Oceanside Tuesday. They are here for the remainder of the season.

It is in Manchester. The 100-Mile-to-a-Charge

Although the social season is well-nigh over, the North Shore was favored this week by the presence of two royal personages—no less than the Prince Kinyoshi Kuni, grandson of the Emperor of Japan and his wife, the princess. They came over from Boston in the private car Plymouth Rock Friday afternoon to visit the President and his family and Miss Mabel Boardman, who met the prince and princess in Tokio on the occasion of the visit of Secretary Taft and his party to the flowery kingdom four years ago. The prince and princess were met at the Montserrat station by Capt. Butt, the President's aide, in full dress uniform. Miss Boardman was also present to extend greetings. She took Mme. Nagaska, the lady in waiting to the princess, and Capt. S. N. Cheney, the representative of the war department and the official guide of the party while in this country, in her own auto and followed Capt. Butt, who led the way with the prince and princess and Kustra Matsui, the charge d'affairs of the Japanese embassy, in the President's automobiles. At the summer capital the royal guests were very warmly received by the President. Through Mr. Matsui, the President carried on a lively conversation with the prince and princess, recalling many incidents of interest which happened on his visit to Japan. The President asked the prince to carry his best wishes to the Emperor and the prince, in return, delivered a special message from the Emperor of Japan expressing great admiration for President Taft and hoping that the friendly relations between Japan and the United States may long be continued. Mrs. Taft did not participate in the reception, but the visitors were presented to Mrs. More, her sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth. The royal guests remained at the Taft home about an hour when they were driven to the Boardman cottage where they had tea. They had planned to visit the summer

Mrs. William C. Paine left Tuesday for her town residence at 46 Mt. Vernon street, Boston. Her son, R. T. Paine, 2d, and family, will remain at Coolidge's Point until the 23d of this month, when they, too, will return to Boston.

The S. H. Fessendens have closed their cottage at Coolidge's Point this week and returned to their Chestnut Hill home.

PRESIDENT TAFT ATTENDS CENTENNIAL SERVICE AT MANCHESTER.

With His Daughter, Miss Helen, Hears the Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, of Boston, Preach Anniversary Sermon at Congregational Church. Choir of New Old South Church Sings and Samuel Carr, President's Cousin, Plays Organ.

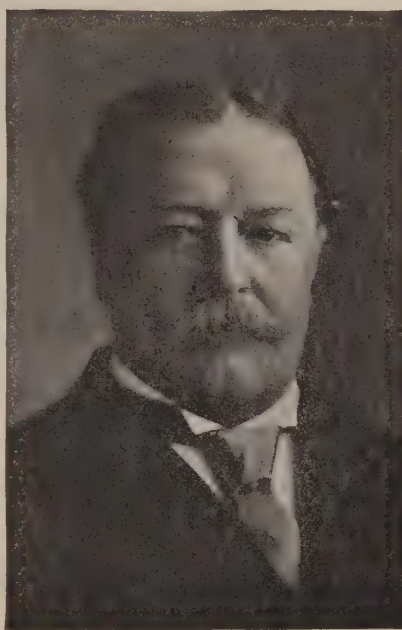

On its centennial day, and for the first time in its history, the President of the United States attended service at the Congregational church, Manchester, Sunday morning. Accompanied only by his daughter, Miss Helen, and Capt. Archibald Butt, his military aide, President Taft came from Beverly in his automobile to attend a service which will long be remembered—a service at which the Rev. Dr. George A. Gordon, the eloquent preacher of the New Old South church of Boston and one of the foremost men in the Congregational pulpit today, delivered a memorable sermon before one of the largest audiences which the church has ever held.

The service commemorated the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the church and it was planned to make some special recognition of the event. Samuel Carr, one of our West Manchester summer residents, who has taken some interest in the church to the extent that the pipe organ was repaired, arranged to have Rev. George A. Gordon, L. L. D., pastor of the New Old South church, at which Mr. Carr was until two years ago the organist for twenty years, in Manchester to preach at the church Sunday morning. He also arranged to have the quartet from the New Old South church down for the day to sing. It was not known that President Taft would attend church until a couple of days previous to Sunday and even then it was not generally known. Mr. Carr is a cousin of the President.

The President arrived at the church promptly at 10.45, as the prelude was being played on the organ. The church was well filled. A very small proportion of the townpeople knew that such a prominent personage as the chief executive of the nation was to attend church that day in Manchester. The news quickly spread, however, after the President had arrived, for when church was over and the President departed the square was crowded with people who had gathered to catch a glimpse of him. Fully a thousand people were on the Common—a big crowd for Manchester.

The usual order of service was used Sunday, led by the pastor, Rev. L. H. Ruge. Dr. Gordon offered the prayer, read the scripture and preached the sermon. The music was of a high order. The quartet is composed of Mrs. Frances Dutton Wood, soprano; Miss Alice Robbins Cole, alto; H. Lambert Murphy, tenor, and David Marks Babcock, bass. The musical program included: Prelude, an offertory by Salome, by Mr. Carr; anthem, "Sing Alleluia Forth," Buck; solo, "If with All Your Hearts," from the oratorio "Elijah," by Mr. Murphy; response, "Lead Me Lord," Wesley; hymn, "The King of Love

PRESIDENT W. H. TAFT

My Shepherd Is," hymn, "We Bless Thee for Thy Peace, O God," congregational singing, "America," and organ postlude, "March of the Priests," Mendelssohn.

Dr. Gordon referred to the singing in announcing one of the hymns by the quartet, and said this beautiful singing was one of the features of the present day service which the builders of this church 100 years ago could not enjoy. "They had a plain, simple service, but our service is filled with a tenderness and beauty because of their memory."

In his prayer, Dr. Gordon said, "bless those who, almost two centuries ago, left this church, bless the people and minister of this church, bless those who are near to death, bless the servants of all good causes, and all the nations of the earth. Bless with love our own beloved country. We remember the struggle, and the sacrifice, and the serene hope in which it was born, we remember the many who have given their lives for its expansion, we remember the time of sacrifice in which it was reborn. We commend to thy care the President of the United States; may his life be precious in thy sight, for the safety of the whole nation. May he feel the prayers and comforts of all good people. Help him to instruct his fellow citizens and guide them to righteousness. In his day, grant us peace and great prosperity; may the people increase in intelligence and in character. Hasten the day when our nation shall be the great exemplar to the nations of the world.

Dr. Gordon's sermon was a scholarly address along theological lines, but contained no special reference to popular or national topics, or the chief executive.

Dr. Gordon took as his text the opening words of the parable of the Good Samaritan, "And behold a certain lawyer stood up and said, what shall I do to inherit eternal life." He said that in all Christ's teachings there were two parables that stood out preeminently—that of the prodigal son, and that of the good Samaritan. The first, he said, was a theological parable "The parable of the Good Samaritan is not," he continued; "it is purely a human parable dealing with a human situation."

"Let me first call attention to the wealth of character in it. It is one of the chief signs of genius to be able to strike out in human phrases the likenesses of human action. Homer had two great epics to set forth as many great characters. Sophocles, the supreme artist, wrote a great work for the presentation of one glorious idea. We all confess how much the world stands enriched by the wealth of character in the works of Thackeray, Dickens, George Eliot, and scores of others whose names will occur to you. In each case, much room was required for the presentation of an idea or a character. We notice this fact in Shakespeare. That wizard required a vast compass to exhibit the situations and insights of his genius.

"The 'certain man' in the parable is every man. The 'robbers'—you see their dark faces—just a word, and you have them clearly cut and presented to the image. Then there are the priests and the Levites—representing types, I think; they were so devoted to God that they forgot their surroundings and their fellow man. Then comes the good Samaritan,—a great man with a human heart beating with the red blood in it. Then we have the keeper of the good Samaritan inn, then this lawyer of the text, and always the figure of our Lord, calm, clear and sovereign through the whole scene.

"So in this single parable we have a great epitome of character. The more I study the words and teachings of Jesus Christ—and do it in comparison with the chief learning of mankind—the more it appears the most comprehensive and faultless.

“It is ten miles from Jerusalem to Jericho, there are woods to the right and woods to the left, and a narrow way between. Think of the men in the world tumbled out of the cradle into the shop, then tumbled out of the shop into the grave, who find wilderness to the right of them and wilderness to the left. They are superficial in the extreme who do not see the tragic with which man is involved.

“Let me call your attention to the robbers. The robbers were there; they are everywhere, the pure man’s food adulterated; it makes one’s blood boil when one thinks of them. Then there is the intellectual evil. I often feel that if we could segregate the boys and girls, and keep them away from the men and women, we could bring on a millenium in a generation. The mortal slander of older men among young men, and older women among young women, blasts the hopes of successive generations of boys and girls. There is nothing purer than the heart of a young man except the pure heart of a young girl.

“This world is not what it should be. It is full of bad for your boys and girls, for your family, for the citizenship of humanity. Look at the different attitudes in this parable. There are the priests and the Levites. I notice many in this church sit up and take notice when I speak of priests and Levites. The churches of the land would not be big enough were all the priests and Levites to attend. We should have to enlarge the churches. You start a crusade to protect innocent girls who come to the door, and you get volunteers and you will see no priests and Levites respond.

“One man wiped out the evil that the robbers did. All through history this one man, or two, have done the great work of the world, and have done it with vast hope, men who could sleep nights and enjoy the day, wholesome human beings. Once feudalism was extended all through the European countries, then came John Knox. Slavery became a permanent institution in America; that has gone. Piracy infested the seas of the world, and the navies—which deed alone I sometimes think justifies their being—wiped the pirates from the world.”

The extermination of evil is not impossible, said Dr. Gordon. Everywhere men are setting themselves to the task of exterminating evil from the world and the church stands behind them in their work. The time is coming when there shall be nothing to destroy, for the love of God shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

The Good Samaritan.

Luke X: 25-37.

A traveller, journeying long ago,
Down from Jerusalem to Jericho,

Fell among thieves who wounded him and fled,
Leaving him stript of raiment and half dead.

By chance a certain Priest came down that way,
Who looked on him and left him where he lay.

Likewise a Levite, walking in his pride
With eyes turned heavenward, passed on the other side.

But a Samaritan as he journeyed, drew
Near to the place where lay the wounded Jew,

Who had compassion, and with pious toil,
Bound up his wounds and poured in wine and oil.

Nor ever from his pious labor ceased
Till he had borne him, on his own good beast,

Unto the quiet shelter of an inn.
And on the morrow, faring forth again,

(Mindless alike of trouble or of cost),
Took out two pence and gave them to the host,

Saying, “Take care of him; another day
Whate’er thou spendest more, I will repay.”

Whom, thinkest thou, was neighbor to the man—
The Priest, the Levite or Samaritan?

“He that shewed pity!” Go, and do likewise;
God loveth mercy more than sacrifice!

It is principally to visit her daughter and see the little grandson that Mrs. Leiter goes to Scotland. Mrs. Leiter has been occupying the Dudley L. Pickman cottage on Neptune street, Beverly, this summer and she has entertained extensively. Among her guests have been Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh, and Edward Morgan, minister to Cuba. She has given several parties in honor of Miss Helen Taft. Mrs. Leiter will spend the winter at her Washington home, 1500 New Hampshire avenue, where she will entertain considerably. She intends to return to the North Shore next season.

In the party were Curt's Guild, sr., father of ex-Governor Curtis Guild, and the Misses Sarah and Henrietta Guild. During the summer his sons Courtney and Chester Guild have come down frequently from Boston to visit him.

The Aborn is keeping open until the end of this week. It has had a very large patronage this year—in fact this has been the best season since the hotel was opened. It has also taken many bookings for next summer and, from the present prospect, will open earlier than usual.

INDIAN Summer on the North Shore is one of the most beautiful seasons of all the year. Those who live here the year round and those of the summer folk who have come early each season for many years and stayed late, do not have to be told this—we speak chiefly for those summer visitors who have been here but a few weeks and are now about to leave, thinking cold weather near.

Winter is yet far off—two months at least and possibly three. If this season is in keeping with those of the last ten years, the warm, sunny days will continue way until Thanksgiving Day, even though the evenings are cool. In a week or two the leaves will begin to color. Then will follow a period when all the country is in its most splendid dress and the hills and valleys will be masses of yellow and red, olive and gold. Then come the days of most enjoyment—for the intense heat of the summer is gone, the air is bracing and inspiring to action, the woods are more beautiful than at any other time, and out-door life is a joy beyond telling.

The autumn just beginning promises to be even more beautiful than its predecessors. A late spring always bespeaks a late fall and if snow flies before Christmas it will be surprising. Realizing this, scores of summer folk who have left early in September in other seasons, are preparing to stay on the shore until late October or even longer. A few will continue a practice of late years—keeping their summer house open all winter and running down every Friday for a pleasant week-end in the country.

PRESIDENT Taft, speaking at the Boston Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night, emphasized his liking for the North Shore in the following words: "I am grateful for the hospitable reception which I have had on the North Shore of Massachusetts. A vacation which I had planned of more than two months has been whittled down to a little more than one month; but every minute of it I have enjoyed. The bracing and pure air, the beautiful roads, the fine golf links, the prosperous towns and villages the intelligent and considerate people, all have contributed to make my stay a delightful one. The beauties of that region are nothing but an expansion and enlargement of the wonderful park system and suburbs of Boston. I have attempted to keep within the speed limit and before a broadminded judge I could establish this by satisfactory evidence. But it has not prevented me from motor-ing into every village and town and countryside in Essex County. I am delighted at the prospect of returning here next summer when I hope and pray that no tariff bill will shorten my days of leisure."

THE BREEZE would call the attention of its readers to the communication of a wealthy citizen of Cincinnati, O., who with his family, spent the summer at the Masconomo House. In view of the present agitation for a new hotel on the site of the Masconomo, the comments of "Cincinnati" are of timely interest.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 14th, 1909.
Editor of the Breeze

Dear Sir:—Having arrived safely at home with my family and with opportunity for a retrospect on the summer which we have just spent at Manchester, I would ask a few lines in your valuable paper to deplore the need of a summer hotel in your beautiful town. In recent issues of your paper I have noted an agitation for a new hotel on the site of the Masconomo. With this agitation, I am thoroughly in accord and I, for one, would be an annual patron of such a new hotel.

I and my family spent this summer at the Masconomo. It will be our last. Laying aside all inconveniences which came from an erratic manager, the present Masconomo House is, beyond question, wholly unable to give summer hotel guests the essential comforts which make life on the shore desirable. The rooms are stuffy and unclean. Gas instead of modern electric lights, heat the rooms at night until staying in them is well-nigh impossible. The lawns and the yard are neglected, and, altogether, the place has the appearance of long abandonment.

At the same time the conditions all about the place are in every way favorable to the success of a good hotel, well-managed. Several times we motored up and down the shore between Nahant and Rockport, always taking the roads nearest the ocean, and at no point along the entire shore did we find a place so beautifully situated and so conveniently, from a hotel point of view, as the site on which the Masconomo now stands. It is close by the water and the beach is the cleanest along the shore. It is near to the railroad station and the postoffice, stores and offices are near-at-hand, it is in the heart of the beautiful woodland road district, and trees about it could not be finer and, in fact, there is everything there that the heart desires which nature can supply. Why the opportunity for a good hotel has gone begging so long, is something I cannot understand. I well know that many of the guests this summer feel the same as I, and that if they are to return next year, something better must be provided than the conveniences afforded this year.

Very truly yours,
"Cincinnati."

Summer Residents' Committee Report on Moth Suppression.

The summer resident committees in Beverly and Manchester, which have had charge of the work in suppression of the gypsy moths for the last several years, have recently issued their annual report on the work accomplished. It fills a neat pamphlet of 12 pages, which, after reviewing the work accomplished in 1907 and 1908, explains what has been done in the last year and what it is proposed and hoped to do in the next.

THE BREEZE reproduces a map which the committees have prepared, showing the woodland on the North Shore which has been infested with gypsy moths and the sections in which the trees have been cleared, the ground burned and the nests creosoted. Roughly speaking, over 2000 acres have been cleared in 1908 and 1909, and, during the last year alone, over 2100 acres have been sprayed. In 1908, with four power spraying machines, over 1000 acres were sprayed. On the land cleared the poorer trees were cut out, the brush was cut down and burned and, where possible, the ground and stone walls were burned over. The work during the year has demonstrated that large tracts of woodland which were quite badly stripped last year were very little defoliated this year, although but one-half as much money was spent on them. In many cases nothing was done except to spray the territory which had been cleared the year before. This latter was particularly true of the territory around Brimbal avenue, Montserrat; on Common Lane, between Montserrat and Pride's Crossing; in some of the woods back of Beverly Farms and in the woods directly back of Manchester Village. Here there was much less defoliation this year than last, although there were twice as many acres to spray and it was manifestly impossible to spray them all in time to prevent all defoliation.

With the eight power spraying machines working every week-day and Sunday, over 100 acres were sprayed each day. The work has been done under the direction of the State Forestry Department. The large amount of territory covered, and the efficient manner in which it was done is largely due to the executive work of the State Superintendents. The extent and efficiency of the work was also made possible because the cost was cheapened and each machine enabled to spray more tank loads each day by securing water with long lines of hose and with watering carts which acted as tenders and by the use of a gasoline pump which could supply water from a brook or well 1000 feet away. Each spraying machine is operated at a cost of about $90 a day. The report says that the woodland which has been treated is all in much better condition now than when the work was started and that there has been no serious stripping in the territory cared for.

Speaking of the territory in which serious stripping by the moths has taken place, the report says that, in some instances, it has been impossible to secure the consent of the owners of the property to carry out the work and, in other cases, sufficient money could not be secured to do the work thoroughly. Half measures are of no value. The report says that there is, at present, an extremely dangerous colony back of West Manchester and West Beach Hill. To this colony the committee has several times called attention and, even last year, $15,000 would have been necessary properly to do the work in that section.

Through the woods back of this territory, an extended protective belt has been placed in an attempt to prevent some of the caterpillars from migrating across from the large colonies back of Brookwood Road, but the woods at that point on the shore are in danger of being entirely destroyed. The same is true beyond Philip Dexter's land in Magnolia and still more true in the district back of Magnolia Point and down toward West Gloucester. The trees there were thoroughly defoliated this year.

Speaking of the methods used to restrain the ravages of the moths, the report says: "Your committee did the best it could to prevent these colonies (those just mentioned above) from spreading, and attempted to starve them out as much as possible by spraying the roadsides 100 feet back. Myriads of caterpillars were thus starved and killed by the wilt disease (so-called cholera) inside these territories. It is perfectly evident that, had it not been for the work done last year and this year, conditions on the North Shore from Beverly all the way down through where the gypsy moth was prevalent.

In securing funds to carry on the work, the Summer Resident committees worked on the following plan: They agreed with the Governor that the State would provide, in the first instance, one-third of the money needed on condition that the city of Beverly and the town of Manchester would supply another third and the Summer Resident Committees the balance. When all subscriptions had been paid in, there was a grand total of $37,500. The additional money needed after this amount was expended was raised by the summer resident committees. Since August, 1908, when the spraying work ended, $60,000 has been expended in the work, $7,000 of which was spent for spraying-machines, hose, tools and other apparatus which can be used for several years.

The committees have also had considerable to do with the woodland roads which have proved one of the most beautiful attractions on the North Shore. The roads are built and maintained by subscriptions made annually by summer residents. Over 28 miles of these roads have been built and are now maintained on that basis. To maintain the roads costs between $50 and $75 a mile. During the last two years, a beautiful new woodland road called Forrest Lane, has been built from Forrest street, Manchester, at the east end of the Essex County Club grounds, three-and-a-half miles through the woods and along the shore of Haskell's Pond to West Gloucester. This year a connecting road called Laurel Lane has been grubbed out for about a mile and a quarter joining Forrest Lane and Haskell's Pond with the Manchester-Essex road near Four Corners in Essex.

Dust-laying on the principal highways has also had the attention of the committees. Under the direction of Mr. Dexter, formerly, and Mr. Boardman, this year, over ten miles of road along the shore have been kept in excellent condition. Besides these ten miles of road, the Myopia Club and a few of the summer residents, notably Judge William H. Moore and Henry C. Frick have also subscribed sufficient funds for oiling the roads in Wenham and Hamilton, leading from Beverly Farms to Myopia.

Concerning the future the report says: "Your committee sincerely hopes that the work that has been so well begun will be continued next year along the same lines. In no other way can results be secured and the woods preserved. The committee expects, if the work continues, to secure some help along the roadsides from the United States authorities, who have tentatively agreed to co-

Manchester would have been unbearable. All the trees would have been stripped, except on a few private estates, and all the pines and hemlocks would have been killed.

"The committee hopes that all the summer residents, and particularly the subscribers, will walk through the woods and see what work has been done and what results have been accomplished and then take occasion to go through the Magnolia woods where no work has been done and see what devastation has resulted from lack of work.

"If the forests are to be preserved and the beautiful wooded drives are not to be destroyed, the work must be continued until the parasites, thousands of which have been planted, secure the balance of the power."

Many varieties of parasite have been cultivated in this country and, so far, have survived our winters. Several of them promise very satisfactory results. Large quantities of the most promising kinds have been imported from Japan and Europe and been liberated at different points along the North Shore. The work has been in charge of the Department of Agriculture of the United States and under the personal direction of its expert, Dr. L. O. Howard. Plantings have been made, not only of the Calosoma Beetle, a small green bug, but also of several varieties of flies and smaller insects which attack the gypsy moth in the various stages of its development. Naturally it will be several years before these parasites can develop and reproduce sufficiently to gain the balance of power as the gypsy moths are already present in such large numbers. Many of the best experts are agreed, however, that the parasite will develop and secure supremacy over the moths in a few years, just as it has done in other countries for a protective belt along the wood roads. It hopes and feels confident that, with your co-operation for the next year or two until the parasite develops, the beautiful woods along our shore and on our drives can be preserved. It hopes that every resident or summer resident on the North Shore who has enjoyed our woods, our drives, and our dustless roads, and who has not yet subscribed, or who has not yet given his fair share towards this work, will co-operate by sending a check to Wm. Over 500 Pupils in Manchester Schools.

The Manchester schools, which opened last week for the year, are now settled down to work with a total enrollment of over 500,—to be exact, 507 pupils on Wednesday morning of this week.

Everything is going along smoothly under the supervision of Superintendent of Schools John C. Mackin. The new department at the High school,—the Commercial course—is proving a wonderful success: if the number of pupils taking up this work counts. The department has been given special quarters this year and the following figures show what is being done: 21 are taking type-writing; 16, shorthand; 14, arithmetic and penmanship; 26, book-keeping.

The following figures will tell the number of pupils in each school, with teachers and grades:

Story High school.—Alfred L. Saben, principal; Florence Kauffmann, Edna A. Parker, May B. Whiting, Alice M. Brackett. 36 boys, 45 girls,—total 81.

George A. Priest school.—Miss May C. Eaton, (asst. principal,) grade VIII, 32 pupils. Anne Clarke, VII, 45. Jessie D. Alexander, VI, 25, and Edna B. West, VI, 25. Lola Durrell, V, 45. Eliza G. Goldsmith, IV, 32, and Teresa Walsh, IV, 31. Lena M. Jones, III, 36. Total 271.

John Price Primary school.—Miss Gertrude Sherman, principal, I, 55. Miss Nellie Leonard, II, 35. Miss Audrey Calden, II and III, 28. Total 154.

Kindergarten.—Miss Mildred Lothrop, principal, 36. Miss Edna Kitfield, assistant. (Miss Kitfield also assists afternoons in Grade I.)

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Mead are returning to Manchester this week to spend most of the autumn. They have been at Enfield, N. H., during the summer.

Charles A. Lodge, jr., left last Saturday for Amherst, to resume his studies at the Mass. Agric. College. Mr. Lodge intends to take up forestry.

Ground was broken Tuesday for a new cottage house on Friend's Court for Herman C. Swett. Mr. Swett has awarded the contract for his new cottage to Roberts & Hoare. Center Stanley will do the brick and mason work, and foundations; Wilbur J. Pierce of Beverly Farms, the plumbing; and G. A. Knoerr, electric work. The cottage will have seven rooms and bath room, and will be finished inside in maple.

Lee Marshall, one of the clerical force at the Old Colony Trust Co., Boston, is having a three weeks' vacation, most of which he will spend in this vicinity. He will take a trip to the White Mountains, probably, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Jewett left Manchester Wednesday for their annual autumn trip. They will spend some time at Manchester, Vt., and from there they will probably go to Saratoga, N. Y., before returning home early in October.

Mrs. Fred Love and Miss Johnson, who have been spending the summer at Mrs. John W. Campbell's, School street, left Wednesday for their home in Toronto. Miss Johnson later starts for California for an extended visit. Harry Bemmer, Mrs. Love's brother, who has been spending a fortnight here, left Monday for Halifax, whence he will "work his way" back as far as Vancouver. He is a traveling shoe salesman.

Howard Winchester and family are to move into the Monteiro cottage off School street, owned by G. E. Willmonton, very shortly. The house is being modernized, electric lights are being installed, etc. Mr. Winchester has changed his plans relative to living in Brookline this winter.

Among the questions arising in connection with the installation of free delivery mail service, is the numbering of houses on the streets. This was taken up some years ago to a certain extent and some effort was made to number the houses. The work was not consistently carried out, however, and the numbers will have to be revised on the streets already numbered, and the many streets not numbered will have to be gone over. It is understood there are a number of young men preparing for the competitive examination to be held at the High school building on Saturday morning, Oct. 9, under the direction of the U. S. Civil Service commission, for clerks and carriers. Application blanks may be obtained from E. H. Wilcox, at the Post-office, and these blanks must be properly executed and filed with Mr. Wilcox prior to 4.30 p. m., Monday, Oct. 4. The examination will be on the following subjects: Spelling, 10; arithmetic, 20; letter writing, 20; penmanship, 20; copying from plain copy, 10; U. S. geography, 10; reading addresses, 10. Fire Department at Manchester Called out Twice this Week.

The Manchester fire department was called out twice this week, but in each case the services of the department were hardly needed.

Shortly after seven o'clock Monday morning an alarm sounded from box 54, corner School and Lincoln streets, for a fire at the James Beaton cottage, occupied by the Austro-Hungary legation. The department made a quick response and after a few splashes of water the blaze was extinguished. It appears that there is a false fire place in the cottage and a fire was started in this by one of the members of the household, who had not been apprised of the nature of the fire-place. He started the fire and to his amazement the smoke did not go up the chimney, but instead came out into room, filling the place. An alarm was sent in for the fire department. Damage $50.

At 7.06 Tuesday evening an alarm was sent in from the box at West Manchester and the hose-wagon was sent out on a hurried run to Jersey Lane, where an automobile was on fire. The whistle did not work on this alarm, but the tapper on the bell in the steeple of the Congregational church did work and sufficed to call the department together. The automobile was owned by The Harper Garage in Beverly. The gasoline caught fire and the chauffeur called the department to assist in putting the fire out. The car was damaged to the extent of about $100.

Taft Reviews G. A. R.

With bands playing, flags flying and drums beating, 1600 veterans of the Civil War marched in review before the President of the United States at Beverly, Saturday afternoon. It was easily the greatest event in the history of the New England summer capital.

From all over the county—and, in fact, from many parts of the state,—came the stern-faced old warriors with the badges and medals, all active, all expectant, all eager and happy. With them came thousands of friends and relatives until, when the President finally arrived at 3.30 o'clock and stood up to witness the passing of the troops, he looked down into the face of a crowd that stretched away in front of him and to the right and left as far as the eye could see and numbering 40,000.

The President's place was on a small stand, erected for him and his party in the center of City Hall park. The marching bands hove in sight but a moment after the President arrived. At the first sound of the martial airs, he rose and doffed his hat and stood bare-headed while the hosts marched by.

Allen Post of Manchester was well represented in the parade. Twenty-two out of the total membership of 25 marched. Commander Enoch Crombie, Adjutant James Rivers and Edwin P. Stanley remained over for the banquet in City hall, after the parade.

Another Wood Drive.

William D. Sohier, who has been doing such excellent work in having the old wood drives about the North Shore, opened up, announced that Laurel Lane, (Forrest Lane No. 3) is now roughed out and can be used for riding and driving, if one is willing to drive over a fairly rough road. It leads from Forrest Lane to the Manchester-Essex road and is about a mile and a quarter long. This road will be put into good condition as soon as possible.

Since his arrival in Boston a week ago, traveling in a palace car, and lunching with a large party at hotel Touraine, Peter the famous chimpanzee created more talk than anybody, with the possible exception of the explorers Peary and Cook. In fact he is more wonderful than any of these, as he is demonstrating the truth of a theory that has been the subject of controversy between scientists for a great many years. Peter bears out all that Darwin claimed about the origin of man. Besides eating at a table, smoking like a man, and doing the ordinary things of life, Peter is an expert bicycle rider, goes on roller skates, and does other stunts that are surprising when done even by men and women on the stage. He remains at Keith's for another week at the head of one of those bills that is making this theatre more talked about than ever.

In the death of James T. McKim, the New York architect, reported in Thursday morning papers, few Manchester people recognize an incident of more than ordinary interest. Mr. McKim, however, was the artist who designed and executed the plans for Memorial Hall, Manchester's beautiful library. The library building was presented to the town by Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, sr., in 1886 and Mr. McKim, a close friend of Mr. Coolidge, made the plans for the building free of charge. At that time Mr. McKim was just rising into fame as an architect. When a few years later, he became associated in business with Stanford White, their firm became preeminent in architecture in America.

Considerable comment of a humorous nature was caused by an automobile load of young men who followed close behind the President on his trip from Beverly to Manchester Sunday. In Manchester, as well as along the route, the company were generally taken for secret service men. In fact, when some of them emerged from the church after service they were buttonholed and questioned as to their methods in guarding the President. As a matter of fact, they were only a company of New York and Washington newspaper correspondents. Among them were "Bob" Small, the Associated Press correspondent at Washington; R. H. Hazard of the United Press; "Phil" Conway of the New York World, Harold Durstein of the New York Sun and John Howard Allen of the New York Herald. All these men are with Taft on his long western trip.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

The joke is on a former Manchester young man, who came down from Lynn Wednesday night for the Express Drivers' dance. He brought a live duck along with him and planned to have it cooked at a friend's house and then invite some of his friends for a dinner after the dance. His plans would have worked alright had not Mr. Duck got loose. A wild chase followed and in the excitement of the occasion our friend almost got run over by a train. The duck was caught and later served as the principal viand of an enticing lunch.

One of the funniest typographical errors appears in a national printer's journal. In describing the largest log house ever built it says: "The dogs used in the exterior of the building are being left in the rough, while those used in the interior will have their bark removed."

Rev. Frederick J. Libby left Tuesday for New York where he will meet his sisters, Misses Frances and Alice Libby who have been touring England during the summer.

Wilson Richardson spent Sunday in Boxford.

Mrs. Alice McKay and daughter Jennie and Mrs. William Symonds and son Leighton returned Thursday from a very pleasant vacation in Nova Scotia, where they were the guests of relatives.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Oscar P. Story in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Asa Ashley, who passed away the first of the week.

Miss Clara L. Butler returned Wednesday from a short visit with friends in Lawrence.

We are pleased to report that Edgar P. Story has recovered from his recent illness.

On Wednesday evening there was an informal dance at the Men's clubhouse. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. Music was furnished by Adam's orchestra. There will be an informal dance as usual on Saturday evening.

On Thursday evening at the Men's club there was another most interesting athletic exhibition. Several spirited bouts were given by pupils of Martin Flaherty and the comic stunts added much to the pleasure of the evening.

On next Wednesday evening there will be a dance given for the benefit of Herman Staples, a well known and much liked young man of the town, who has been ill for the past year. A good time is assured and it is hoped there will be a good number present.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

A splendid stretch of road has been built at Pride's Crossing, starting at the H. C. Frick estate, and ending at Haskell street. The section near the Frick estate was built in the early summer, but only recently has the stretch along by the station and by the Judge Moore estate been gone over. It is of the tar-macadam construction, and was done by D. Linehan & Son, the cost of same being met by Mr. Frick and Judge Moore. In addition to the roadway the sidewalks have been improved, curbs have been set and the work withal, is a decided improvement for this section. A concrete sidewalk fronting the residences of Daniel and John H. Linehan has been built.

A Timely and Pertinent Tribute.

At the annual dinner of the Connecticut Editorial Association, at New Haven, Conn., on February 16th, 1909, Prof. John Christopher Schwab, Librarian at Yale, paid a striking tribute to the Boston Transcript.

Emphasizing the helpful influence which the habit of reading wholesome newspapers exercised on college students Prof. Schwab said, "I told the fellows in my classes that it would be a disgrace for a young man to go through Yale without reading the Boston Transcript."

Any of our readers who are unacquainted with the merits of the paper would do well to send for sample copies (free for the asking).

The aeroplane of Glenn H. :: Beverly Farms ::

A large attendance of members is expected tonight at the meeting of John West Colony of the Pilgrim Fathers as the annual election of officers will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Martin, who have been spending the last ten days with friends at the Farms have returned to their home in Patterson, N. J.

Preston Post 188 made a good appearance at the parade in Beverly last Saturday afternoon, having 16 out of 19 members in line. Justice O. W. Holmes and Col. Charles Pierson were guests of the Post and rode in a carriage with Com. Chas. H. Day. They were comrades in the war, members of the 20th Mass., which regiment helped to make the famous "Fighting Brigade."

Nelson C. Bagnell and Patrick Wright of Wenham were injured in an auto accident on Hart street last Saturday and were taken to the Beverly hospital. The machine when near the residence of Jesse Pierce skidded into a tree and was over turned.

John W. Cooney, a prominent citizen of Lenox has spent the past week at Beverly Farms and was the guest of Thos. D. Connolly.

A party of Farms young people enjoyed a jolly hay ride to Magnolia and back Saturday evening. The usual large cart, filled with new hay and drawn by four horses was the outfit. When the party reached Magnolia, they unloaded and enjoyed refreshments, after which the home ride was begun.

The seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Powers of the Farms died at the Massachusetts General Hospital Friday after a short illness. Interment was in the New Calvary Cemetery.

WE have on hand twelve months in the year a complete line of Foreign and Domestic Food Products. We can supply your table with the purest food known. We do business on business principles,--the only way to succeed. Try us; we can please you.

THE THISSELL CO., Beverly Farms

Day-Officer Calvin L. Williams on Wednesday resumed his duties about the Farms after a pleasant vacation.

Mrs. T. D. Connolly, Miss Gertrude and Miss Frances Connolly arrived home Wednesday after a two-weeks' stay at Sebago Lake, near Naples, Me.

A son was born early in the week, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cole of Hart street.

William Stone, Tech. '12, has been spending a fortnight visiting at the Farms, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Grant and family, Vine street.

Over a score of Farms young men met at Marshall hall Tuesday evening and took the initial steps in the organization of a Beverly Farms brass band. Instruments have been ordered and the first rehearsal will be held next Tuesday evening at Marshall hall. Prof. L. M. Blythe of Gloucester is directing the young musicians. The full role of members has not yet been completed and any young man desiring membership should send in his name at once. A dance will be given in Neighbors' hall next Thursday evening and the proceeds will be expended on the new band.

The wedding of Miss Elsie E. Preston, daughter of Mrs. Charles F. Preston of the Farms to Howard A. Doane is announced for Sept. 30th, at the Beverly Farms Baptist church chapel. Both young people are very well known about the Farms. Miss Preston has been a teacher at the Farms public school until recently and Mr. Doane is a prosperous carpenter and contractor.

The Rev. Mr. E. H. Brewster, formerly of Manchester and now of Norwood, will preach at the Baptist church, Sunday.

Lawrence J. Watson, 2d, and family will not spend the winter in Roxbury, as has been their custom, but will remain at their home on Everett street.

Daniel Cronin, coachman at Allan Curtis', has the sympathy of his many friends here in the loss of his sister, who died in Cuba. The body was brought to Boston for burial.

Several Farms young men were summoned to appear in court at Lawrence yesterday, to testify as witnesses in the Gaudreau-Gaudreau case.

Mrs. Thomas B. Woods and two children, who have been visiting here for the last six weeks, returned to New York city yesterday.

The Farms boys are getting out in their football togs afternoons and they will have a team of juniors on the gridiron this fall.

Several contests will undoubtedly bring out a large number of Ward 6 Republican voters at the caucus at G. A. R. hall, next Tuesday evening. One of the hottest contests is for candidate for the Governor's Council. Both candidates, Dr. Frothingham of Haverhill and Mr. Gore of Salem, have a ticket to be considered by the Ward 6 voters. The candidates for Representative are former Mayor Parker S. Davis and William Galloupe. Each has 3 delegates in Ward 6.

Although considerable boating and bathing is still going on at West Beach, that pleasure spot is fast taking on an "after-season" aspect. The opening of school has taken away many of the children who were accustomed to gather there daily and the large parties of older folk who used to visit the beach every morning and afternoon are growing smaller, both in size and number.

LLOYD BREAKS RECORD.

Goes Round the Essex County Club Links in 68 in a match with John H. Storer.

When Joe Lloyd, the well-known professional golfer of the Essex County club, drove from the first tee yesterday afternoon in a match with John H. Storer, he little thought that he was about to establish a new record for the links. This fact, however, soon became apparent. For, at the first hole, he began playing under the bogey in a manner wonderful to those who looked on and his work thereafter was so consistent that it was soon apparent the old record of 74 must go down. Lloyd made the first nine holes in 33 and the last in 35, a total of 68.

Under the best of circumstances this score would be remarkable; but it was made under conditions opposed to speed and accuracy. The ground was wet and soggy from yesterday's early showers and, in spots, the water still stood in puddles. In spite of these handicaps, however, the professional showed wonderful skill in approaching and putting. Many noted golfers have made a good score on the Essex links, but Lloyd's round yesterday eclipsed them all.

Lloyd's feat is so remarkable that the full summary is given:

| Hole | Yards | Bogey | Score |
|-----------------|-------|-------|-------|
| 1 | 400 | 5 | 3 |
| 2 | 304 | 4 | 4 |
| 3 | 266 | 4 | 4 |

| 10 | 324 | 4 | 4 |

Dr. George A. Webber has returned to Manchester after a week's visit to the White Mountains, where he was registered at the Mount Washington, Bretton Woods, and at the Profile.

Society Notes

Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, of Chicago and Washington has decided to join the summer colony at Beverly Farms and to build a magnificent summer home there. The fact became known Monday through an announcement of the purchase by Mrs. Leiter of a three-acre section of the Haven estate, one of the best sites along the shore and one commanding an excellent view of the ocean. The purchase was induced largely by Mrs. Leiter's stay at Beverly this summer. She was in the Pickman Cottage, on the Cove. Her new purchase adjoins the Rantoul estate. Mrs. Leiter left the Cove last week for New York and is now in Scotland visiting her daughter, the Countess of Suffolk and Berkshire who was formerly Miss Margaret Leiter, or, as familiarly known to intimates "Daisy" Leiter. Mrs. Leiter will return to this country shortly.

Mrs. E. W. Smith, after a delightful season at Magnolia, returned this week to her winter home at Kansas City, Mo., where she has apartments, 12 East Armour Boulevard.

The Clement S. Houghtons, after a summer spent at Gilbertville, N. Y., are back to their winter residence on Suffolk Road, Chestnut Hill.

The North Shore colony will be well represented at the wedding of Conover Fitch of Manchester and Boston, and Miss Gladys Bogert, which will take place at Flushing, L. I., next Tuesday, the 28th. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fitch and Miss Helen Fitch are going over to New York Saturday so as to be ready for the event. Others of the North Shore colony will also attend. Mr. Fitch and his bride will sail for Europe on the 29th and will spend their honeymoon motoring in Europe.

Dr. Reginald H. Fitz and family are on their way home from Europe, where they have spent the summer, and will reach Manchester next week, probably. They will spend part of their autumn at "The Mountain."

N. S. Simpkins, jr., left the Farms Monday for New York City, where he has entered the office of the Bradley Fertilizer Company.

Society Notes

Among the debutantes of the coming 1909-10 season—always a prominent factor in the season's gayeties—will be a number of North Shore girls. Prominent among them will be Miss Katharine L. Putnam, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Putnam of Smith's Point, Manchester. Miss Putnam has one of the most coveted positions a "debutante" girl can have,—that of secretary of the Sewing Circle. She is a niece of President Lowell of Harvard. She is to make her debut at what will probably be the most brilliant ball of the winter to be given at the Somerset. Others are Miss Edith Storer, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Storer of Manchester and Milton, who will be presented at a tea; Miss Katharine Ayer, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Pride's Crossing and Newton; Miss Ruth Anthony, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Reed Anthony of Beverly Farms and Boston; and Miss Isabelle Coolidge, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Coolidge of the Manchester summer colony.

The Misses Paine are among this week's departures from Pride's Crossing. They have returned to their winter home at 21 Brimmer street, Boston.

Mrs. R. F. Greeley and daughter, Miss Marion Greeley, who have been spending the summer at Brownland, in Manchester, returned to town yesterday. They will spend the winter at the Hotel Victoria, Boston.

The wedding of Miss Mollie (May) Eliot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amory Eliot, Sea street, Manchester, and Richard Sears Lovering, will take place Saturday, Oct. 9, in Emmanuel church, Masconomo street, Manchester.

Through an error in the newspapers, the opinion became quite general that the wedding of Miss Grace Lawrence Croll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll, of Boston, and Thaddeus Coffin Defriez, 2d, of Brookline was to take place at Emmanuel church, Manchester, last Wednesday. The brilliant event, to which all North Shore society is looking forward, is to be held at noon, next Wednesday, Sept. 29.

* Society Notes *

Charles W. Ward and family, who have been spending part of the summer at "The Ark," Jaffrey, N. H., are back to their cottage on Sea street, Manchester, to remain until the middle of October, when they will open their town residence on Colchester street, Boston.

Robert T. Crane, jr., of the Pride's Crossing colony has returned from New York where he attended a dinner given by the American Asiatic society to his brother, Charles R. Crane of Chicago, the new American minister to China, who has sailed this week for his new post.

Essex Club Saturday Handicap.

The regular members handicap golf competition at the Essex County Club, last Saturday brought out a big field, in spite of weather not wholly comfortable. D. H. Hostetter won out with a handicap of 10 and a net score of 77. J. H. Childs, playing from scratch, won the gross competition with a score of 84.

The day was also marked by an interesting ladies' competition. It was a special handicap for a cup offered by Mr. Eliot, and, from a field of 9 players, Miss Stevens won first place with a handicap of 25 and a net score of 85. The Countess de Chambrum came in a close second with a net score of 88, over a handicap of 25.

Merchants' Week at Salem.

The changes of the summer season in the enlargement and improvement of the Salem stores make it easier than ever to put forth the claim that Salem has more to offer in its retail stores than any other city in New England, and satisfied customers frequently give testimony that they can shop in Salem with better results than anywhere.

"Come to Salem during next week," is the invitation given the people along the North Shore towns by the Merchants through the BREEZE. "Enjoy the special attractions of the occasion and get a good idea of what is needed this fall and winter for the personal adornment of the family and for the comfort of the home."

Free return tickets will be issued to all purchasers under the customary plan, which has been in vogue in Salem in all the semi-annual demonstrations,—a five-cent fare with each fifty-cent purchase, etc.

The gypsy moth brigade is to be equipped in part at least with motor cycles. This will make the arm quite a body of cavalry. We hope that it will lend them speed in getting rid of the pest, but years of experience will not allow any resident of eastern Massachusetts to be over-hopeful. There is a chance here for joy rides in solitary, and if the machines are worn out as are the automobiles used by the city of Boston, then the practise will be suspected.—Boston Record.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Hood and family of Lowell have returned to their winter home after spending the season at the Oceanside.

Mrs. Dewitt Talmage and her daughter, Miss Rebekah Collyer left Magnolia Monday for Washington to open up their winter home. They have been at the Oceanside all season.

They will soon open up their palatial winter home on Forty-first street, New York City for the coming society season, throughout which they will entertain elaborately.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Renner of New York City are spending their honeymoon at the Oceanside. They motored up from New York in a big touring car in which they have every comfort of a Pullman. From Magnolia they will motor north through the White Mountains and Maine, to Montreal and return to New York about Dec. 1. Mrs. Renner is one of the most beautiful of the many young brides who have been at the Oceanside this summer and her charming ways have attracted much attention.

General William Edwards, U. S. A. retired, and Mrs. Edwards and family have returned to their home in Cleveland, O., after spending the summer at the Oceanside. The Edwards family are intimate friends of President and Mrs. Taft. During the President's stay at Beverly, General and Mrs. Edwards were frequent guests at the Summer Capital.

Crowhurst Cup Race.

The annual race for the Crowhurst Cup, a handsome trophy offered each year by F. M. Whitehouse, was sailed last Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club. There were 17 boats entered in the three classes,—seven for the Crowhurst cup, four in the sonder class, and six in the one design class. The race started in a brisk easterly breeze, but before the finish the wind had died down to a calm. Vice Commodore C. Howard Clark, jr.'s, beautiful yacht, Savarona, was placed at the disposal of the judges.

The sonder boats finished in the following order: Havella, owned by C. H. W. Foster; Lady, Foss & Boardman; Vim, A. B. Nichols; Seehund, G. L. Batchelder.

The one designers finished as follows: Lamb, Eleanor Fabyan; Rosetta, G. Wigglesworth; Terrapin, J. H. Storer, jr.; Attergatis, C. E. Hodges; Kittiwake, E. P. Warner; Debutante, A. C. Needham.

The boats in the Crowhurst cup class were to go around the course twice. They rounded the finish mark the first time home in the following order: Khalifa, Marie L., Nutmeg, Urchin, and Tarpon. They had gone well around the second time, when as they neared the last leg the wind had died down to a flat calm.

The race in this class was sailed again Tuesday when the Marie L. finished first.

Salem expects a long fight over sewage and offal in Salem bay. Summer residents of the North Shore have complained to the state board of health that their property is injured by offal, particularly swill, which comes in with the tide and remains on their beaches. The State board will give a hearing on the complaint. It is expected that the city of Salem will answer that it does not dump sewage or other offal into the bay, and that if any swill floats in onto the beaches it must come from Lynn, or Boston, or other cities, that dump their garbage at sea.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Manchester, Mass., P. O., for week ending Sept. 18: Mrs. Robert Bacon, Patrick Gallagher, Susie Humby, Katie Lerry, Miss L. Sonbrand, Minna C. Lyman, Mr. H. J. Ferguson, Miss Margaret McDonnell, Mrs. A. Dudley Peters, Mr. H. Ridge, Paul Weil, 3.

The beautiful Stillman farm at East Wenham, which was purchased last spring by Miss Helen Frick, daughter of Henry C. Frick the steel magnate, for the purpose of giving charitable outings and entertainments to working girls, was the scene of a very happy gathering Saturday. Over 100 girls from Boston, Lowell, Lynn, and Lawrence, came to the farm in the morning and enjoyed a day which will long be remembered among them. The girls were met at the Wenham station by automobiles and carriages and driven along picturesque roads to the beautiful cottage on the farm. There they were received by Miss Frick and Mrs. Fannie Seifer of Pittsburg, a very close friend of the family. When all had arrived, the way was led to a remote corner of the farm and there, near the edge of a deep wood, a delicious luncheon was spread. As soon as the young women arrived at the scene of the afternoon's pleasures there was a great scramble and much laughing as they were given handsome badges with their names and numbers printed thereon. After the luncheon had been disposed of, all kinds of games were enjoyed. When it came time for the running races there was excitement galore, for several of the young women, who have been at the farm all summer, have been training for these events, consequently there were several favorites. As the girls entered into the various events with much spirit they were cheered by their friends and several prominent society women of Boston and Brookline, who had gathered on the green to witness the events.

The members of the Manchester Yacht club have been notified that the clubhouse will close on Monday, Sept. 27th. The club floats will remain in position until Oct. 15.

President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine and Mrs. Tuttle, who have been occupying the cottage of Dr. E. A. Daken at Magnolia this summer, will return to Boston with their family on Oct. 1. As yet they have made no plans as to where they will spend next season. President Tuttle has just returned from the White Mountains. He attended the annual meeting of the White Mountain Board of Trade at the Kearsage, North Conway, where he was prominent among the speakers.

Robert Mason Winthrop, formerly a member of the U. S. legation at Rome, sailed last Saturday on the Deutschland from New York for his new post, after a two months' visit with his mother, Mrs. R. C. Winthrop, at West Manchester.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLIII.

On a bright September day, watching the glow and shadows on the hills, and breathing the invigorating autumn air full of the aroma of the ripened year, one may take his fill of outward enjoyment, an enjoyment enhanced by the thought that summer heats and discomforts are over, and the seasons are putting on their golden crown. The time is but short when a nipping and eager air, sharp frosts and changing hues of field and forest, will herald the approach of winter, but it is wise to enjoy the passing season while we may.

Between the glory of the hillsides and the city slums, one would not hesitate long which to choose for his home surroundings; but the place where human love and help are most needed is often the slums and not the hillsides; and so, the city has its drawing power for many even more than the country with all its charms. Horatius Bonar, poet as he was, with all a poet's love of nature, found Edinburgh with its narrow wynds, squalid lanes and fever-laden atmosphere attractive, because it was a "city of living men."

Nearly all the troubles between classes—as governors and governed, noble and peasant, rich and poor, employers and employed—grow out of selfishness in one or the other or both; selfishness is the primal sin, let that be got rid of and almost all evils will disappear from our world, and the old vision of peace and harmony will be realized when the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid, and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them.

We have new names for old diseases often, and very imposing ones too; and no doubt some new diseases have been induced by modern ways of living; but a change of nomenclature sometimes goes a great way, and a new name persuades many that they have a new thing; the so-called higher criticism is paraded often as if it were a novelty, while it is centuries old; but what harm has it ever done to the truth itself?

Bigness is not greatness. England would be great with her thousand years of masterful history, even if she were restricted in territory to the "tight little island." She was great in the times of Drake and the Armada, long before her drum beat was heard around the world. The greatness of our own country will not be in her square miles and mighty natural power, but in her schools and colleges and churches and her newspaper press; these are the real factors of a nation's greatness, the other things are opportunities of greatness but not greatness itself.

Home week and similar celebrations have been plentiful in some parts of the country, and only good can come of them when observed in a simple and rational manner, in the spirit of good fellowship and neighborliness, and with grateful thought of the blessings which have come down to us from our fathers and which a kind Providence continues to their children.

Many go to church when they expect there will be a crowd; but commend us to the man who always went to meeting on stormy Sundays because he thought there would be few present, and he would at least count one; such a man may count for many more than one which the man in the crowd does not.

N. S. H. S. TO INCORPORATE.

Very Important Meeting will be held at Lee's Hall Tonight. Officers to be Elected.

One of the most important meetings in the history of the North Shore Horticultural Society will be held at Lee's hall tonight, when final steps for the incorporation of the body will be taken and officers elected for the coming year. There will also be an interesting lecture by Maurice Fuld, secretary of the New England Dahlia Association, who will speak on the theme, "Recent Introductions Worth Growing."

The incorporation of the society is another mark in its growth and progress. The movement for incorporation has been growing some time and now seems certain of fulfilment. At the meeting last Friday night, the articles of agreement of the association members were read and signed by all present. An order was also issued for a special meeting tonight, at which the regulations and by-laws of the association will be formulated and passed on. These, with the articles of agreement and the list of the members, will be forwarded at once to the Commissioner of Corporations at the State House. If all is satisfactory to the Commissioner, the Association will have its charter from the state within a week.

Mr. Fuld, who is to speak at tonight's meeting, is well-known to North Shore gardeners through his position with the W. W. Rawson Seed Company. In a letter to the Association regarding his lecture, Mr. Fuld says:

"I feel that the average gardener has not been posted sufficiently on the progress made in the horticultural world. I shall try to treat the subject as thoroughly as possible, and bring with me such illustrations as I can, to make the lecture more interesting."

Manchester Branch Red Cross Responds to National Call for Aid to Mexican Flood-Sufferers.

The Manchester Branch of the National Red Cross Society today sealed and delivered at the express office a large box of clothing to be sent to flood-sufferers in Mexico. The box was consigned direct to Consul Philip C. Hanna at Monterey, and from there will be distributed among places in which, it has been learned, the suffering is most keen. Mrs. W. J. Boardman, speaking for the Manchester branch of the Red Cross Society, wishes to express thanks and appreciation to all those who responded so generously to the call for aid.

Through the state department it has been learned that the suffering in the flooded districts is much greater than reported in the local newspapers.

Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Armour of Kansas City have left Magnolia after a four-months' stay. They came early in June, occupying the Wilkins cottage. They will return to Magnolia next season.

Among the departures of the week from Magnolia was the family of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kennard of St. Louis. They have been at the seashore all the season, occupying their own cottage on Fuller street. Mr. Kennard is a carpet manufacturer, known all over the middle west.

Lt.-Commander and Mrs. Benjamin B. McCormick will leave Magnolia next Monday for Washington. They have just returned from a honeymoon trip to the White Mountains.

The Claude Kilpatricks of St. Louis have left Magnolia to open up their winter home. The Kilpatricks have one of the finest places on the shore situated on Magnolia Point and facing the open sea. The family left Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hall and family of Salem were among the week's departures from Magnolia. They have been occupying the H. K. Story cottage on Magnolia avenue all the season. The Halls are prominent in Salem society.

The Food Fair.

The coming Food Fair at the Mechanics Building, Boston, promises to be the best ever held. Opening on Monday morning, September 27, it will be continued until Saturday night, October 30, and every day will be crowded with features of special interest to everyone concerned in the progress of New England, especially along lines of domestic economy. There will be a magnificent collection of the output of the producers of New England and, among the displays, will be almost countless things of the greatest value to the New England housewife, and to those closely associated with the grocery and provision business.

The entertainments will be of the highest class. Vessell's famous band of fifty selected instrumentalists, among them many leading soloists, and Belle Yeaton Renfrew's Bostonia Woman's Orchestra of a half hundred talented players will supply the principal musical feature. The Tuskegee Jubilee Singers, from the Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, established by Booker T. Washington, will sing plantation melodies as no one else can sing them, and Charles Winter Wood will give brief addresses on the life and work of Booker T. Washington. Mr. Washington promises to attend sometime during the Exposition and speak to the people of New England.

An Appreciation.

THE beautiful version of the parable of the Good Samaritan from the pen of our friend, Joseph A. Torrey, is a good illustration not only of the literary skill of the author, but of the poetic and harmonious language of our English Bible and the facility with which it often lends itself to the purposes of poetic paraphrase.

The translation of 1611, often as it has been revised in the interest of modern Biblical and linguistic scholarship, is still unrivalled in its pure poetic and melodious English. It may have its infelicities, its archaisms, its occasional inaccuracies of translation; but for vigor, beauty, general fidelity to the original, a style at once faithful and free, it may be said to be unapproached. It was made in an age of great scholars, and when the language was perhaps in its most perfect stage of development. It was the age which inherited the genius of Ben Jonson, of Shakespeare, of Bacon, of Milton, of Sir Philip Sidney. The Authorized Version, so-called, has contributed more, perhaps, than any other single source to the richness, strength and flexibility of our tongue. It has given a stateliness and grace to the productions of historians, essayists, orators and poets. It has served to fix a standard of speech for the whole English-speaking race. Whatever lesser changes may in time be made, it is safe to say that no other version will ever wholly supplant it. It will remain the high water mark of English prose.

Every such faithful and graceful rendering of our common English Bible is to be gratefully welcomed as proof of the indebtedness of our language to the labors of King James' translators. It is remarkable that the paraphrase retains so largely the very words and phrases and construction of the original, "done into verse;" it is further remarkable that the poetical version is comprised in fewer words than the prose, a reversal of the usual order, requiring but 184 words while that of the gospel contains 200; or omitting the last line which is not expressed though strongly implied in the story as told by the evangelist, the difference is still more remarkable, 178 to 200.

As compared with some famous paraphrases, as Addison's and Bishop Lowth's, this of our own poet is both more concise and a more exact reproduction of the language and thought of the original.

"BASS ROCKS, Gloucester's leading summer colony, may have a mounted police patrol again next season. One of the citizens has agreed to furnish two horses if the city will furnish the men, and it is quite likely that the summer residents will provide the feed for the animals."

It appears to us that the institution of a system of mounted police service all along the North Shore would be a step in the right direction. It might be done by the various towns, or by such a system as was in vogue at Bass Rocks the last summer. This was started as an experiment, and was so much of a success that it will probably be in operation again next year.

Manchester needs more police protection, anyway. Something under $6000 was appropriated at the last March meeting under the head of police, and it is probable a sum much larger will be asked for at the next town meeting. A town with over thirteen millions valuation, with property so widely spread out, should be amply protected.

One of the ways to give better service, perhaps, would be, as suggested above, —mounted patrol. At present only one officer is on duty during the day, besides the chief. This officer is stationed as a rule in the center of the town. The territory in the eastern section of the town, — Summer street, Manchester Cove, as far as Coolidge's Point, — and in the West Manchester section, is covered by police patrol only at night. If the summer residents are sufficiently interested perhaps some such arrangement as in vogue at Bass Rocks could be instituted in Manchester before another season.

And what is true of Manchester is equally true of Magnolia; where, perhaps, one mounted officer would be sufficient; and of Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing, where two such officers would cover the ground.

Civil Service Examinations.

Warren P. Dudley, secretary of the Mass. Civil Service Commission, announces that competitive examinations of applicants for positions in the classified service will be held in Boston, for the service of the Commonwealth, as follows:—

Oct. 25, 1909.—Inspectors of steam boilers, class 13.

Feb. 7, 1910.—Civil engineers, class 27.

Feb. 15.—Metropolitan Park policemen, class 16.

March 22.—Sub-foremen of laborers, class 23.

March 28.—Prison watchmen, class 17.

Only citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year have a right to apply.

Blank applications for the Commonwealth service can be obtained by applying to the Civil Service commission, State House, Boston, and, when filled out, should be filed in the office of the commission.

AUTUMN DISPLAY

Policeman Lee and the Formidables.

The Manchester police had a run for their money Friday afternoon. The game was only five small boys, but there was some pretty good leg-stretching at that. The boys were juvenile knights errant, who had started out from South Boston to subdue the world. But when they reached Manchester they stopped a while—and that's where their trouble began.

The boys were John Doyle, 14 years old of 103 High street, Charlestown; John McDonald, 16, of 21 New street, and Richard Donovan, 14, of 106 New street, East Boston; Wilford Kelley, 13, of 10 North Grove street, Boston and John Tivins of 545 Beach street, Revere.

They started out very proud in the joint-ownership of a broken pistol that looked as if it had had pre-Revolutionary service, a knife of questionable utility and a sling-shot. They felt a very formidable band as they marched out of Boston on a mission which none of them knew exactly, but which all agreed was to be very thrilling. With a lift here and a jog-trot there and many weary miles footed between, they arrived in Manchester in the afternoon and there things began to happen.

Meeting a little girl on the tracks, they inquired the way to the "station."

"Come wiff me and I'll show you" said the tot and started away at the head of the troupe.

"Youse is sure a nice little goil," said the First of The Formidables to their infant guide, patting her on the shoulder and offering a half-stick of gum.

"Sure and youse is," chimed in another, "youse is all to de mustard, Sally. Trot along and show us de way like a pilot."

Presently they came out into Central square.

"There's the station," said Sally, chewing her gum with great relish, and pointing across the street.

"Gee, fellows—we's been betrayed—its the police station she's brought us at—" gasped the Second Formidable.

"We's been stung" said the First.

"We's been outraged" said a Third.

"What'll we do wid de betraytrist?" demanded the First Formidable angrily.

There was no time for answer!

"Beat it—quick—der comes de cop," whispered the Fifth Formidable.

The band broke and ran just as the form of Policeman Jacob Lee emerged from the station-house door. That was what aroused his suspicions that something was wrong. Through back yards and over fences, he followed the band as they made for the railroad track and, in less time than it takes to tell The Formidables were scooting over the ties in the direction of Magnolia. At Beach street, one left the bunch and darted away toward Tappan street. He later ran through the back-yard of Policeman

Sheehan and right into that officer's arms. The others took themselves on down the track as fast as possible and were slowly overhauled and gathered in by the illustrious "Jake." When he had them all well in hand, he deposited them in one of the Masconomo carriages and bundled them off to the police station. Before Chief Sullivan, they gave a varying account of themselves and, after a night's sleep at the station, were sent home next morning.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Some people seem to regard the accident that befel one of Manchester's boat-builders last Saturday night as a huge joke; but our good friend about whom this is written can't detect the least thing funny in the incident. It seems that Louis O. Latons came up to the float at Masconomo pier about dusk Saturday night, to make a landing in his motor boat. The tide was low and this made the landing all the more hazardous. At that moment our good friend alluded to above walked down the pier, and he evinced his usual interest in everything connected with boats by watching Mr. Latons "dock." Now at low tide the pier at Masconomo Park is fully fifteen feet high. That is, from the top of the pier to the mud flats beneath, is fully two and a half fathom, to use the term of yachtsmen. Down the pier our good friend walked, leisurely, hands in pockets, and dressed in his best apparel. To the edge of the pier he walked, as if to walk down the steps which were not there. In much less time than it takes to tell it, he covered the distance from the top of the pier to the mud flats beneath, a shower of mud being sent out to the surrounding space for a distance of ten feet. What happened after this

A young man working at one of the estates on Smith's Point has only his good luck to thank for his escape from serious and perhaps fatal injury last Saturday night. He had been attending the big party of the employes of the Spaulding estate at Beverly Farms and was returning home on the theatre train. Whether it was due to his over-zealousness in alighting from the train as it pulled into the Manchester station, or the fact that he had the chaperonage of two young ladies, is not known. It is known that he slipped off the steps before the train came to a stop and he fell off. Besides bruising himself, and soiling his "Sunday best," he injured his feelings. Fortunately for him he rolled away from the wheels of the cars and not towards them.

RECEPTION TO FR. POWERS.

Manchester Pastor Given Big Farewell Reception in Town Hall Last Evening.

As a tribute of the love and esteem in which Rev. Fr. William F. Powers, P. R., is held by his former parishioners at Manchester, a farewell reception was tendered in his honor last evening in the Town hall, on which occasion more than 350 of the Sacred Heart church parishioners and townspeople were present.

The reception was in charge of a committee of which Dr. Wm. J. Dougherty was chairman. A pleasing program, consisting of musical selections interspersed with remarks, was brought to a fitting climax by the presentation to Fr. Powers of a beautiful solid gold chalice.

The reception, thoroughly informal in its essential details, was an occasion that will long be remembered by the members of the parish. Coming among them as he did when the church had just been set aside as a separate parish, and remaining here long enough to see the construction of what has rightly been called the most beautiful church in the county, and with a new parochial home almost completed, —all in the short space of a little over three years, the testimonial last night was a sincere appreciation of the honest and faithful work done by Fr. Powers and an approbation of the sentiment: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

The program carried out was in brief as follows: Selection, Long's orchestra; remarks, P. H. Boyle, representing the K. of C.; remarks, Fred K. Swett, representing the town, and solos—"Off to Philadelphia," and "Down in the Mines;" orchestra; piano duet, "Qui Vive" galop, Misses Evelyn Guinnivan and Frances Hennessey of Beverly; remarks, Austin Morley, representing the Foresters; orchestra; remarks, Rev. Jos. Brandlev; vocal solo, "Take Me With You in Your Dreams," and "You Remember Me," from the Bohemian Girl, Miss Marie McDonough of Beverly; remarks, Rev. Fr. Sullivan; piano duet, "Sleighride," Misses Guinnivan and Hennessey; presentation, John Desmond; response, Rev. Fr. Powers.

In his presentation Mr. Desmond paid tribute to the work of Fr. Powers in Manchester, of his up-building of the parish. In concluding his remarks, he said "And so, dear Fr. Powers, in order that the gratitude of the parishioners may never be forgotten by you, and that every day on which you stand at God's altar you may be reminded of our appreciation of your labors amongst us, we ask you to accept this little tribute which we offer you tonight. With it, we assure you, go the love and good wishes of every man, woman and child of the parish of Manchester."

Fr. Powers responded in the same kindly spirit which has predominated his life and actions during his stay here. He thanked his parishioners, the townspeople, and the shore people for the kind way they had received him and for their generosity in helping to build the church and the parochial residence. Members of the summer colony of whom he made special mention were H. S. Grew, Maj. H. L. Higginson, G. M. Lane and George L. White. He alluded to Mr. Desmond as the best Catholic in the county, and as the best friend of the Manchester church. He said that some day the Sacred Heart church would be beneficiary to the full extent of Mr. Desmond's estate. He intimated, too, that some day he (Fr. Powers) would present a memorial to the church as an earnest of his endeavors here.

The reception came to a close by all joining in singing "Auld Lang Syne." Then the 350 or more persons present passed in the front of the hall and shook hands with Fr. Powers, wishing him every success in his new field,—at Chelsea.

Republican Caucus.

The Republican caucus in Manchester Tuesday evening was attended by about twenty-five voters. E. P. Stanley was made permanent chairman and Lyman W. Floyd, permanent secretary. The ticket presented by the town committee went through in its entirety, not one change being made. The delegates to the various conventions were elected as follows:

State convention—Walter R. Bell, John W. Campbell and Edwin P. Stanley.

Councillor convention—Jeffrey T. Stanley, Percy A. Wheaton and Patrick H. Boyle.

County convention—Edwin P. Stanley, Patrick H. Boyle and Lyman W. Floyd.

Senatorial convention—Raymond C. Allen, Horace Standley and George S. Sinnicks.

Representative convention (delegates favorable to R. C. Allen)—William W. Hoare, George S. Sinnicks, Duncan T. Beaton, Alfred C. Hooper, Thomas Baker and Horace Standley.

Republican town committee for 1910—Jeffrey T. Stanley, Walter R. Bell, John W. Campbell, Edwin P. Stanley, Patrick H. Boyle, Raymond C. Allen, Alfred C. Hooper, Horace Standley and William W. Hoare.

No discussion was made on any point, and no "issues" were raised.

Democratic Caucus.

The Democratic caucus was held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, ten of the faithful supporters of the party being present. Frank A. Foster was elected permanent chairman of the caucus, and C. C. Dodge was elected secretary.

Clarence W. Morgan, James Hoare and Edward Crowell were appointed tellers. The present year's town committee was re-elected, as follows:

James Hoare, Clarence W. Morgan, Benj. H. Corliss, C. C. Dodge, Frank A. Foster, Chas. Danforth, Theodore C. Rowe, C. L. Hoyt and Curtis Stanley.

The following delegates to the conventions were elected:

State, Benj. H. Corliss.

Councillor, Edward Crowell.

County, Edward Crowell.

Senatorial, James Hoare.

Representative, Benj. H. Corliss, Theodore C. Rowe and Frank A. Foster.

Our assertion of two weeks ago that "it is understood the democrats will not put a candidate for representative in the field this year," is not just right. A candidate will be put in the field,—if not from Manchester, then from one of the wards in Gloucester. The convention will elect a candidate to be placed before the voters of the district.

Only the slow speed at which both cars were moving prevented a serious accident at the top of the hill at Beach and Union streets, Manchester, Sunday afternoon. Two big touring cars, owned by Dr. Maynard Ladd of Smith's Point and F. S. Tolman of Brockton and each carrying large parties collided head-on, but saving a small damage to the machines, nothing resulted. In the Ladd car, a big Cadillac, Mrs. Ladd was driving. The Tolman car, a Royal, contained Mr. and Mrs. Tolman and a party of friends and was moving up the hill from Beach street, while the Ladd machine was coming down. When the crash came, a front wheel on the Ladd car was ground to bits, while the Tolman machine escaped with broken lamps and fenders. Mr. Tolman is a wealthy shoe manufacturer.

Mrs. Dow was one of those home-loving women, whose life was spent in doing good. In her younger days, when her health was good, she was ever doing some kindly act for her friends and neighbors, a spirit of kindness which has predominated her life. Since the death of her husband about eight years ago her health had been failing. For the last four years she had been bed-ridden, and during the last year she had been helpless.

✦ Magnolia ✦

Many Magnolians and summer residents hereabout are expectingly waiting what the Gloucester Board of Aldermen, at their meeting tonight, will do with a proposition to establish a police sub-station at Magnolia. The movement for the new station-house has come about largely through the summer residents, who have offered to subscribe $1000 for building the station and suggest a plat of ground in the rear of the engine house, owned by the city, as the site for the station. Those interested in the plan argue that there is need of a place as a headquarters for officers in Magnolia and also furnish a place where residents and citizens might confer with the police, when necessary, without having to go to Gloucester.

Spectators about Magnolia corners saw an exciting runaway Sunday afternoon, when a horse driven by John Chane made a dash up Norman avenue. At the corner of Lexington avenue, F. A. Hunt of the Magnolia Market caught the animal by the bridle and quickly brought him to a halt.

Ward 6 Republicans had a very interesting caucus Tuesday evening. Fifty-four were present and the two contests were very lively. In the contest for Councillor, the only one in the city, J. M. Publicover, pledged to W. H. Gove of Salem, won out from George H. Bennett, a Frothingham delegate. In the contest for Representative, E. Fred Day, John A. Ober, and Charles F. Butman, the Parker S. Davis delegates, won by two votes from Albert Standley, W. B. Publicover and Frank L. Woodbury, the delegates for William Galloupe. The vote was 28 to 26. Elmer Standley was chosen for the State Convention, Howard E. Morgan for the County Convention and Howard P. Williams for the Senatorial Convention. The new city committee is composed of William R. Brooks, George H. Bennett, James B. Dow, Howard E. Morgan, Roy Patch, Elmer Standley and William Standley. The caucus was held at G. A. R. hall.

Thomas P. Collins of St. John, N. B., arrived at the Farms this week.

Lindsay N. Emery has concluded his duties at Wyatt's market on West street. He has been the manager of it for about a year.

John A. Morrison is taking a short vacation, spending it on the South Shore, principally at Wareham and Marion.

A recent issue of the "Narragansett (R. I.) Times," in reporting the big fair held last week at Kingston, said: "Samuel Scott, gardener at Edgewood farm, had on exhibition three vases of asters. Some of these had strong stems forty-two inches in length, bearing flowers measuring four and three-quarters inches across. By the abundance of buds it was seen that these plants had not been disbudded, as is usually the case with plants grown for exhibition." Mr. Scott is well-known along the North Shore. He was formerly gardener at "Swiftmoor," the beautiful estate of Mrs. Edwin C. Swift at Pride's Crossing. His many friends in Beverly Farms and Manchester will be pleased to know that Mr. Scott still holds his place in the fore-rank of his profession.

Keith's.

For two weeks, Peter, the man monkey has been the most talked about being in New England; in fact it is doubtful whether any attraction that has ever come to the theatre has caused more comment than this wonderful Simian who has been giving exhibitions at Keith's. Peter has become popular with all classes and in a number of cases more have come to the theatre and gone away again than got in to see the performance. Not only is Peter proving a strong attraction, but the character of the vaudeville itself is far above the average. It is made up entirely of headline acts, many of them new to Boston.

For next week another strong bill has been secured, one of the features being Tom Edwards, the famous English ventriloquist who will begin his engagement in this country presenting his latest achievements in this line.

The social given by the employees of the W. S. and J. T. Spaulding estate of Pride's Crossing at Neighbors' and Marshall's halls Saturday evening was one of the happiest and most largely attended events ever held at the Farms. It is estimated that close to 1000 were present. The affair was managed by Victor Allo and F. E. Cole and everything passed off in splendid fashion. The many employees of the estates had the privilege of inviting their friends from far and near, and guests came from every part of the county and a few from across the state. When they arrived they found a veritable feast awaiting them and, following the repast, the floor was cleared and dancing held sway until the midnight hour. At Neighbors' hall, Long's orchestra from Manchester supplied the music, and Alec Guinness, the bag-piper of Manchester, made the feet step lightly at Marshall's hall. Just before the banquet, the employees and many of their friends joined in a parade, which was headed by a large floral float, beautifully decorated with hundreds of specimens of the finest flowers grown at Greenwood Farm, — the Spaulding gardens on Greenwood avenue. When the hands of the clock got round to 12, the happy event was brought to a close with some hearty cheering. Three were given for the Messrs. Spaulding, three more each for Mr. Cole and Mr. Allo and another three for Miss O'Neal who made the rosettes for the committee badges.

Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Co. of Salem are making a special offer in their advertisement this week, which it would be well for users of flour to notice. Their well known Regent flour is advertised at $7.50 a barrel, 95 cents a bag. This is a specially low price.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1909.

Defriez—Croll.

At noon Wednesday in the picturesque little Emmanuel Episcopal church, Maseconomostreet, Manchester, Miss Grace Lawrence Croll and Thaddeus Coffin Defriez, 2d, were married by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity church, Boston.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll of Boston and Manchester. Mr. Defriez is a Harvard, '09, man. He is a son of Dr. W. P. Defriez of Brookline.

The bride's family is in mourning because of the recent death of Mrs. Nathaniel Knowles, the mother of Mrs. Croll, hence the original plans for a larger affair were modified and the wedding and reception were restricted to relatives and the more intimate friends.

George Gund, Harvard, '09, of Seattle, Wash., was the best man, and Miss Pauline Croll, who is a twin sister of the bride was the bride's only attendant. Miss Croll was given in marriage by her father.

The ushers were Edmund T. Dana, of Cambridge and Manchester, Harvard, '09; Joseph Leland, Brookline, Norman Harrower, Worcester, both Harvard, '09, and J. Sidney Stone, Harvard, '05.

The bride was gowned in white satin of heavy texture veiled with chiffon and richly trimmed with rare Duchesse lace, which had been used on her mother's wedding dress. A veil of tulle caught with a spray of orange blossoms was worn, and for ornaments the bride wore a necklace of moonstones. She carried a large cluster of bride roses.

C. S. Loring presided at the organ. and as the bridal party marched into the church he played the "Bridal chorus" from Lohengrin. As a recessional he played the wedding march from Mendelssohn's "Mid-Summer Night's Dream."

The chancel of the church was plainly, though prettily decorated with clematis and palms.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and wedding breakfast at "Sunnybank," the Croll villa, on Smith's Point. After a wedding trip the young people will live in Brookline.

Amami W. Lancashire, who has been spending the season with his parents in the Hood cottage, Manchester, returned to his studies at Yale on Sunday. Mr. Lancashire, has been quite active in the doings of the younger set along the shore this summer. He is a junior at Yale.

Society Notes

Miss Helen Taft left Beverly Monday for Bryn Mawr, where she has resumed her studies. Robert Taft left Tuesday for New Haven to take up his work at Yale. Prof. Louis T. More, President Taft's brother-in-law, left Beverly last week for Cincinnati to take up his work in the University. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. More are the only members of the presidential family now at Beverly.

After a delightful visit on the North Shore with his parents and sister, at Beverly Cove, Lewis Hancock returned the latter part of last week to the naval academy at Annapolis, where he is now a midshipman. Miss Dorothy Hancock, his sister, is leaving Beverly the middle of next week for the Virginia Hot Springs, where she will spend ten days or so, registered at The Homestead. Miss Hancock, by the way, comes out this winter at her home in Texas, and she will, no doubt, make one of the most charming debutantes of the season.

Dr. Reginald H. Fitz and family, who have been abroad since July are passengers on the Mauretania, which docked in New York this morning. They are expected to arrive at their West Manchester estate early this evening, and in all probability they will remain here through the autumn.

Frederick F. Carey, who keeps a splendid string of spaniels at his country estate in Tuxedo Park, has just bought from H. N. Bliss of Montserrat a handsome year-and-a-half old puppy spaniel, "Don," son of "Trixy." His sire was a famous champion. The Careys will remain at Manchester until the middle of this month when they go to Tuxedo Park for the autumn.

A number of North Shore young ladies are competing in the annual women's tennis tournament which started Monday at the Longwood courts in Brookline. Among those taking part are Misses Katherine Tweed, Alice Thorndike, Eleanora Sears and Evelyn Sears. All of these young ladies won their match in the preliminary round.

William Endicott and family have closed their Pride's Crossing house and have returned to 32 Beacon street, Boston, for the winter.

Society Notes

The Dudley L. Pickmans, who have been spending the summer abroad are at their summer cottage off Neptune street, Beverly Cove, for a month before going to their country estate at Bedford for the autumn. Their cottage this year was rented for the first time by Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter of Washington and Chicago, who was so charmed with the beauties of the shore that she has purchased three acres of the Haven estate at Beverly Farms and will erect a magnificent summer home there. The property which Mrs. Leiter has bought at Beverly Farms and on which she will have a beautiful summer home built, is in the extreme easterly corner of the large Haven estate. It comprises three acres, and adjoins the Rantoul estate on one side. It fronts on West Beach. Withal it is a most desirable location for establishing a summer villa.

The E. L. Blairs of Chicago, who have been spending the summer at Beverly Farms returned to Chicago Monday. Miss Lucy Blair will spend a few weeks in the east before returning to Chicago, going first for a short stay with the John Lawrences at Topsfield.

The S. A. Culbertsons, who have been at the Spaulding cottage, West Manchester, this summer, left Sunday for their home in Louisville, Ky. They will remain there this autumn, going to a resort in Indiana for the holidays, and starting for Europe in February. On their return from Europe in May they will probably come to Manchester for the season.

The dog show to be given at Hamilton, Saturday, Oct. 2, is unique in that it is the first Airedale specialty show ever given. The show will be given at Larchmere kennels by the Airedale Terrier club of New England. Judging will begin promptly at 10.30 a. m. No admission charge will be made. A handsome window card has been displayed advertising the show, designed by J. R. Thorndike, one of the members of the club.

T. B. Gannett and family, who have been at Brownland, in Manchester all summer, left Tuesday for their home in Cambridge.

"SEWAGE DISPOSAL FOR MANCHESTER."

Subject to be Discussed at a Meeting to be Held at the Residence of Mr. W. L. Putnam on Smith's Point This Afternoon.

At the residence of William L. Putnam on Smith's Point this afternoon,—Friday, October 1,—a meeting will be held at which the question of sewage disposal for Manchester will be discussed. The meeting will be held at 4.30 and the invitation is extended to anyone interested in the question to be present. Professor William T. Sedgwick of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak.

This question of disposal of sewage is getting to be of much concern all along the North Shore and it would seem that it is high time to make some definite move along this line. At Manchester, particularly, this question is assuming important proportions. In a notice sent to members of the summer colony and a number of our leading citizens, a statement signed by the doctors of the town, was enclosed. This statement follows:

"During the past few years the Town of Manchester has undertaken and successfully accomplished a number of useful projects. One very important one has yet to be carried out, viz.—the disposal of sewage.

"Some portions of the town are too closely populated to allow of the safe use of cesspools or other individual methods. The drainage from a considerable number of houses flows into the brook and thence over the flats of the harbor. This is becoming an increasing menace to the health of the town. It is of small value to have a good water supply if the menace of inadequate and improper drainage is to accompany it.

"We, the undersigned, would urge on the people of Manchester the importance of an early provision for proper sewage disposal.

GEORGE W. BLAISDELL, M. D.,
R. T. GLENNENING, M. D.,
MAYNARD LADD, M. D.,
WALDO H. TYLER, M. D.,
GEO. H. WASHBURN, M. D."

It would seem, too, that this same anxiety for the well-being of the health conditions of the shore is felt by residents outside Manchester. The following circular was prepared some weeks ago and was sent to many people in Beverly, Salem and Marblehead, and this week a number have been sent to Manchester residents. The circular is dated September 1 and is as follows:

"Every one has probably noticed the greasy streaks that extend over the harbor in all directions, the unpleasant odors that prevail near the Haste and between Tucks' Point and Salem Willows; the fainter odors that drift into shore with the sea air, about an hour after sunset, as well as the accumulation of rotting fruit, vegetables and other stuff on the beaches.

"Five years ago most of these things did not exist: they mean now that, owing to a careless optimism, the unfiltered and unprecipitated sewage of Peabody, Salem, parts of Marblehead and of most of Beverly, with the sewage and offal of some two hundred vessels, representing the waste of about 70,000 persons, is discharged daily into a limited harbor, with narrow outlets and a moderate tide.

"At this moment dysentery is almost an epidemic along the shore: last week there were one hundred cases in Beverly alone. Is it pleasant to think that the resultant germs are freely distributed in the water you bathe in, and on the sand where the children play?

"Sanitary engineers have invented means of reducing such poisonous products to harmless conditions before letting them escape, as in the case of the River Thames, the drainage area of Paris, and the great undertaking now in progress to purify the harbor of New York.

"Finding that no notice had been taken of the conditions in our harbor, nor any plan proposed to improve them, I engaged, some two months ago, a lawyer, a competent engineer with consulting chemist, to make a thorough report on the subject. This report is almost ready for publication and it shows unexpectedly bad conditions.

"I am now writing to you and to a certain number of other intelligent persons in Beverly, Salem and Marblehead, to engage their support in a hearing before the State Board of Health in early November. I hope that I may receive a favorable answer from you.

"The expense of the investigation and report will be $1,000 more or less. Contributions of $10 from all interested persons to help pay it will be gratefully received; if any money is left over it will be refunded to the donors.

"Very truly yours,

George R. White was the winner last Saturday of the members' handicap golf tournament at the Essex County club. He netted 77, with a handicap of 18.

The Eben Richards have closed their summer home at Pride's Crossing and have gone to their winter home at Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

Secretary of the Navy Geo. von L. Meyer and family are back to Hamilton after a visit with friends in Lenox. They have also been taking in the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York.

Myopia B. beat Dedham in the final for the Karlstein cups at Karlstein, Dedham, last Saturday afternoon, by a score of $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ goals, in a close and interesting contest. Score: Myopia earned 6 goals, lost $\frac{1}{2}$ goal on foul by Ames, net score of $5\frac{1}{2}$ goals; Dedham earned 4 goals, lost $\frac{1}{4}$ goal on safety by Bowditch; net score $3\frac{3}{4}$ goals. Referee—Allen Forbes. Scorer and timer—Dr. H. A. Souther. In the ninth period there was a moment of excitement when Joshua Crane of Dedham and H. L. Tweed of Myopia collided in a rush for the ball with such force that Tweed's stirrup was torn from the saddle, unhorsing the rider, who, however, escaped injury. The summary: Myopia B—No. 1, D. P. Rogers, 1; No. 2, H. L. Tweed, 4; No. 3, A. Ames, jr., 4; back, George Amory, 1; total handicap, 10. Dedham—No. 1, P. W. Wrenn, 2; No. 2, J. A. Amory, 1; No. 3, Joshua Crane, 6; back, J. P. Bowditch, 1; total handicap, 10.

Judge Wm. H. Moore has just imported from England the bay hackney stallion Chellaston Baronet, by Lord Kimberly (son of Rosador), dam by Cadet. He will be converted into a heavy harness horse for show purposes.

Society Notes

Miss Jessie Colby of New York, who has a summer cottage in Beverly Farms, is now almost completely recovered from the very severe injuries she received two years ago while driving near Magnolia. As she was getting out of her runabout, the horse, frightened by an automobile, suddenly started, and the wheel striking Miss Colby knocked her down, and to the side of the road in such a way she sustained a broken leg, a sprained ankle, and a badly wrenched knee. Her splendid spirit shown since the accident in her determination to overcome the lameness which was the result of the compound fracture, has won the admiration of all who know her.

Mrs. Joseph Proctor and daughter, Miss Proctor, have returned to Manchester after spending the summer in Maine, and they will spend the early autumn at Mrs. Stanley's cottage on Summer street. Mrs. Proctor's health is somewhat improved over what it was last spring.

Miss Mary F. Bartlett returned to Manchester, Wednesday after a week's visit to the mountains, where she was a guest at Jackson, N. H., of Mrs. W. Scott Fitz.

The J. T. Clarks left Magnolia yesterday and have returned to Boston for the winter.

"Lamb" Leads One Designers.

A special race for boats of the One Design class—the last race of the season—was arranged for last Saturday under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club. Five boats sailed around the course in a light south-easterly wind. The race was arranged especially to give the last three boats of the One Design fleet an opportunity to show their worth—those owned by Oliver Ames, H. S. Grew, 2d, and Francis P. Motley,—but only one of the boats was out—Mr. Grew's. The Lamb, owned by Miss Eleanor Fabyan, won. The summary:

She will remain on the Shore until the 15th of October, when she returns to her 188 Beacon street, Boston residence for the winter. Her son, Richard, is camping in the Maine woods at present.

Most of the children's classes conducted along the Beverly and Manchester shore the last summer by "Bunnie" Woods, the athletic instructor, have been closed for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames and daughters have gone over to New York for a short stay. They will return to Pride's next week, and the following week they go to Wellesley for a visit, and from there to North Easton for the autumn.

FROM GOLF LINKS TO OFFICE

THERE'S nothing like getting out of doors on these bracing, sunshiny afternoons in early fall.

Sometimes it is hard to get away from the office, particularly if you have to leave some things "hanging fire."

With the TELEPHONE to help you, it's all the same whether you're going to play golf or tennis, go out in the machine, or see the game.

A word over the wire saves an hour's delay in leaving the office, and a call in the latter part of the afternoon will clean up the things you couldn't do before you left.

Remember that the telephone at the Country Club will serve you for either Local or Long Distance calls.

Business Change.

With the coming in of a new month today takes place an important business change in Manchester, whereby the insurance business of Julius F. Rabardy goes into the hands of his son-in-law, Lyman W. Floyd, proprietor of the newspaper store.

Mr. Rabardy is one of Manchester's most respected citizens. He fought in the Civil War. Born in France, he fought with the spirit of a true French patriot and since the war he has led an industrious life in Manchester. For many years he conducted the newspaper store, and since retiring from that he has continued to conduct the insurance business which he established some 19 years ago. He was wounded in both legs during the war, and this, with on-coming years, makes his activities less potent and he feels that his business cares should be placed on an other's shoulders.

Mr. Rabardy is well known to most of our summer residents, with whom he has done business since they first came to the shore.

In making the change, however, the business which Mr. Rabardy started and maintained all these years, falls into good hands. Mr. Floyd is a man with a reputation for "doing things." He is a man of keen business ability and it is safe to say that in adding this new business to his curriculum he will apply modern methods and will be prepared to give past and future patrons the very best of service. This branch of his business will continue to be conducted in the little office on the second story of the building in which is located his store.

Mr. Rabardy, while retiring from the insurance business, will retain his office as notary public, justice of the peace and bail commissioner, and will locate his office at his home on Central street.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Irwin, plan to leave the middle of next week on a ten days' vacation trip to Burlington, Vt. Mr. Irwin is agent of the American Express Co., at Manchester.

Organized to Improve Conditions.

The Eastern Point Property Holders Association, composed of about 40 members of the summer colony at Eastern Point, Gloucester, have organized for the purpose of doing all they can to improve conditions at that part of the city, without conflicting with any one; in fact, co-operating with the people of the city in general for the best interests of the community as a whole.

This is a very commendable purpose on the part of the organizers, and as they are all reasonable people, with the good of Gloucester and its environments at heart, they should be encouraged in their efforts. The association has held several meetings at which various matters were discussed and threshed out and they have urged upon the municipal council the expediency of mounted police in that locality.

The association has organized by the choice of the following officers: President—Samuel A. Raymond; vice president—Col. Sidney M. Hedges; secretary and treasurer—Conrad Reid; advisory board—John Greenough, Gen. George C. Reid, Dr. James H. Knowles, George O. Stacy, J. Murray Kay.

Pilgrim Wanderers.

Wm. Jeffrey colony of Pilgrim Fathers of Manchester and John West colony of Beverly Farms were well represented at the visitation of the Pilgrim Wanderers to D. W. Dennison colony of Ipswich Monday evening. The following officers were elected: President—William Y. Obear of Lynn; secretary and treasurer—Annie M. Davis of Beverly. Arrangements were completed to continue the journeys of the Pilgrim Wanderers during the coming year. Masconomo colony of Gloucester will be visited in July, John West colony of Beverly Farms in August and William Jeffrey colony of Manchester in September.

The Perfect Woman.

Since Annette Kellerman went to Harvard and was pronounced by Dr. Dudley A. Sargent as the nearest approach to a perfect woman that he had ever seen, this young Australian has become one of the most widely discussed women in the entire world. As a vaudeville attraction she has been without a peer, and although she has had many imitators, no one has been found who has been able to combine that beauty of figure and cleverness, not only in diving but in other directions, that has characterized Miss Kellerman. Although it is more than a year since she left Boston she has been such an attraction in vaudeville that comparatively few weeks in that period have been spent outside of New York. She enjoys the distinction of having made one of the longest runs ever known in the metropolis, and she returns to Keith's next week, the house in which she started her vaudeville career, with world-wide fame and more interesting than ever.

William Collier at the Hollis.

Charles Frohman will present William Collier, foremost among the comedians of the day, at the Hollis Street Theatre on Monday evening, October 4, for a limited engagement in "The Patriot," a farce in three acts by J. Hartley Manners and Mr. Collier.

There is no more welcome event to local theatregoers than the appearance in Boston of William Collier. His fun-making is irresistible and his plays invariably clean, wholesome and diverting. Mr. Collier's notable success in "Caught in the Rain," "The Dictator," and his earlier plays, including "The Man from Mexico" and "Mr. Smooth" is a matter of record. In "The Patriot" he has the most pronounced success of his career. It is now in its second season, having run at the Garrick Theatre, New York, for almost an entire year. In "The Patriot" Mr. Collier is not alone seen to better advantage than in his previous successes, but has a play rich in comedy and appealing in heart interest that is a distinct addition to stage literature and he creates a character that will not be soon forgotten.

Charles Frohman has made an exceptionally beautiful production of "The Patriot" and he has surrounded Mr. Collier with a company that is the largest in point of numbers and by far the most capable that the popular young comedian has ever had. During the engagement matinees will be given Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Annual Food Fair.

What has been most fittingly called "The World's Greatest Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exposition" was opened in the vast Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, Boston, last Monday morning with an attendance of thousands before the doors closed for the day at 10 o'clock at night. The fair will be open every day, Sundays excepted, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. until Saturday evening, Oct. 30.

The concerts by the great band of Marco Vessella have already created a sensation among music lovers, crowds of whom can always be found listening captivated to the sweet strains and the splendid programs. Gorman's old-time circus is the nearest thing to the tented show possible to get within the walls of a city building. One of the most interesting features of the fair are the concerts by the celebrated company of students from Booker T. Washington's Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama. They are heard in plantation melodies and Charles Winter Wood gives character readings and a brief talk on the life and work of Booker T. Washington.

Miss Isabelle Martin, the 10-year old daughter of Ferdinand Martin, was taken from her home on Bennett street to the Beverly hospital Wednesday.

Lewis Killam and family are thinking of leaving Manchester in the near future and settling in Maine. They have recently bought five bungalow lots—three from N. P. Meldrum and two from Miss Helen Burnham—on a river front about twelve miles from Kennebunkport.

Manchester is well represented at the Mass. Institute of Technology this year, there being no less than six young men enrolled as students. They are: Revere Pulsifer, Sayre Merrill, Charlie Dodge, Samuel Knight, Henry Merrill and Frank Sinnicks. The last three entered this fall. College opened this week.

One of B. S. Bullock's horses, frightened by an automobile yesterday noon, at the corner of Sea and Summer street extension, jumped forward and in some way unfastened part of the harness, thus allowing the wagon to push forward against the animal. After running down the hill, by the electric light station, it was held up by Cuitis Stanley at the Beach Street Crossing. John Prest was driving at the time and very nearly had the animal under control.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould learn with much regret of their intention to leave Manchester in the near future to seek a new home in California. Mr. Gould is a carpenter by trade, being a foreman in the employ of H. A. Doane. In moving to California he will continue at his trade. Mr. and Mrs. Gould plan to leave Manchester toward the middle of October. After visiting among relatives and friends in this state and in Lewiston and Brunswick, Me., they will start early in November for the west. They will settle in Oakland.

Henry N. Bliss, the produce dealer, who drives into Manchester several times a week from Montserrat, lost almost everything he possessed last week when a fire, started by an over-turned lamp, entirely destroyed his dwelling. The house burned flat to the ground. Most prized among his losses were the relics he had accumulated during the last thirty five years or more, including the rifle he had carried through the war, his canteen, and other things equally as precious to him. A valuable cocker spaniel, "Trixy," is also supposed to have perished in the fire, as no trace of her has been found since that time. The fire started at eleven o'clock at night.

After a very pleasant visit of three weeks with his nephew, Jos. Vasconcellos, at Manchester, Jose Francisco da Silveira, jr., has just left here for New York and Washington. He will sail from New York on the Majestic about the 20th of October for London, whence he goes to his home in Portugal. Mr. Silveira is a captain of infantry in the Portuguese Army, and is police commissioner of Ponta Delgada. This is his first visit to the United States and he is greatly interested in the sights, the people and the customs which he has seen since coming here. To the Breeze man yesterday he expressed himself as very much impressed with the natural beauties of Manchester and its surroundings. The place has a charm for him, he said. He spoke of the splendid roads, the beautifully kept estates, the modes of travel, and withal the free and open and democratic manners of the people, as compared to customs in his own country and in Europe in general. He said that it appeared to him that everybody here was on a level; there is an absence of a marked class distinction. Nothing impressed him more than the schools. He visited the public schools of the town and was surprised at what he saw. He was impressed with the cleanliness of everything, the system, rule and order, the well-lighted, well-ventilated rooms, not too crowded. But the beauty of it to him was the fact that all this was free, —absolutely free. One of the pleasantest incidents of his stay here was the visit of President Taft to Manchester. Mr. Silveira attended church that Sunday and had a good opportunity to see the Chief Executive, an honor which he prizes highly.

The Speed Boys dance in the Town hall last Friday evening was a very success affair. There was a large attendance and everybody had a splendid time, —so good a time, that it is probable the boys will run another in the near future.

THE postoffice department has issued orders to postmasters to drop the word "free" in reference to rural delivery, and the initials "R. F. D." will therefore give way to "R. D." meaning "rural delivery." The service has become so general that the designation of "free" has become obsolete. All mail service whether in the city or country is free—that is, free to the mail patrons but expensive to the government. The system to be installed in Manchester in December will be known as "city delivery" not "free delivery" as commonly called.

THE exceedingly high course of tides the last week has done more or less damage of a minor degree all along the shore such as floating away objects supposed to be above high-water mark, lifting boats from their moorings, and washing floats and walks out of position. The high tides were due to an unusual condition in the astronomical world. On Thursday the sun, moon and earth were in line and the moon was in its nearest approach to the earth. The gravitation pull was therefore exceptional. On Wednesday also it happened that the planet Mars was the nearest to the earth and almost directly in line with the sun and moon, while Saturn was not far from the same line.

Whisperings :: :: Of the Breeze

The term chauffeur literally means "fireman," and before the advent of the automobile it signified, in France, a person who looks after the fire of a forge or a machine a vapeur. There is also, however, another sense in which the word has been employed, suggestive of the American chauffeur's too frequent disregard for his victims. In the French dictionary of Larive et Fleury, the secondary definition is translated as follows: "Chauffeurs, a band of brigands who, during the Revolution and the Restoration, particularly in the West, burned the feet of their victims to make them tell where their money was hidden." The modern chauffeur thus traces his ancestry much further back than most people suppose, his prototype being found in the Reign of Terror.

The newspapers have been making more or less of a joke out of an incident connected with the visit of John Hays Hammond of the Gloucester summer colony and President Taft to the old Leonard copper mines at Helena, Mont., Monday. Mr. Hammond is reputed the greatest mining expert in the world. The attendants did not recognize him in oil skins and sou'wester, and one started to explain the system to him.

"But perhaps you have been in a mine before," suggested the guide.

"Well, I have seen pictures and read about them," replied Mr. Hammond.

The President, who was just ahead on the narrow mule track, carrying a lamp (the others carried candles), heard the conversation and stopped the procession.

"Jack Hammond!" he shouted, "don't get funny this far under ground!"

"Oh, is this Mr. Hammond?" asked the committeeman, hurriedly, "I've often heard of you. Pardon my question."

"That's all right," Mr. Hammond said laughing. "I don't blame you for not recognizing me in this costume."

Jeffrey S. Reed, proprietor of the Beach Street Cafe, Manchester, received a letter through the mail the other day, which ought to make some people in Manchester "sit up and take notice." The letter was from no less prominent a personage than William Jennings Bryan, Democratic candidate of long standing for President of the United States. It was an invitation to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan's 25th wedding anniversary. It might appease the feelings of those more ardent in their efforts for the Nebraska's victory in the past than has been Mr. Reed, to know that it was all a mistake, and that the letter was wrongly addressed. Very plainly was the envelope marked "Major and Mrs. J. S. Read, Manchester, N. H." There being no "Read" or "Reed" answering that description in the New Hampshire city, the postoffice forwarded it to Manchester, Mass. Here there is no "Major J. S. Read," but there is a "Mr. J. S. Reed," and the letter was consequently placed in Mr. Reed's box. The contents of the letter is self-explanatory. It follows: "Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan request the pleasure of your company on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Friday evening, the first of October, nineteen hundred and nine, at eight o'clock, at Fairview, Lincoln, Nebraska. No Presents." Who knows? Mr. Bryan has a pretty long head; he may be playing his cards just right. He may be trying to make a Democrat out of our good friend, the Park Commissioner, so that he will have another hard worker on his side when 1912 rolls around.

MANCHESTER, MASS.,
Sept. 29, 1909.

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear Sir:

I was interested in what you had to say last week about maintaining several mounted police officers at Manchester and at other points along the North Shore in the summer season. I think they would go a long way toward holding the fast-speeding autos under restraint. Bearing on this subject I enclose a short clipping from a New York paper last Sunday.

Very truly yours,
B. C. M.

The clipping referred to in the above communication follows:

"The utility of the mounted police has been strikingly demonstrated on Riverside Drive since the preparations for the Hudson-Fulton celebration began. Automobiles were running at the rate of thirty miles an hour before the mounted men were stationed there, but with blue-coats on duty the scorching has ceased almost completely."

Maurice Fuld, secretary of the New England Dahlia association, is to speak before the North Shore Horticultural society this evening on "Recent Introductions Worth Growing." The society met last Friday evening to proceed to organize according to incorporation requirements, and it is expected that at a special meeting on Friday of next week the organization will be completed.

Commander Crombie of Allen Post 67, G. A. R., will inspect Preston Post of Beverly Farms on the 27th of this month.

The house on the Sacred Heart church property, School street, opposite the new parochial residence, is being moved through Vine street, to a lot on Norwood avenue, extension, midway between Vine and Lincoln streets. Lewis Killam, the owner, has let the house for one year to an in-town party.

Joseph Levin, the Beach street tailor, wishes to announce to his patrons that he will close his shop on the 10th of October. He has had a highly successful season and he takes this method of showing his appreciation to the people of Manchester and the summer residents along the shore, whose patronage made this possible. Mr. Levin conducts a large shop in Peabody and will be glad to see any of his summer patrons there.

A vase of dahlias adorns the editor's desk this morning. The flowers, of most beautiful hue, are from the garden of Captain Thomas Hannable of 28 Butman street, Beverly. Mr. Hannable is a former resident of West Manchester. He owned at one time a greater part of Villa Crest, the W. D. Denegre estate. Now that he is along in years—he is in his 78th year—Mr. Hannable has a cosy little home in the city and one of his chief delights in passing away the time is his flower garden. He is reputed in Beverly of having the finest private garden, for its size, in the city. People very often stop there in passing by in their automobiles to look at the garden, and, perchance, to be presented with a bouquet by Captain Hannable. At this time of year the dahlias are at their best. They are of the very finest colorings, and shapes,—worthy the product of an expert florist. One of the features of the garden just now, aside from the dahlias, is a beautiful bed of bell-shaped lilies. A bank of ferns that bear a red berry serves as a splendid background for the dahlias. There are also some very fine old English ivy vines, bearing a blue berry. Captain Hannable is a G. A. R. man, and he takes much pride in being able to present the "boys" with a vase of flowers for their headquarters occasionally.

BOWLING LEAGUE.

Manchester to Have One This Winter. Will be Organized Early this Month.

Just at present bowling is occupying much attention in the cities and the various bowling teams and leagues are getting together and organizing for the season.

It will interest many to know that steps have been taken to have a bowling league in Manchester this winter and that the league will be organized and the games started probably week after next. Such an organization ought to go far toward breaking the monotony of a long winter in Manchester.

The management of the Seaside Bowling Alleys announce that if such a league is organized they are prepared to offer some handsome trophies. In all probability they will offer handsome silver cups to each of the members of the winning team, at the end of the season; and also to the man having the highest individual score average, for the season, and to the man having the highest 3-string total average for the season. These last two named prizes, of course, can be won only by members of the competing teams.

More in detail will be given later regarding the prizes.

Steps have already been taken to organize teams. It is likely that the S. of V. will have two teams in the league; a team made up of Red Men, will also be organized; then there may be teams representing the K. of C., Business Men; etc., not more than eight teams of five men, in all.

It is not intended to have more than eight teams in the league, and, perhaps, only six. No player can roll on more than one team. Monday and Thursday evenings will probably be decided upon as the league nights, and with one match each of these nights, it will be possible for each team to play once in two weeks. It will also be arranged to devote one or two afternoons a week to team-rolling if so desired.

The arrangements for the formation of the league are in charge of W. R. Bell. Those organizing teams should see him as soon as possible as it is likely there will not be opportunity for all the teams to get into the league.

Americans vs. Greeks.

It was a case of American versus Greek at the Seaside Bowling Alley Wednesday night, and the Americans won out. Not only did they win, but they established a new team record for the local alleys. The total pin fall was 1359. The "Greeks" rolled 1326,—no slow rolling, at that, as anything beyond the 1300 mark may be considered good rolling. The match was an interesting one and was followed throughout Dohahue's Doubled in Size.

Probably no retail merchant in Salem has made greater or more rapid strides toward the top of the ladder than Dan A. Donahue. He has recently built a large addition so that his store is now more than doubled in floor space, and to the regular line of men's and women's ready-to-wear outer garments has been added millinery, infants' wear, muslin underwear, knit underwear, hosiery, corsets, neckwear, etc. Donahue's is now one of the leading department stores of Salem, is large, commodious, well lighted, and its superior cannot be found in Essex County. The grand opening was held last Tuesday.

✕ Magnolia ✕

In one way of looking at it, it sounds good to be able to say "we have no police station at Magnolia." But, is it because there is no need of one? We hope the move made to have a station established here before another season will be carried to a successful end. There ought to be a place where residents could go on matters requiring attention of the police, and where a person might be locked for safe-keeping if the case arose for such, instead of having to send to Gloucester.

Harry C. Foster of Magnolia presided at the county convention held at Lynn this morning.

Jacob Coffman of Ipswich was arrested by Officer White at Magnolia Tuesday for buying junk without a license. Coffman is alleged to have purchased some rubber tires and bottles at Magnolia, and when overhauled by the officer had no license, consequently he was placed under arrest and with his team was taken to the Gloucester police station.

A. W. Colwell, Phm. D., pharmacist with A. M. Lycett & Son, left last Monday for New York City to take in the celebration, after which he returns to Tufts Medical college Boston to resume studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foster returned Saturday from Wells, Me., where they have been visiting relatives. Mr. Foster is a driver at the local engine house.

Charles Brown is enjoying his annual vacation from his duties at the Custom House in Boston, at his home on Magnolia ave.

Miss Friend will open her winter dancing class at the Women's clubhouse on Tuesday, Oct. 12. The children's class will be as before, from four to six o'clock, and the adults from eight to ten o'clock. Miss Friend has planned an especially interesting program for this season.

Both the Men's and Women's clubhouse closed their summer season this week. Both have been highly successful. The membership of the clubs has been practically the same, numbering in each case somewhat over 250. Both clubs have also been self-supporting.

The Women's club has a cash balance after paying all bills and allowing for all fixed charges, of about $60. The Men's club has had an income of about $2900 which will cover all the expenses and the entire interest on the mortgage for this the first year.

John Burchstead.

John Burchstead, one of Beverly Farms' oldest and best known citizens, passed away last Saturday morning at his home on Hale street, corner High street, after an illness extending back over a year. His age was 80 years, 11 months, 8 days.

Mr. Burchstead suffered a slight shock over a year ago, and his health has been growing worse since then. Not until the last week, was his condition serious, however. He had a turn for the worse a week before the end came, and Saturday he passed away as one going to sleep.

Mr. Burchstead was born in Wenham on the 17th of Oct., 1828. He had spent practically his whole life at Beverly Farms. He was a senior deacon of the Beverly Farms Baptist church and was one of the most highly respected citizens in the community. He died in the house where he had lived for the last 40 years.

For a great many years Mr. Burchstead was engaged in the grocery business in Beverly Farms and to those of a generation ago he was a familiar figure driving between Manchester and Beverly Farms.

He was a member of Magnolia Lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., of Manchester, joining the lodge in 1871.

He was twice married, his first wife being Minerva Lee. In 1899 he married Mrs. Mary E. Severance, whose maiden name was Brown. She survives him.

He is also survived by three sons, John A. and George H. of this place, and William L. Burchstead of Newtonville, who is cashier of the Boston Post. There are also four grand children, Geo. L. and Edward of the Farms, and Elizabeth Lee and Florence Louise Burchstead of Newtonville.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Baptist church, the Rev.

Clarence Strong Pond officiating. A large number of relatives and friends attended. The Odd Fellows also held their services at the church.

Doane—Preston.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Lizzie, daughter of Mrs. Charles F. Preston, to Howard Ambrose Doane, took place at 7 o'clock last evening, at the home of the bride's mother on Hale street, Beverly Farms. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, pastor of the Beverly Farms Baptist church. A reception was held in the Chapel of the church from 8 to 9.30. The bride and groom, assisted by Miss Ida Weir of Brookline, the maid of honor, and Frank Preston, brother of the bride, the best man, received a host of relatives and friends, many of whom came from out-of-town.

The ushers were Edwin L. Pride, W. T. Chapman, Charles E. Ober, Herman McDonald and Howard Preston. Mrs. Hooper R. Shaw of Marblehead and Mrs. Arthur Hawkins presided at the refreshments table. Those who served were Mrs. E. Fred Day, Mrs. Benj. F. Hawkins, Mrs. J. Albert Mayberry, the Misses Annie Kemp Holmes, Alice Bolam, Carrie Davis, Bertha Carpenter and Rebecca Bruerton. The last two were former teachers at the Farms school, where the bride also taught.

Just before the happy couple left for their honeymoon they were showered from the chapel balcony.

The popularity of the couple was well attested by numerous beautiful and costly wedding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Doane will live in apartments in the upper portion of Mrs. Preston's house. The Breeze joins in wishing the happy couple a long life of nuptial bliss and happiness.

Tomorrow noon at 12.30 at the Episcopal church on Masconomo street, Manchester, the marriage of Miss Mary Eliot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amory Eliot of Manchester, and Richard Sears Lovering, Harvard, '08, will be solemnized. Miss Rosamond Eliot will be her sister's maid of honor, and Joseph Sears Lovering will be his brother's best man.

Miss Helen Hooper, after a few weeks more at her West Manchester home, will open the town house on Beacon street for the winter. This would have been her debutante year, but she does not wish to be presented until next winter. She will entertain, however, quietly later in the season. Mrs. Horton, who was a former companion for Miss Katherine Roosevelt at her country house in Dover before she became Mrs. Stanley Reeve, will occupy the same position this winter with Miss Hooper.

Commenting on possible yachting events for the 1910 season the Boston Herald last Sunday said that "It is also possible that arrangements may be made for a series of races at Manchester for the Seawanhaka cup, which is now held by the Manchester Yacht club. It was understood that there was a challenge ready by the Canadians, but that they held off this year because of the sonder klasse races at Marblehead. It is believed, however, that they will not let the cup stay with the Manchester Yacht club undefended, and there is a strong possibility of something doing in that quarter before the winter months are over."

The scratch singles tennis tournament at Longwood last week, in which so many of the North Shore girls played, was won Saturday by Miss Evelyn Sears, but in the challenge match, Miss Sears lost to Mrs. Barger-Wallach. In the mixed doubles Monday Miss Eleanora Sears and Beals C. Wright beat Miss Marion Fenno and H. I. Foster.

The latest announcement of interest to North Shore people was that last week of Miss Julia Coolidge and Henry Richards. Miss Coolidge is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, jr., of Brookline and Manchester.

❖ Society Notes ❖

There have been many departures from Manchester shore the last week. The unusually good weather, though, is holding many families back from the city, that ordinarily leave here by the first of October.

The W. J. Boardmans have returned to their home in Washington.

Henry S. Grew, 2d, and family, closed their cottage at West Manchester, Monday, and returned to Boston.

Two of the embassies left this week. Ambassador Nabucco and family of Brazil, who have passed a delightful summer at the Kimball cottage, Masconomo street, left Monday. The First secretary Mr. Kelsch, and Counsellor, Mr. Silva, who have had a cottage on Pine street, left the same day.

Baron Louis Ambrozy and the other connections of the Austro-Hungary legation, left Tuesday for Washington.

Richard H. Dana and family returned to their Cambridge home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Mason left Manchester Wednesday for their Boston home, 14 Gloucester street.

James Childs and family and the Thomas M. Cooks returned to Pittsburg this week.

The Eliot Sumners left yesterday for their Baltimore home.

Mrs. W. H. Lewis is leaving Manchester tomorrow for her New York home. Her daughter, Mrs. Stoughton Bell and Mr. Bell will remain another week.

The Misses Bartlett are leaving Manchester the latter part of next week for their Boston home. Their brother, Nelson S. Bartlett, intends to spend most of the winter in Manchester, and will move from his own cottage on Smith's Point to that of his sisters, while improvements are being made at his own place.

Miss Helen Read of Manchester, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Gladys French and Albert Ellis Harding, in the First Unitarian church, Canton, Wednesday afternoon.

Francis R. Spaulding has returned from Europe, though it is understood he will not live at his West Manchester estate this winter. Mrs. Spaulding and the two sons may live abroad this winter.

❖ Society Notes ❖

Manchester has been in the lime-light more or less the last week, and has been mentioned in the press throughout the country in connection with the Cook-Peary pole controversy, because of the visit here of Harry Whitney of New Haven, the wealthy young hunter, to whom Cook gave his instruments before starting from Etah on the way to civilization. Mr. Whitney came up from Labrador and by rail from Cape Breton. When he reached Salem last Friday night he left the train instead of passing on to Boston, as was expected. He was met at the Salem station by Walter J. Mitchell and was brought over to Manchester by auto, where he spend a few days resting. He was a guest while here of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell. Monday Mr. Mitchell motored as far as New Bedford with him and from there Mr. Whitney went to his home in New Haven.

Gordon Abbott and family have closed their summer home at West Manchester, and are using the small cottage on the estate—the Borland cottage, occupied this summer by Mr. Abbott's mother, Mrs. Jere Abbott, to spend part of the autumn and week-ends later on. Part of the family has returned to town so that the children might attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, son and daughter, who have been spending a fortnight on the North Shore, with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and family at Pride's Crossing, left last Sunday for Washington. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Howard have been spending part of this week in New York and from there they went on to Washington where Mrs. Moore is establishing her daughter, Miss Frances Moore, in school. She is returning to Pride's Crossing the latter part of next week. Mr. Moore is cub hunting in Maryland. He has two packs of hounds this year. His string of ten hunters were shipped on to Kensington, Md., which is only eight miles outside of Washington, on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Moore is master of the Chevey Chase and he is spending four days a week on the hunt, two days after live fox and two days after the drag. He is getting in trim for the real "hunts" which start next month.

"Manchester is Fast Reaching the Danger Point and Should Take Up the Matter of Sewage in Season," says Prof. Sedgewick.

A meeting of persons interested in the disposal of the sewage of Manchester was held at W. L. Putnam's, Smith's Point, Manchester, last Friday afternoon. Dr. George H. Washburn presided and pointed out the bad condition of the pond and the great danger that the flats would become polluted and illness would result.

Professor Sedgewick of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said that the introduction of town water and the increase of population leads everywhere to the need of sewage. He told of other seashore places which had been and were now being forced to take vigorous steps to keep their harbors and beaches clean and wholesome.

Manchester is fast reaching the danger point and should take up the matter in season and deal with it in a permanent fashion, he said. He spoke of the Blackstone river at Worcester, which became a public sewer pure and simple, or rather, impure and complex, so that the State had to require that city by law to dispose of its sewage otherwise; and he warned us against permitting our brook and pond and river to get into such condition as that.

Looking at the question from a financial standpoint he said that any suspicion that the sewage conditions were defective would deter tenants and purchasers from coming here and greatly check prosperity.

From an æsthetic standpoint the gradual silting of polluted mud onto the flats will in time give them a yellow color and a disagreeable odor, not unlike that of rotten eggs.

But most of all, from the point of view of health, we are running the risk of an epidemic of typhoid fever or other disease which may come upon us suddenly so long as conditions remains as they now are. He said that although the flow of salt water in the harbor was a great cleanser, yet the limit of its cleansing capacity could readily be reached, it could be given more sewage than it could digest, and that if the flats were once polluted it would be very difficult and expensive to purify them.

If a suitable location for a filter bed or sewage garden could be found that would probably be the best means of solving the problem, but the situation should be thoroughly studied by a competent expert.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Geo. N. Black, B. A. Beal, Mrs. Bradbury, P. H. Boyle, Mrs. G. W. Blaisdell, Miss A. G. Thayer, Mrs. Greeley S. Curtis, Mrs. Hopkinson, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tyson, Dr. R. T. Glendenning, Dr. W. H. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. George Warren, Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Merrill, Miss Katharine Loring, Miss Louisa Loring, A. M. Merriam, Geo. R. White, Miss Sturgis, J. F. Rabardy and Mrs. Hemenaway. Letters were also received from others expressing their great interest.

Civil Service Examinations for Postal Clerks Tomorrow.

Twenty-two applications were received, that were eligible to take the examination to be held tomorrow, Saturday morning, for postal carriers for Manchester's new service to be installed the first of December. The examination will be held at the High school at 9.30 o'clock and will be in charge of E. L. Reynolds, an assistant secretary of the commission.

N. S. H. S. Notes.

"Novelties and Their Value" was the subject of a very interesting talk by Morris Fuld of Boston, before the members of the North Shore Horticultural society at their meeting last Friday evening.

Ten years ago, said Mr. Fuld, novelties were a great drawing card and were often described beyond truth. He decried the standard of value set by horticultural societies, based on exhibition table judging, and mentioned the large gold medal dahlia as an example. This had no stem to hold it and it was therefore worthless except for the exhibition table. He urged the gardeners, however, to wake up to the opportunities to gain glory and, perhaps, ducats in the production of novelties. He spoke of how the hybridizers of today were everything but gardeners by training. They were journalists, barber, mineralogist, shoemaker, groceryman, carpenter, clerk. Why not the men trained in the growing of plants!

The speaker was of the opinion that there was a limit of size to which flowers may be bred. Color, he said, is the first requirement in a novelty. One color may go well in Newport, but it may not find favor in Brookline. Find out what is needed in a plant and work to produce it. "Cactus dahlias are perfect, but they need not be bred with stiff stems."

The incorporation of the society is progressing as favorable as can be expected. At the special meeting held for this purpose two weeks ago John D. Morrison was chosen clerk and most of the by-laws were adopted. Tonight another special meeting will be held and it is expected that the balance of the business will be transacted and that the papers will be ready for the incorporation commissioners.

Under the auspices of the society a stereopticon lecture will be given in the Town hall, Manchester, next Friday evening, Oct. 15, at 7.30 o'clock, by Prof. E. H. Forbush, state ornithologist. His subject will be "Birds and Their Work," in the destruction of insects, weeds, etc. The public is invited. No charge will be made.

The Greatest Food Fair with Greatest List of Free Attractions Ever Held in Boston.

It must not be forgotten that every one on the great list of attractions at the World's Greatest Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exposition now being held in Mechanics Building, are free to all patrons. These attractions include the celebrated old time circus of J. W. Gorman where one can enjoy the very finest of arena acts in an environment which seems like the real thing in the circus line. For the week the acts to be seen here include bareback equestrian feats by the great De Mott, for several years the champion rider of the Barnum & Bailey circus; acts also upon horseback by the dashing Mlle Elise; educated ponies and dogs of Torelli's school; Yager and Kemp, the acrobatic comedians; Maximo, king of the wire; the De Motts in a double carrying act on horseback; Cora, a very pretty girl on the flying rings; White and Eager, white faced clowns especially engaged to make the children happy; Maud, the famous "Hee-Haw" mule who sends everybody away in a right merry mood; and many others. Prof. Walberti is the ring master.

There are many other free attractions such as the daily concerts by the famous band of Marco Vessella with its fifty talented musicians; the concerts by the students from Booker T. Washington's Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama, and the exhibition of the wireless telephone.

Society Notes

Judge W. H. Moore did not send any of his horses over to the Brockton Fair this week. He is spending much time now-a-days on his training track at Pride's Crossing getting ready for the New York horse show next month. The beautiful appearance of Judge Moore's training track, and all his adjoining estate, always kept in first-class condition, is the object of much favorable comment by tourists down the North Shore.

One of the merriest events of the early autumn was the "paper chase" last Monday week run off through the efforts of Mrs. G. S. Mandell, for the younger members of the colony. The meeting point was at Iron Railings, in Hamilton. There were 38 in the field. It was a most glorious sport. Sam Mandell and Willie Simpkins laid the drag, which carried the hunters for a ten-mile run. The start was made at 10 o'clock, and the finish was at the Montserrat club at 11.45, where lemonade and light refreshments were served. This was the second chase given, the first one being the week before, starting at the Montserrat station, and finishing at the club.

The German embassy will leave Beverly Farms the latter part of next week for Washington.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Somebody has been explaining to President Taft the origin of the name "Myopia" for the famous hunt club at Hamilton. Doubtless a great many other people than the president have wondered about the origin of the name, which seems a strange one for a sporting organization, in as much as the word means "near-sighted."

This is the way President Taft tells about it:

"People sometimes inquire why this club has the name 'Myopia.' I've heard a story that one of the founders, an eminent Bostonian, was near-sighted. So they concluded to name it after him, and Myopia it became. I've heard another story that a Western man was being driven over here by a New England liveryman, and pointing to the clubhouse he asked its name. 'That, sir,' replied the liveryman, 'is Myopia. Myopia is from the Greek and means near-sighted or short-sighted.' 'Here,' said the Westerner, 'you take my seat and let me drive. It's more fitting.'"

Winter Schedule of Trains.

The change of time on the B. and M. went into effect last Monday morning, but the Gloucester branch seems to have suffered very little by the adoption of the winter schedule. Only one train has been discontinued, and that is the Saturday special, leaving Boston at 1.15, and returning leaving Rockport shortly before three. The only other change of importance is in the time of the 5 o'clock from Boston. This summer, while the Gloucester special was running, this train left Boston at 5.09. With the suspension of the special, the regular drops back to 5 o'clock. The early evening train to Boston also leaves seven minutes later.

Keith's Theatre.

That Annete Kellermann still continues to be vaudeville's biggest attraction is shown by the wonderful interest manifested in her at Keith's during the week. Miss Kellermann's diving has a fascination about it that is hard to explain. When she comes out of the water it is easy to understand how Professor Sargent of Harvard came to pronounce her the "perfect woman." Another remarkable feature about her act is that everything is in such good taste, from the time she appears in a natty costume to give an exhibition of diabolio until she has finished with her "Australian splash."

In remaining for a second week Miss Kellermann heads a splendid all-round vaudeville bill, on which there will be another bright particular star in the person of Louise Dresser, who has forsaken musical comedy and entered vaudeville with what is considered one of the brightest singing and musical acts that has been given in years. Miss Dresser has been particularly fortunate in the selection of songs, and she is singing several that are becoming instantaneous hits.

Another big musical number will be given by Homer Lind & Company. This is a sketch in which the music is rendered in the most interesting manner.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The contract for building a group of buildings for Sidney L. Hutchinson on his newly-purchased property at Beverly Farms, has been awarded to Publicover Bros., of that place. The buildings will include gardener's cottage, garage and stable, and in the upper portion of the stable,—a tenement for the coachman. The work was started Monday of this week, the contract for the foundations and stone work having been given to D. Linehan & Son of Pride's Crossing. The buildings will be quite artistic in design and in perfect keeping with the adjoining property and with the residence of Mr. Hutchinson, across the street. The first story will be of stone and the rest of the buildings will be of wood.

The buildings will face Beach street, which runs off West street, about opposite the avenue leading to the residence, which, in turn, is on the beach bank, the first of the houses along West Beach, on the easterly end. The low land on the westerly side of West street, and between that and the railroad has been cleared and extensive improvements have been in process there all summer. The course of the brook running through the marshy land has been changed, much drainage pipe has been put in, a beautiful garden was started last spring, and much more along this line will be done later. And now, as a further step in improving the hitherto wasted land, a group of building will be constructed. The group will be 114 feet long and 78 feet wide. The gardener's cottage is on the end facing West street. Arnold H. Moses of Philadelphia is the architect. This is part of what was known as the Preston estate.

Mr. Pierce of the Pierce Nursery, Beverly Farms, has been awarded the contract of planting the entire grounds of the Wilkins estate, at the Pump Cottage, Beverly Farms.

William Hoare is having an addition built to the rear portion of his residence on School street, Manchester. The addition includes a kitchen and a laundry.

An addition of several rooms is being built to the Larcom cottage, near Lee Crossing, at Beverly Farms. Roberts & Hoare are doing the work.

✠ Manchester ✠

A quiet home wedding took place Monday, Oct. 4, at 24 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. S. E. Knight, the contracting parties being Edward W. Ayers and C. Jessie Hall, both of Manchester. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Bakeman, pastor of the First Baptist church of Chelsea. Mr. and Mrs. Ayers will live on Pine street, Manchester.

The Manchester fire department was called out about six o'clock last evening by a double alarm, one being sent in from the telephone exchange and the other from the central station. There was a bonfire on the rear of the Walsh property on Pine street, and some one seeing the reflection telephoned for the department, thinking a house was on fire. Substitute driver Lomasney, who is taking care of the fire horses in Driver Chadwick's absence, got away in quick shape and was at the scene of the supposed conflagration four minutes after the alarm was sent in, but all the department could do was to turn around and come back.

Several Manchester people have received cards the last week for the wedding on Wednesday the 20th of this month, at Stepney, Conn., of Miss Ellen Bridle, daughter of Mrs. Jane Eliza Taylor, to Arthur Johnson Hull. The ceremony will be performed at one o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church of that place, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride. Mr. Hull, it will be recalled, was principal of the G. A. Priest school some ten years ago. After leaving here he attended the Law School at Yale, and after graduation from there he took up the practice of law at Bridgeport, Conn. He has been quite successful. He was elected a member of the General Court of that state several years ago.

George Gould was given a "send off" last Friday evening by the members of the Carpenters' Union, and on Wednesday evening he was given another farewell by the members of the Red Men. At the meeting of the carpenters there were some 50 members present. A collation was served after the business meeting, and singing and informal speechmaking was indulged in. The Red Men at their meeting Wednesday evening presented Bro. Gould, who has served the tribe so faithfully as collector, with a beautiful past sashem's jewel. A collation was served. Mr. Gould is leaving Manchester next week and within a few weeks he will start for Oakland, Cal., where he will live in the future.

Business Note.

John F. Scott, who has been in the employ of R. Robertson & Co., the well known North Shore plumbing concern, for the last 17 years, the last two years as manager of their Manchester branch, has leased a shop in the Post-office block, Beach street, Manchester, and has established himself in the plumbing and heating business under the title of "John F. Scott, Plumber, Sanitary and Heating Engineer."

Seventeen years of continual service with one concern, during which time he has superintended many of the largest contracts in his line along the North Shore, is sufficient proof of his ability, and ought to show that he is fully qualified to attend to any future business that may come his way.

Mr. Scott and family make their home in Manchester, and have made many friends since coming here.

We join with his many friends in wishing Mr. Scott success in his new venture.

Objects to Tax.

Ernest W. Longfellow, a summer resident at Coolidge's Point, claims he has been illegally taxed by the town of Manchester for 1908 and 1909 to the amount of $1021, and brought suit in the U. S. circuit court for an injunction against the town tax collector Edwin P. Stanley, to restrain him from attempting to collect the tax, and to restrain the assessors from taxing him in the future.

Longfellow claims his domicile is, and has been since 1884 in New York city, and that he was not a legal resident of Manchester.

The tax collector, he declares, threatens to enforce the payment of the taxes, and that is why he is after an injunction against him. The assessors levied a poll tax in each year, besides a personal tax of $500 in 1908 and $517 in 1909. They did not specify, he says, what the

The town, meanwhile, through its counsel, W. O. Underwood had entered a suit against Mr. Longfellow for the collection of taxes for these two years. The town suit was entered one and a half hours before the suit in the U. S. court, and the town's suit will naturally be the first to be taken up.

Mrs. Jennett K. Smith.

She was a native of Manchester, being a daughter of the late John Collins. She married a Manchester man, Frank E. Smith, a son of Mrs. Julius F. Rabardy by her first husband, and a brother of Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd. Besides a husband, two sons and a daughter, she is survived by a sister and a brother in Salem, and a brother in Boston. Funeral services were held this afternoon in Salem, and the body was brought to Manchester for burial in the family lot at Rosedale cemetery.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLIV.

The interest in the bi-centenary of Samuel Johnson is evidence of the lasting influence of a great personality; the colossus of English letters of the 18th century was not a great biographer, or a great essayist, or even a great dictionary maker, but take him for all in all he was a great man; he was an illustration that a man may be more than his work; he so impressed himself upon his age that while his writings may now be little read, he himself, sturdy, forceful, dogmatic, rough yet kind, is little likely to be forgotten.

With all the skill of our modern gardeners, and with all the wealth that they often have at command, one would go far to see a garden of such princely proportions, artistic design and floral splendor, as Bacon plans for. Indeed, that wise man and large observer seemed to consider a garden one of the highest of human achievements, as he says, "when ages grow to civility and elegance, men come to build stately sooner than to garden finely." One sometimes wonders whether our gardeners might not get some useful hints from the great philosopher and "secretary of all learning" in his essay "Of Gardens;" that scholar-statesman, that man of courts and universities, could write as magnificently and instructively upon gardens as upon empire and law.

Thomas Hughes of "Tom Brown's School-days" was certainly not one of the greatest writers of the 19th century, but he was certainly one of the brightest and best. His patriotism, his picturesque, his insight into boy nature, his knowledge of school and college life in England, together with his high ideals, have given him an honorable place among English authors, that should make room for his books on a boy's or young man's shelves. "The Manliness of Christ" has a serious and lofty purpose and a chastened and beautiful style.

One sometimes feels inclined pathetically to appeal in Tennysonian numbers to some writers, lecturers and preachers to "come down from yonder mountain height," and to "cease to move so near the Heavens." In fact, many public teachers in their desire to appear learned, get above the clouds to most of us though that is not necessarily getting near the Heavens.

That a traffic so harmful as the drink traffic and a habit so deleterious as the drink habit, should assume in these days of advanced civilization such enormous proportions, and so entrench themselves in social customs, as to stagger and non-plus the wisest minds in their attempts at a solution of the problem they present, is one of the mysteries of the age in which we live.

And this is just as true of war, that fell enemy of human peace and happiness; what infatuation has seized upon men and nations that they are content to be tyrannized by such demonic forces of evil?

If we cannot effect anything otherwise in the way of reforming society and abolishing such evils—and others might be included, as the Congo atrocities, the forced labor in the Portuguese cocoa islands, the opium curse, the white slave traffic,—we can at least enter our protest, or as the Friends say, bear our testimony against them.

And if the public conscience could only be thoroughly aroused and energized, how many evils would vanish from the earth, as ghosts are said to disappear when they sniff the morning air.

After all, it is the few and not the many, who have generally started, if not carried through, the great movements that have served to elevate the race and caused the world to sweep into the younger day.

Supplies Sent by Manchester People Greatly Appreciated in Mexico.

Philip C. Hanna, consul general at Monterey, Mexico, has sent the following letter to a member of the Manchester Board of Red Cross, which shows the appreciation with which the supplies forwarded from here several weeks ago are received. The letter is self-explanatory:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your esteemed favor of Sept. 23, in which you inform me that you are sending two boxes of clothing, from the local Branch of the American National Red Cross, for the relief of the flood sufferers of this part of Mexico. In behalf of these unfortunate people I wish to thank you for this contribution of supplies and to assure you that to the best of my ability the same will be distributed to those who are most worthy and needy. The cold winter is coming on and it will find many of these people very delicate and destitute, and these towns need all the clothes and food that come in. Again thanking you, and through you the local Branch of the Red Cross, I have the honor to be

Your friend and obedient servant,
PHILIP C. HANNA,
Consul General, Monterey, Mexico."

Tolman of Gloucester Named for Senator.

Hollis Street Theatre.

William Collier opened his Boston engagement Monday evening at the Hollis Street Theatre in "The Patriot," the three-act farce in which he kept New York audiences laughing all of last season. The Boston critics were unanimous in their praise of Manager Charles Frohman's brilliant star and the clever players in his supporting company, and agreed that Mr. Collier and "The Patriot" were the most successful laugh-raisers of many seasons.

Manchester Bowling League, with Eight Teams, Starts Season Next Monday

Manchester is to have a rattling good bowling league this winter, the outline of the plan for a league printed in last week's BREEZE meeting with much favor. Eight teams compose the league and the games will be started next Monday evening. It was first thought the league would play two nights a week but the demand seems to be for three nights, consequently Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights will be league nights. It will be seen, therefore, that each of the teams in the league will have an opportunity to play once in each four nights of playing. The schedule for the first two months, from Oct. 11 to Dec. 13, is printed with this article.

The league opens its season next

Monday evening with a match between the S. of V. and the Regals, a team captained by Austin Jones. On Wednesday, the Red Men and the K. of C. meet, and on Friday the Business Men's team and the Gardener's will play, and the last match of the first round will be played on the following Monday night between the Speed Boys and the Greek team.

The matches will start each night promptly at 7.30. Each team will be privileged to have two substitutes and these may play on any night when the members of the regular team are not present. In accordance with regular league regulations if only four members of a team are present when the match starts, including the substitutes, the four men shall play, and the score of the lowest man on the team that night shall be given as the score of an imaginary fifth man. If only three men are present, the game shall be forfeited. It cannot be played off on another night.

The percentage will be figured on a basis of points, with four points to a match. That is, each of the three strings represent one point, and the total pinfall represents the fourth point.

A record of the games will be printed each week in the BREEZE, and the standing of the eight teams will be given.

Below is the schedule of matches for a portion of the season:

Manchester Woman's Club.

The first meeting for this season of the Manchester Woman's club, was held Tuesday afternoon of this week, and was largely attended. Mrs. May Alden Ward of Boston was the speaker. She gave a delightfully interesting talk on Current Events, reviewing in a general way the history-making events of the last six months. She said that more events have taken place of vital importance in the last half year, than in any other similar period in history. She spoke of the tariff bill which has been before this country, of the bill in general and of the prolonged legislation in connection with it, necessitated by the introduction of some 487 amendments to the original document. She spoke of some of the vital features of the bill, such as corporation tax, the amendment to the constitution providing for income tax, and she alluded, too, to the "insurgent republicans."

The tendency to adopt constitutional form of government, and of the revolutionary conditions abroad, the Persian trouble, and the Turkish trouble, and the rebellion in Morocco were dealt upon, respectively. Another event spoken of was the trouble in Crete. The wonderful strike in Sweden was another phase considered.

The development in science,—the flying machine, the aeroplane and the consequent possibility of a change in warfare, was alluded to. The English "budget" was also discussed.

Prior to the talk by Mrs. Ward resolutions were adopted on the death of the late Mrs. Charles Head, and a committee was appointed to frame resolutions on the death of another member, Mrs. J. W. Carter. Miss Annie Lane rendered a selection on the piano.

After the talk Miss Lila Goldsmith for the civics committee reported the success of the stamp-saving by the children last year. The total amount deposited by the children had been $375.-89, of which $268.44 had been withdrawn, leaving a balance of $107.45.

Tea was served by the directors. The next meeting will be on the 19th of October.

Mrs. Carrie W. Carter.

After a lingering illness extending over five months, Mrs. Carrie W., wife of Captain John W. Carter, one of Manchester's best known business men, passed away Tuesday morning of this week.

Mrs. Carter was born in Manchester 54 years, 5 months ago, a daughter of the late Henry L. Haskell. She has spent practically her whole life here. She was of a loving and gentle disposition, and essentially a "home body." A large circle of friends and relatives are left to mourn her loss.

She leaves besides a husband, two sons, Leonardo and John, and one daughter, Agnes. Also two brothers, George D. Haskell of Manchester, and Seavey Haskell of Asheville, N. C., and a sister Mrs. Lillian Sawyer of Gloucester.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Crowell Memorial church, the Rev. Louis H. Ruge of the Congregational church, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Knoerr motored to Brockton Wednesday to take in the fair.

Sergt. Leonard Andrews of the police force is taking a ten-days vacation, beginning Wednesday of this week.

The large 38-lb. squash in the window of Bell's combination store is attracting additional attention now, in as much as the firm is giving to every person making a purchase of $3.00 or more the chance to guess on the number of seeds in the squash. The person guessing the nearest will be presented with a fine young turkey "and all that goes with it for their Thanksgiving dinner." The contest closes Nov. 20th.

Within a week two checks for unusually small amounts have been delivered to citizens of Manchester. Mr. William B. Orrill received a check drawn on a Boston bank, and the face value of this check was one cent. The other little check was received by Michael Healey. It is worth five cents to Mr. Healey, and is in payment of a dividend.

In its series of short sketches on "oldest residents," the Boston Post of Monday, had a picture of our beloved old townsman, Librarian D. L. Bingham, who is nearly 95 years old, with the following sketch of his life:

"Born in Manchester, Mr. Bingham has spent most of his life in his native town. When a young man he learned the cabinet maker's trade, at which he worked many years as employer and employee. He also ran wood working machines. Mr. Bingham has been a member of the school committee and has served the town as a member of other committees. For 33 years he has been a trustee of the Manchester Public Library and for 30 years its librarian, holding that office at present; he purchased most of the books on the shelves. He used tobacco when a youth but stopped at the age of 28. His longevity is attributed to a good constitution and a simple, regular life."

Next Friday evening, Oct. 15, D. D. S. G. Mrs. Mary Lucas, and a delegation from William Jeffrey colony, will go to Beverly to install the officers of the colony of Pilgrim Fathers there.

Shakespeare as She is Spoke.

The Shakespeare club of New Orleans was noted for its amateur performances. Once, a social celebrity, gorgeous in the costume of a lord in waiting, was called upon to say: "The Queen has swooned."

As he stepped upon the stage his friends applauded vociferously. Bowing his thanks, he faced the king, and, in a high-pitched voice, said: "The swoon has queened."

There was a roar of laughter. He waited patiently until it had subsided and tried again: "The swoon has cooned."

Again the house roared and the stage manager in a voice that could be heard all over the theatre, said, "Come off you doggoned fool!"

But the ambitious amateur refused to surrender, and in a rasping falsetto, as he was being assisted off the stage, screamed: "The coon has sweened."

✱ Magnolia ✱

While no definite action has yet been taken by the municipal council of the city relative to the movement on the part of Magnolia residents for a small police station in this place, there seems to be a sentiment forming both in favor of and against the proposition. The summer residents of Magnolia who are interested in the matter have agreed to furnish $1000 towards the erection of such a structure. Those who have already pledged amounts are: North Shore Grill, $100; Miss F. Faulkner, $100; Charles E. Phenix, $200; Claude Kilpatrick, $50; Mrs. William McMillan, $50; Miss E. G. Houghton, $50; Mrs. M. S. Jones, $50; Mrs. C. A. Sinclair, $50; Mrs. J. T. Heard, $25; Mrs. L. S. Ayres, $25; E. G. Richardson $25; Charles W. Jones, $25; Miss G. Lowell, $25; S. K. Kennard, $25; J. H. Walker, $25; W. R. Nelson, $25; Mrs. G. M. Morrell, $25; Mrs. A. R. Hayden, $25; Mrs. H. G. Curry, $100.

The matter has progressed to a point where plans have been drawn for such a building as certain parties would like to see erected, and all that remains to carry out the project is the approval and move on the part of the municipal council. The sentiment in Gloucester proper is expressed in the following reference to the matter in the Daily Times Wednesday:

"While the plan looks advisable and furnishes an opportunity for the city to get something by doing something themselves, the question of expense for maintenance and whether the erection of such a building would not ultimately mean the appointment of a permanent keeper or janitor is being considered by some of the members of the municipal council. The comparatively small number of arrests in this section for the past 10 years is another feature that is considered, and whether the installation of a couple of police boxes and perhaps the appointment of an additional officer in that section would not be even more advisable than a police station there for the present."

Officer Walter W. White, who has been doing duty at Magnolia during the summer months, has been transferred to his former beat at Postoffice square, Gloucester, owing to the close of the season here.

Mrs. Delia Barber left Sunday for Brunswick, Me., where she will spend two weeks visiting relatives.

John C. Lycett has accepted a position in Boston for the winter.

Miss Amy Lycett returned Friday from Lynn where she has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Locke.

The annual inspection of Preston Relief corps will take place the first week in November, the inspecting officer being the president of the Gloucester corps. A committee of corps members is busy preparing for a public entertainment to be presented in the near future.

A shark about 15 feet long became ensnared in the fish-weir off West Beach one day this week. Harry Howell towed it to the beach, after fastening a rope around its tail, and tied it to the pier, where it was an object of much interest to those who happened to visit the beach. The story of a 15-ft. shark intruding as near West Beach in mid-summer would have raised havoc with the bathers, probably. To allay any such fears, however, we might say that it is only at this season of the year that the large fish come so near the shore, while chasing schools of young herring, that abound at this time.

THE THISSELL CO., Beverly Farms

Memorial Service.

A memorial service was held at the Beverly Farms Baptist church last Sunday evening for the late Deacon John Burchstead. Mr. Burchstead was born in 1828, he was elected a member of the Farms church 1877, deacon in 1887, and died the 25th of Sept., 1909. He was a man highly respected in the community and during his connection with the church he had always taken a deep and abiding interest in its affairs.

Rev. Clarence Strong Pond presided at the services Sunday evening. Deacon Edwin Pride, who had been elected a deacon at the same time as Deacon Burchstead, was the first to pay tribute to the late brother. He spoke of the splendid qualities of the man and of his sincere and Christianlike attitude during all these years in which they had worked together for the church.

James B. Dow was next called upon. He said among other things that Deacon Burchstead belonged to a generation of stalward and true Christians, and no man had ever doubted his religion.

Willis A. Pride spoke feelingly of Deacon Burchstead's standing in the community, of his strong and sturdy character and of the need of more men like him today. He recalled the removal of the deacon's home from East Wenham to Beverly Farms, years ago and of its being drawn by many yoke of oxen.

The pastor was the last to pay tribute to the memory of Deacon Burchstead. He spoke of the type of Christian for which the departed brother stood and of the loss suffered by the church. He spoke of the faithfulness with which he performed his duties, and gloried in that though his body had departed, memories of his life and good deeds while among us, will be cherished in the minds of the church members and of the community for years to come. The closing prayer was offered by John Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Curtin returned to their home in Stamford, Conn., yesterday, after a week's visit here.

Alderman Robert E. Hodgkins says he will not be a candidate for re-election at the coming fall election. Many of his warm friends have been after the alderman to run for the berth again, but he has decided that he will not seek re-election. Alderman Hodgkins has been a member of the city government for the last nine years, and has served a longer consecutive term than any other in the city. He has served well, and many improvements in Ward 6 have been engineered through him. It is very probable that there will be a contest for the aldermanic seat between Councilman Loring and Councilman Hull. It is understood at the present time that both are to be candidates.

Society Notes

This afternoon Mrs. William H. Taft and her sister, Mrs. Louis T. More, will bid farewell to the North Shore until another summer. They will leave Montserrat on the 5.30 train for Boston on a private Pullman coach, which will be transferred to the New York and Washington express from Boston at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Taft's sojourn on the North Shore has been one of rare pleasure, for she has enjoyed the summer and the beautiful Indian summer of the last few weeks to the fullest. She is looking forward to another season here with the keenest of anticipation. The family will probably be established at Burgess Point by the second week in June.

Samuel B. Dana returned from Beverly Farms to his winter residence at 12 Brimmer street, Boston, this week.

Other Beverly Farms departures this week are the R. S. Warners, the Arthur Meekers, the R. H. Daltons, the Heber R. Bishops, Mrs. Frank Morrison and Mrs. William Littleton. The S. Reed Anthonys plan to close their cottage next Monday.

The German embassy left Beverly Farms Thursday and returned to Washington.

Marquis de Montagliari and family, after a delightful season at Manchester, left Friday morning for New York and after a few days they will go on to Washington, where the Marquis will continue in charge of the Italian legation until the return of the ambassador from Italy. The Marquis and Marchioness Montagliari have entered more into the North Shore society this summer than any of the other legation attaches.

The W. H. Wellingtons, who have occupied the G. M. Morgan estate at Smith's Point, this summer, left for their Boston home this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow have been entertaining during the week E. Royal Tyler of Boston, but who has lived abroad for the last few years. They gave a small dinner at their Manchester Cove residence the first of the week in Mr. Tyler's honor. The Bigelows will remain on the shore until the first of November.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse and son, Francis, are camping in Maine. They will sail within a few weeks for England in time for the hunting season. They will close their Manchester residence and will spend the winter on the other side.

Philip Dexter, Alexander Cochrane and Amory A. Lawrence are three of the five new directors added to the B. and M. directorate at the meeting of the stockholders Wednesday in Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln, who have spent the summer on the other side, were passengers on the Ivernian which docked in Boston Wednesday night. They will probably spend part of the autumn at their Manchester Cove place.

The Amory A. Lawrences have closed their summer home on Hospital Point, Beverly Cove, and returned to Boston. The Robert H. Bancrofts have closed their cottage on Hale street, Beverly, also, and have returned to Boston.

Rev. George Washburn, LL. D., is to give a series of lectures in this season's Lowell Institute course, Boston, on "The Present State of Turkey, and the Eastern Question." Dr. Washburn has given to missionary work in Turkey more than twenty-five years of his life, having been president of Roberts College, Constantinople, and widely recognized as an authority on the history and politics of the European Orient. His lectures will be six in number, on Tuesday and Friday evenings, beginning Oct. 12, and will be delivered in Huntington Hall, Institute of Technology, at eight o'clock in the evening. The different topics of the individual lectures include the development of the Eastern question before the Crimean War, the subsequent political undoing of the agreements of the treaty of Paris, the new treaty of Berlin, the sultan, Abd-ul-Hamid, the three revolutions in Turkey and the probable future of the Ottoman empire. Dr. Washburn has been spending the summer in Manchester with his son, Dr. Geo. H. Washburn. Many of our Boston readers are regular attendants at the Lowell Institute course of lectures.

Society Notes

Mrs. George von L. Meyer and the Misses Meyer had a delightful house party over the last week-end at Hamilton. Among the guests were Miss Elizabeth Philips of Phila., Miss Dorothy Hancock, Miss Elizabeth Lee and several young men, including Harold Vanderbilt. A succession of dances, dinners and theatre parties have made the early autumn especially attractive to those remaining on the shore. The Appleton dance at Ipswich last Friday night was one of the smartest parties of the season and followed by the Lovering-Eliot nuptials Saturday made quite a busy week-end for the younger contingent, especially.

Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth closed her cottage at Manchester today and returned to 188 Beacon street, Boston, for the winter.

A good-sized field participated in the run of the Myopia drag hounds at Ipswich Tuesday afternoon. The throw-in was at the Ipswich trotting park, and the trail of the anise seed led through that town into Hamilton, where the imaginary kill was made. One of the largest fields of the season is expected out Saturday, when the meet is scheduled for the Newburyport fair grounds. Judge William H. Moore of Pride's Crossing, will entertain the party at breakfast at Baldpate Inn.

The Dr. C. A. Porters, Mrs. C. B. Porter and Col. Charles Pierson are among the week's departures from Beverly Farms, for their respective Boston homes.

The George N. Blacks are closing their Manchester cottage next Thursday, and will return to Boston.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth closed her summer home at Mingo beach Thursday, and returned to Cincinnati for the winter. During the summer Mrs. Longworth has entertained the entire family at various times, including Congressman and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Captain de Ceamburn, military attache of the French legation, and the Countess de Chambrun and children, and Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Wallingford and family of Pittsburg.

Society Notes

Many of the North Shore colony went out to South Lincoln last Saturday for the 10th annual horse show of the Middlesex Hunt club held at the estate of A. Henry Higginson. Mr. Higginson by the way, won 12 prizes, incidentally having two falls. Mrs. Larz Anderson won three firsts and one second.

John L. Saltonstall, a well known resident of Ward 4, Beverly, is being urged to allow the use of his name as a candidate for the common council from that Ward at the coming city election. Beverly Cove people are much interested in the move and claim that the Cove section has not had a representative in either branch for a number of years and it is only fair that it should. Mr. Saltonstall, who lives at the Cove, is a heavy taxpayer and has always displayed a keen interest in Beverly affairs. He has taken the matter under consideration and has promised to make a decision within a few days. Augustus P. Loring, jr., another member of the summer colony, is at present a member of the council from Ward 6, and is now a candidate for the board of aldermen.

We note the sign of T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman on the Masconomo House property at Manchester. This means, probably, that this valuable piece of property, which has been on the market for some years, will change hands during the coming year.

M. E. Gorman has sold the Low farm at Essex to Frank Andrews and others who have organized a dairy business. The farm consists of some 65 acres of excellent land. Mr. Andrews was formerly in the milk business in Manchester.

Extensive alterations and an addition is being made to the Cunningham cottage, corner Washington and Summer streets, Manchester. Howard A. Doane is the contractor in charge.

Richardson for Senator.

The third senatorial Democratic convention was held at Ipswich Saturday afternoon, when Frank C. Richardson, Esq., of Essex, was nominated.

Miss Mary Eliot and Richard Sears Lovering Married at Manchester Last Saturday.

The wedding last Saturday of Miss Mary Eliot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amory Eliot of Manchester, and Richard Sears Lovering son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Lovering of Boston, was quite the social event of the autumn on the North Shore.

The ceremony took place at 12.30 at the Emmanuel Episcopal church, Masconomo street, Manchester. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin of beautiful texture, made with a long train, and with this was worn a bridal veil of rare lace, an old family heirloom. She carried a big bouquet of lillies of the valley.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Rosamond Eliot. She was dressed in pale blue silk over which was worn white embroidered muslin. She wore a hat of pale blue, trimmed with ostrich plumes, and she carried a large bunch of roses.

Joseph S. Lovering of Milton was his brother's best man. The ushers were Samuel Eliot, brother of the bride, Charles T. Lovering, jr., brother of the groom, Philip Weld, Dudley L. Pickman, jr., and B. Loring Young, all of Boston, and Charles Morgan and Charles Appleton of New York.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Lawrence. Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann would have officiated had he not been prevented by a sudden illness. Charles Loring, organist at the church, played the wedding marches. The church was attractive in its decorations of flowers and greenery, a single bunch of roses adding a touch of color.

The ceremony was attended by over 150 relatives and friends and nearly 400 guests attended the reception at "Wildwood," the Eliot summer home, after the ceremony. A wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Lovering will make their home at Kendall Green, Weston.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Through the office of T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman the Castle Hill property at Ipswich, one of the largest and grandest estates on the North Shore was sold yesterday to a prominent party whose name we are not at liberty at present to divulge. The property is about 400 acres in extent and has a water frontage of about 4 miles. It is beautifully located, the hill itself commanding one of the grandest views of any place along the Massachusetts shore. This property belonged to the late John Burnham Brown and contains besides a large residence, other buildings such as stable, gardener's cottage, etc. It is understood, however, that the purchaser will build a magnificent summer home on the property and will transform the place into a beauty spot. No finer opportunity for laying out a grand estate is offered anywhere along the shore. The sale is the largest, both in extent, and in property value, that has been transacted on the North Shore for several years.

Title was passed yesterday of the M. B. Mason property on Smith's Point, Manchester, to Boylston A. Beal. The sale was made in the early summer.

Plans have been prepared to make extensive changes and improvements at the summer home of George Cabot, Smith's Point, during the coming winter. It is proposed to cut off the L and move it some twenty feet away and build an addition connecting the two parts. The new addition would include a kitchen, servants' dining room and an ironing room. Two bath rooms will also be put in. The contract for the work has been awarded to Kehoe Bros. of Magnolia. Morley, Flatley & Co. have already started on the foundations.

The contract for the brick and plaster work, and tiling, on the group of buildings to be built on the Sidney Hutchinson estate at Beverly Farms, has been awarded to George S. Sinnicks.

Chester L. Crafts, who recently bought the Mears property, on the corner of School street and Pleasant street extension, Manchester, adjoining his own property on the latter street, has sold the same to Daniel Edgecomb. The house has been removed to the back end of the property. It is Mr. Edgecomb's intention to rent the house.

Daniel Edgecomb has sold to Chester L. Crafts the house lots on Norwood avenue, between the residence of Austin Morley and the James Mulvey property.

VIRTUE.

Time was, the schools of olden time would teach
That virtue and true happiness consist
In duty doing in the state wherein
The Lord hath called us.

Now the teaching is
That happiness doth rather lie in this:
In rising, as we may, above the state
Wherein our birth or circumstance hath stranded us.
Thus Education breeds a discontent,
And unfulfilled ambition sours the mind.

Better it were, through wisdom of the schools,
With chastened mind and judgment clarified
And energy unslacked, to do our best—
To dedicate our powers to highest use
And holiest ends, unmindful of reward
Or station, save approval of the great Taskmaster, guided by his sovran will,
Whose service is both freedom and delight,
And whose rewards are precious and eterne—
In noble deeds well-thought, well-wrought and left
To ultimate fulfillment in his hands;
Who if he may not speak the word, Well Done,
Will say at least, Well Tried.
So wilt thou to thyself and God be true.
What more can angels do?

—JOSEPH A. TORREY.

Real estate and building has taken a decided boom along the Gloucester and Cape Ann shore the last year or so. This last summer at least half a score of future summer residents have bought property and in several instances, work has been started on the erection of summer homes.

General Anson Mills, U. S. A., retired, is one of those who have plans out for a new home. The plans call for a structure of Mexican or mission design, 92 by 32 feet, containing 25 rooms. The building is to be strictly fire-proof throughout and not a particle of wood of any kind will enter into its construction. It will be built of terra cotta blocks and plastered inside and out. The roof and floors will be of the same material and the roof will be tile covered. It is to be fitted with all the most modern conveniences and will be heated throughout the same as a city home, as it is the intention of the owner to occupy it until late in the season, into November at least. It will be two and a half stories in height and the view from the piazzas will be unsurpassed. The house will be located on the back shore at Eastern Point, facing the ocean. Ezra L. Phillips is the architect.

Among others who have purchased property on the Bass Rocks and East Gloucester shore are Judge Gray of New York, who is to have a summer home built during the coming winter.

William Taft of Arlington, a former well known Bass Rocks summer resident, has transferred his affections to Eastern Point, and has purchased some property in that locality.

Dr. James H. Knowles will erect another cottage on his newly acquired lot near his present summer residence.

Small lots have been sold to Mr. Spann of Baltimore, a Hawthorne Inn guest, and Miss Edith Weld, a cousin of Mrs. Henry W. Elliot of St. Louis, whose summer home has been in this section of Eastern Point for a number of years.

It is rumored that a syndicate headed by the persons controlling the Oceanside hotel at Magnolia, is negotiating to purchase considerable property through the section between Magnolia and West Gloucester. It is said that the syndicate is seeking, among other things, to purchase all the land around the Magnolia pond, so-called, one of the ponds formerly owned by Wm. A. Homans, the ice-man. The tract is a large one, extending from Hesperus avenue back into the woods quite a distance and with the building of a modern road along Hesperus avenue it is claimed that its development properties are sure to stand out prominently.

Warren Crombie, while taking a spin on his motor cycle Sunday, had a close call from serious accident at Beverly. He was riding along Hale street, near Lothrop, when an auto in front of him made a short turn into Lothrop street. The two machines came together and the Manchester young man was thrown to the ground by the impact. The occupants of the auto, which was a North Adams machine, did all they could for Mr. Crombie, taking his cycle to Kilham's bicycle shop where the injuries, consisting only of bent forks, were repaired.

Unless a special town meeting is called and an appropriation is made the customary, and necessary fall work on the destruction of moth nests, will have to be abandoned this fall. There is no money left from the appropriation made last March to carry on the work. John D. Morrison, the superintendent, is the only one employed at the work at present. The state work is being carried on.

An alarm from Box 34,—near Boyle's stable—at 2.15 Wednesday afternoon summoned the fire department to the Joseph Katon house on Forest street. The "all out" was sounded within a few minutes, however. It appears that some paper was stuffed into a chimney. Under the hole was a basket of clothes. In some manner the paper caught fire and in turn the basket of clothes was set fire. A bucket or two of water from a nearby faucet sufficed to quench the flames, but the fire alarm was sounded in the meanwhile.

Walter L. Harris, treasurer of the Holyoke Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Salem, completed 40 years' service with the company, Sept. 29. That the years have been faithful ones goes without saying and that, furthermore, those services have been appreciated, is evidenced by the fact that when Mr. Harris reached his home on Essex street the afternoon of the anniversary he found awaiting him there a beautiful silver service from the directors of the company. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are well known in Manchester. Mrs. Harris was formerly Hattie Kimball, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Kimball.

Sarah A. Wheaton.

Miss Sarah A. Wheaton, passed away at 12.30 this morning, Oct. 15, after an illness of several months. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the Crowell Memorial chapel. The Rev. L. H. Ruge will officiate.

Miss Wheaton was born in Manchester, March 2, 1846, a daughter of the late William E. and Sarah A. Wheaton. She had spent a greater part of her life in the west. She went to Denver in 1877 to live with her sister, Mrs. Samuel Leach. She returned to Manchester in 1902, and has since made her home most of the time with her sister, Mrs. William H. Tappan. Besides these two sisters she is survived by another sister, Mrs. Mary W. Cromwell of Los Angeles, Cal., and a brother, Postmaster Samuel L. Wheaton of this town.

Miss Wheaton was 63 years of age last March. She had been ailing of an incurable malady for the last two years, and for the last eight weeks she had been confined to her bed. She was of a quiet disposition and to those who were favored by her acquaintance she always proved a staunch friend. She was affiliated with the Episcopal church at Denver, Col.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Fernand Martin, in the loss of his little ten-year-old daughter, Isabelle Martin, who passed away at the Beverly Hospital early Thursday. She had been taken to the hospital a week previous and was operated upon the first part of this week. Though she had the very best of care the operation was of such a nature that her life could not be saved. She was a beautiful child. Her age was ten years, nine months, 24 days. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart church at 10 o'clock. She leaves besides a father, a younger sister, and a grandmother, with whom she made her home on Bennett street. Mr. Martin is well known in Manchester, having been for many years chef in the family of the late R. C. Hooper at West Manchester and Boston.

Remarks were made by Edwin O. Foster, supreme governor, Mrs. McLaughlin, D. S. G., Charles E. Colburn, D. S., of Swampscott, Willard B. Publicover, D. S. G., James McLaughlin, D. S., and Gov. There was a great deal of commotion in the center of the town Monday night, loud bellowings being heard, as if someone were dying. Dennis Hurley was being arrested for drunkenness, after the theatre train came in. Hurley pleaded not guilty at the district court in Salem Tuesday morning. He admitted having a few drinks, but said that he was not drunk. He accounted for the fact that he resisted and fought the officer by stating that he "had a shock in his left leg which made him blind in the right eye, so that was the reason he couldn't go along with the officers, as he couldn't see and had to be dragged." "Couldn't the officers have led you?" asked the judge. Hurly was found guilty and fined $5.

Tonight in the Town hall a stereopticon lecture on Birds will be given by State Ornithologist Forbush. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Horticultural society, and will be free. CAREFUL investigation during nearly two and a half years has convinced the members of the Executive Committee of the Safe Roads Automobile Association that a large number of automobile accidents are due directly to failure on the part of operators approaching "blind" corners and curves, especially in the country where the average speed is higher than in cities and towns, to sound a warning signal, as is now required by acts of 1909, chap. 534, sect. 14—"upon approaching an intersecting way or a curve or corner in a way where the operator's view is obstructed, every person operating a motor vehicle shall slow down and give a timely signal with his bell, horn or other device for signaling."

Many skilful operators do not signal, in the misguided belief that it is an admission of want of skill on their part, while in fact it is merely an evidence of careful and decent driving. An accident at Beverly last Sunday, in which a Manchester young man on a motor cycle, was slightly injured, is a case in point.

SUMMER is at an end, autumn was ushered in this week. On the whole the summer just closed has been an ideal one, marked by even temperatures, normal rainfalls and but few storms. The average temperatures for the three months, beginning June 21, when the summer season opened, and just ended, compare favorably with those of the previous summer, and with the exception of the month of July the averages were approximately the same. The summer has not been marked by a great number of excessively hot days. There were but 20 days during the entire season when the thermometer reached 85 or more and but 11 when it climbed higher than 90. There were but four days in June, four in July and three in August the mercury went above 90. The hottest day of the season was July 30, when the mercury registered 95. September 20 was the coldest, the mercury dropping to 46.

THE attention of our readers is directed to a poem from the pen of Rev. Robert Bennett, of loving memory to the parish of the Baptist church, Beverly Farms, which he ministered unto faithfully some years ago. The poem is given the precedence under the caption "Bright Poems to Remember" in Will Carlton's Magazine, Everywhere, for September. Dr. Bennett's command of words, and fluency, has always been appreciated by those who knew him. All are pleased to read the color study of the poppy in verse, "The Glory of the Poppies." He should commune with the muse again and give us more of the same worth.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

What the Lookout in the Gloucester Times says of the delightful scenery in that section of the shore, is applicable to all sections of the North Shore just now. "Them's my sentiments, too."

"A ride or walk down through Fresh Water Cove and on to Magnolia is replete with interest this charming autumn weather, and many are availing themselves of its numerous privileges. The autumn foliage is now donning its many colored hues, showing daily additional beauties which delight the eye and well repay a visit to the grand old woods. Last Sunday proved a rare specimen of an Indian summer day and the bright sunshine and crisp air invited a large delegation out of doors, where they enjoyed the breathing of life-giving air and revelled in the grand pictures which the autumn foliage spreads out before them.

"Old ocean was in its most tender mood, calm and serene, with the wavelets dashing lazily along the beaches and the vivid maritime and forest pictures stood out in bold relief. Many who enjoyed their walk in the woods took the precaution of taking along a luncheon, which sharpened appetites rendered a most enjoyable accompaniment of the outing and the feast of good things was most keenly enjoyed under the grand old trees, or down beside the ever changing sea with its many crafts sailing o'er its heaving bosom."

As Others See It.

Ideas not Essentially Our Own.

The Marblehead Messenger says: The people of Salem are congratulating themselves over the fact that the price of electric lighting has been reduced by the corporation which supplies the city to thirteen cents net per kilowatt. It is a fact worthy of mention that the town of Marblehead, owning its plant, for the past two years has been paying but twelve cents net per kilowatt.

To which the Salem News replies: Taking everything into account—and especially bearing in mind the fact that the plant is new—is the Marblehead showing so much an argument for resort to municipal ownership as a reminder to Salem purchasers of electric light that local rates may justly be considered fair? If a difference of only one cent per kilowatt in price is to be vaunted as a signal feature of municipal ownership, then local private ownership may pardonably "point with pride" to its own tariff.

In Manchester we pay the corporation 15 cents!

Bowling Season at Manchester Started Amid Much Enthusiasm.

The bowling season at Manchester started on Monday evening of this week 'mid much enthusiasm. The Manchester Bowling league was launched on that evening with a game between the S. of V. and the Regals, one of the largest crowds that ever thronged the alley being on hand. Wednesday night the Red Men and the K. of C. teams met, and tonight the Business Men and the Gardeners will meet. Next Monday night the Speed Boys and the Greeks will play, thus ending the first week of the matches, each of the eight teams having played once.

The game between the S. of V. and the Regals was a close one. The former won by only three pins the total pinfall being 1240 to 1237. Benj. L. Stanley was the high roller of the evening. His 96-79-93 totalled 268. Captain Austin Jones of the Regals rolled 90-77-95, a total of 262. On a percentage basis each team nets 50 per cent.,—that is, the S. of V. won one string, and the total pinfall, and the Regals won the other two strings. The score:

|---------------|-----|-----|-----|-------|
| | 1 | 2 | 3 | Total |
| C. E. Bell | 86 | 80 | 73 | 239 |

The Hero of "Brewster's Millions."

Once in a generation the name of an actor becomes identified with a play and both are synonymous of success. One of the biggest money makers of recent years was "Brewster's Millions" which was produced by Frederick Thompson of Luna park fame with Edward Aboles in the principal role. Mr. Aboles certainly sprang into prominence and attained a wide popularity as a comedian in the cities where "Brewster's Millions" was shown but he was ambitious for other work and in vaudeville has found that ambition realized. He is probably the highest paid actor from the legitimate stage in vaudeville today and he has a play that in its way is as meritorious as "Brewster's Millions." It is called "Self Defense" and Mr. Aboles takes the part of a deaf mute who has been charged with a crime and the entire piece is full of strong situations. Mr. Aboles will appear at Keith's next week sharing honors with that feature that has been attracting such wide attention, Annette Kellerman, in her exhibition of diving and diabolo.

:: Beverly Farms ::

The Girls' club of the Baptist church met Tuesday evening at the church and the following officers were elected for the year: Miss Carrie Davis, president; Miss Bertha Bennett, vice pres; Miss Carrie Williams, treas; Miss Dorothy Larcom, secretary. The club will hold a concert on Monday evening, Oct. 25.

The police paid a visit to William T. McNamara, alleged proprietor of the Beverly Farms house Wednesday evening in search of liquor. The police making the raid were Williams, Pickett, Welch, Bray and Coakley. Their search was rewarded by finding 63 pints of beer, 18 pints of ale, 2 quarts of whiskey and hundreds of empty whiskey and beer bottles.

THE GLORY OF THE POPPIES.

How richly bloom the poppies frail,
In silken raiment fragile spun;
They gayly toss their dimpled trail—
Hung satin finished by the sun.

A bit of red, a snatch of blue,
A strip of pink, a splash of white;
A streak of purple dripping dew,
And shot with mingled colors bright.

A crimson glaze, a scarlet glare,
A rich magenta's brilliant sheen;
A bonnie terra cotta fair,
And rows of lovely tints between.

A merry maiden frilled in buff,
A lace-draped lady done in brown;
A fine old gent in tattered stuff,
And puffed in lilac all way down.

These dazzling beauties all aglow,
Spin merrily their little day;
Then with one quivering tragic blow,
Their pride and glory fall away.

—Rev. Robt. Bennett.

All of these displays and those which make for the beauty and the comfort of the home are most artistically arranged and adorned. BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT

A RUMOR, which has been circulating in Manchester, to the effect that we were to discontinue business there, has been brought to our attention and we desire to say there is no truth whatever in the statement. We have been in business in Manchester for 33 years and hope to continue indefinitely.

Mr. Robert Robertson, Jr., who has been with us several years, will have charge of the work in that section.

Yours very truly,

ROBERT ROBERTSON CO.

Miss Delia Dana, Grand-daughter of Poet Longfellow, Inspired by Dr. Grenfell Example, to Enter Hospital.

Miss Delia F. Dana, daughter of Richard H. Dana of Cambridge and Manchester, and granddaughter of the poet Longfellow, one of last year's attractive debutantes, has enrolled herself at the Children's Hospital, Boston, in the training school for nurses, and has already gone through two months of probationary work there.

This change from the gay buzz of society doings to the care of toddlers in the white-painted hospital ward is not without precedent among young girls in society. Miss Anna Cabot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Cabot, who is preparing to be a trained nurse, has nearly finished her course at the Children's Hospital.

In spite of the hard work and seemingly long hours, though the nurses in the training schools are on an eight-hour-a-day schedule, there is a human side to the work that repays the students who are in training.

The care of children is quite different from that of adults, the nurses find. "In some ways very much pleasanter," says Miss Dana, "particularly for those who love children. It isn't so hard to amuse children and keep their mind away from themselves as it is older people."

"Then, children never worry before operations. A part of our work in the probation period is regular duty in the hospital wards. Sometimes we play with a little girl or little boy just before they take them to the operating room. To them that day is just like any other day. Of course they do not realize anything about it; their minds are not filled with any details that frighten them, and, of course, they do not do any worrying. I have never been in an hospital for adults, but I suppose that the worrying makes it much harder for the patients and for the nurses."

"One of the difficulties, though, is the fact that you can't reason with sick children. If they don't want to take medicine, you can't persuade them into it by telling them that it is for their good. They are not very much interested in what is good for them just at that time."

"It is much harder for a little boy or girl to be sick than a grown person. They don't seem to be able to bear their troubles; sometimes it is quite hard to help them."

Miss Dana has a great deal of enthusiasm for her work. Just what she intends to do after completing her course at the hospital she is not prepared to say. It will probably be social work of some kind, she thinks.

Though she has never talked with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell about her plans, it was his influence that prompted Miss Dana to become a nurse. She was invited by friends to New Haven to attend a Yale game, and in the party she met Dr. Grenfell. He seemed such a strong personality, she said, and a man who had done so much good in the world that she began to think about her own life. It was then that she decided to prepare herself for some work that would help those who were poor and suffering.

It is not the easiest thing to go through, the long training necessary for a young woman who wishes to become a trained nurse. At the first there are the many questions to answer the white uniformed superintendent of nurses, one of the Sisters of St. Margaret, who have charge of the school. The candidate must have good health, must have good reason for choosing nursing as a profession, and must be willing to work.

Approved by the superintendent the candidate then enters her term of probation as a "pink" nurse. This is the color of the uniform worn by beginners. Not until she has completed her courses at Simmons College is she entitled to the blue uniform.

Scrubbing floors is a part of the work that the beginner must expect, if she is to win her way through to the coveted dignity of a blue uniform. Bed-making is another art in which she must become proficient. She also learns how to bandage and dress wounds and how to apply bandages. Besides this there is the regular hospital duty, giving meals to the children, assisting the head nurses in charge of the ward.

If the student weathers the two months of probation, and if the superintendent of nurses feels that she is competent to go on, she then begins upon her four months of academic study at Simmons College. Here she studies anatomy, physiology, chemistry, bacteriology, cooking and food values. After this follows the more advanced work in the hospitals, and the first experiences in the operating room.

Not every applicant succeeds in reaching this stage in the training. Less than one-half of those received for probation are graduated. In 1906 33 students were received and eight graduated. In 1907 22 were received and 14 graduated, and last year 26 were received and 10 graduated.—Boston Sunday Herald.

J. Arthur Brooks and family, who have been at the Bullard cottage, at Old Neck, Manchester, the last summer, are leaving the first week in November. They have rented an estate in Milton for the winter.

Society Notes

Another autumn wedding takes place in Manchester tomorrow, that of Miss Emily Faithful Ames and Gerald A. Bramwell. Miss Ames is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Miner T. Ames of Chicago, and Mr. Bramwell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Bramwell of New York. The wedding will take place at noon at the Emmanuel Episcopal church, on Masconomo street. The Rev. Hugh Birkhead, rector of St. George's church, New York city, will be the officiating clergyman. He will be assisted by the Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn of St. Peter's church, Beverly. The best man will be Edward A. Taft of Boston. The bride's attendant will be a cousin, Mrs. Glenn Hall of Chicago. The ushers will be S. Parkman Shaw, jr., a cousin, of Boston, William Kent, jr., of Tuxedo Park, Thos. L. Manson, jr., and Daniel W. Knowlton of New York. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of Mrs. John C. Howe and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yates at West Manchester. The young couple will live on Lexington ave., New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell are to remain at Manchester until the first of November. They will live at their own house on Commonwealth ave., Boston, instead of in New York, as last year.

Mrs. Russell Sturgis and family, who spent most of last winter at their Manchester residence, are to be in Boston this winter. They have taken an apartment at the Hotel Hamilton, Clarendon street.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas, and Miss Thomas, whose future home is to be in New York on account of Mr. Thomas's business interests, are for the coming season to be at 601 Fifth ave. Their Boston house, on Gloucester street, has been leased to Walter Denegre and family, who of late years have divided their winters between Manchester, New York and Washington.

A pair of valuable horses owned by Mrs. H. G. Curry, attached to a carriage, ran away yesterday morning on the West Gloucester road, throwing out the coachman, a new man, who had just come to work for Mrs. Curry. Harry Curry, a son of Mrs. Curry, who was in the carriage at the time was also thrown out, but was not injured. The coachman escaped with a severe shaking up. One of his arms was thrown out of joint. The carriage was over-turned. The horses left the road and became mired in a bog. They were badly cut up as a result of the mix-up and Dr. Riordan had to be called to doctor their wounds.

Life and Services of Gen. Grant Extolled by F. M. Stanwood at Open Meeting of Manchester G. A. R. Post. Gen. C. H. Taylor also Present

Allen Post 67, G. A. R., of Manchester, held an open meeting last Friday evening, at which the Associates, Col. H. P. Woodbury camp 149, S. of V., and Allen Relief Corps were guests. Francis M. Stanwood, who was recently made an honorary member of the Associates, and Gen. Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe, Mr. Stanwood's guest during the day, were guests of honor.

The meeting was called to order at 7.45 by Commander Enoch Crombie, who stated the object of the gathering in a few introductory remarks. The members of the post, lead by Adj. James H. Rivers gathered around the organ at intervals during the evening and sang war songs. Mrs. J. W. Lee sang "The Star Spangled Banner." P. H. Boyle recited "Keenan's Charge at Chancellorsville," and Mrs. Seddie Follett read "The Black Regiment." Patriotic Instructor A. S. Jewett was called upon for a few remarks on which occasion he paid tribute to General Taylor, whom he remembered in his regiment, as red-faced Charlie Taylor, the correspondent at that time of the Boston Traveller. Gen. Taylor, he said, had probably met more Grand Army men than anyone else in Massachusetts, and he had done more to bring about legislation in favor of the veterans than anyone else in the state. He was largely instrumental in the building of the monument at Baton Rouge, to be unveiled this fall.

Francis M. Stanwood, of our summer colony, was called upon and gave an interesting talk on the life and services of the Great Captain,—General Grant.

We have in America a goodly heritage, said Mr. Stanwood, continuing, and we enjoy it because wise and strong men have preceded us. In the long muster-roll of American greatness three names shine with undying brilliancy,—Washington, Lincoln and Grant. Certain unwise critics, both in our land and in England, have sought of late to enhance the fame of General Lee at the expense of General Grant's. Lee drew his sword in behalf of a policy that meant chaos and whose corner-stone was slavery. The stake as Grant saw it was an united country and freedom for a race.

He traced Grant's rise from obscurity to fame, eclipsing that of any man, even that of Napoleon. He told of Grant's triumphs at Belmont, Fort Henry and Donaldson, Pittsburg Landing and Vicksburg, of the gloom and sadness of the East Tennessee days, of the battle of the Wilderness, a victory that meant more than that of Marathon, and finally to the closing days of the struggle and the surrender of Lee's army. He then spoke briefly of Grant's civic life, and of his personal life, how, in his later days he lost all his earthly possessions, his trophies, etc., and finally, how he wrote those famous "Memoirs," and the monument now erected to him in the magnificent tomb overlooking the Hudson.

Mr. Stanwood read several clippings on Grant's life by noted men, one on what Taft thought of Grant, another on what Canon Frederick W. Farrar said of him, and lastly George William Curtis' estimate of the great soldier. He closed his remarks by reading a beautiful poem written by William Winters, formerly of the N. Y. Tribune, contributed at a reunion of the Society of the Potomac in 1876.

Mr. Stanwood then introduced General Charles Taylor of the Boston Globe, referring pleasantly to his associations with the General during a journalistic experience of 40 years. He declared Gen. Taylor was a journalist who had no superior in the world.

With a rich fund of wit and anecdote Gen. Taylor entertained the audience for more than quarter of an hour. He spoke of the "choir" of the evening, and how he had enjoyed the soldiers' singing. He spoke of Comrade A. S. Jewett, who had served in the same regiment with him. He referred to his meeting prominent men on various occasions, one of whom was General Sherman, the subject of one of his stories. People often wonder, he said, why there are so many of us left, inasmuch as the war closed over 40 years ago. "Because the boys of the country fought the war: that is why so many of us are left." Of the 2,778,000 in the war, 2,150,000 were 21 years of age or under; and of that number 1,157,000 were 18 years of age or under; and of that number 864,000 were 16 years of age or under. "Is there any wonder there are so many of us left?" The speaker related anecdotes of Gen. Grant, whom he designated "the greatest captain of any age." He closed his remarks with a poem "The Best That You Have."

Then followed a social hour, during which a collation was served. The meeting broke up by all joining in singing "America."

Rev. Edwin Hallock Byington, pastor of the Dane street Congregational church, Beverly, for the last three years, last Sunday read his letter of resignation, the pastorate to terminate Nov. 30.

Sidney E. Hutchinson is to have another addition to his residence at Beverly Farms, bought last winter from the Preston heirs. The house was all changed over last winter and spring. Another addition will be made, however, this time to the east end of the house. The contract has been awarded to Howard A. Doane.

Meanwhile, the land improvements, and the construction of a group of buildings,—stable, garage and gardener's cottage,—on another portion of the property, is progressing quite favorably.

Work was started this week by Connolly Bros., on the stone and preliminary out-door work for Francis I. Amory's new summer home at Beverly Cove. The contract for the building has not yet been awarded.

The house and land on Bennett street, Manchester, known as the old Samuel Willmington property, has been sold through the agency of G. E. Willmington to Frank A. Morgan, on private terms. This place has been occupied the last few years by Mrs. Cleary, as a boarding house.

Samuel B. Crombie of Manchester, conveys to Rose A., wife of Ezra S. Crombie of Manchester, land and buildings Essex street, Manchester, 54.15 by 65.97 feet.

Freight Wreck at Beverly Farms.

A freight wreck at Beverly Farms yesterday afternoon tied up traffic to considerable extent during the early evening.

A freight train, Boston-bound arrived at the Farms about 4.30. There was some shifting to be done and the main part of the train was pushed over onto the out-ward track. The shifting had been done and the engine shoved some coal cars down the track to the main section. When the two sections came together, it is said, the light cars buckled and left the irons. Two cars went over the bank and two others tore along over the ties and tore up the irons. Nobody was hurt.

It was necessary to switch the out-bound trains over onto the inward track, and this caused a delay of from half to three-quarters of an hour on all the trains.

The accident happened to the west of the station, near the Beach street crossing.

✦ Manchester ✦

The Red Men will initiate two candidates at their next meeting, Nov. 3.

A mammoth mangle beet, grown at the Town Farm, is on exhibition at Bell's combination store. It weighs 15 pounds.

Tuesday night brought the first real frost of the autumn on the North Shore. The thermometer dropped as low as 20 degrees in places.

The sidewalk on Beach street, along by J. S. Reed's restaurant, has been raised this week, in accordance with a vote at the last town meeting.

Mrs. E. Hersey Brewster and little son came on from Norwood Tuesday for a few days' visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dunn. They returned home today.

State Ornithologist Forbush gave a very interesting and instructive lecture last Friday evening, in the Town hall, on Birds, dealing with them both from the æsthetic standpoint and from their great aid to the farmers and gardeners in the destruction of weeds and insects, and their other uses. The lecture was given under the auspices of the horticultural society. It is to be regretted that more of our people did not attend. Many beautiful slides were cast on the screen.

We are indebted to Mrs. S. T. Swett, a former resident of Manchester, for copies of the Los Angeles papers having accounts of the recent visit of President Taft to that city, with pictures galore of the President and his party, many of whom have been familiar to North Shore folk all the last summer. In the Los Angeles Herald of Sunday, Oct. 10, was an interesting, and well written article under the signature of J. T. Saunders (Mrs. Swett), on the Summer White House at Beverly. The description of the North Shore, of the beautiful scenery, drives, etc., in the article, could have been written only by one so intimately acquainted with the North Shore as one who was born and lived here most of their life, as is true in Mrs. Swett's case.

Both young ladies were graduated from the High school last year. Prior to their departure, last Friday evening, fifteen of their young lady friends gave them a surprise party, at Mrs. J. A. That tampering with such a combustible fluid as wood alcohol is a dangerous proposition, will probably be remembered by Arthur Widger, the 12-year old son of Thomas Widger of the Cove the rest of his days. The young lad was one of the delivery boys at Campbell & Hinchliffe's market the last summer. Tuesday he went to the store, while Mr. Campbell and Mr. Hinchliffe were out, and pouring some alcohol from the gallon can in which it was kept for the purpose of singeing fowl, etc., he set fire to it. In some manner the gasses in the can became ignited and there was an explosion. The flames caught fire to the boy's clothing and burned part of them off his body. He ran from the store into Beach street and, seeing his predicament, some men took the boy across the street to the yard of F. H.

Meanwhile in the store the flames were making progress and but for the timely work of several young men they would have gotten beyond control.

Funeral services over the remains of pretty little Isabelle Martin, daughter of Fernand Martin, whose sad death at the Beverly Hospital occurred last week, were held Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart church. The white coffin was simply enshrouded in a bed of beautiful flowers. The collection was one of the largest ever seen at a funeral in the church. Interment was in a lot in Rosedale cemetery which the father had bought in which to lay at rest his child. The funeral was largely attended, many coming from out of town. Frank I. Lamasney of Beverly Farms, through his friendship for the family, had entire charge of the arrangements for the funeral and burial.

Auto Runs into Horse and Wagon at Magnolia. Horse Killed and Driver's Leg Broken.

Monday evening about eight o'clock a trunk wagon owned by A. J. Rowe, and an automobile owned by A. Chester Beatty, a summer resident, came in collision on the road leading to Magnolia station. The horse had to be shot as a result of the accident, and the driver of the wagon had a leg broken.

One of A. J. Rowe's wagons in charge of Harry Smith had been sent to Mr. Beatty's house shortly after seven o'clock to take some trunks to the station. The trunks had been delivered and the wagon was on the way home. When less than twenty feet from the junction of the two roads leading to the depot, near the school house, an auto, which happened to belong to Mr. Beatty, and in which was the chauffeur, named Curtis, and several others, not members of the family, suddenly loomed up in front of the wagon. Smith says he jerked his horse around to the right as quickly as possible, but not quick enough to avoid a collision. The auto struck the animal and plowed its way through the wagon. The horse's back was broken, Smith was hurled from the seat and his leg was broken, and Charlie Chane, a 12-year old lad, riding with Smith, was also thrown into the road. He escaped with only a few bruises. The occupants of the auto were uninjured, and the car was only slightly damaged.

Officer Jones was quickly on hand and was prepared to shoot the animal to stop its sufferings, but thought best to wait until Mr. Rowe, the owner, arrived on the scene. As soon as Mr. Rowe arrived he gave orders to shoot the horse. Mr. Jones did the trick with one shot.

Smith was taken to Rowe's stable, where his injuries were attended by Dr. Blaisdell of Manchester. Next morning he was taken to the Addison Gilbert hospital.

Those who were on hand shortly after the accident, say the wagon was a little to the right of the road, so that no blame can be attached to the driver for being on the wrong side of the road, it would appear.

State Election a Week from Next Tuesday.

Though the state election is only ten days off there appears to be little or no political excitement in Manchester, despite the fact that Manchester has two men in the field for office. Raymond C. Allen is the Republican nominee for representative to represent this town and two wards of Gloucester. Frank A. Foster is the Democratic nominee for the same office. The district is normally very strongly Republican and there is every evidence that a normal condition of affairs exists this year. Mr. Allen has been over the district the last week and finds everything very favorable. There is an independent candidate in the field, but his chances of election are not taken very seriously by anybody.

As it is Manchester's turn to send a representative to the State House this year, it is to be hoped that Manchester citizens have enough local pride to work assiduously for their man.

Joseph Cawthorne has been acting as night operator at the local telephone exchange the last week, while the regular operator, Roy Wallace, is having a vacation. Mr. Wallace has gone to Maine.

ACCORDING to a recent bulletin of the government forestry service, the 130,000 acres of forests on George Vanderbilt's estate at Biltmore are "made profitable." The profit comes from the material cut every year. This, the bulletin states, consists of 4,000,000 feet of lumber, 5,000 cords of tannic acid wood and fuel, 1,000 cords of tan-bark and several hundred cords of wood pulp. Vanderbilt's experiment in private forestry is remarkable both on account of its extent and the variety and scope of the work done.

In connection with all logging operations permanent logging roads are constructed. These roads minimize the present cost of getting out the product and will greatly reduce the cost of marketing crops in the future. The roads also make good fire lanes and afford protection for the young trees which are planted wherever there is suitable protection against fire. Workmen employed in the forest and in the fields along the forest boundaries do duty as fire guards. The experimental work in silviculture done at Biltmore is certain to stimulate interest in scientific forestry as applied to private domains.

IN connection with the institution of city delivery in Manchester, it might be well for the prospective mail carriers to remember that they need not deliver letters at houses where vicious dogs are kept. Impecunious folk now have a chance to head off troublesome reminders that bills are due the first of the month.

You've heard that Harvard installed a new president and may forget it, but the fact that Harvard's team has acquired a new quarterback will stick by you until Nov. 20.

Automobile Fire Engine Latest Addition to Fire Equipment of South Shore Town.

Manchester residents who are interested in the further improvement of our fire department, some of whom are taking to the suggestion in the Breeze last spring that the town purchase an automobile fire truck, so as to be in a position to safe-guard the farthestmost limits of the town in better time than can now be accomplished under the best of conditions with horses, may be interested to read the following despatch in a Boston paper last Sunday:

"The Hull fire department is becoming one of the best equipped in the state. Owing to the rapid growth of the town this has become necessary. The assessed valuation of the town is nearly $6,000,000, a large percent of which is on dwelling houses.

"A few years ago a steam fire engine costing $5500 was stationed at Waveland, and it is considered indispensable. At Waveland also there is an extension ladder company, while at Hull village and Atlantic hill there are well-equipped hook and ladder and hose companies.

"Feeling the need of more up-to-date fire apparatus, the town last spring appropriated $8000 for an automobile fire engine that could make a quick run to any part of the town and climb its many hills, a difficulty that had not been overcome by the steam engine drawn by horses.

"A few days ago the new engine arrived at Atlantic hill where a special station had been built for it. It is the only one of the kind in this part of the state. It will carry 14 men and attain a speed of 60 miles an hour. In a preliminary speed trial a few days ago it smoothly made 50 miles an hour, climbing hills easily.

"It is equipped with almost every kind of apparatus used by a fire department. It carries 1000 feet of hose, several ladders and two chemical tanks. It pumps 700 gallons of water a minute.

"On actual demonstration, starting with the horse-driven engine, over a road a distance of one mile, the automobile engine was pumping water before the other arrived at the destination. The driving engine of the automobile is used to pump water at fires. The machine was built by a Buffalo motor car company."

Registered Letter Will Cost More.

It will cost 10 cents extra to register a letter after November 1. Preparations are being made at Washington to make a 12-cent stamp which will soon be issued. The local postoffice has received notification of the change.

Hitherto, register stamps cost eight cents. However, the postoffice department faces such a large deficit that something had to be done, in the opinion of Postmaster General Hitchcock. On account of the great amount of "red tape" about registered letters, the price was raised two cents. Everybody who handles the registered letter or package must give a receipt for it, which involves considerable time and labor, which the department think is worth 10 cents.

Eighty-Four Years of Age.

Enjoying good health and having her children, grand-children and great-grandson around, to make the day pass pleasantly, Mrs. Elizabeth Tappan, passed her 84th birthday on Tuesday of this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Levi A. Dunn, Central street, Manchester. Though no formal observance was made of the day, a number of friends and neighbors called to extend their congratulations, besides the members of her own family. The youngest person present was the little son of Rev. and Mrs. E. Hersey Brewster of Norwood, — a great-grandchild.

A CONVENIENCE WHILE AUTOMOBILING

IN AUTOMOBILING, as in all other things, you must always be ready to meet the unexpected.

If something goes wrong or breaks in the running mechanism of your car, the quickest way to reach a garage is by TELEPHONE.

Then, too, if you're on a trip and want to order a dinner, arrange for the night, find out about the road ahead, or send back some word you forgot to say in starting, a Blue Bell Sign by the roadside assures you that there is a telephone nearby that will connect you with any possible point in the great Bell System.

Have You Delayed

Building that house, or making those alterations, expecting lower prices? We have seen during the past year much lower rates for almost all kinds of building material and now they are on the increase, with every prospect of being higher during the coming year.

Would it not be wise

for you to start your work before the higher level gets here?

The annual inspection of Preston Post 188, G. A. R., will be held next Wednesday evening, Oct. 27, in G. A. R. hall. Com. Enoch Crombie of the Manchester post will be the inspecting officer. A large delegation of veterans from Manchester will attend. A colation will be served.

There was a marked difference between the two sets of bids received by the Board of Health of the city for the collection of swill and garbage. The bids were opened last Saturday evening. In the district No. 1, which comprises the city proper, the three bids were $6,000, $5,300, and $3,600, respectively, and the contract was awarded the lowest bidder.—Patrick J. McSwiney & Co. District No. 2, which comprises Beverly Farms and Pride's and a portion of Beverly Cove, had only one bidder. That bidder was Frank I. Lamasney, and he offered to pay the city $100 a year for the privilege, instead of seeking remuneration for the work.

Joseph Maher, a young man employed in the stable of C. H. Tweed, was thrown from his horse while riding Sunday morning. The horse became scared at a passing automobile and bolted, throwing Maher off. He was taken to the Beverly Hospital in an automobile, where it was found that his injuries were not serious.

The World's Greatest Cellist.

Von Biene, who has long been recognized as the greatest cellist in the world, like a good many others who have attained the leading place in their profession, has other ambitions which he is endeavoring to realize, and in fact has realized, at his rather advanced age. When he returned to this country a month or so ago for a tour on the Keith circuit he arranged with one of the most prominent dramatic writers for a sketch in which he would appear as a leading character and introduce his 'cello solos. The character of a poor music teacher appealed to him and the sketch was written around this idea. It has been meeting with unprecedented success aside from the wonderful playing of the master musician and will be seen for the first time in Boston at Keith's next week.

This occasion will also be notable as the last appearance of Annette Kellermann, the Water Queen, who will complete her remarkably successful engagement of four weeks and as this will probably be the last opportunity to see

Miss Kellermann as a diver, unusual interest has been aroused.

Food Fair.

The coming week will offer the final opportunities for a visit to the World's Greatest Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exposition in the vast Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, Boston, for it closes on Saturday night the 30th instant. Every visitor of the thousands who have been to the Fair this year, is unanimous and enthusiastic in his praise of the Exposition and its wondrous detail of magnificent exhibits, decorations and entertainments. Mechanics Building has been transferred to a city of rare delights where one can spend a day, or several days in unalloyed enjoyment in seeing and studying the displays, listening to the music and going from entertainment to entertainment all of the best and all free to every patron of the Fair.

Preston-Martin.

At the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Preston, in Beverly Farms, Monday evening, a very pretty home wedding was solemnized, when Miss Isabelle Martin became the bride of L. Howard Preston. Rev. Clarence Strong Pond of the Baptist church was the officiating clergyman.

The wedding was a quiet, family affair, only the immediate family connections being present. The house was very tastily decorated with cut flowers and autumn leaves.

The bride wore a gown of white batiste and lace and her veil was caught up with her engagement ring. Following the ceremony a reception was held, at which time the bride cut a large cake and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Preston will be at home to their friends, in the Mayberry cottage, Haskell street, after Nov. 10.

There was a pretty home wedding at Oakdale, Dedham, Wednesday, Oct. 20th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman when Laura Smith Wyatt of Beverly Farms, the neice of Mrs. Freeman (May Batchelder), was united in marriage to John Buttlar of Dedham, by the Rev. Dr. Freeman of the First Baptist church of Dedham.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white silk muslin and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and a wreath of roses in her hair.

Miss Adelaide Elise Wyatt was maid of honor and George H. Wyatt, jr., was best man. Only the immediate family was present. Many beautiful gifts were displayed. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Buttlar will be at home after Dec. 1, to their many friends, at 85 Sanderson Ave., Oakdale, Dedham.

Everything for Simplicity

That's the prevailing desire now, and 'tis history repeating itself.

Look back at the furniture of Colonial times, anything ornate about it then—no, 'twas as simple as 'twas possible to make it, and do we admire it now? 'Tis not only popular today right here in New England where it originally sprung from, but the country at large has grown to admire it. It has features to commend it besides that of LOOKS. 'Tis much more easy to care for than that with the carving, then, if you stop to consider, the matter cost goes wholly into CONSTRUCTION, giving you value in the line of SERVICE rather than splitting value up. As for instance:

Take This Dresser

For only $19.50

'Tis made of mahogany, of especially fine graining, and there's not to be found on it the tiniest piece of carving. Its beauty it gains from its very graceful curves and the perfect proportions of the base to the top. The mirror is the woman's favorite, the very pretty oval, and the finish, that dignified dull, that makes it appear rich. It looks all the world like half again the money, and the beauty of
'is 'twill grow prettier with years.

'Tis shown on our fourth floor with a hundred other patterns, and if this one does not hit you, the one that will is there—an immense line, probably more than all others in the entire Essex County.

The American woman's unanimous choice of PATRICIAN SHOES has been its strongest principle of growth. It has stimulated the makers to the greatest efforts to produce an even worthier product. The best materials and workmanship have been employed since the introduction of PATRICIAN. New ideas are embodied, however, in each season's models and the very newest styles offered.

The manufacturers sincerely thank the American women for their approval and adoption of PATRICIAN SHOES and offer for their further pleasure the newest ideas of advanced fashions. They have anticipated many designs that will be in vogue the coming season, each style showing the little extra stitches and details of finish that are found only in Custom Shoes and which are the index of expert craftsmanship.

Young Men: Reason It Out

Let's get at the facts; and find out, once for all, why these are the best clothes a young man can buy.

The makers, Ederheimer-Stein & Co., specialize Young Men's; they don't make men's clothes at all.

There aren't many such makes. Not enough to go 'round and permit every store to have a live, genuine, special brand for young fellows only.

Your size in a man's suit doesn't make it right for you. There's a legion of details in the designing and tailoring that distinguish Young Men's from Men's clothes. Your kind won't suit your father; nor his kind please you.

Ederheimer, Stein & Co., make clothes for the Young Man's figure and the Young Man's taste. They make roomy, full chested coats that are stylish; suits and overcoats with a lot more swing and snap to them than a man wants.

It takes a third more cloth and a lot more skill to make clothes the Young Man's way. But when you buy them you're satisfied; you've got the best.

We're sensitive on the point of making a difference between Young Men and Men. We hope you are.

❖ Society Notes ❖

Delightful autumn weather favored Miss Emily Faithful Ames and Gerald A. Bramwell last Saturday when their wedding took place in the Emmanuel Episcopal church at Manchester-by-the-Sea. The only incident to mar the occasion was the lateness of the noon train from Boston, which brought most of the wedding guests. Some trouble near Boston held the trains back three quarters of an hour.

The ceremony was performed at 12.45 by the Rev. Hugh Birkhead of St. George's church, Stuyvesant Sq., New York, assisted by the Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn of Beverly.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Miner T. Ames of Chicago, and Mr. Bramwell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Bramwell of New York. Miss Ames was given in marriage by her brother, Miner T. Ames. Her only attendant was a cousin, Mrs. Glenn Hall of Chicago, who acted as matron of honor. The bride was charming in a gown of ivory satin, with rose point lace. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Hall wore a pale blue chiffon gown, black hat with white plume.

The best man was Edward A. Taft of Boston, and the ushers were S. Parkman Shaw, jr., of Boston, a cousin; William Kent, jr., of Tuxedo Park, Thomas L. Manson, jr., and Daniel W. Knowlton of New York.

The church was very prettily decorated with bride roses and smilax, and autumn leaves. About seventy-five guests attended the wedding, most of them coming from New York and Boston.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. John C. Howe and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yates at West Manchester. The decorations at the house were autumn leaves, yellow chrysanthemums and Killarney roses.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Haven have closed their cottage at Beverly Farms and are back to their town residence, 312 Beacon street, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Taylor and their daughter, Miss Taylor, after a long season at Manchester, closed "The Craigs," on Smith's Point, yesterday and returned to their town residence, 31 Gloucester street, Boston.

❖ Society Notes ❖

The Misses Jessie and Mary C. Colby, after another delightful season on the North Shore, are leaving Beverly Farms the first of next week. They will spend several weeks in Boston, where they will be registered at The Touraine, before returning to their New York City home for the winter.

John Hays Hammond who has been absent several weeks in the west, and was one of President Taft's party in that region, arrived home last Saturday. The Hammonds will probably remain at their Fresh Water Cove home until Thanksgiving, should the weather remain good.

W. J. Creed of Beverly, who has established himself in business on the North Shore the last summer, as caterer, and to do private waiting, will be in Boston this winter. He will be located at the Mass. Chambers, where patrons may reach him at any time by calling telephone 3040 Back Bay. Mr. Creed was formerly butler in the family of the late Robert C. Hooper for a number of years, and his services will therefore be appreciated by the class of exclusive patronage that use him. He is prepared to cater for very large as well as small parties. In fact, he catered to many of the largest functions on the North Shore the last season.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Orrin W. Andrews.

Orrin W. Andrews passed away at West Lynn early Wednesday morning after a lingering illness. He was aged 64 years. Mr. Andrews was a native of Manchester, being a son of the late James and Annie Andrews. When a young man he learned the cabinet-making trade and until a year ago last May he worked for the last thirty-five years with Lewis Morgan, Brook street.

He was a member of the Lynn Post, G. A. R., and of the West Lynn Lodge of Odd Fellows. His remains were brought to Manchester this afternoon on the 3.15 train and commitment services were held at the grave, Rosedale cemetery, the Rev. T. L. Frost, officiating.

He leaves a brother, James Andrews in Lynn, and a sister, Mrs. Granville Crombie of this town.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Johnson in the loss of their little 5-months' old daughter, Ella Elizabeth, who passed away at their home on Bennett street, Manchester, yesterday morning, rather suddenly, of heart trouble. The body was laid at rest this afternoon at Rosedale cemetery, the Rev. L. H. Ruge officiating.

Connolly Bros. have been awarded the contract for constructing a new stable and garage for Frederick Ayer, on his Pride's Crossing estate. The buildings are to be faced with brick. The foundations for the new structures have already been built.

Connolly Bros., have this week started with a large force of men and teams upon a large contract on the ex-Gov. Murphy estate at Mendham, N. J. The work in part includes grading, landscape work, planting, drainage, the building of driveways, paths, terrace walls, and considerable carpentry.

This same firm is building one of their tennis courts upon the estate of Robert Bacon at Westbury, L. I., making the second court they have built for Mr. Bacon. They have also just completed one upon the F. O. Spedden estate at Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

Democrats Whoop 'er Up!

With plenty of good sound argument, no mud-slinging, and good speakers, the Manchester Democrats called out a crowd that half-filled the Town hall last night, when the only rally of the fall campaign was held.

Roger Sherman Hoar, a son of the late Senator Hoar, and Otis G. Russell, a nephew of the late Governor Russell, both from Harvard, were the first speakers, and they were followed by Frank C. Richardson, Esq., of Essex, candidate for senator, and Charles D. Smith, Esq., of Gloucester, who was a candidate for senator last fall.

Mr. Hoar dealt at length with Gov. Draper's "three fallacious alleged reasons" for vetoing the 8-hour law the last year and then he spoke briefly in favor of the income tax. Mr. Russell spoke of the tariff, which he designated one of the large issues of the campaign.

Mr. Richardson, though admitting that his chances of success did not look very rosy, did hope that the voters of the district would show their full strength at the polls Tuesday. He declared in favor of the income tax.

Mr. Smith lauded the candidates at the head of the ticket—Vahey and Foss, and spoke a good word for Mr. Richardson, and for Frank A. Foster, of Manchester, the candidate for representative on the democratic ticket. Tolman, of Gloucester, republican candidate for senator, he said, was the candidate of the machine and "it is time to smash the machine."

Though the young men who took civil service exams two weeks ago for postal carrier service in Manchester have been notified of their standing, Postmaster Wheaton will not be prepared to announce the three carriers and substitutes until next week.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLV.

Among our poets, Bryant, Whittier, Lowell and Longfellow have caught the charm of our autumnal scenery which robes the hills and fields in such golden array, and transferred it all glowing to their canvas. Especially, perhaps, has the Quaker poet in "The Hustlers" reproduced the glories of our Indian summer; and Bryant, with a more sober tone, in "The Death of the Flowers," is not far behind. The pomp and pageant that filled the splendid year have passed, but they are a radiant memory still.

A celebrated German writer on education has spoken of teaching as "work, work, and again work;" and any one who has tried it, whether in the kindergarten or the university, will agree with him in this. Teaching is no profession for the indolent and incompetent, it calls for the best that is in a man, or woman, as the case may be; and the demands upon the teacher are increasing with the widening of the sphere of knowledge and the competitions of modern life; it is "work, work, and again work." But the work of the real teacher has rewards which princes might envy.

Women teachers are having in our day their innings; they are even said to be successful in many cases in teaching athletics, managing the boys without friction as the male teachers often fail to do. It is told of a New York president of the board of education, that on his requesting a male principal to take a certain course of action, and the man answering that he could not do it, the president said, "Very well, there are plenty of women who can."

Riches Aplenty in New England Farms.

That the future of New England is brilliant beyond question or doubt; that agriculture, with especial emphasis on fruit raising and apple growing in particular, is soon to be a leader among the most profitable pursuits; that abundant capital is available; that many have attained marked success in this direction, and that the opportunity is being and will be more eagerly seized now that the movement has been auspiciously started, was declared amid thunderous outbursts of enthusiasm at the chamber of commerce's dinner last Friday night in Boston.

The meeting was devoted to the subject of agriculture and commercial or-

People should be rated not by their foibles and eccentricities and weaknesses, but by their solid and worthy qualities; there are few in whom the critical judgment may not detect some flaws, who are very useful and estimable persons notwithstanding. It is hardly worth while to be always on the watch for spots on the sun.

The unfortunate, not to say disgraceful, dispute connected with recent Polar journeyings seem likely to leave the public mind in doubt whether two men have independently reached the top of the world, or whether neither of them has. At any rate, interest in Arctic discovery is likely to wane sensibly in the future; it has lost with many its dignity and its old spell of heroism. But the fame of men like Frobisher, Davis, Hudson, Parry, Franklin, Kane, Hayes, Greely, and others of like bold and adventurous spirit, is not likely to be dimmed by those who have followed their lead and gained by their successes and failures. For courage, endurance and devotion to an ideal, the early explorers will never be surpassed.

The motorist in the Berkshires who fails to see one of the ox teams at work on the state road around "Jacob's ladder" will fail to see one of the sights; the auto is now becoming commonplace and the ox team romantic; so the old order changeth, giving place to the new.

Quite significant it is that a philosopher of the last century, famous in two hemispheres, who did much in his day to overthrow the faith of some, should have said when near the end, "I have spent my life in beating the air." Yet this man has been revered and almost worshipped by many as a great light in realms outside of christian circles and apart from christian thought.

charding in New England. Manchester, and it might be said the North Shore, was represented at the gathering by James Salter, president of the North Shore Horticultural society, and William Till, a former president.

The speakers told plainly and yet eloquently the story of the riches that lie in the hills of New England; how no section of the country can give the farmer a greater return for his energy and industrious application and how the men of the city and the men of the farm were ready to give each other the shoulder touch of encouragement by which insurmountable obstacles are overcome and a wide and sweeping benefit is certain to accrue.

NOVEMBER.

BY JOSEPH A. TORREY.

Gone are the long, bright, golden Summer hours,

And thro' the valley, o'er the hillside bleak
The chilly winds of Autumn moan and shriek,
Scattering with ruthless hand the leaves and flowers.

Ah! what a weary, fruitless life is ours!
What vain delights, what phantoms do we seek Ere time has plucked the roses from our cheek
Or planted thorns in youth's enchanted bowers!
Soon disappointed with its killing frost,
Ushers the Winter of our Discontent,
The harvest past, the joyous Summer spent,
Hope fled, joys scattered, peace and comfort lost!

Patience, poor Heart! there is a softer clime
Where Spring abides, beyond the walls of Time.

"1915" Boston Exposition.

Preparations for the "1915" Boston Exposition in November have reached the stage of placing the exhibits in position for display in the show, which opens Monday, November 1st. Final allotments of space were made this week and considerable material is already in the building. A clearer idea can now be given of what this showing of civic activities will consist. There are about two hundred exhibits.

The "1915" Exposition will include the sort of features that have been prominent in the city planning exhibits that were recently made in New York and Washington, but it will be a great deal more live and interesting. This will be accomplished through many practical and graphic features, some of them in action, by which various interests will show what is being accomplished in their particular fields.

The object of the Exposition is to show the citizens of Boston and the surrounding places within the metropolitan area, what are the present needs of the city and how these needs may be met. "It is intended to give every organization interested in the betterment of Boston an opportunity to show the public what it is planning to do, and what it would like to have the public feel it ought to be supported in doing for the next five years."

The former Art Museum building on Copley Square has been renovated and considerably altered. Walls and ceilings have been redecorated, new doorways cut through solid brick walls, lecture or entertainment halls constructed, and other changes made to suit the needs of the building's new public service.

The Exposition is not a money-making enterprise, for no charge for exhibition space is made to the philanthropic and civic organizations which make most of the display. A few commercial exhibits, the only ones that pay for space occupied, will be restricted to such things as relate to the Exposition.

The "1915" Boston Exposition will be open to the public November 1st, and will continue until the night of the 27th.

Ezra Conant Stanley.

Ezra Conant Stanley, for many years a resident of Manchester, passed away last Friday Oct. 22, at North Beverly, where he had made his home recently. Funeral services over his remains were held Sunday afternoon at the home of Fred S. Stanley, in that place. The Rev. A. J. Derbyshire, pastor of the First Baptist church of Beverly, officiated. The body was taken to Greenfield, N. H., his former home, where services were held Monday afternoon. Interment was at Francistown, N. H.

During the 48 years or more that Mr. Stanley lived in Manchester, in the family of the late Mrs. Dr. J. Cobb, on Masconomo street, he was highly respected. He was a man of kind disposition, who knew not what it was to speak unkindly of anyone. He was generous spirited and was always willing to lend his help where needed. Several years ago in memory of his late brother, Prof. Stanley of Bates College, Lewiston, Me., he established a scholarship for worthy students in that institution, and he stated to the writer not more than a month ago, that he had made provision to still further assist in that direction at his death.

"Died at Beverly, Mass., October 22nd, Ezra C. Stanley."

It seems just, and fitting that when a good man enters into well earned rest, that some other record than these short lines should be written; hence this tribute.

In early manhood Ezra Conant Stanley came to Manchester, Massachusetts, to live with the family, in whose service he continued many, many years, and by his unselfish devotion to their interests and faithfulness, he soon won for himself, the position of "friend" as well as helper, and was so regarded by every member. At an early date, he identified himself with the Congregational church in Manchester, whose interests were always dear to him, as is evinced by the legacy he has left to the church out of his earnings. But the best legacy he left is the example of unequalled honesty and uprightness, of purity of life and benevolence, as his charities, in his own simple, modest way were many, and numerous, not only in his own family, but to all in need. No worthy person ever applied to him in vain. He was a consistent Christian, and though the call was sudden at the last, his lamp was trimmed and burning. And he was ready to hear the call of the Master—"Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Baptist Church at Manchester to be Thoroughly Renovated and Equipped for Larger Service.

At a special business meeting of the First Baptist church, Manchester, last evening, it was voted to adopt the plans of the Prudential committee, relative to enlarging the church, and making necessary improvements.

The Baptist church has been entirely inadequate to the growing needs of Manchester, and a movement was started this last June to remodel the church and make it up-to-date in all its equipment. The plans have now been perfected and were accepted by the church and the work authorized, last evening.

A brief description of the work to be done is as follows: An addition is to be built on the rear of the present church about 21 feet by 21 feet. This will have two stories and a basement. The upper story will provide room for organ and choir, cloak room for choir, hall way and pastor's room at the rear of the organ. A beautiful open baptistery will be built in the present pulpit platform eight feet by four feet, with a water depth of thirty-six inches. Entrance to this baptistery will be from behind the choir rail, the central panel of which will be removed when there are to be baptisms.

The lower story of the addition will contain a kitchen, toilet room, ladies' room, Sunday School library, and kindergarten room. In the basement there will be installed the new boiler which will heat by steam the entire church building.

The six windows in the main auditorium and also the two windows in the hall are to be memorial windows. Seven of the windows have already been taken and the other one will be taken soon. In the front of the church there will be a large palladian window and the other windows will have ornamental cappings. The front doors of the church are to be of oak.

A new pipe organ will be placed in the organ space at the rear of the pulpit, and the old organ and choir gallery will be removed, making the audience room a little more roomy.

Howard A. Doane, who submitted the lowest bid, has been selected to make the addition to the building and to make all other changes that are necessary, including the decorating, etc.

The Estey Organ Company has been selected to build the organ. It will contain 567 pipes, and ten speaking stops beside the mechanical attachments, and will be blown by an electric blower. The organ case is to be of quartered oak with gilt pipes. The organ will be of exceptionally beautiful tone and thoroughly up-to-date in all appointments.

It will have instead of the old arrangements of stops, the Haskell Patent Key Stop Action. The action of the organ is tubular pneumatic.

The steam heating plant, will be put in by Edward S. Bradley, and Mr. Goodhue of Cambridge, is the memorial window artist. The architect who has drawn up the plans is George F. Newton of Beacon street, Boston.

The general color scheme of the main audience room will be white and gray green. All paint will be white, and the walls tinted a gray green. A warm red Brussels carpeting will be used in the pulpit and choir and for treads in the aisles. When completed the church will be one of the handsomest churches in New England, and a good type of colonial or Georgian architecture.

The work of improving the building has met with the kind approval and generous help of many of our prominent summer residents. The members of the church are contributing well towards the work. The cost of the whole work including the organ and the new heating plant will be in the neighborhood of $8000.

New International Dictionary.

The G. & C. Merriam Company of Springfield, Mass., have just issued Webster's New International Dictionary, based on the International of 1890 and 1900. The revision has been so radical and complete as to constitute a new book. The work has been in active preparation for many years, by a large staff of experts, assisted by the contributions of eminent specialists, under the general supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, recent U. S. Commissioner of Education. The number of words and phrases defined has been greatly increased, mainly from the fresh coinage of recent years both in popular speech and in the various arts and sciences. The revival of early English studies is recognized by such an inclusion of obsolete words as to give a key to English literature from its earliest period. The title-words in the vocabulary are more than doubled in comparison with the old International, now exceeded 400,000. The number of illustrations is increased to over 6000. The book contains more than 2700 pages. But the publishers desire to emphasize the quality rather than the quantity of the work, calling attention especially to the thorough scholarship in all departments and the fullness of information under important titles. By ingenious methods of typography and arrangement, the increased amount of matter is contained within a single volume, not perceptibly larger than its predecessor, and no less convenient for the hand and eye.

Year Book of the New England Farmer

The publishers of The New England Farmer, Brattleboro, Vt., are publishing a valuable book for farmers under the above title. This work will contain: A Farmer's Almanac; Daily Memorandum and Cash Book; Directory of Agricultural Organizations; Fish and Game Laws; Milk Standards and other Dairy Laws and Regulations; Dog Laws; List of Fairs; Agricultural Colleges and Experiments stations; Herd Book Associations; Weather forecasts; Gestation Tables; Common Laws of Wills, Deeds, Contracts; Estimating Tables; Weights and Measures; Interest Tables; Breeding Tables and much other information valuable to farmers and others. This will be a book which every farmer in New England should own. The price is 50 cents per copy, prepaid. If taken in connection with The New England Farmer the price will be $1.25 for both. Orders may be sent to the publishers, Ulery & Co., Brattleboro, Vt.

"Aunt Jane of Kentucky."

"Aunt Jane of Kentucky" and her neighborhood "gossips" were transported to Manchester Wednesday night when they met at the Chapel of the Congregational church. The impersonations were given by the executive committee of the Ladies' Social circle which had charge of the Fair given in July for the benefit of the church. Incidentally, the committee obtained sufficient funds from the entertainment this week to bring the total amount received to over the $1000 mark,—the object they started out to attain.

The Chapel was crowded Wednesday evening, and well it might have been, for the entertainment was one of the most interesting given there for some time. It gave everybody a chance to have a good wholesome laugh.

The impersonations were given by the following: Aunt Jane, Mrs. O. M. Stanley; Sally Ann, Mrs. Sarah Perkins; Milly Amos, Mrs. F. M. Andrews; 'Liz'beth Taylor, Mrs. Susan Knight; Women of Mite Society, Mrs. J. A. Curriea, Mrs. J. A. Torrey, Mrs. L. B. Decker, Mrs. Anna Phillips, Mrs. I. P. Richardson; Silas Petty, Alfred Hooper; Abram Parish, H. H. G. Perkins; Job Taylor, A. L. Saben; Sam Amos and Dave Crawford, G. A. Kitfield; Sam Crawford, Hollis Roberts; Uncle Jim Matthews, A. C. Needham; Penelope, the star singer, Mrs. F. G. Cheever; Parson, Richard Cheever; organist, Miss Jessie Hoare; Jacob, Arthur Olsen.

The sketch was presented in four scenes: 1, meeting of the Women's Mite society; 2, Sally Ann's experience; 3, choir rehearsal; 4, church service with the new organ.

NEXT Tuesday, Nov. 2, is election day. It is the duty of every voter to get out to the polls and cast his ballot. No adequate reason has been advanced for a change in the conduct of affairs at the State House. The administration has been wise, efficient and economical. It should be continued. The able work of Gov. Eben S. Draper, Lieutenant-Governor Louis A. Frothingham, and all their associates on the State ticket, in connection with that of our Legislature, certainly deserves hearty commendation and loyal support.

The State tax has been reduced by $1,000,000 from the amount assessed in 1908; the great railroad systems have been brought under more direct supervision and control of the Commonwealth; the city of Boston has been given a much needed amended charter; and our public educational system has been reorganized and improved. This, in part, is the Republican record for the past year.

The Republican voter who has truly at heart the interest of his party and the Town of Manchester, and those interests should be identical, will not only see to it that he votes himself on Tuesday next, but so far as lies within his power, will see that every Republican also casts his vote at the polls.

At an election such as occurs this year, when the larger affairs of immediate National importance are not before the people for decision, interest is likely to wane or at best to be rather under that of the average year.

There are many reasons why this interest should not wane and that the vote should be kept at its full strength. Many of them are general in their nature although no less important on that account. One of them is very specific and of great local importance, as it directly affects the influence of the Town of Manchester in the various conventions of the district in which the town is placed. It is upon the total vote cast for the head of the ticket that the number of delegates to the several conventions accredited to the Town are determined.

Upon the strength of this delegation depends the strength and influence of Manchester in securing for her interests and affairs the respect and consideration to which they are entitled, for at the primaries and conventions, a great many matters are, under the present laws, practically settled.

Last year by virtue of the large vote cast the Town gained on its representation on every delegation and thus increased its strength and influence. These delegations should be maintained and if possible increased; but in any event they should be preserved.

To do this Republican voters must come to the polls and urge all others to do likewise, remembering that in casting their vote they not only do their part in deciding the immediate issues at question, but also indirectly determine whether their Town shall or shall not maintain its standing and importance in the shaping of the principles and issues to come before the voters in future elections and the preservation of the immediate interests of the Town.

It must not be overlooked that the candidate on the Republican ticket to represent this district in the General Court this year is a Manchester man,—Raymond C. Allen. It is therefore a duty of every voter in the town to get out and help elect our man with the largest possible vote. Mr. Allen is a young man. He has a college education and for the last ten years he has conducted a successful business in Manchester. He has been moderator in the Town Meetings for the last four or five years and has served the town in various capacities. He is eminently fitted to represent the town in the Legislature, and it is to be hoped that the town will give to him the full strength of its vote, so that with the other sections of the district in his favor he will be elected with an overwhelming majority.

THE manufacturers of rubber boots and shoes have advanced their prices a second time since last spring. Shoe dealers buy rubber goods at catalogue prices, less discounts, and on the first of May a five per cent. discount was removed, and last month another five was taken off, thus rubbers cost the dealer more than last year, though not so much as would be justified on account of the wonderful advance in cost of raw rubber. On March 1st, crude rubber cost $1.20 per pound; today it costs $2.14. The increase in prices by the manufacturers will necessitate an advance by the retail dealers of from ten to fifteen cents per pair on common rubbers, and twenty-five to fifty cents per pair on rubber boots and overshoes. The demand for rubber for automobile tires within the past few years has increased faster than the supply, and that is one of the reasons for the steady advance in prices.

UP-TO-DATE processes haven't upset the old method of disposing of the soil product—"we eat what we can and what we can't eat we can and what we can't can we sell" at top prices.

It is said that scarcity of farm labor makes food prices high, so the true way to get cheaper food is to work for it. Back to the farm, brother, back to the farm!

"IN AUTUMN FIELDS."

Subject of Rev. L. H. Ruge's Sermon at Congregational Church
Manchester Last Sunday.

Text: "While earth remaineth harvest shall not cease." Gen. VIII: 22.

The autumn trees have put their glory on. The tender young leaves of spring are pretty in their light yellow and green, but the autumn leaves are surpassingly beautiful in their gorgeous mass of striking colors. So the tender age of childhood is admired but the glory of man is mature manhood.

The coloring of the leaf is not the fading of the leaf but the ripening of the leaf. The process of colorings in bronze red and brown, scarlet and purple, is similar to the ripening of the fruits, and although the frost may contribute its share to the final ripening of the leaf it does not color it. Indeed, if the frost came too soon it would turn all the foliage a dull brown.

Some trees easily outshine all others especially certain maple trees. The leaves easily oxidize and a long mild fall brings out, as happens this season, the most beautiful tints.

Oak leaves contain much tannin and the oxidation color of tannin is usually a dull brown, although at times we get some fine pastel browns much admired.

After the harvest comes the sear, dead leaf. After the corn the dry mournful rustling of the stalks. The last cry of the wild bird is heard on its wings southward. Evening brings its damp chill air like the breath of a host of unseen dead. The grey morning light shows us the path where the hosts of King. Frost passed by at midnight and early morn. The grey clouds gather across the skies laden not with refreshing showers but with chilling hail and sleet. Soon nature will be shrouded in her white mantle of death, her throbbing pulse will be still.

But are there no compensations in this season of the year? The husbandman has been rewarded for his toil under the burning sun. The faith of the sower has been vindicated. Barns and bins are groaning under enormous weights of agricultural wealth. Songs of cheer fill the autumn air as the reapers return to rest from their toil to eat the fruits now safely gathered.

The long winter evenings drive us back to the hearth fire. There shall be more time for meditation at eventide, and friends and neighbors shall again cultivate the social amenities of life without which all harvests would be barren. And so as we gather around the crackling logs we shall take all that is best in the fields to gladden the interior of our homes.

I want to dwell here upon the harvest in life, upon the thought of those who are ripening into the human harvest. Something in the rustle of the sear stalks the other evening arrested the attention of the pastor and his wife, and it was the wife who said: "First the blade, then the stalk, then the ripe ear, and at last the sear dead leaf,"—moralizing at the close by saying, "That is just the way in life, is it not?"

Did the days once seem bright and the sun linger long in the sky? That was in summer time, the autumn and winter days have come. Was the day once warm and the blood leap along its unchoked course? That was in summer time, the chill of winter is in the air. Was the air once vibrant with songs of inspiration? That was in summer time, the song birds have flown.

Do the days pass swiftly by? To the children and youth they are just as long as ever. Does the air chill? The boys and girls, young men and maidens, heed it not. Are the fields silent today? A thousand songsters are everywhere around the laughing youngsters.

What is its meaning? We have passed into the autumn and winter of life. The eye grows dim so the sunshine looks dull and the day darkens earlier. The ear is closing up so we do not hear the joy notes. The hours of the day hasten into the night.

But are there no compensations here? The greatest plea of the lawyer, the finest legal decisions of the judge are in the harvest of life.

Oyama was 70 when he won his great military honors, and Marquis Ito ripened into statesmanship at that age. Joseph Chamberlain had no peer among men of any age when he made that epic speech on fiscal reform. The great leaders of the United States senate have been aged men. We may cite Charles Hazlith, consulting engineer of New York City at 95 working away as a man in his prime, and many others up to the present. Look no further than your own community and you will find these men in the front, men called old, but only in formal reckoning of time. Men with whom it is both profitable and honorable to associate. In the great conventions we meet them snow-crowned but leading, effected neither by long days, latitude or longitude. The great epics of success are after men have reached 50 and 60 years of age.

No man should therefore mourn his harvest days but rejoice. Spring and summer have their compensations, but the greatest compensation of all is the harvest fruits.

"Why should we mourn that life's springtime has flown,
Or sigh for the fair summer time?
The autumn hath days filled with peans of praise,
And the winter hath bells that chime."

In the autumn there are still many duties to occupy the laborer. Cultivate the art of occupation for the winter days and nights coming on. Above all things the thing to be dreaded most in old age is idleness. Find an interest in something, in easy field sports, in fishing, in bee culture, in fancy stock raising, in horticultural pursuits. In the indoor life find the lighter clerical tasks, or cultivate letter writing to almost forgotten friends and renew your youth in memories of past associations. If there is a time when a skillful hand at games is a real blessing it is in old age. Make a field for yourself in philanthropic or pastoral work among the poor and sick. But never in life until God says, sit down or lay down, never retire from some active enjoyment or duties.

At last comes sleep, blessed gift of God. If the eyes no longer see clearly, never mind; you may miss many pleasant sights, but more unpleasant sights others are still obliged to see. Do you no longer hear well, never mind; you escape being bored by a lot of dull and foolish and evil things. Is your strength failing, does your hand tremble, are your steps faltering, never mind; it is only the angels taking down the tent. You are moving into a better habitation with finer pictures, sweeter music, and more congenial associates. Give me your hand, let me give your staff to the children to play horse with, you will not need it where you are going. Congratulations on your home going,—until the eternal spring, the eternal day dawns, where we shall renew the activities of life in the perennial days of immortality.

PREJUDICES.

They Don't Mind Close Quarters—The Closer the Better.

Of all the occupations known to men, entertaining a prejudice is the most absurd. Yet the practice is almost universal.

The prejudice is usually uninvited. He comes in quietly, removes his hat and coat, saunters up to the guest chamber and prepares to become a permanent feature of the establishment. You entertain him royally, strain him to your bosom, exhibit him proudly to every one, fight for him, defend him and perpetuate him. Yet you do not even admit that he is present. "I entertain a prejudice?" you say, with becoming concern. "Never!"

Birds of a feather flock together. It therefore happens that if there is one prejudice present there are also others. They always come in unawares and take their places silently and unobtrusively. But, oh, how they hang together in an argument!

A group of prejudices is invincible. They have never been beaten.

The strange part of prejudices is that one would think they would prefer more commodious quarters. But, no; the narrower the mind the more content they are. They don't mind close quarters. The closer the better.

Prejudices are always busy. If they are not tampering with one's eyesight they are screening the mind from the open—putting blinds on and making it dark enough to sleep in comfortably.

A man can get insured against almost anything else but prejudices. He can insure himself against fire and water and loss of life and accidents and depreciation in his property. But there is no company so fortified that it would take the risk of insuring against prejudice. And, then, no man would ever think of taking out any insurance against one, because he would never admit that he had it. The prejudice himself fixes that. The first thing he does is to make the man think he isn't there.

That is why prejudices, no matter how much damage they cause to character, are never evicted. They have come to stay.—Thomas L. Masson in Lippincott's.

Just Like a Man.

Mr. Hopperdyke, who had been slightly injured in a railway collision while on a trip away from home, found it necessary to make a stop of a day or two to rest and repair damages. He was not much disabled, however, and he wrote a letter to his wife, telling her of the accident and assuring her that he was all right and that she need not have a moment's uneasiness about him.

When he had posted the letter an idea struck him, and he sent her the following telegram:

Have been hurt in railroad accident. Letter on the way, which will explain.
JOHN.

Two days afterward he received this dispatch from her:

Why on earth did you send that horrid telegram?
LUCY.

His reply was:

I sent it to prepare you for the letter.
JOHN.

Dumas' Mushrooms.

A Paris contemporary, commenting on the little knowledge of French possessed by some Germans, relates a story of Alexandre Dumas pere, who knew little German. He found himself at an inn in German Switzerland. He exhausted his small stock of German in trying to make the waiter understand what dishes he required for dinner. One he could not make the man understand, so in despair the author of "Monte Cristo" called for a pencil and sketched what he wanted. Some minutes later the innkeeper himself appeared bearing a large open umbrella. Dumas had ordered mushrooms.—London Globe.

Climatic Changes.

There is indisputable evidence that the greater part of Europe was at one time covered with icebergs and glaciers and that an arctic climate prevailed as far south as the shores of the Mediterranean. But there is also abundant proof that at a still earlier epoch not only Europe, but the lands situated within the arctic circle, possessed a tropical climate, for the numerous fossil remains found in those regions are those of plants and animals which, according to the present state of our knowledge, must have lived under conditions now found only in the equatorial portions of the globe.—New York American.

Rustic Party—I can understand yer feelin's, mum. I felt just the same when our pig won a medal at the agricultural show.—Pearson's Weekly.

TEMPERAMENTS.

They Divide the Human Family Into Five Great Classes.

The physician of a former generation used to talk much of the "temperament" of his patients—that is to say, the predominant type of physical constitution possessed by each. He studied this permanent temperament fully as carefully as he did the disease temporarily present before deciding upon the line of treatment to be adopted.

Even today, although the physician speaks less of temperaments and diatheses and perhaps would be at a loss to tell the names by which they were formerly designated, he by no means ignores the physical tendencies of his patients. From the viewpoint of temperament one may regard the human family as divided into five great classes, although few belong solely to one type. Most persons have a mixture of two or more, being classified rather by the one which predominates.

The first of these temperaments is the lymphatic or phlegmatic. In this the individuals are of a quiet, rather inert disposition. They move slowly, but they move surely. They are usually dependable people, true to their word and faithful to perform the duties assigned to them.

A second type, in many ways the direct opposite of the first, is the nervous temperament. These persons are quick in their movements, energetic in work and in play, strenuous, but often without staying power. What they accomplish they accomplish quickly.

The third type is the gouty, sanguine or rheumatic. The individuals of this group are of floral complexion, frank and jovial disposition, good eaters and sleepers and "never sick." But in later life they pay for their previous health by gouty attacks, and when attacked by serious illness they are likely to succumb quickly.

Persons of the bilious temperament are poor assimilators of food. They suffer from intestinal indigestion, which leads to repeated attacks of "billiousness." All the processes of secretion and excretion are sluggishly performed.

The fifth temperament is the strumous. These people have poor digestion and defective reparative power, little cuts and scratches healing slowly. They are always "catching" whatever contagious disease is about. They lack firmness of texture. The glands in the neck, in the armpits and in the groins frequently become enlarged.

The treatment of the same disease in persons of different temperaments often varies greatly, and hence the importance of the study and power to recognize the five distinct temperaments. — Youth's Companion.

Marriage Deals In France.

French marriages turn out surprisingly successful, although they are generally arranged by the parents of the bride and bridegroom. In some parts of provincial France the wishes of a man or a maid are as often not taken into consideration by the parents "making the deal." In one province a lover, after declaring his passion, may receive, while sitting at dinner at the house of his beloved, from her hands a plate of pea soup into which she has grated some cheese. He relishes that soup, for the grated cheese means that he has been accepted. If his addresses to the young woman are not welcome he finds that some one has placed a stinging nettle and some oats in his pocket. Another unmistakable sign is when the young woman turns the blackened end of a poker toward him.—New York Tribune.

Eastern Funereal Pomp.

When a rich and important Chinaman dies his funeral is conducted with much pomp and splendor. His friends and relations instead of sending wreaths send innumerable banners. These are made of white silk with inscriptions beautifully worked in black velvet and express the senders' good wishes to the deceased himself or to the members of his family for many generations. On the day of the funeral these banners are carried by hired men, who are all dressed alike for the occasion. After the funeral is over the banners are all brought back and eventually grace the rooms of the late Chinaman's house.

An Easy Way Out.

"Here, you," said the conductor, "you rang up a fare. Do that ag'in and I'll put you off!"

The small man standing in the middle of the crowded car promptly rang up another fare. Thereupon the conductor projected him through the crowd and to the edge of the platform.

"Thanks," said the little man. "I did not see any other way to get out. Here's your dime."—Success Magazine.

Grace George at the Hollis.

Grace George has secured a tremendous hit in her new comedy, "A Woman's Way," by Thompson Buchanan, which comes to the Hollis Street theatre for a two weeks' engagement beginning Monday, Nov. 1st. The usual matinees will also be given. Those who were charmed with the beautiful work of Miss George in Sardou's "Divorcons" should not fail to see her in her new play, for in part of Marion Stanton she has a role which fits her even better than Cyprienne. Cyprienne is a spoiled French girl, but Marion Stanton is a charming common-sense brave American girl, whose courage and sense of humor in the face of a trying situation wins all hearts. Marion Stanton discovers that her husband has become infatuated with a fascinating Southern widow, and instead of resorting to the hysteria and tears that might ordinarily be expected, she recognizes the fact that a man is likely to go to a woman who appeals to the most of his nature. The one thing to do is to get her husband, and this she cleverly accomplishes by bringing the widow into the Stanton home, and by the force of contrast and clever manipulation showing her shallowness and general undesirability.

A Star Among Stars.

The experience of Nat Wills who has long been known as "The Happy Tramp" has probably never been duplicated by an artist in this country; that is in regard to attaining extraordinary success when surrounded by people who had already reached the top of the ladder. Wills, who will be one of the features at Keith's next week, has been in vaudeville most of his life with the exception of several starring tours in the "legitimate." When the Lambs arranged their mammoth Gambol last summer every actor of prominence volunteered, Wills among them, and like the others he was content to take whatever part was assigned to him. It happened, however, that owing to the inability of two prominent comedians to accompany the Lambs on the trip, that Wills was asked to "fill in" for one night only. He appeared at the Boston theatre doing his regular monologue while the stage was being set for one of the Lamb's big acts, and made such a tremendous hit that the management of the affair at once decided to make him repeat this part of the program in every city in which they appeared. Wills was unquestionably the bright particular star of the Lambs and their greatest Gambol and he will appear at Keith's with a monologue that is said to be even better than that which attracted such widespread attention.

James F. Shaw's Ambitions; He May be Candidate for Congress Next Year.

Intimate acquaintances of James F. Shaw, who has represented Manchester in the State Senate the last three years, say that though Shaw is not running for office this fall, he will be heard from in the future. The Denver (Col.) Post in a recent issue had this to say of him:

"Re-elected president of the American Street & Interurban Railway Association, which combines all the traction corporations in the country together with the five kindred bodies, having an investment of $5,000,000,000, James F. Shaw of Manchester is now ready to enter upon a campaign for national political preferment at the hands of his Massachusetts constituency.

"Having already served three terms in the Massachusetts senate, his eyes are now turned towards congress. His friends say he will be a candidate for the national house from his district at the next election on the Republican ticket. That he will succeed these same friends have no doubt, because of his personality as well as party popularity.

"Should he get to congress the state field of political activity will be open to him. His ambition includes, declare his friends here, gubernatorial and senatorial distinction. Political conditions are said to favor him for congress next year. Being at the head of the biggest interurban traction company in Massachusetts, which has been gradually wresting political control there from the steam railroads, headed by President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine and its allied interests, Shaw's friends make bold to say that his political star has risen on the horizon, also that Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Murray Crane, as well as the other 'big ones' in Massachusetts will show signs of alarm when Shaw gets back home to begin his preliminary campaign for congress."

In accordance with its usual custom at this season of the year the Breeze is offering to every new subscriber the balance of the year free. Every subscription received between now and Dec. 31st., will be dated Jan. 1, 1910.

A newspaper from San Bernardino, Cal., just received, gives an account of an exciting chase through a rough section of that country after an Indian outlaw by name of "Willie Boy" who had shot an old Indian and stolen the daughter, forcing her to go with him on penalty of death, which eventually did happen to her when the outlaw found escape was impossible. John L. Woodberry, a Farms boy, who has lived in that country for the last year and a half, was one of the posse that took part in the chase. The paper gives a good picture of Johnnie in cowboy costume, armed with a rifle.

between these Ederheimer-Stein clothes that are made especially for you and other kinds that are sometimes sold you.

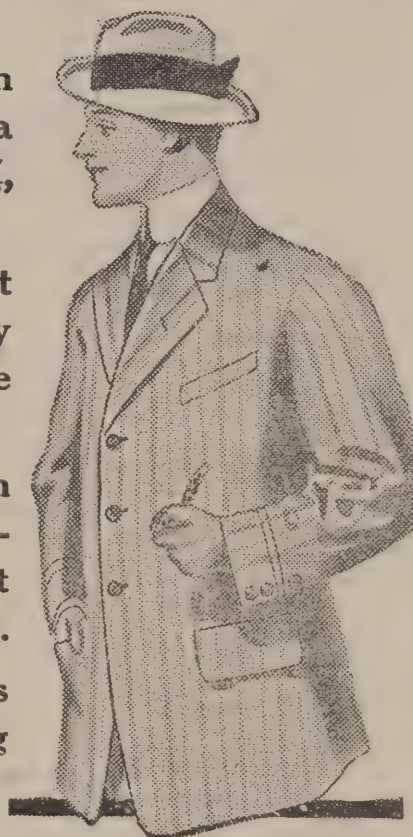

Too bad you can't see these clothes alongside some of the makes you're shown when you go to buy a suit. But we don't have the ordinary kinds and you won't find garments of this make anywhere else.

Three and a quarter yards of cloth is usually supposed to be enough for a suit. Ederheimer, Stein & Co., put $3\frac{3}{4}$, sometimes more, into theirs.

It takes this much to make a coat roomy and full chested, to give it plenty of length and bottom sweep, to get the right hip effect to the trousers.

Not all clothes makers use enough goods to make clothes stylish. Ederheimer, Stein & Co., make clothes right and put in all the material that is needed.

And they're strictly Young Men's clothes. Made to keep you looking young.

Society Notes

The House Committee of the Essex County club has sent a notice to the members of the club the last week saying that the club house will be open during the coming winter for limited accommodation. Sleeping rooms may be engaged and simple meals will be served upon giving not less than 24 hours' notice to the steward in charge. The requirement as to 24 hours' notice is imperative, as no provisions will be kept at the club house. Communication should be made to the club house by telephone. In making this announcement the club is making a departure, and it is not known yet, of course, whether or not the departure will prove a success. There has been so much call for some such place in the past, however, that the innovation ought to turn out to be just what is wanted. Many of our summer residents are running down from Boston all winter long, both before the sleighing season, and in mid-winter, and it is safe to say the open club house will fill a "long felt want."

E. L. Wood and family of Brookline have kept their cottage at Manchester open later than usual this fall. They are planning to return to town next Wednesday, the 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell left Manchester the first of this week and after several weeks at North Andover, they will return to Boston for the winter. Their town residence is at 491 Commonwealth ave.

Henry C. Frick and family will keep their summer home at Pride's open until the 15th of this month.

Mrs. E. Preble Motley closed her cottage at Pride's the last week.

The Clarence Moores have opened their winter home in Washington this week and the family left Pride's a few days ago.

The Neal Rantouls, the F. R. Allens, Frederick Ayer and Francis Bartlett are among the week's departures from the Pride's and Beverly Farms shore.

The Francis W. Fabyans closed their summer residence at West Manchester today and returned to Boston.

Society Notes

Mrs. John C. Phillips will give a breakfast at her North Beverly home, Moraine Farm, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for the riders in the meet of the Myopia Hunt club drag hounds. The meet will be at the kennels at 12.30. Two other meets have been held this week,—one on Tuesday at the Hamilton Meeting house at 3.15, the other Thursday at Millet's, Rowley, at 3.15. Next week the meets will be on Tuesday, at 3.15, at Turnpike corner North street, Danvers; Thursday, 11th, Springfield, at 3.15, and on Saturday there will be a New Hampshire run.

Robert S. Bradley and family have been among the late-dwellers on the shore this autumn. The season was nearly over when they returned from Europe, and they have since been taking advantage of the splendid autumn weather. They closed their residence at Pride's Thursday and returned to their 411 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, home.

Mrs. F. H. Peabody closed her summer home at Beverly last week and returned to her 247 Berkeley street, Boston, home for the winter.

The Washington B. Thomases have closed their summer estate at Pride's this week. They are living at 601 Fifth avenue, New York, this winter.

Mrs. J. B. Silsbee and family closed their place at Pride's last week, and returned to 115 Marlborough street, Boston.

W. J. Creed of Beverly, the well known caterer, has a table at the flower show in Horticultural hall, which opened yesterday to continue over Sunday. He has a table set with silver, glass, china, etc., for ten people. It is proving a pretty attraction. Mr. Creed was formerly butler in the family of the late R. C. Hooper at West Manchester, and since going into the catering business for himself on the North Shore and in Boston, he has met with splendid success.

A regular meeting of the Manchester club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at the conclusion of which, refreshments will be served.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

A needed improvement has just been made at West Manchester in the widening of Harbor street at its junction with Bridge street, adjoining the O. T. Roberts property. The easterly side of the little triangular lot, has been moved back five feet, thus widening the street that much. So much travel passes over the street at that point that it is really to be wondered at that more than one accident has not happened there in the last year, as there is hardly room for two automobiles or carriages to pass.

Another improvement at this point has just been made. The entrance to the O. T. Roberts property has always been from Harbor street. This has been closed, and the entrance has been changed to Bridge street, a short driveway having been built up to the house.

Work has already been started on improvements and alterations at the First Baptist church, Manchester, as outlined in our last issue. It is planned to have the work completed by Easter, at least.

The Highway department at Manchester is busy at present resurfacing Bridge street, from a point near the entrance to Norton's Point to the junction of Central and Pine streets with Bridge street. The work has progressed by this time to Ashland avenue. The tar macadam process is being used.

Frederick F. Brasch has sold his dwelling house on Pine street, Manchester, near the corner of Pleasant street, to James McTiernan. Terms private. The sale was made through the agency of N. P. Meldrum.

A New York paper is printing some very odd names that are brought to its attention. Among those contributed are the following, all said to be genuine: Etta Lotta Lamb, Ida Sweet Hart, R. U. Phelan Goode, Mabel Eve Story, Edna Broker Legge, Marian English Eeale, Nealon Pray Dailey, I. Betty Sawyer. Miss Etta Pye and Miss Carrie Coffey are two Kentucky lasses and Constant Agony is a Canadian lumberman.

Society Notes

Miss Clara Winthrop is having a party of friends down from Boston to her cottage at West Manchester this afternoon. Miss Winthrop will sail for Europe later to spend part of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whitehouse have sailed from New York for England the last week.

The W. J. Mitchells will keep their residence at Manchester open until after New Year's.

Prescott Bigelow and family have just closed their cottage at Manchester Cove and returned to Boston.

Hearing on Acceptance of New Woods Road.

The county commissioners gave a hearing at the selectmen's room in the Town hall yesterday morning relative to the acceptance of the roadway built in connection with the laying of the pipes for Manchester's additional water supply, between Pleasant street and Gravel pond, as a county road.

As the commissioners did not have their plans prepared ready for the hearing the hearing was postponed until some date in the near future.

Counsel representing the Mary Lord estate objected to the hearing on the ground that his client was bringing action against the town to recover damages to her property at the "cranberry meadow," so-called.

George Lockhart Allen was present, too, and raised his voice in objection to proceeding with the hearing. He represented a certain Mr. Edwards, who has a little lot, or two little lots, either touching the new road, or near it, which is taxed for some $200. It is understood that Mr. Edwards, on Mr. Allen's

THE PASSING OF AN OLD LAND-MARK—THE FRANKLIN BUILDING, AT MANCHESTER.

By GEORGE FORSTER ALLEN.

The Old Corner Store is now out of sight, and many are the expressions of regret over its extinction. It has a history which may well be worth preserving.

It was erected about 120 or 125 years ago by Col. Lee, who was the owner and who occupied the building which stood where Mr. Rabardy's block now is, and who was a prominent citizen of the town.

Major Eleazer Crafts, a soldier of the Colonial and Revolutionary Wars lived on the lot where the town library building now stands. He and Col. Lee were rivals and were not on the best of terms with each other. Crafts wanted the land adjoining his homestead and was about to buy it. In the meantime Col. Lee learned that his neighbor was about to buy that strip of land, and forestalled him and bought it himself. This is the piece of land upon which the Old Corner Store building was erected.

Col. Lee immediately began the erection of a building to be used as a warehouse. After the frame was up ready for boarding an interesting incident, as told to the writer by a grand-daughter of Major Crafts, occurred.

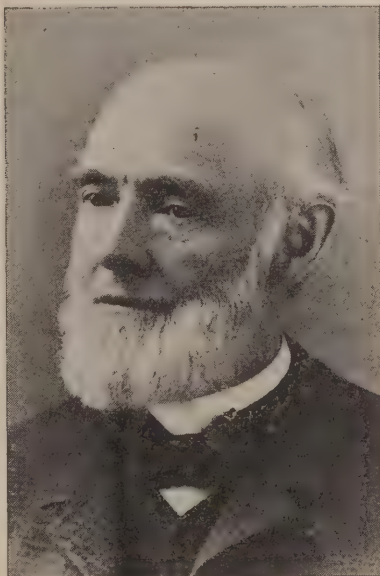

Major Crafts kept a tavern and was popular with the people in general, especially the young men, while Col. Lee was not. So on the eve of the day when the framed building was erected, the young men of the town went into the tavern and one of them said, "Now Major it will be high tide at 12 o'clock tonight, and if you say so the frame-work near you will go out with the ebb-tide." But Major Crafts was not the man to approve of, or consider such action.

A few years after this Col. Lee died, and Crafts bought the building and property. He converted the building into a dwelling house, or a part of it. He made a home for one of his step-daughters, and his wife, known as "Granny" Crafts, kept store there. After his decease and that of his widow, the property came in possession of his son, Captain David Crafts.

It was still used as a dwelling house and the writer's grandfather was an occupant of it for several years, and the writer's mother and one of her sisters were married there.

In the years following it was used for various purposes. Shoe making in the upper part. A tailor's shop below. The widow, Elizabeth Lee made children's clothes, and also clothes for women, at one time employing several girls, one of whom gives the origin of the name "Franklin."

She relates that one day they were talking, as girls will, and said, "Let's have a name for this building." Another said, "What shall it be." After full discussion one said "Let's call it 'Franklin'," and they all consented. As time went on "The Franklin" was used for various purposes such as reading room, restaurant, barber shop, and again as a tailor's shop.

Later it was converted into a cabinet shop and used as such for several years by John Perry Allen, who carried on that manufacturing business for many years. The building next came in possession of Captain B. L. Allen, who in 1849 leased it for the term of ten years to the grocery firm of Burnham and Gentley, who occupied it as such until the expiration of their lease.

Burnham & Gentley remodelled the building and converted it into one of the finest equipped stores of its kind in any town in Essex County. It was also arranged and finished as a dwelling place for offices, several doctors having occupied it for that purpose. At the expiration of their lease Burnham & Gentley dissolved partnership and were followed by Burnham & Crafts, who in turn retired from business.

In the meantime Capt. B. L. Allen, the owner of the building, died, and by his will it became trust property for the use and benefit of his neice, Miss Hannah Lee Allen, during her life, and at her decease to go to her heirs.

During the Civil War it was occupied and used by different parties as a grocery and dry goods store.

In April, 1869, the writer, who was then and had been in business on the same street, near the outlet of Saw Mill Brook, moved into the building with a stock of goods consisting of dry goods, boots and shoes, crockery ware, wall papers and gents' furnishings. The other end of the building was used by Mr. John Little as a grocery store. Mr. Little not long after left and Mr. Chas. H. Sheldon put in a provision store there, and it was while he was there that the county commissioners were called to widen the county road and the building was moved back 15 feet from its original foundation.

The next movement of occupants was that of Mr. Sheldon, who found the accommodations too limited for his business, and the writer then became the occupant of the whole building.

In June, 1877, the writer brought his family into the building and made it his home till Sept. 20, 1909. He also made it his business home from April, 1869, to Oct. 18, 1907.

In reviewing the past the writer finds much that was sad, sorrowful, disappointing and hard to bear up under. But in balancing these with those of blessings, at times but dimly discerned, it is plain to see and realize that the latter far exceeded the former.

In leaving the home of so many years, where so many gatherings in great variety, especially those of family and other friends, also, those of the church and society, anniversaries, etc., and seeing it demolished and made oblivious was a struggle not easy to overcome. But "all is well that ends well." So recognizing the leadings of Divine Providence the writer gave himself into His hands.

The Hollis Street Theatre.

Grace George will be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre for only another week in her new play, a three-act comedy entitled "A Woman's Way." The time of the play is the present and the action takes place in a house on upper Fifth avenue, New York, overlooking Central Park.

The novelty of the play comes in its treatment of the old divorce question. It tells how a young wife wins back her husband after she has apparently lost him to a rich and fascinating widow. It might be entitled a comedy of common sense, for the wife announces to her husband when discussing the scandal, "she is a woman—and I am a woman—you are a man. If I cannot hold you I do not want you. We will invite her here and see."

The board of assessors have spent several days in Boston this week going over the books of the bank and corporation commissioners looking for "wrongly assessed" stock that should be assessed in Manchester's favor.

The Election at Manchester.

Despite the falling off in the vote of other places Tuesday, Manchester cast a good-sized vote. When the polls closed at 4.30 a total of 450 ballots had been cast. The fact that Manchester had two candidates in the field for representative was responsible in a large measure for the number who turned out.

Manchester's chief interest, of course, centered in the election of a representative to the general court. Raymond C. Allen won out, but he has his home town to thank for his election. Manchester gave him 303 votes to 19 for McCormack, the independent candidate of Gloucester. He won out in Ward 8 of Gloucester, but McCormack won the other two wards, the total vote of Gloucester being 463 for Allen and 504 for McCormack. Mr. Allen's total vote in the district, however, was 766, to 523 for McCormack. Mr. Foster, the democratic candidate, received 256 votes in the district.

Manchester's total vote was 524 last year. This year Draper received 256, and Vahey received 163. Last year Draper's vote was 302, and Vahey's 137.

"Swimming Among Ice Cakes" and Yvette Guilbert.

An Arctic scene with real water and real ice floating in it and a man swimming amongst the ice will be one of the sensations offered by Mr. Keith in his Boston house next week, as a feature of one of the strongest bills he has yet offered. As the headline feature there will be Yvette Guilbert, the famous French artist, who has been for years the sensation of European capitals with her delightfully clever songs. It is doubtful, however, whether even this high priced artist will cause as much comment as that remarkable swimmer, Sam Mahoney, who was the only one to swim across the English Channel and who now will be the principle feature of this remarkable production of the frozen north. For this act Mr. Keith has provided a most elaborate stage setting with light effects such as have never before been seen in vaudeville. The Aurora Borealis, which will be shown, is said to be an actual reproduction of the reflections seen and painted in the frozen north by Frank Wilbur Stokes, the famous American artist, who accompanied the Peary expedition and even the sledges used by the explorers in this scene and the other costumes and properties are designed after the originals in the Peabody Museum at Cambridge.

Votteros Bros., proprietors of the local fruit store, have bought a stand in Boston the last week. The store is located on Washington street, corner of Northampton. They will carry a line of cigars and tobaccos, pipes, etc., in connection with a complete line of fruits.

So much call has been made for a repetition of the sketch presented at the Chapel recently by the Ladies' social circle, entitled "Aunt Jane of Kentucky", that the ladies have decided to repeat the sketch at the Chapel next Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. There will be no reserved seats. Admission to all 20 cents.

Miss Augusta Lawson is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe, School street. She has just been graduated from the Beverly Hospital, and she is going to Derby, Conn., shortly, to become head nurse in a new hospital.

The members of the Allen Relief Corps are reminded that the meeting next Thursday evening will begin promptly at 7 o'clock, because of the inspection of the corps, which will be by Mrs. M. Lizzie Andrews of Gloucester. A full attendance is requested.

Manchester is not the only place that is being troubled by "porch climbers," and second story burglaries. Chief of Police Sullivan received notice from the state police recently of a big break at Lenox, which resembled in every particular the breaks at Manchester the last summer. This morning he received notice from the Newburyport police of a similar break there this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Seabury (Grace Thomas), Harry Seabury and Mrs. Seabury's mother, Mrs. Thomas, motored down from Brighton Tuesday afternoon and were guests at Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Campbell's, School street. Mrs. Seabury sang that afternoon at the Woman's club. Miss Lila Campbell Nye returned to Somerville yesterday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Campbell.

W. S. Nevins of Salem will give a talk on his travels around the globe next Monday evening, before the members of William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers. Each member of the colony is privileged to invite one guest on this occasion. The talk will be given at 8.15.

North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., conferred the degrees on one candidate at their meeting Tuesday night.

The ambulance was called into use Tuesday afternoon to take Mrs. Charles A. Smith, of Pleasant street, to the Beverly hospital.

Woman's Club.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Emma Stanley, vice president, in the chair. Miss Mary Agnes Best of Boston was the speaker of the afternoon. She gave an informal talk on "The Lost Art of Story Telling." She spoke interestingly about life on the east side of New York, and among the poor of Liverpool and London. Her Jewish dialect was very well given and was instructive of the life and manners of that class, which she met so much in settlement work here and abroad.

It was announced that the Current Events class will meet next Tuesday with Mrs. D. T. Beaton, Bridge street. The Arts and Crafts class will meet next Thursday with Mrs. Raymond C. Allen, Vine street.

Mrs. F. B. Tenney was chosen a delegate to the meeting of the Woman's Federation at Brockton next Thursday, the 11th. It is understood, however, that any of the members who desire may attend.

At the next meeting of the club, Nov. 16, Miss Georgia Bacon, a representative of the State Federation, will speak. A full attendance of the members is asked for on that day.

Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, S. of V., held a smoke talk at G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening to which members of the G. A. R. and Associates were invited. A supper was served, after which informal speech-making, story-telling and singing was enjoyed. The occasion proved very enjoyable for the thirty or more persons present, including visitors from the Gloucester camp.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Salter at the Dexter Farm, Forest street, was the scene of a pleasant gathering Monday evening when some 25 members of the North Shore Horticultural society called to spend the evening, and, incidentally, to help Mr. Salter, who is president of the society, celebrate his birthday. The evening was passed very enjoyably, a graphophone concert being a feature of the occasion. There was story-telling and singing, and refreshments were served. During the evening Mr. Salter was presented with a watch chain and Mrs. Salter was the recipient of a beautiful sofa pillow.

Officer Lee went to Boston last Tuesday for Antonio Zarella, an Italian formerly employed at the Dexter estate. Zarella claimed he had been shot by a fellow-workman at Manchester on Oct. 20th. He has been at the City Hospital, Boston, since that time, being treated for his wounds. Tuesday he was released and was turned over to the Manchester police. In the meanwhile Chief Sullivan had invested Zarella's case in Manchester and found that he had been discharged on the morning of Oct. 20th. At the same time one of the Italian shanties had been broken into, $7.50 in money was missing, the property of Angello Dorenzo, and a revolver, the property of Philip Mari, was also missing. Zarella had taken the 10.30 train for Boston that day and was later found by a police officer in Boston, in a doorway on Nashua street. He told the officer he had been shot by a fellow he had never seen before, at Manchester. The nature of the wound, however, would make it appear that it is more likely he accidentally shot himself. In court Wednesday Judge Sears found probably cause and bound him over to the superior court, which meets Jan. 2. Meanwhile Zarella is at Salem jail.

THE BREEZE is making a special announcement today to those who are not regular subscribers to the paper. It is making an offer whereby the BREEZE may be obtained at a greatly reduced price. Knowing that a great many of our readers are subscribers to magazines, we have made arrangements with some 17 of the leading periodicals whereby we can offer them in combinations, the BREEZE included, at a saving of a dollar or more.

We have the following magazines to offer: Success, Cosmopolitan, Pictorial Review, American Magazine, Harper's Bazaar, Pearson's, the Philistine, Good House-Keeping, Physical Culture, American Boy, Black Cat and Horticulture. We offer any two of these magazines (the price of all of which is $1.00 a year with the exception of Pearson's, which is $1.50), with the BREEZE for $3.00.

We have also arranged to offer three other combinations, as follows: Everybody's and the Delineator, with the BREEZE, value $4.50, for $3.50; McClure's and the Woman's Home Companion, with the BREEZE, value $5.00, for $3.50; Success and Independent, with the BREEZE, value $6.00, for $4.00.

This offer will expire on the 31st of Dec., 1909. It is restricted to only new subscribers of the BREEZE, but subscriptions to the other publications, may be renewals. Subscriptions received for the BREEZE will be dated Jan. 1, 1909; subscriptions to other publications will be dated the month they are received.

Subscriptions may be sent direct to the BREEZE office, or may be given to our agent, Mr. James Beaton.

"YES, that street ought to be widened," said a member of the board of county commissioners Thursday morning as he looked at the "square" in Manchester, and noted the spot where the Old Franklin Building formerly stood. "And it looks as if a piece will have to be taken off that wall," he remarked further, in reference to the granite wall surrounding the Public Library.

Now that the old building is removed an opportunity is given to make a much needed improvement to the "square." Public sentiment seems to be very much in favor of this already. Though it is likely nothing will be done in the matter until next spring, after it shall have been talked over at Town meeting in March, it can readily be seen what a wonderful improvement it would be to widen the street some fifteen or twenty feet.

It is not unlikely, too, that some change will have to be made in the Library wall, so-called, if the proper changes are to be made.

It is not too early to suggest that before any changes are made, and before any money is appropriated in this connection, the town should procure a competent landscape architect, who will prepare plans for doing the thing right, so that when the changes are made, they will be made once and for all. Our "town common" is small, so let's have the "best" when we finally get at it.

We have heard the suggestion that one way of improving the "common" would be to turn the church around so that the entrance would face School street.

A glance at the pictures on our front page this week will give one an idea of the change made by the removal of the old buildings. The large elm tree near the telephone pole has been dying for several years. It will have to be removed whether the street is, or is not widened.

THE Gloucester Day Celebration last summer may have been a big success as an advertising feature for the city, and it may have been a big success as to its educational and enlightening qualifications, but financially it was nothing to be boasted of. The celebration committee held a meeting this week to report on the receipts and expenditures of the great celebration. The total receipts were $16,380, and the expenditures $16,334.11, leaving a balance of $45.89, which does not include a deficit for costumes which have not yet been returned,—and which, probably, will not be returned.

President Taft, in his word of regret to the committee at not being able to be present last summer, said that he would make a strong endeavor to be on hand next summer. And that means, presumably, that Gloucester will have another "big day" next season.

In the adjoining town of Hamilton there has just been organized the Hamilton Citizens' Association, the objects of which are social intercourse, intellectual improvements, study of local affairs, nomination of best men for town office, etc. The membership is composed of men of good character and standing. Regular meetings will be held once a month.

We have often suggested for Manchester the organization of a similar movement, and the many benefits that would accrue as a result.

The Faroe Islands are the stepping-stones to Iceland. Born of mighty volcanic convulsions, they have been cradled for centuries on the heaving breast of the north Atlantic. Towering cones and precipitous cliffs arising abruptly from the sea, their valleys deep intersecting fiords through which the currents surge with the force of the Maelstrom,—these are the characteristic features. The higher altitudes are barren, storm-rifted and forbidding; the lower slopes are covered with luxuriant, nutritious grass which sustains large flocks of sheep,—the staple wealth of the 11,000 Faroese. These cliffs are the nesting places of countless sea-fowl. Many of the Islanders are employed in bird-catching, which task they accomplish with a net at the end of a long pole. By means of a rope they are lowered over the cliff where the fowler swings fearlessly to and fro like a huge pendulum amidst the shrieking, screaming birds. Here he gathers in the net puffin, skua, gull, tern and others. The birds are used for food and their feathers are an important item of export. The sea swarms with the best of fish and the near-by waters are favorite haunts of whale.

The islands cover an area of 850 square miles. The temperature is seldom below 14 degrees Fahrenheit during winter and snow never lingers in the valleys over a week. The mean temperature is 45 degrees of the three warmest months and of the three coldest it is 36 degrees. Fierce storms beat in upon these islands from the north and rush with destructive velocity through its narrow fiords so that communication is often suspended for weeks at a time. Alone in the north Atlantic they are exposed to the full fury of the elements.

The cliffs are all basaltic with a free mingling of porphyry. Thousands of pentagonal columns surpass the well-known structure of Giant's Causeway in geologic grandeur. One of these columns 60 feet in length has fallen and forms a natural bridge over a deep chasm. The Rinkesteen is a basaltic column 24 feet long, 18 feet in diameter and projects 12 feet above the water. So accurately is it balanced in its jointed socket that it sways to and fro with the gentle wash of the waves.

Thorshaven is the capital. Here the products of the sea, the wool and the feathers are prepared for export. It is an ancient hamlet with turf-covered houses scattered at random over the uneven ground with no regard for streets. The postoffice, the government building and the diminutive dwellings,—all scrupulously clean,—comprise the settlement. It bears the seal or lethargy and rouses from its slumber only on the arrival of an occasional vessel which sweeps into its haven like a harbinger from another world.

The Faroese are descendants from the self-expelled Jarls of Scandinavia of the 8th and 9th centuries. Through intermarriage and isolation they have developed peculiar traits. Their language is a dialect, somewhat resembling the Icelandic but difficult of comprehension even by the Danes and Icelanders. Shy and reserved they greet the stranger with an embarrassing timidity, but when their confidence is won they are genial and hospitable. Contrary to the dogma of the medical fraternity this long period of inbreeding has left no marks of degeneration or degradation. Sound in health, robust in physique, pure in morals,—they present a new problem to the ethnologist.

Saga Land.

The lands are there sun-gilded at the hour
When other lands are silvered by the moon
The midnight hour, when down the sun doth pour
A blaze of light as elsewhere at the noon.

I was with the mate on the bridge one morning at five as anxious as Ingolfr was 11 centuries before to discover what secrets these northern waters held,—when the dim outline of land was seen through the shifting fog. I quote from my journal: "An enthusiastic Dane started a Danish song to the tune of 'America' and I mingled the good old English words of Dr. Smith with the explosive gutturals of the Scandinavian. Norse and Yankee are well met in this Icelandic sea and I doff my cap to the descendants of those sturdy mariners who discovered Iceland, Greenland and America, who anglicised Celt and Briton and eventually made possible my own dear New England. What a glorious sea is this! It rolls in all the wild freedom of the north, rich in vivid colors of blue and green in the nearer circle of vision and on the far horizon a sparkling amethyst beneath the deeper azure of the bending sky. To the north the circle is broken by the abrupt basaltic cliffs of Ingolfshofdi. Beyond these rise the red and brown fragments of extinct craters and yet beyond and towering far above the loom the glaciated Jokuls, down whose sides rush mighty torrents of glacial water to dash in uncounted waterfalls into the impatient sea. It was at this point in 870 that Ingolfr landed after being separated from his sacred household pillars."

We followed the shore for hours. We came close in under the black, bare walls and gazed up to Skogafoss tumbling 180 feet of solid waterfall into the breakers. We arrived at the Westman isles, which like the fingers of the Norns had been beckoning to us all the morning. A solitary cone and red crater stands in the center. North and south in a line rise several isolated cliffs abruptly from the sea. We went ashore and made the ascent of the crater, Mount Helgafell. A small fishing hamlet, Heimaey, clings to its lower slope apparently ready to loose its grip and slip into the sea. This place is noted as the retreat of the Irish slaves who fled hither in 879. Twice it has been visited by pirates and both times devastated. First in 1614 by the English and second in 1627 when the Algerine freebooters carried away as slaves the entire population of 400 to Barbary. Of those wrested from their homes only 13 ever returned.

The bird cliffs of Heimaey are the most wonderful in the world. They rise from 1500 to 2000 feet abruptly from the water and are covered with irregularities upon which the birds fight for a resting place. At the base is an ocean cave so spacious that we entered it in a 30-foot launch and turned about within. The deep azure of the waters, the light brown trachyte dome, the purple cone of Helgafell partly hidden by the thousands of puffins, skua and gulls shrieking about the entrance made an impression never to be effaced.

Reykjavik, so named because of the hot springs on the border of the town, was the place where the holy pillars of Ingolfr drifted ashore and where the first permanent settlement was made. Here we landed in a mist in the early morning and made our way to a tidy little hotel kept by an English-speaking German matron. This is the capital of Iceland, the seat of learning, of judicial and mercantile affairs. The city has a population of 8000. In the last 10 years it has been rapidly Europeanized by the laying of sidewalks, sewers, running water, by the addition of telegraph and telephone and the introduction of modern stores where the less expensive wares of Europe and even of America are on sale. Most sales are in the nature of barter, in which the merchant receives the produce of Iceland in exchange for his commodities. The city contains several excellent stone buildings,—among them two banks, the Thing house, the governor's residence and the new library. This structure contains upward of 60,000 volumes of the best literature and standard reference works in Icelandic, Danish, German, French and English. The building also houses the museum of Icelandic antiquities and an excellent natural history collection.

(From the Springfield Republican.)

To be continued next week.

[We reprint the article by Mr. Russell on his recent trip to Iceland, because we think many of Mr. Russell's former friends will be interested to read an account of his trip. He was formerly the principal of the Story High school. He is now professor of Physics in the Springfield High school.—Ed.]

HANGING A HORSE.

Trial and Execution of a Steed Which Overturned a Carriage.

The following account of the private trial and execution of a horse by command of the fantastic Marquis de Briqueville is taken from an article entitled "Biographie des Excentriques," originally published without signature in La Republique du Peuple, described as "Almanach Democratique, Paris, chez Prost, 1850," and republished in Oeuvres Posthumes of Baudelaire, Paris. The article is evidently one of Baudelaire's bits of hack work, but even here the master's touch is felt:

"First of all let us mention the Marquis de Briqueville, a very rich person, popularly deemed crazy and probably slightly so. At least he did all that was necessary to justify the opinion one had of him. One day as he was rushing violently through the streets in his brilliant equipage one of his horses fell. The carriage was upset, and the marquis received an ugly contusion. He is brought back to his mansion; he is in a rage; he wants to dismiss his coachman. The latter justifies himself. The accident was not caused by any fault of his. One of the horses is to blame. 'If it is so,' says the marquis, 'the horse must be punished; every fault must have its penalty.' He orders all his household to appear—steward, butler, valets, scullions, grooms. It is a veritable court of justice. They all take their places. The marquis presides. The accused is brought in. He preserves in his noble bearing the calmness of innocence. The coachman makes the accusation. The secretary of the marquis, filling the office of lawyer, presents the defense of the quadruped. He is long winded, heavy, flat, exactly as if he was pleading before parliament. He quotes the Digest; he spits Latin. He concludes by requesting that his client should be returned to the stable, whose finest ornament he is. The case is heard. The marquis gives his opinion first. He considers the accusation as proved. He votes for the sentence of death. All his valets hurry to vote like him. The whole thing seemed to them a joke. They were mistaken. The marquis had a scaffold erected in his yard. He addressed to the condemned a prolix discourse, in which he made him feel the enormity of his crime. During this oratorical display the unfortunate victim looked upon the instrument of torture with a firm eye—no affectation of courage, no despondency.

"As soon as the marquis had finished a groom threw with dexterity a rope around the neck of the patient, and a few seconds later the poor animal was suspended in the air, the coachman was pulling his feet down, a valet was stamping on his shoulders. The hanging was as correct as those daily exhibited in the square of the Greve. The attendants were stupefied with astonishment."

How Indians Poisoned Arrows.

Indians took a fresh deer liver, fastened it to a long pole and then went to certain places where they knew they would find rattlesnakes. The bucks would poke the first rattler with the liver. The snake would repeatedly strike at the liver with its fangs until its poison was all used up. Then the pole was carried home and fastened upright until the liver became as dry as a bone. The liver was pounded to a fine powder and placed in a buckskin bag. This powder would stick like glue to any moistened surface and was used to poison arrows.—Denver Field and Farm.

Accurate Measure.

A laborer in a dockyard was one day given a two foot rule to measure a piece of iron plate. Not being accustomed to the use of the rule, he returned it after wasting a good deal of time.

"Well, Bill," remarked the foreman, "what is the size of the plate?"

"Well," replied he, with a smile which accompanies duty performed, "it's the length of your rule and two thumbs over, with this piece of brick and the breadth of my hand and arm and from here to there, bar a finger."—London Mail.

A Modern Diogenes.

Ethel, aged six, had gone down the village street with her new doll. It could be plainly seen that she was in dire distress. She stood still, and after a close scrutiny of several men who passed she accosted one.

"Say, are you an honest man?" she demanded.

"Why, yes, I think so," was the astonished reply.

"Well, then, if you're sure you're an honest man," said the little maid, "please hold my dolly while I tie my shoe."—Woman's Home Companion.

Action to be Taken by the War Department on Improving Drawbridge.

A week from next Wednesday, Nov. 17, a hearing will be given at the Town hall, at 10.45 a. m., on the matter of improving the drawbridge, at the entrance to the inner harbor at Manchester, for which petition was made some months ago through the office of Johnson, Clapp and Underwood of Boston, the town counsel. The granting of the hearing is in accordance with the following statement from the office of the secretary of war:

"Having good reason to believe that the bridge over Manchester harbor of the Boston & Maine R. R. is an unreasonable obstruction to the free navigation of said Manchester harbor on account of insufficient height and width of draw span, of slow operation of the draw span and of piling and stone left in the channel through the draw. It is proposed to require the following change by Dec. 31, 1910. Widen the draw to clear width of not less than 40 feet, increase the clear height under the draw span to not less than 8 feet at mean high water and place in efficient condition the mechanism for operating the draw span."

It is the aim of Mr. Ginn, the Boston publisher at the head of the new peace-propaganda, to unite the business men of the world for the suppression of war. This may or may not be another wild peace dream. War upsets business, and except for a nation or a commercial interest which happens to be favorably situated the result is long standing business depression. There seems to be no other element of society backed by means and having a common interest so well adapted for the task of peace-making as the business men of the world. It is primarily an appeal to the pocket, an appeal which strikes home the world over.

While the movement proposed by Mr. Ginn is new, the idea behind it is old. It is undisputed that financiers have again and again decided whether war should be or should not be. They controlled the purse, and controlled it for the good of business. The new plan is not to use the holdup on nations and rulers, rather to unite the business interests in the maintenance of schools to arouse the convictions of all classes as to the benefits of peace. While it may put on a moral front, the force behind the business men's peace association will be commercialism, and when money talks things generally go.

VANITY OF AN EMPRESS.

Josephine Dearly Loved Her Gowns and Her Jewels.

It is a rare privilege to be allowed to peep at the mysteries of an empress' toilet, to ransack her wardrobes, with their treasures of costly gowns, to open her jewel casket and to gloat over gems that would purchase many a king's ransom. But when this empress is the most luxurious and picturesque woman of an extravagant age the temptation is too strong to resist, says the London Standard.

Such an empress was Josephine, in turn the spoiled darling and outcast wife of Napoleon I., whose star filled the social heaven of Europe for five years. Josephine was more than forty years old and had already exhausted all the arts of luxury when she was crowned empress in 1804. Her first beauty had long left her, and it is said she had practiced the fatal and fashionable art of enameling until the enamel would no longer retain its hold on her skin, but cracked and covered her with a constant layer of white powder.

For ordinary occasions her hairdresser was a M. Herbeault, "a magnificent creature in an embroidered costume, with a sword at his side," but for any important occasion M. Duplan, the most consummate artist in the world, was called in. M. Duplan's salary for these occasional services was 20,000 francs a year, increased later by Napoleon to 42,000 francs. These two unrivaled artists designed for Josephine's benefit no less than a thousand new methods of hairdressing, each adapted to the special circumstances in which it was worn.

Much as Josephine loved her hundreds of costly dresses, she loved her jewelry more and was never happy unless she was adding almost daily to her treasures. In a few short months she spent half a million francs on jewels, and her happiest hours at Malmaison were spent in spreading out her thousands of gems on the table before her and gloating over their dazzling charms.

Her extravagance was the cause of many tears and much upbraiding from Napoleon, who grew tired of paying bills, many of them reaching almost a million francs. But in the end he usually succumbed to her pleading and penitence and would say to her: "Come, Josephine! Come, my little one!

Console yourself. I will make it all right." Poor, silly Josephine! Poor Napoleon!

The Size of Texas.

Texas is larger than all the New England states combined, larger than all the gulf states, including Georgia, combined; larger than the middle Atlantic states, consisting of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia; larger than Germany, larger than France; larger than Austria-Hungary. It is big enough to supply the population of the United States with almost everything it needs to eat, wear and make life worth living without exhausting its resources. All this is not so remarkable from the standpoint of room when it is known that the area of Texas is 265,780 square miles, that its greatest length is 825 miles and its greatest breadth 740 miles. — Galveston News.

He Bit.

The city man was jogging on toward the farmhouse in a rickety old wagon. The driver was glum and far from entertaining, and the city man felt rather lonely.

"Fine field over there," he ventured after a long silence.

"Fine," grunted the driver.

"Who owns it?"

"Old man Bitt."

"Old man Bitt, eh? Who are those children stacking up hay?"

"Old man Bitt's boys."

"And what is his idea in having them out there in the field such a hot day?"

"Waal, I reckon he thinks every little Bitt helps, stranger. Anything else you want to know? Get up here, hosses!" — Philadelphia Ledger.

Lost a Breakfast.

When in London early in his career Paul Du Chaillu, the explorer, received an invitation to breakfast signed "S. Oxon." On going to the address given he found it was a boot shop in Pall Mall and came away, deeming it, as he said, an impertinence that a bootmaker whom he did not know should invite him to breakfast. He afterward learned that the invitation was from the famous Bishop Wilberforce of Oxford, whose London lodgings were over the boot shop. The prelate met him later and was greatly amused when the explorer told him of his mistake.

The voters in the Centerville part of Ward 6 feel that they are so far from the polls on Election Day that it is a great inconvenience and often a hardship for them to cast their ballot, and in consequence many do not exercise their privilege. In the last election out of the 66 voters in that section, only 24 came to the Farms to vote. The voters of that district would prefer to have a precinct of their own, and in case this cannot be brought about, they would like to be transferred to some other ward, perhaps to Ward 4, where the polling place in the Hardie School would be convenient to reach by electric cars.

A feature of the election Tuesday, as far as Beverly Farms was concerned, was the small vote cast. Only 321 votes were recorded, of which 133 were for Draper and 88 for Vahey. An effort was made by both parties to get out the vote, but with little success, the Republicans especially showing lack of interest.

The Beverly board of registrars of voters will be in session in room 3, City hall, for the purpose of qualifying persons who are not now on the voting list, for right to vote at the coming city election on Dec. 14, as follows: Nov. 5, 12, 17, 19, from 7.30 to 9 p. m., and on Nov. 24 from 12 noon to 10 p. m.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Osborn are leaving next week for a ten days' vacation trip to St. John, N. B.

The American Express Co.'s office at Pride's has been closed for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Powers, who have been residents at the Farms for several years past, of late occupying apartments in the Connolly Bros. house on Vine street, left the first of this week in company with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wallace for Los Angeles, Cal., where they plan to make their future home.

Capt. Duncan T. Smith, who is in charge of Mr. Tyler's power boat, is spending a day or so each week in Boston, looking over the building of a much larger and better equipped craft which Mr. Tyler is having built, and of which Capt. Smith will be in charge next season.

Last Monday Mlle. L'Etourneau closed her lunch and variety store, which she had conducted in Neighbors' hall block for the last year and a half.

Standard oil stock ran wild Tuesday! That is, that part of it which was at Beverly Farms, in the form of a pair of horses and a large tank. The equipment was on Greenwood avenue, headed toward Common Lane, when the horses took fright at something and started on a mad dash up the avenue into the wood drive. They ran over a mile before being stopped. Meanwhile the driver had been hurled from his seat and was considerably bruised and cut up. He was taken to the Beverly Hospital. The horses were taken to the Sears stable.

Miss Arietta Osborn, the daughter of Mrs. Judith Hilton Osborn, of North Place, has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be about again.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Anderson, since their removal from the Farms, have had a visit from the stork, which left them a baby girl. Mr. Anderson is coachman in the Mrs. C. H. Dalton family.

THE THISSELL CO., Beverly Farms

An endeavor is being made to organize a men's class at the Beverly Farms Baptist church.

The firm of Hanson & Batchelder, masons and bricklayers, located at Beverly, has dissolved partnership. George D. Batchelder, jr., one member of the firm is a Farms boy, and since he has been in business he has done many excellent jobs at the Farms.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Bennett arrived at the Farms yesterday afternoon for a short visit and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Pride. Rev. Mr. Bennett is pastor of the Baptist church at Becket, and is the successor of Rev. Edward Mitchell, a former Farms man. Rev. Mr. Bennett was pastor of the Farms church for several years.

James R. L. Wiseman, the popular book-keeper at the D. Linehan & Son office, yesterday took out nomination papers for the common council from Ward 6. Last year Mr. Wiseman was a candidate and lost the election by only a small margin. Councilman A. P. Loring, jr., yesterday took out papers for the board of aldermen.

Members of the G. A. R. Associates are meeting in G. A. R. hall every Thursday evening. As soon as a sufficient number attends a pitch tournament will be started.

The regular meeting of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will be held tonight. The entertainment committee is planning to make this winter's meetings interesting in a social way.

The women's gymnasium class, of which Miss May D. Connolly is instructor, will start their season's work in Marshall's hall next Monday evening, Nov. 8. The young ladies' class will commence on Saturday evening, Nov. 13, also in Marshall's hall. The children's classes are also to be started soon and they will be given notice by card. The terms for instruction are the same as last year. The members are looking forward to the renewal of these classes with pleasure.

The 1909 tax bills have been distributed about the Farms the last week by George F. Wood of Hart street. The rate is two dollars less this year.

Robert Smith and family have moved into the upper tenement of the Robert Brown house on Hart street, which rooms have just been vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wallace.

John W. Phillips, councilman from the Centerville end of Ward 6, has announced his candidacy for re-election this week. Councilman Phillips has done good work for his ward the last year, and he has served on several good committees.

More or less dissatisfaction is being heard about the frequent changes of teachers at the Farms school. Parents of children who attend the 7th and 8th grades think the many changes in that room are not to the best advantage of their children. There have been six different teachers in that room since the beginning of the fall term, it is said.

The annual inspection of Preston W. R. C. took place Tuesday evening in Marshall's hall. Mrs. Andrews of Gloucester was the inspecting official. After the business meeting refreshments were served and an hour was spent socially.

Beverly Farms is to have another barber shop. Augustine Callahan, a popular Farms young man, has leased the store in Neighbors' hall block, recently vacated by Mlle. L'Etourneau, and is fitting it up. He has hired James F. McGerity for a barber. Since coming to the Farms last spring Mr. McGerity has been employed first at F. P. Gaudreau's shop in Central square, and later at F. X. Gaudreau's shop near the depot. He expects to be ready for business Saturday, and will carry a line of pipes, tobaccos and cigars.

Wyatt's Market on West street has closed for the season, though it may possibly open a little later for the winter trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Coombs, who have been at the Farms since early last June, returned to New York City this week. While here they have made many friends. They hope to return here next year.

Suspiciously Cheap

Yes, that's possible, and what's more, we see it expressed in people's faces each day as they look and admire

and then are told the price.

The Dressers look so good and the price they get seems so little, they wonder for the moment regarding the quality.

But, then, it's at Titus', and they know, if here, they MUST be all right and with a degree of great pleasure they buy such as this. Made all of oak, and white oak at that, the interiors of white wood, entirely free from knots. A natty shaped mirror of French bevel on a swell front base, with divided top drawers, round corner posts and pretty spoon feet.

'Twill surprise you now when we tell you the price, for it looks to be more.

Titus' Only $11.00

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1909.

❖ Society Notes ❖

One of the largest fields of the season followed the trail of the ainise seed in the run of the Myopia hunt club at Hamilton last Saturday afternoon. The meet was at the kennels and the trail lead over hill and dale through Hamilton and Wenham to North Beverly at the Moraine farm where the "kill" was scored. Mrs. John C. Phillips of Washington, who spends the season at the Moraine farm, entertained the hunting party at breakfast at her beautiful home.

William Gibbons Preston and family have just closed their residence at Beverly Farms and have returned to 1063 Beacon street, Boston, for the winter.

An engagement of much interest to North Shore people is that of Miss Amie H. Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., to John P. Hollingsworth. The Clarks have spend the last summer at West Manchester, and they will return there next season. They are still at their country estate at St. David's, Pa.

Mrs. Augustus P. Loring will give a dinner dance in Boston Friday, Jan. 21, for her only daughter, May. Miss Loring qualified as one of the cleverest skippers on the shore the last summer. She sailed in most of the races at Marblehead and Manchester during the yacht-racing season.

Mrs. G. E. Cabot is to give the first of two at homes next Tuesday, Nov. 16, at her home, 169 Marlboro street, to meet Miss Lucy Sewall Cabot. The other will be on Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan and Miss Dorothy Jordan, who have been at the Virginia Hot Springs since closing their summer home at West Manchester, returned last week to their Beacon street, Boston, home, in time for the opening of the opera season Monday night. After the opera Mr. and Mrs. Jordan gave a supper at the Algonquin club.

Mrs. William H. Coolidge of the Manchester colony is to present her daughter at a tea early in December, the date not yet positively set. Only recently have the family left Manchester. They are now at their Newton Center home for the winter.

Of Interest to Yachtsmen.

With no possibility of a race for the America's cup next season, the most important events for the consideration of yachtsmen will be the races of the sonder klasse boats and the match for the Seawanhaka cup, now held by the Manchester Yacht club, says the Sunday Herald. As the challenge of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club for the Seawanhaka cup has been in the hands of the Manchester Yacht club for a year, a contest for that trophy is practically assured.

Yachts built to compete for the Seawanhaka cup are subject to restrictions as to scantlings, sail area and rating. The last of the racers were of about 25 feet rating, upon a sail of 500 square feet. Since the last match, however, at a conference between representatives of the Royal St. Lawrence and the Manchester yacht clubs, it was agreed to increase the sail area to 625 feet.

Under these conditions it would be impossible for yachts built for sonder klasse rules to compete for this trophy. It would be possible, however, for the Royal St. Lawrence and the Manchester yacht clubs to get together and agree to have the match sailed under the rules of the sonder klasse. This would, no doubt, be favorable to the Americans, as there are several boats of the sonder klasse now eligible for trial races of the Manchester Yacht club if the rules should be chosen, and there are three or four new ones expected in the field next season.

From 1897 to 1904 inclusive the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club has held possession of the Seawanhaka Challenge cup, which was offered by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht club as an international trophy in 1895. In 1905 the Manchester, designed and sailed by E. A. Boardman, captured the trophy and brought it back to this country.

The American National Red Cross.

The fifth annual meeting of the Massachusetts branch will be held on November 16, 1909, at No. 3 Joy street, Boston, at 12 o'clock, noon.

Officers will be elected and any other business that may be proposed will be transacted. A large attendance is requested to debate the question of dissolving the Branch organization, according to a new plan proposed by the Central Committee at Washington.

KATHARINE P. LORING,
Secretary.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The transfer of another summer estate at Manchester has just been announced,—that of the Bullard estate, at Singing Beach, to Thomas Taylor, jr., a wealthy young South Carolinian. The sale was made through the office of T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman. The former owners moved their goods from the property this week and the house is now ready to be turned over to the purchaser. It is understood that Mr. Taylor will make a few improvements to the property this winter, but nothing extensive will be done this year, as the owner plans to occupy it next season. The property is located on the easterly end of Singing Beach, and is among the most charmingly located along the Manchester shore. Entrance to it is from Sea street.

The work of laying conduits on Forest street, by the Manchester Electric Co., for extending service to the A. L. Devens and the P. Dexter estates has been completed, though the cables have not yet been pulled through the conduits. The service is to be extended to the Devens' property this winter and next spring to Mr. Dexter's.

Though the final papers have not yet been passed in the sale of the Castle Hill farm at Ipswich, it is known that Richard T. Crane, jr., of Chicago is the prospective owner of the large estate. As already stated in the Breeze extensive improvements will be made and the place will be transformed into one of the grandest estate on the North Shore. The Cranes have recently returned to their Chicago home for the winter. They had the Cochrane house at Pride's the last summer, and last year they had the Randolph Coolidge cottage at Manchester.

More or less work is being done on the grounds of the Essex County club this fall, as usual, with the aim of still further improving the grounds and making them numbered among the finest golf links in the country. No extensive work is being carried on. A few bunkers are being built and changed over, a few new greens will be laid out, and some woods and shrubbery will be cleared away. The work is being carried on under the direction of the caretaker, Owens Hansberry.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Putnam have sent out cards for the ball at the Somerset, Boston, on Friday night, Dec. 3, to introduce their daughter, Miss Katherine Putnam. The guests include besides the debutantes and their families, a number of the older girls and their parents. On Wednesday of this week Mrs. Putnam gave a reception at her Beacon street home for older people. Though they have closed their summer residence on the North Shore Mr. and Mrs. Putnam and family very frequently run down to their estate at Manchester during the fall and winter, especially for week-ends.

T. Dennie Boardman and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich are returning from West Manchester to their Boston home at 145 Beacon street next Wednesday.

Among those who are enjoying the delightful autumn on the Shore are William T. Spaulding and his bride, who will remain at Pride's most of this month. They will sail the first of next month for Egypt. Mr. Spaulding's sister, Mrs. Henry Parsons King and her family are also still at Pride's. They will return to Boston next Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. King will also sail for Europe later in the winter.

Frederick Ayer and family have closed Avalon, their Pride's estate, and are settled at 395 Commonwealth ave., Boston, for the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Sears have been at their Beverly estate later than usual this autumn. They are leaving shortly for the south for several months.

Mrs. Marie Antionette Evans, executrix under the will of Robert D. Evans, of Beverly and Boston, who died on July 6, has filed the inventory of his estate with the Massachusetts tax commissioner. The actual market value on the day of the death of the deceased was as follows: Real estate, $133,275; personal, $10,404,828; total, $10,538,103.

Augustus P. Loring has sold his auxiliary sloop yacht Jingo, to Sumner C. Andrews of Gloucester.

Francis I. Amory and family left Beverly Cove Wednesday for their Boston residence, 413 Commonwealth avenue. Work is progressing quite favorably on Mr. Amory's new summer home at Beverly Cove.

Mrs. Franklin Haven will close her cottage at Beverly Farms next Monday morning and will return to Boston.

Childs Frick, left Pride's Crossing for New York Wednesday, where he will join a party of friends for a hunting trip to Africa.

Real Estate :: :: And Improvements

It has been said that Manchester has reached its zenith as a summer resort, now that every lot of land along the water front has been bought and is being used as the homes of summer residents. A visit to the section of the town, off Forest street, and between that and the Magnolia station section, would indicate that Manchester's career is but beginning. Manchester is richly endowed with scores of beautiful hills and these are being used more and more as the sites for summer homes. At the present time the largest summer residence in the town with one or two exceptions, is being built for Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dexter.

In many particulars besides the size of the mansion, Mr. Dexter's summer estate at Manchester will surpass all others. Its vast area is one of its essential features setting it apart from other estates. Its location, perched on the top of a high hill, commanding a magnificent view of the surrounding country, is another feature.

There are at present at work on the grounds and in the construction of roads and buildings upwards of 150 men.

In its general dimensions the house is about 70 by 140 feet. It will be two stories high, and with its large dormers, practically three stories. The rooms will be large and well lighted, and will be finished with the very finest material. Dover River water struck brick will be used in construction, with concrete granite corners, and with same material enclosing the window and door frames. A long hall will run the entire length of the building, and on either side of this walls of brick will run from the foundations to the roof, thus insuring the best possible fire protection.

It is not our intention at this early date to go into the details of this building, nor of the other buildings, and surroundings.

For more than a year the work of constructing roads, laying water pipes, etc., has been going on, much of the construction being through solid rock. The house itself rests on a solid rock foundation, and a heavily constructed wall has been built around the entire house, to a level with the foundations, and this will be surmounted on three sides by a handsome concrete stone balustrade.

The stable and garage are well along toward completion. Each is of the terra cotta construction, with slap dash finish. There is a tenement in each. Each building will be equipped with the very finest appointments.

Two tennis courts are being built on the northerly side of the house.

Extensive forestry work has been done on the whole estate of some 260 acres during the last two years, under the direction of Allen S. Peabody, a graduate of Biltmore. Roads and paths have been laid out.

One of the distinctive features of the estate will be the pond, now being built. This is at the end of the field, off Forest street, at the foot of the hill leading up to the mansion. It will be some three acres in area and will be most artistically laid out.

George Kimball, formerly superintendent of streets in Manchester, has charge of the extensive avenue construction work, and general supervision of the work being done in connection with the building of the house.

H. A. Doane, the general contractor for the work of improvements at the Baptist church, Manchester, has given the sub-contracts for foundations and all mason work to George S. Sinnicks, and the painting and decorating to John Scott. The foundations are practically completed and the carpenter work will be started next week by Mr. Doane, under the charge of E. J. Height.

The alterations and addition to the Cunningham house, corner Summer street extension and Sea street, Manchester, are now practically completed outside. The work has been done by H. A. Doane, under the charge of E. J. Height, as foreman.

Alfred W. Proctor et ux. Eva M., of Beverly, convey to Eli R. Hodgkins of Beverly Farms, one acre woodland in Manchester.

The Manchester Park Commissioners are making improvements at Singing Beach, by removing the low growth of wasteless shrubbery, and by levelling off the beach bank, prior to making further improvements next spring.

Myopia Superintendent Tendered Surprise.

As a token of the esteem and respect in which they were held, and of how much they had endeared themselves to friends and neighbors, a large gathering of Hamilton residents met at Smith's hall in that place Monday evening to do honor to Frank G. Norris, for six years superintendent at the Myopia Hunt club, and his estimable wife, who sailed Tuesday on the Ivernian from Boston to spend the winter in England. The party was planned as a surprise and it proved a most happy one. A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Norris of a magnificent silver tea urn and a silver pitcher.

EVELYN'S DIARY.

D. F. LAMSON.

Part I.

The fashion of keeping a Diary which was quite common in England with literary people some centuries ago, and was followed in our country to some extent in colonial times, has helped much to a more familiar knowledge of the manners, customs and daily life of our forefathers. In distinction from history, which concerns itself mainly with public events, with matters of state, politics, battles, sieges, diplomacy and conquest, the diary has to do with the individual and family and the narrower circle of common, every-day life. It may have references, perhaps, though incidental and casual and for that reason all the more valuable, to events taking place on a broader stage, and thus often confirm or correct the more formal history. A diary has the advantage of reflecting passing occurrences as presenting themselves to a contemporary if not an eyewitness. Such diaries are of great value to the historian and often of great interest to the general reader.

One of the most famous of English Diarists is Samuel Pepys, 1633—1703. He was a keen observer and a racy chronicler of the events of his time, especially as they centred in the city and the court. He was a good deal of a gossip and his tastes were not over refined; he is often volatile and egotistic; but his Diary has a secure place in literature as a transcript of a picturesque, if frivolous and depraved, order of political and social life.

A man of much sounder grain was John Evelyn, 1620—1706. His name is less known than that of Pepys, but it is deserving of more honor. Both were contemporaries and both held offices of state; they were also personal friends, though the intimacy does not seem to have been great between them. They were unlike in their tastes, their pursuits and their friendships. Evelyn spent many years on the Continent, was for his time an extensive traveller, and interested himself in many things aside from his official and public life. He wrote on Architecture, Navigation and Commerce, besides an elaborate work on Arboriculture. He was well born, was educated at Oxford, and was a man of culture and refinement. His Diary which he began when eleven years of age and continued through life, is a record of the observations and reflections of an intelligent and thoughtful man, one who was conversant with men, society, literature and art, of temperate judgment, and of purity and integrity of character that in an age of general profligacy remained unstained. He took little interest in the fripperies and the gossip and goings-on of the court and of high life; but had an alert and inquiring mind for notable public events, for antiquities, works of art, prodigies, discoveries, inventions. Evelyn was a royalist and churchman in the deepest centre of his being; but he deprecated the persecution of republicans and dissenters, and though he wrote against the Jesuits, he refused to join in the popular clamor against Papists.

The Diary affords much curious and interesting information of affairs both in England and Europe during a time of great upheaval and change in the secular and religious world. It is written in a simple, straightforward manner, without pretence or egotism, but bears on every page the marks of a cultivated and generous mind. In another paper an attempt will be made to give a little idea of its varied contents.

Were he not a prohibitionist and one of the old stand-bys of the party and its cause in Manchester, one might suppose that the subject of this item may have been to Salem for some purpose other than to buy his Sunday's dinner. At any rate, last Saturday night he was returning to Manchester on the train which arrives here shortly after eight o'clock. When the brakeman called out "Beverly Farms" my good friend picked up his bundles and hustled off. It was not until some friend spoke to him after the train had started that he realized he had alighted at the wrong station. And the next train for Manchester left two hours later!

George P. Brown of Beverly, trustee under the will of John L. Story of Beverly, conveys to Sarah A. Porter of Manchester land and buildings on Mulberry street, Beverly, 60 by 80 feet.

Launch Club Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of the Manchester Launch club was held Monday evening when the following officers and committees were elected for the coming year: Alfred C. Needham, commodore; L. O. Latons, vice com.; R. L. Cheever, secretary and treasurer; Frank L. Decker, collector; David Fenton, measurer; Dr. C. L. Hoyt, Roger L. Putnam, Fred H. Mosher, and officers of the club ex-officio, executive committee; R. L. Putnam, F. J. Merrill, E. P. Stanley, Thomas Baker, and L. O. Latons, membership committee; W. B. Calderwood, E. P. Stanley and L. O. Latons, regatta committee; F. L. Decker, L. O. Latons and L. W. Carter, house committee; A. C. Needham, David Fenton and W. B. Calderwood, legislation com. After the meeting a collation was partaken of, consisting of steamed clams, crackers, coffee, etc.

Will Run Next Year.

Frank C. Richardson, Esq., of Essex, Democratic candidate for senator from the third Essex district, is not at all cast down by his defeat at the election last week, but announces that he will be a candidate again next year.

Mr. Richardson says he has no one to blame for his defeat except himself. He did not enter the campaign with any idea of success, and because of that did not make a very active campaign. In Essex, Ipswich, Manchester and Newburyport, he made such decided gains, that he feels that if he had covered the entire district, the final story of the election would have been different.

"I am not at all discouraged by my defeat," said Mr. Richardson, "the result of the election has satisfied me that I could have done better, and I will be a candidate next year if I receive the nomination, and will enter into a vigorous and aggressive campaign."

Lawyers to Organize.

Lawyers in Salem and vicinity have voted to form an association to be known as the Salem Bar Association, the membership to include attorneys of Salem and surrounding towns, the object being to further purely local interests pertaining to the practice of their profession. A constitution will be adopted and officers elected at an adjourned meeting to be held at the law library, in the county court house at Salem Saturday morning.

Talk about the increase in the price of land in Manchester! I am told that when the late Stephen Bullard bought the property at Singing Beach where the family have spent their summers for a great many years, back in 1862, he paid some $1900 for it. And it included besides the land which has been known in recent years as the Bullard estate, Image Hill and several acres of land beyond, where are now located the Wigglesworth residence, and others. A few years ago Image Hill was sold for some $45,000, and within the last two weeks the Bullard estate has been sold for something in excess of $50,000,—probably nearer $75,000.

Lillian Russell in Boston.

Lillian Russell will pay her annual visit to Boston for a limited engagement of two weeks, commencing Monday night, Nov. 15 at the Hollis Street Theatre. For this period the famous American beauty will be seen in a new comedy of contemporary life called "The Widow's Might." It is by Edmund Day the author of "The Round-up" and kindred successes. For his latest effort Mr. Day has turned to the social and financial circles of New York City as a locale for his action. In these surroundings he has planted a story that is unusually appealing in interest and especially happy in its refined and delightful comedy.

For her limited stay at the Hollis Miss Russell will be seen also at the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees the first week and for the second will give a special Thanksgiving matinee Thursday afternoon and the customary one on Saturday of that week also.

He is now engaged in a campaign for the benefit of aged couples in English workhouses who are separated and during his present American tour is singing a song that has done more to stir the English people than any that has been written in years. Besides this he has one of the best repertoires he has ever had and is proving a bigger favorite than ever. He will head an exceptionally strong bill including W. C. Rayno's Bull Dogs are probably the most remarkable animals that have been seen on the stage in years, and the act they do is of the most amusing character.

WITH THE BOWLERS.

Greeks, Regals and S. of V. tied for First Percentage Honors. Scores for Third Round.

The third round of the Manchester Bowling league came to a close last Friday night with the Greeks, Regals and S. of V. tied for first honors, the Business Men dropping to fourth place.

As the games progress added interest is taken in the matches and crowds are at the alleys every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night for the team plays. In answer to some questions which have arisen we might say that no member of either team is eligible to either of the team or individual prizes unless he has played in ten or more matches. In case of a tie at the end of the season the teams or individuals will play three strings and the winner will be the team or player winning two of the strings, and not by points as in the regular team rolling.

The result of the matches of the third round follows:

The fourth round was started on Monday night of this week when the S. of V. met the Business Men, and beat them three points to one. Following is the summary:

| Monday, Nov. 8. | | | | |
| S. of V. | 430 | 432 | 463 | 1325 |
| Business Men | 430 | 414 | 436 | 1280 |

In the roll-off of the tie, for the first string, the Business Men won, thus getting their only point. The S. of V.'s total of 1325 is the best record of the league thus far.

On the opening day—Thursday—the judges awarded Mr. Creed first prize. He protested but this was all the satisfaction he obtained. The prize had been awarded to another.

The assessors have completed their work at the office of the tax commissioner in Boston, in going over the books looking for bank and corporation taxes. Returns from the office of the tax commissioner this week show that Manchester will receive from corporation taxes this year $54,543.80, against $46,465.49 last year, an increase of some $8,000. The amount coming to the town from bank stock will be $4959.71, against $4851.91 last year. It is gratifying to the public to learn that inasmuch as there was an impression the town would loose some $15,000 due to the recent law which gave 50 percent of corporation taxes to the towns and cities in which they are located, that the town will gain not only enough to withstand this loss, but some $8000 in excess. The assessors explain this is due to the increase in the market value of stocks May 1, and also to the fact that so many people have placed their money in non-taxable securities to a great extent.

Editor North Shore Breeze,

Dear Sir: There is a rapidly growing sentiment in town as to the desirability of using the water from Gravel Pond for winter consumption. The objection put forward to its use in warm weather, viz: that it was not cold enough, will not hold during the colder months of the year, and if used for winter consumption will enable us to conserve a large quantity of the cold driven well water for use in the summer months.

The Gravel Pond water is, without doubt, better for domestic usage, owing to its being much softer than the other supply.

But away and beyond all these reasons for its use at this time, is the one of health. The writer does not hesitate to say that if a person is disposed to rheumatic troubles he will surely find great relief and possibly a cure by the use of this water. The promoters of the Gravel Pond scheme probably did not consider this phase of the matter, not knowing particularly of the medicinal properties of the water. But in obtain-

THE people of Manchester have many things to be thankful for; things that are commonly classed among a town's assets. We have the reputation of having the finest streets in the country; we have magnificent inland drives; beautiful beaches, and a happy combination of sea-shore and country scenery, and other things which we will not stop to enumerate.

The latest improvement,—the latest addition to the town's assets—is the installation of city delivery. Think of it, city delivery for a town the size of Manchester! City delivery and rural delivery should not be confused. They are entirely different. Rural delivery is just what it means, mail delivery in the rural districts, say within a limit of half a mile from the postoffice. But with city delivery we have the very best that can be offered.

And yet there are some people who would rather not have it. We have heard of some people in Manchester who would do anything even now to prevent the government from instituting city delivery here. They would probably go so far as to sign a petition against it if such a petition were presented to them.

What a condition! Here is a prize which every town in the country covets; the citizens of most communities would pay large sums of money could they have city delivery; yet the prize comes Manchester's way unsolicited, we might say, and there are some who would say "No, we don't want your improvements; take them away."

About the only objection that can be raised is that it will henceforth cost two cents to mail a letter in the town.

Think of it; it will cost ONE CENT additional to mail a letter in town.

This will mean a big expenditure for the business firms of the town. It means that most of them will be called upon to spend from ten to twenty or twenty-five dollars a year additional for postage. It happens, though, the business firms of Manchester are a mighty small proportion of the population. What about the "common people" we hear so much about now a days. Isn't it a great benefit to them? Think of the hundreds of people in the town who do not now come to the postoffice everyday for their mail, and who will now have their mail brought to their homes twice or three times a day.

It so happens that there is no business firm in the town that the installation of the service will affect as much as the publishers of the local papers. It means an additional expense of from $60 to $80 a year for them. What do they say?

Let's have our city delivery, Postmaster Wheaton, and let's have any other improvements you can give us, too. We pass through this world only once, and let's have our money's worth while we're at it!

ANOTHER bouquet for Manchester! The newspapers tell of the travels of the Good Roads committee of thirty or more members all over the United States. The committee, it will be remembered, were on this way some weeks ago, and they paid a visit to the North Shore. They are now in Ohio, and it is gratifying to read that in all their travels they have not seen a road of equal wearing construction as those at "Manchester, Mass." It sounds good to read such things in the papers. And yet there are people here in Manchester (who have not yet travelled all over the country looking up road construction) who would differ with those experts! The piece of road along Central street, in Manchester, from the square to Pine street, has proved one of the finest pieces of road in the town. And there are several miles of road here now just as good as that stretch.

It is evident that the combination offer which we announced last week is going to be taken advantage of by many people. Several persons have already given their order for two of the magazines, in combination with the BREEZE, at a $3.00 price,—a saving of one dollar over the regular price of the three publications. We again call attention to the advertisement in this issue. Irrespective of this offer, we are making the customary offer at this season of the year, as announced two weeks ago, of sending the BREEZE to all new subscribers from now to Jan. 1, 1910, free. All subscriptions to the paper received during November and December will be dated Jan. 1, 1910, and will expire Dec. 31, 1910.

It is to be hoped that a representative gathering of the citizens of Manchester will plan to attend the hearing to be given at the Town hall on Friday, Nov. 26th, on the matter of making needed improvements to the entrance into Manchester inner harbor under the Boston & Maine railroad bridge. This matter has been agitated for some time, but no advance was made until the present board of selectmen put the matter up to the Secretary of War, through its town counsel. The hearing is given before the representatives of this office. It is understood that a large delegation of our summer residents will appear at the hearing and that every effort will be made to have the improvements made.

The Manchester Electric Co. is soon to extend its service to the R. C. Hooper estate at West Manchester. A private plant has been in use there for several years, but this is to be discontinued and the corporation's service substituted.

The Sturdy Icelanders.

The Icelanders are the direct descendants of the best blood in Scandinavia in the days when Harold, the fairhaired, by his tyranny drove from Norway the barons and rulers of the petty kingdoms. To this day they have maintained their independence. Originally a liberty-loving race they have fostered the better traits of civilization which they crystalized into a republican form of government centuries ago. The true type is found upon the farms. Clad in homespun and sheepskin slippers, with beard long, heavy and sandy, with hands and face sunbrowned, the Icelander is not prepossessing. Modest and timid, he greets the stranger with reserve, but this mannerism is superficial. His confidence won, he becomes a genial and hospitable host. He provides you with his best, and does it not so much for the kroners you may pay him on taking your departure as for his wish to be sincerely hospitable.

Descended from generation to generation for centuries upon the same farms, often separated a half day's journey from his neighbor literally earning his bread by the sweat of his brow, one might suppose the Icelandic farmer to be ignorant. This is not the case. He is well versed in history, knows the old sagas by heart and often speaks a second language. Many of them are well versed in the Latin authors. Iceland has produced some excellent scholars. Her physicians are well known in Europe. One of the greatest authorities on leprosy today is a quiet, modest native of Reykjavik with whom it was my good fortune to associate for eight days on shipboard. In the remote locality of Hrúni I found a botanist who has really done some wonderful work. He has made himself an authority in Europe upon grasses and sedges. I count one of my pleasantest evenings in Iceland the one I spent in his study, when he showed me a full collection of all the Icelandic flowers. Imagine my surprise when I learned that his flaxen-haired boy of 12 years had collected and identified most of this collection while tending the sheep.

The Icelandic home consists of several stone houses built side by side with their gable, in a row. The roofs are sod covered. The rear of the houses is usually a mound which slopes downward from the gable. The passage ways and kitchens usually have earth or lava floors. In the poorer quarters at least one room is well finished in wood, painted, furnished with a bed, a small table and a few simple chairs and an organ. These people are all deeply religious and very fond of church music.

Since the introduction of corrugated sheet iron the hayricks and the fronts of the dwellings are frequently covered with it. Doubtless this is better economy for the farmer but it detracts from the picturesqueness which has been characteristic of Icelandic homes for a thousand years. The buildings and a spacious garden are always enclosed with a wall of turf and lava blocks. Our New England farmers should go to Iceland and learn how to build stone walls. They surely have the material and the Icelander can show him how to build it to stand 500 years and be a thing of beauty and utility when completed. They are built with alternate layers of lava slabs and turfed and the whole is then turfed over. Within these enclosures we saw better patches of potatoes, turnips and rhubarb than it is possible to find in New England. These fences frequently enclose all the mowing land. A description of the process of haymaking in Iceland would be of great interest but it would require a special paper for an appreciative description.

Once and for all let me state that there are no Eskimos in Iceland. It should also be understood that the climate is much less severe than in Springfield. The mean temperature for the four summer months is 39 Fahrenheit and it sometimes rises to 77 Fahrenheit. In the winter the temperature is more often above freezing than below.

An Overland Journey.

With a train of eight ponies and a guide who spoke a little English, Mrs. Russell and I left Reykjavik for a ride of 400 miles, visiting Thingvellir, Geysir, Hrúni, Mt. Hecla, Eyraðakki, Krusivik and Hafnarfjörður. During our journey we "passed through many rough and rugged" portions of the county, fording glacial torrents, crossing range after range of volcanic craters, skirting lakes fed by boiling springs, exploring many acres of hot solfataras, winding a tortuous passage over miles of naked and horrent lava, passing our leisure hours in the homes of the cordial Icelandic farmers. The trail from Reykjavik winds over a range of hills amidst which nestle several small lakes. The backward view from the summit embraces the multicolored mountain chain of Esja, the broad purple waters of Faxaflói out of which rises Snaefells Jökull, a pyramid of ice 6000 feet in altitude.

Descending the slope to the north the trail leads for several hours across the moss-fell heath. This is a lonesome, stony lichen-covered waste, where thousands of curlew, plover and ptarmigan wheel about or run rapidly over ground, making the air vibrant with cries. What a paradise for the sportsman! This monotonous ride is enlivened by the snow capped mountains on either side and by contrast enhances the enchantment of the wonderful landscape which bursts unexpectedly upon the vision.

The largest of Icelandic lakes, Thingvallavatn, is spread like a mirror below the bluffs. Its 40 square miles lying between scenic, basaltic headlands and broken by two islands,—small volcanic craters—we saw it at its best. A long band of cumulous clouds lay athwart the mountain range while clouds and banded cone lived doubly in the emerald green. While gazing upon this wondrous scene our ponies came to a sudden halt and we beheld at our feet the far famed Almannagjá, or All-Men's-Rift, so named because the plain below, Thingvellir, was the meeting place of the Althing from the settlement of the island till 1800.

Curious Thingvellir Plain and the New Geyser

Thingvellir plain is a most remarkable geological formation. It is four miles square bordered on the south by the lake, on the north by a precipitous mountain, on the west by Almannagjá, on the east by Hrafnagjá, or Raven's Rift. In some remote volcanic eruption the lava beneath was forced out, leaving a cavern of 16 square miles. Subsequent earthquake faulted the entire region, which dropped an average of 200 feet. The two parallel rifts are fissures extending in places 300 feet below the level of the plain. These rifts are partly filled with water and owing to the placidity of the surface and the great depth of the water, the chasms seem to be paved with polished malachite. Over the central part of All-Men's-Rift plunges the curved, unbroken sheet of the Oxara (falls). Near the center of the sunken plain is another rift which encloses a long narrow island of tabula lava, the Logberg, Law-Rock, where new laws were promulgated and judgment pronounced.

Thingvellir plain, the result of a mighty cataclysm, is the Mecca of Iceland. The sagas are replete with the centuries of strife and peace, the culminating action of which centered here. It was here that Gunnar built his booth and and Snorri penned his eddas. Here the Burners of Njal met in mortal combat while the rival factions stood upon the cliffs and cheered on their partisans. Now all is peace. The historic bloodstone is carpeted with richly tinted Arctic flowers. Thingvallavatn throws back its witching smile as in days of yore and the cry of the curlew is the only sound to wake the echoes of these mighty chasms.

THE LONGEST WORD.

A Short Cut to Some English Claimants to the Honor.

This moot point has never been satisfactorily settled. About 1870 the Liverpool Daily Courier came out with a new word of gargantuan dimensions, "velocipedestrianistical-istinarianologist."

An Edinburgh journal followed with "ultradisestablishmentarians," an extension of Archbishop Benson's previous "antidisestablishmentarian." given in his diary.

A junction might be effected if one is anxious to see a friend carried out in a state of collapse (to the refreshment room) that a good, long word is "ultrantidisestablishmentarianists" (only thirty-three letters).

Then there is another short jaw-breaker, "antitranssubstantiationistically," which appeared in a highland paper. It is highland enough in all conscience.

Sir Walter Scott has in his journal a word, "floccipaucinihilipilification," "which, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along."

Then Rabelais takes some doing with his "antipericametanarbeugedamphicribrationis."

Wyntoun in his Chronicle supplies us with "honorificabilitudinitatibus," which Shakespeare uses in "Love's Labour's Lost" (twenty-seven letters). Dante also has it in the ablative singular form in his "De Vulgari Eloquentia."

Byfield in a treatise on the Colossians (1615) wrote "incircumscribileness."

But the Englishman's real jaw-breaker is a Welsh word over which Mr. Justice Lawrence once at the Anglesey assizes asked an explanation from Mr. Bryn Roberts, M. P., "What is the meaning of the letters 'P. G.' after the name Llanfair?" The answer was, "It is an abbreviation for the village of Llanfair-pwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllandysiliogogoch. How is this pronounced? It will take some beating. This word of fifty-four letters if repeated often enough is said to be an excellent cure for the toothache.

But the jocular man will tell us there are longer words, "smile" and "beleaguered," for instance, because one is more than a "mile" and the other more than a "league," and another will insist that the longest word in the English language is "longer," for, however long any other word may be, it is always "longer." This is on the principle of the wily Scot who bet his chum that Glasgow was not the biggest town in Scotland. "How's that?" he was asked. "There's a bigger." "What is it?" "Biggar," was the prompt reply.—London Academy.

Tied It Down.

Joseph Chamberlain in one of his political speeches said: "Many of my opponents are as ignorant of my proposition as was a certain farmer many years ago of the umbrella. This farmer had made a journey of some twenty miles on foot to a small town. As he was about to set off for home again a hard rain came up, and his host lent him an umbrella—a novelty at the time—opening it himself so as to save his friend all possible trouble. A week later the farmer brought the umbrella back. The weather was bright and fine, but he held the contrivance open over his head. 'This instrument,' he grumbled, 'is more trouble than it's worth. There wasn't a doorway in the village I could get it through, and I had to tether it all the week in a field.'"

Mother's Experience.

Fond Mother—Now, look here, George! I want you to break off with that girl. She is very pretty, and all that, but I know her too well to want you to risk your life and happiness by marrying her. Why, she knows no more about housekeeping than I do about Greek—not a bit!

George—Perhaps not, but she can learn.

Mother—After marriage is rather late for that, George.

George — But you said yourself that you did not know a thing about housekeeping until after you were married.

Mother—Very true, George, and your poor father died of dyspepsia twenty years ago.

A Possible Explanation.

There is a certain clergyman who has a happy way of enjoying his own disadvantages.

Never a handsome man, Mr. C. was severely battered in a railroad wreck, in which he suffered the loss of a foot.

Soon after marrying a beautiful woman the ill used minister met an old friend on the street, who banteringly asked, "C., how in the world did such a pretty girl come to marry you?"

"Oh, ladies like remnants," was the cheerful reply.

One Danger of Sea Against Which Wireless Is of Little Avail

The fear of icebergs has partly removed in recent years by wireless telegraphy, but their menace on the seas is still menacing enough to cause anxiety.

The government every summer and fall makes out an iceberg guide. When some ship reports an iceberg in a certain latitude and longitude a little red dot is placed on the iceberg chart.

It is drifting in a southerly direction, and allowances are made for so many miles of advance every twenty-four hours. So the red dot is moved slowly forward. But adverse winds, seas and currents may change the course of the berg, and this sort of reckoning may prove all wrong.

Later another ship reports the same or another iceberg in a different place, says Harper's Weekly. More red dots appear on the chart, and as the season advances the danger points increase. These charts are issued as warnings to mariners. Ships sailing in certain northern latitudes must study the location of the icebergs, and for the sake of safety the captains provide themselves with duplicates of the charts.

Icebergs are dangerous obstructions to navigation on clear, dark nights as well as in times of fog. They carry no lights, and they cannot be detected in the dark until close upon a ship.

Experienced sea captains possess a certain instinct for detecting the presence of icebergs. Some captains claim that they can smell an iceberg miles away. Something in the atmosphere warns them of the danger, and they double the watch and reduce speed until out of the danger zone. Then, again, when near an iceberg the air grows suddenly cold and chilly, and sometimes there is a drop of several degrees in the temperature.

Many unaccounted disappearances of ships and steamers are attributed to collisions with icebergs, ships and all on board going to the bottom without so much as a remnant left to tell the tale.

Bidding In a Bride.

While some furniture was being sold at auction at Orkellyunga, in Sweden, a curious incident occurred. A young girl pushed her way through the crowd until she was quite close to the auctioneer, so close indeed that she somewhat impeded him when he desired to make effective gestures. Being a man of humor, he resolved to get rid of her in a novel manner, and therefore, taking her by the arm, he shouted: "Here, now, is an excellent bargain—a young girl, aged nineteen, very pretty and well educated! What am I offered? Come; we'll start it at 3,000 crowns!" At once there was brisk bidding, which continued until an elderly bachelor farmer offered 10,000 crowns. The auctioneer tried to get a higher bidder than this, but failed, and so he declared the farmer to be the purchaser of the girl. All those present thought that it was a good joke, but it was more than that, for a few days later the farmer and the girl were married in the presence of the mayor, and before the ceremony the farmer presented the young woman, an orphan, with 10,000 crowns, the exact amount which he was willing to pay for her at auction.

Victim of a Soft Heart.

The prison visitor looked at the occupant of cell 49 through eyes that were dim with tears and passed a few more fragrant blossoms between the iron bars.

"You poor unfortunate!" she exclaimed. "So you were brought to this through sympathy for another. Tell me all about it. Perhaps something can be done to set you free."

"Well, mum, 'twas this way," exclaimed the convict. "When me an' my mate cracked the crib we found the bank watchman asleep, an' we tied an' gagged him. It was him as arterward identified me."

"Yes, and the sympathy for another?" asked the visitor.

"It was fêr him, mum. My mate wanted ter stick a knife in him. If I hedn't been a fool an' done it I wouldn't be here a-talkin' ter you now."—Boston Traveler.

His Luggage.

An Aberdonian went to spend a few days in London with his son, who had done exceptionally well in the great metropolis. After their first greetings at King's Cross station the young fellow remarked: "Feyther, you are not lookin' weel. Is there anything the matter?" The old man replied, "Aye, lad, I have had quite an accident." "What was that, feyther?" "Mon," he said, "on this journey frae bonnie Scotland I lost my luggage." "Dear, dear! That's too bad. 'Oo did it happen?" "Aweel," replied the Aberdonian, "the cork cam' oot."

Have You Delayed

Building that house, or making those alterations, expecting lower prices? We have seen during the past year much lower rates for almost all kinds of building material and now they are on the increase, with every prospect of being higher during the coming year.

Would it not be wise

for you to start your work before the higher level gets here?

The annual meeting of the Magnolia church was held at the church last week Thursday, and was a very pleasant occasion. A membership of 64 was reported, of whom 37 were present. At 6.30 p. m. a delicious supper was served consisting of cold meats, salads, rolls, cake, pies and coffee. This was under the charge of a committee of five. After the supper hour the meeting was called to order by the moderator, William L. Wilkins and the report of the treasurer was read. This report shows all bills paid and a small balance in the treasury. The pastor in his report spoke of the progress made by the church during the past five years, spiritually and materially. Growth in the Christian character on the part of many of the members has been marked, the church roll has increased from 45 to 64, the church has been greatly blessed in its friends who have done a great deal for it during these years. He spoke of the excellent condition of the Sunday School which is under the superintendence of Mrs. Fred Lycett with an efficient corps of teachers. He urged stronger support to be given the services of the church Friday evenings and Sunday mornings in winter; the continuance of the People's Forum to begin after Christmas on Sunday nights; the organization of Bible class to meet on a week night and study the Life of Christ; contribute to the church expenses by envelope on the part of every member, no matter how small the gift; and further increase in the gift to missions because of the vital importance of the work which money so spent is doing.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Clerk, Geo. A. Upton; standing committee, Fred R. Dunbar, and Mrs. J. R. Crispin; deacon, W. R. Boyd; assistant deacon, Fred R. Dunbar; deaconess, Mrs. Julia Wilkins; assistant deaconess, Mrs. F. F. Story; treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Boyd; assistant treasurer, W. R. Boyd; moderator, Wm. L. Wilkins; organist, Miss Amy Lycett; assistant organist, Mrs. Michael Kehoe.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Rebecca Colfelt for the services of Prof. Krumpeln this summer, who was engaged by her for the church.

Greetings were sent to Miss Lillian B. West who is ill at Rutland, Mass., and to other absent members of the church. After a rising vote of thanks to the committee that had prepared the supper the meeting adjourned.

Bruce Chapman and Edgar Story were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar P. Story over Sunday.

A merry automobile party from Magnolia paid a visit to the Hub last Saturday. It consisted of Mary Lycett, Ruth Scott, Ruth Symonds, Edna Symonds, Izetta Wolff, Wm. Knowles and Ralph Story with Mrs. Edgar Story and Mr. Libby as chaperones. They stopped a few minutes at Bunker Hill, then rode over to Cambridge and made a brief call on our fellow town's man, Mr. Hunt, who has recently opened an attractive store there, then rode about the Harvard campus and spent an hour in the Agassiz Museum, then to the United States hotel for dinner after which they took a ride in the Fenway before starting for home. The party went as guests of Geo. A. Upton.

Alex Koerner of Lawrence was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler over Sunday.

Mrs. A. M. Lycett and Mrs. Frank Story spent Wednesday in Andover, as the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Markham W. Stackpole.

Mrs. D. C. Ballou and daughter were the guests of the former's mother Mrs. Manuel Silva at Gloucester Sunday.

Daniel T. Chane the popular clerk at the Magnolia Meat Market has been appointed substitute mail carrier, having taken fourth place in the recent examination with a high per cent. Mr. Chane is a graduate of the Gloucester High school, and his many friends will be pleased to read of his success.

It has been suggested that now would be a good time to cut the old grass, bushes, etc., and otherwise prepare the Farms play-ground, so-called, for winter use, so that it can be flooded at the proper time for a skating park for the children. Last year the matter was delayed with the result that it could not be done when the proper wheels were finally put in motion to have it done.

Honored by Being Elected Deacon Emeritus.

A rare honor was accorded a Beverly Farms' citizen last Sunday, that of being elevated to the position of Deacon Emeritus. It was in connection with the service for morning worship of the Baptist church that the action was taken. There was a large audience present. The pastor, Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, preached a sermon on the "Power of Love" (Cor. XIII). Among the thoughts expressed were the following: "Too many people are living in the cellar instead of opening their windows toward heaven. Many people need a swift jolt from without to awaken them to the fact that most of their troubles are within them. The Christian should be a grateful optimist, living always on the sunny side."

Following the sermon the action was taken on Deacon Pride. To most of the congregation it came as a surprise. Deacon Pride has been for twenty years a revered and beloved deacon of the church. The mark of high honor and deep respect was but an expression of the esteem with which he was held by his fellow-townsmen and church members. It so happened, that without previous arrangement to so bring it about, he was raised to the position of deacon just 20 years previous to being elected deacon emeritus.

The motion was made by John Chapman and was seconded by Otis Davis and it was made unanimous by a rising vote of the members.

Various members made remarks and the pastor informally notified the deacon of his honor and said a later public notice would be taken.

:: Beverly Farms ::

On Sunday afternoon about one o'clock Thomas, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rourke, while coasting down the J. A. Mayberry avenue leading into Haskell street in a cart, collided with an automobile owned by Allen Curtis, a summer resident, and driven by his chauffeur, Edward Hill. After returning from church the young lad got his cart and started coasting. The place is somewhat screened from view from one going up Haskell street and Mr. Hill had but a moment in which to attempt to clear the boy, but was unsuccessful, notwithstanding the fact that the machine was turned sharply at an angle and run up a steep embankment. The running board struck the boy on the head, badly fracturing the skull and causing other injuries. Mr. Hill was thrown from the car, but succeeded in stopping it. The boy was hurried in an automobile to the Beverly hospital where he underwent an operation. He will probably recover. At the time of the accident the boy's father was away, at Westbury, L. I.

A party of Farms folk recently paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gauld, at their new home in Ipswich, where a part of the day and the evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. Gauld were until recently residents of the Farms.

Charles Parker is reported to be dangerously ill at his home in North Beverly. Mr. Parker formerly conducted a bakery business at the Farms. Since his removal to North Beverly he has been ill most of the time.

About fifty were present at Marshall's hall last Monday evening for the opening lesson in gymnastics and physical culture of the women's class under the instruction of Miss May D. Connolly.

The girls' gymnasium class, of which Miss May D. Connolly is instructor, will meet for their first lesson in Marshall's hall Saturday evening. Terms will be the same as last year.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hull, one of the Farms' oldest residents, is in poor health, at her home on Hart street.

Mayor Trowt will Run Again.

Mayor Charles H. Trowt of Pride's Crossing announced his candidacy this week for re-election as mayor of Beverly. It has been the custom for several years to give a mayor two terms and Mayor Trowt feels his record has been such as to entitle him to this honor. He says:

"I have tried to live up to the pledges I made when I was inaugurated mayor. I have put in much time at City hall and have familiarized myself with all of the departments. The appropriations have been made with deliberation and I have considered every one fully and fairly before signing the orders. The tax rate is a low one, the lowest for some time and I feel that my administration has been one which will merit the favorable attention of the voters of the city."

:: Beverly Farms ::

Wyatt's market, West street, which has been closed for the last two weeks, opened yesterday for business and is under new management. Michael Crown, who has been with The Thissell Co., has leased the store and stable from Mrs. Wyatt for the winter.

The large stable, corner High and Haskell streets, formerly owned by Wyatt & Trowt, and recently purchased by Abram Davis of Salem, is undergoing changes. The building has been cut in two, and one of the parts will be moved to a new foundation on Haskell street. Both sections will be turned into dwellings.

Matthew Smith returned home from the Beverly hospital this week where he had been confined with blood poisoning.

Mlle. L'Etourneau and sister have moved from the Nugent cottage on Vine street to apartments over the Standley Shoe store.

Frank A. Page, who has been a resident of the Farms for the last year has gone to New York, where he has a position as chauffeur.

I. B. Case has closed his drug store at Pride's for the winter.

Mrs. Ezra P. Williams and Mrs. John C. McCarthy have been among those who have been on this week's sick list.

A petition has been circulated during the last week, addressed to the School Committee of the city of Beverly, and has been generally signed by the parents of the school children. It reads as follows: "We, the undersigned, parents of children attending the 7th and 8th grades of the Beverly Farms school, desire to protest against the frequent change made in teachers, which has occurred in those grades since the opening of the school in September. Believing that so many changes are detrimental to the interests and progress of our children we respectfully petition that a good, permanent teacher be secured at once."

The new Beverly Farms Band held a business meeting this week and elected the following officers: James F. McGerity, president; E. Fred Day, vice president; E. L. Knowlton, secretary; Miss M. D. Connolly, treasurer; Edward Townsend, bus. manager; J. Millett Younger, William Blanchard and George F. Wood, board of trustees. The band is holding regular rehearsals in their quarters off Oak street and good progress is being made.

A set of books, ten volumes, has been presented to Preston Post 188, G. A. R., by Mrs. Charles H. Dalton, a gift much appreciated by the veterans.

A new brick and cobble-stone cross walk has been put across Hale street, between G. A. R. hall and Standley's shoe store, replacing the old concrete walk.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1909.

Society Notes

Thanksgiving Day will probably bring one of the largest fields of the season for the meet of the drag hounds of the Myopia Hunt club. The meet will be at the club kennels at 12 o'clock. Breakfast will be served at the clubhouse at 2 o'clock. On Tuesday of this week the drag hounds met at Great Oak, Asbury Park, at 3.15; yesterday the meet was at the same hour at Millet's, Rowley; tomorrow morning at 8.30 the meet will be at the Hamilton Meeting House. Next week aside from Thanksgiving Day the meets will be held on Tuesday at 3.15 at Topsfield Common, and on Saturday at 2.30 at High street, Ipswich. The last meet of the month will be on Nov. 30th, at 3.15 p. m., at Burley Farm, North Beverly.

The members of the Harvard football team came down to the North Shore last Sunday and were guests at lunch and dinner of James Parker, at the Myopia Hunt club.

Senor Don Epifanio Portela, the Argentine minister at Washington, and Senora Portela, who occupied Sea Crest cottage at Magnolia, all through the past summer season, are now established in a new residence in Washington for the winter, at 1800 Massachusetts avenue, near Du Pont Circle. It is a large house, well adapted to entertaining, and formerly was occupied by Senator and Mrs. Fairbanks.

T. Dennie Boardman and household moved from West Manchester to their Boston residence this week. Mr. Boardman is out with a 1910 model Chalmers-Detroit, which make car won fame for its makers by its splendid showing at the recent Vanderbilt cup races, leading for eleven laps.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Babson Thomas motored down to West Manchester Sunday. Mrs. Thomas is looking remarkably well after her recent operation for appendicitis.

Dr. George H. Washburn motored down to Manchester from Boston last Sunday in his new Pope-Hartford.

Mrs. Robert D. Evans has just closed her summer home at Burgess Point.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

In saying last week that "every lot of land along the water front has been bought and is being used as the homes of summer residents" we were slightly in error. We are informed that the last shore lot for sale in Manchester borders on Singing Beach, and is owned by E. L. Wood of Brookline. It contains some 100,000 sq. ft., and is next to Mr. Wood's summer home.

Under the direction of the Mass. Highway Commission the state highway from the Manchester line to Chapman's corner is being repaired. A force of men and teams, and also a steam roller, are at work. The street surface is being treated to a new coating.

We understand that the building on Beach street, Manchester, commonly known as the "pink house," is on the market. The house has been used as a boarding house. There are 24 rooms, and all modern conveniences, including electric lights.

Society Notes

The sad news reached Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Dalton, summer residents of Beverly Farms, the first of the week of the death of their daughter, Miss Alice Dalton, at Alamogordo, New Mex., where she went some weeks ago for a three month's visit with her sister, formerly Miss Susan D. Dalton, now the wife of Judge Alfred W. Cooley of New York, and more recently of Washington, before taking up his residence in Alamogordo. Miss Dalton had been ill about a fortnight, death resulting from typhoid fever. She was in her 37th year and was born in Boston.

"Villa al mare," the beautiful summer home of the George Lees at Beverly Farms was closed the first of this week, the family returning to their winter home in Brookline.

Henry Clay Frick and family made their departure from Pride's Crossing the first of this week, after a long and most pleasant season on the shore. They have gone to New York where they plan to spend most of the winter.

Last Friday afternoon the German Ambassador to Washington, Count von Bernstorff, and the Countess von Bernstorff gave a reception at the German embassy, in honor of the ambassador's colleagues and friends in the diplomatic circle. It was one of the more important early events of the season in Washington, and will be followed by a series of dinners and other entertainments which the countess has planned. Many of the Washington contingent that summer on the North Shore will be participants in these occasions, including, of course, the members of the diplomatic corps.

Judge W. C. Loring and family have closed their Pride's residence and are back to their Boston home for the winter.

The Augustus P. Loring's, too, have just closed their Pride's house and returned to Boston.

Major Henry L. Higginson, one of Manchester's oldest summer residents, passed his 75th birthday yesterday. He is enjoying good health and was able to attend a dinner last evening.

Mothers, the Time Has Come to Get Your Boys' School Suits

Single or double breasted knicker suits for the older boys; sailor and Russian styles for the little fellows.

If you get an XTRAGOOD suit, you get one that is durable. It will outwear most any other make. It will look well longer. It will be economical.

Boys in school are hard on their trousers. That's why you should get XTRAGOOD. All XTRAGOOD trousers are lined throughout.

Boys can't rip XTRAGOOD trousers. The seat seams are re-inforced by tape and sewed three times. All seams are "overcast" to prevent raveling.

These trousers also have patent waist bands. An elastic device takes the strain from the cloth and makes it impossible for the garment to rip or tear.

These clothes, the kind we sell, are best suited for your boy. Patterns are attractive and there is all the style you want. Made for us by Ederheimer, Stein & Co., the leading boys' house.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Ground has been broken this week on the side of the road opposite the site of the New Magnolia hotel, at Magnolia, for the construction of a string of five stores. Charles W. Smith of Germantown, Pa., a summer resident at Magnolia, is the mover in the enterprise. The general contract for the work has been awarded to Jonathan May, who will also have the letting of the stores. The block will be about 50 by 90 feet, and there will be five stores in all. It is planned to make the stores the most attractive at Magnolia, and this is saying much when the attractive Colonnade stores are taken into consideration. The building will be of wood, with stucco work in front. They will be just across the road from the Colonnade.

Town Treasurer E. P. Stanley will pay two large bills for the town tomorrow, in accordance with orders drawn by the selectmen last night. One is $17,280 in payment of the state tax. The other is $40,000 in payment of a note in favor of the Old Colony Trust Company.

Mrs. George Fisher (Dora Chaffin) and infant daughter, have left the Addison Gilbert Hospital and are with Mrs. Fisher's aunt, Mrs. F. P. Knight and family, Church street. Mr. Fisher is also here. They will return to Torreón, Mexico, next month.

The contract has just been awarded to Morley, Flatley & Co., for erecting the twelve letter box poles and boxes about town. They are to be in position ready for use prior to Dec. 1. The three carrier routes have been allotted as follows: John L. Prest, No. 1, School street, etc.; W. S. Hodgdon, No. 2, West Manchester; A. P. Dennis, No. 3, Summer street and the Cove. Daniel Chane, as announced last week, has been appointed the substitute carrier. Postmaster Wheaton calls attention of the public to the convenience both to the carrier and to the public of having letter slots placed in the doors of residence or letter boxes placed conveniently near the door. D. T. Beaten has a supply of these on hand. Postmaster Wheaton and Clerk Wilcox paid a visit to Ipswich this week to see the working of the system there. The city delivery was installed in Ipswich a year ago. They have three carriers, two deliveries are made each day, and the carriers start out on the third and go as far as time will permit. They are allowed to work only eight hours.

David E. Betts returned to town from Bangor, Me., the first of this week and Wednesday he auctioned off numerous household articles, left from the fire which destroyed his home last winter. Mr. Betts and his wife have parted since leaving Manchester and last Tuesday week they were divorced. Mr. Betts may remain in Manchester and build again.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

President of the State Federation the Speaker.
Report of Federation Meeting by Mrs. Tenney.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club Tuesday afternoon was a sort of a State Federation day, inasmuch as Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president of the State Federation was the speaker of the afternoon, and as Mrs. F. P. Tenney, delegate to the federation meeting at Brockton last week, presented a report, which proved of a very interesting nature.

Miss Bacon gave a delightfully informal talk along general lines about the work of the clubs, both of what has been done and of the opportunities for work along various lines. She told of some of the laws that had been enacted through the efforts of the clubs in times past, such as legislation regarding hours of labor, child labor, tuberculosis, etc.

Mrs. Frank P. Tenney presented a report on her attendance as delegate to the State Federation meeting held at Brockton last week, which was a very comprehensive statement of the doings of the meeting and some of the inferences she drew from same.

"We left Boston at 9 a. m. in a special train, arriving at Brockton about 9.40, and preceeding at once to the beautiful old church in which the conference was held.

"The Porter church reminds one of the Congregational church in this place, as it looked in years gone by before the old furnishings had been removed. The church at Brockton is much larger, twice as deep and certainly twice as wide and there were gathered 1200 bright, intelligent looking women representing 40,000 members of the Women's clubs of Mass.

"Promptly at 10 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Miss Georgie A. Bacon, our honored guest of today.

"Mrs. F. A. Hoyt in behalf of the Brockton Woman's club (which by the way numbers 600) welcomed the visitors. Miss Bacon responded for the Federation after which the new clubs were presented. The most remarkable was the Garden Woman's club which grew in about three months from 70 to 300 members and had established a stamp saving system in the schools, a Current Events club and other branches of club work all in good working order.

"The first address of the morning was on 'Conditions of Congestion in American Cities' by Benjamin C. Marsh. Mr. Marsh's address was along the same lines as Miss Best's talk to us at our last meeting. The fearful suffering, loss of morality and life caused by property owners who find that land may be made to yield immense incomes by our crowded tenements built many stories high to insure profit, over crowding of rooms, four, five, and even six persons occupying rooms 7x10 feet in area. In New York City one must have at least $800 a year to live in common decency—while many families have only $600, a deficiency of $200 at the start.

"The story was told of a well known lawyer, Mr. Choate by name, noted for the large fees he exacted, who was employed with a well known Jewish lawyer to settle some claim bearing on the rights of the poor. The Jewish lawyer remarked to Mr. Choate, 'I think $250 will be a fair charge for my share in this matter.' 'Leave all that to me,' remarked Mr. Choate, 'I will attend to the fees.' A few days later the Jewish lawyer received a check of $3000 as his share in the transaction. In acknowledging the receipt of the check he wrote 'I should have been satisfied with $250' and on the line below, 'Thou almost persuadest me to become a Christian.' When the well known reputation of the Jewish character is remembered, how modest his demand. The avarice of property owners, long hours of work and low wages coupled with the graft of lawyers make insurmountable obstacles only to be ameliorated by legislation.

"The next address of the morning was by the Rev. John Hopkins Denison on 'The Significance of the Boston-1915 Movement.' The commencement of the 1915 movement was made by a few clergymen of different denominations at an informal banquet given to discuss the unfortunate conditions of the City of Boston. This proved so successful that another banquet was held to which every denomination was invited and now, merchants, artists and people of every calling and religion are united in casting aside all creeds and thoughts of private ends for the best good of the city as a whole and all are working nobly with that end in view.

"Intermission was now declared. In the vestry of the Porter church small tables were placed where all could be seated and enjoy lunch at leisure. Tea and coffee were served by the club. The room was beautifully decorated in pink and white, the colors of the Brockton club. During the noon recess auto rides were provided about the city. All clubs, churches, and many private residences were thrown open. There was an organ recital at the Episcopal church which delighted hundreds of women.

"At the South church is a very beautiful painting. It is called 'Christ with the Children' and was painted in Rome for Mr. George E. Keith. Christ is represented as standing in the sunlight before a white wall; behind him on a seat in the wall a crippled child wrapped in a blue robe is listening intently. Standing at the side of the Christ figure is one little child, while directly in front stand a group of children with intense, earnest faces appearing to absorb every word that falls from the lips of Christ. A line of lights above the picture and concealed from sight increases the effect of sunlight. The picture hangs in the Sunday School room, also a gift from Mr. Keith. A large fine room. Down the length of one side little class rooms are curtained off that each teacher may have the entire attention of her class.

"At the afternoon session fine music was provided and Dr. George Kreihn from New York, aided by stereopticon views of some of the beautiful cities of Europe, lectured upon 'The City Beautiful.'

"Dirt, smoke and bill boards are the three great obstacles to the attainment of the ideal in America. Dr. Kreihn is of the opinion that Women's clubs can do much to improve the situation, by refusing to purchase of those who advertise in an objectionable manner and by interesting the commercial interests of the town in favor of the City Beautiful.

"Each year Americans spend abroad $100,000,000 in the beautiful cities of Europe. At the close of the afternoon session each guest was presented with a copy of the Brockton Times containing a full report of the meeting.

"In closing let me urge each and every member of the club to attend these meetings if possible. You will find them wide awake and inspiring and you will learn as you can in no other way the great influence for good that must be felt all over the county, when so many women are working for the uplifting of the towns and cities.

"On Dec. 9 a civic conference is to be held at Chelsea. It was announced that so many clubs appeared to need special help in this line, that the gathering of Dec 9, is arranged to meet that want.

"Chelsea is so near to us, I would suggest that the Current Events club attend in a body and all other members of the Woman's club who can possibly do so.

Miss Martha C. Knight was the hostess of the afternoon.

New Bank Clock Proves to be a Success as a Money Saver.

A branch office of the Bank Clock Co. of Boston has opened headquarters in the Salem Theatre Building. The bank clock is just what its name applies. It is a clock and at the same time a bank. In order to keep the clock going a dime must be placed in the slot each day. This is one of the most novel schemes yet devised for saving, as the stopped clock at once suggests another dime.

Business men and others pay electric and telephone bills from the savings put into this Bank Clock.

Authorized agents will soon be about this section selling this novel saving machine.

EVELYN'S DIARY.

D. F. LAMSON.

Part II.

Evelyn was born Oct. 31, 1620, while the little Mayflower was making its slow and perilous way over the stormy Atlantic. He lived in the stirring times of Charles I., Cromwell, Charles II., James II, and William III. It was an age when the people were learning their rights and beginning to assert them, and royalty was being taught some needed lessons. Evelyn's sympathies were wholly with the royal party in church and state, but he was a broad and fair-minded man, and disposed to do justice to all. His Diary holds up the mirror to the times in which he lived, and gives us many glimpses behind the scenes. He was an intelligent observer, and made careful note of all that interested him both in public and private life.

Evelyn went abroad in his twenty-first year, as was the custom with young men of family and education at the time, especially if they had aspirations to a public career. Nothing seems to have escaped his eye, and he shows a remarkably mature mind in matters of politics, history, art and antiquities, altogether beyond what was to be expected of so youthful a tourist. On his return to England, he found the controversy between King and Parliament raging which resulted in the deposition and death of Charles six years later. In 1642, he set forth again on his travels, and became a full and most delightful narrator, describing with a facile pen the cities, palaces, churches, ruins and works of art with which Europe was then filled. The continent was at that time a vast treasure house of ancient and medieval architecture, sculpture and painting, the richness and magnificence of which almost bewildered the imagination. The wars of the following centuries destroyed many of the monuments of the old world on which Evelyn gazed with admiration.

In Oct. 1647, after an absence of four years, our traveller landed at Dover, having visited the chief cities of southern Europe, returning over the Alps "through strange, horrid, and fearful crags and tracts, abounding in pine trees, and only inhabited by bears, wolves, and wild goats." The people were "of great stature, extremely fierce and rude, yet very honest and trusty;" he describes them as living in a semi-barbarous fashion and greatly afflicted by the goitre. Altogether, Switzerland was not much to his mind; in fact, it seems to have changed but little from the times of the Helvetii. As a land whose majestic scenery was to allure and fascinate artists, poets and tourists, its time was not yet.

Travel in Evelyn's day involved many inconveniences, hardships and even dangers, of which in this age of steam-

MANCHESTER, Mass., Nov. 17, '09.

Editor North Shore Breeze,

Dear Sir:—With your kind permission I will take just a little of your valuable space and add my mite on the subject of water supply.

Drinking water has always been called a very commendable habit. It has never been the means of landing its consumers in the Insane Asylum nor the vehicle that has carried them to jail.

It has never attempted to compete with the breweries in furnishing patients for the doctors by planting the germs of Bright's disease or diabetes in the systems of its trusting but thirsty participants, but according to recent observations the water that we are using in Manchester at this time bids fair to rival even these institutions in keeping our doctors from privation and destitution.

Many of our citizens are hobbling about with rheumatism and lumbago on account of the change in the water supply and are asking "Why we go back to the wells in the winter time when Gravelly Pond water is so much better." The only complaint anyone made of it was that it was somewhat warmer than the well water; surely this objection is eliminated in the winter time, and without presuming to dictate to the "Water Commissioners" we would like to know why we can't have Gravelly Pond water in the winter and water from the well (if we must have it) in the summer.

ships, express trains, palace cars and telegraphs we are wholly ignorant. But our diarist bore them bravely, made little complaint and always seemed to find something to commend. He was a model tourist; he was evidently happy, however, to find himself domesticated again among old scenes and old friends. But he found England in the throes of revolution, and "great confusion everywhere in expectation of what would be next."

Miss Mabel T. Boardman Writes of Red Cross Work in Eastern Turkey

The pitiful conditions of affairs in Eastern Turkey, and the opportunity for help in carrying on the beneficent work of the Red Cross is set forth in the following communication sent to the Boston Transcript recently by Miss Mabel T. Boardman of Washington and Manchester:

"The pitiful condition of the thousands of women and little children whose husbands and fathers were massacred in Eastern Turkey last April must appeal to our American people. Our ambassador to Constantinople, Mr. Straus, cables: 'With the approach of winter fully sixty thousand women and children in Cilicia, whose husbands and fathers were massacred in April, are in need of shelter and the necessities of life.'

"In a letter received lately by the Red Cross from the consul general at Beirut, Syria, he says: 'The approaching winter will cause such widespread and harrowing distress in the mountain villages of Armenia and northern Syria that the benevolent people of Europe and America will feel in duty bound once more to succor these stricken people. Yesterday morning your committee received an urgent telegraphic appeal from Dr. Lee (American) at Marash for $1000, of which $440 was needed at once. On the previous day we had shipped about $1000 worth of winter jackets for the women and girls of Kessab, besides blankets, and our cash balance was at a low ebb. A week ago we rather stripped ourselves by furnishing $2000 worth of supplies to Alexandretta for Dordgol, Beilan, etc. For the time being receipts had ceased to come in and the future looked rather gloomy, when another telegram arrived yesterday morning—a telegram from Hon. Huntington Wilson, authorizing me to draw at sight for American Red Cross $500 additional contribution. It was a strong and significant coincidence. When a consular dragoman exclaimed, 'Long live the American Red Cross!' I joined in the sentiment with a full heart.

"The American Red Cross appeals to our people for further help for these suffering women and little children. Every little helps. Contributions can be sent to Mr. H. S. Reeside, American Security and Trust Company, Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street, or the American Red Cross, War Department, Washington, D. C.

"Your truly,
MABEL T. BOARDMAN."

Contributions may be sent to Mr. W. O. Chapman, Salem, Mass., treasurer for Essex Division.

Owing to Thanksgiving next week the regular weekly pay-day at the Town hall will be on Wednesday instead of Saturday.

Thanksgiving weather! We are now getting the first real touch of winter. Snow "spit" yesterday morning. A thin coating of ice covered the inner harbor this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey of Wiscasset, Me., have been spending their honey-moon in town the last week, guests of the latter's cousin, Mrs. Frank A. Rowe, and Mr. Rowe, School street.

Manchester was well represented at the Harvard-Dartmouth football game at Cambridge last Saturday, included among those attending being: Willard Rust, Harry R. Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Boyle, Misses Abbie Floyd and Mary Rust.

"Coming! Three Twins" is the electric display sign over the entrance to Salem Theatre at present. A theatre party made up of seven or eight young people from here saw the play in Boston last Friday night.

T. L. White has recently built at his boat-yard a smart looking 24-foot power launch for Gus Ferries. The boat is equipped with a 5-horsepower Palmer engine. She is of the double-end type, and will be used by the owner for lobstering all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Kimball of Chicago and Mrs. Kimball's father, G. W. Hadley of Boston paid a flying visit to Manchester yesterday to call on Mrs. Kimball's cousin, Mrs. J. A. Lodge, Church street. Mr. Kimball is the owner of the large concern which manufactures the Kimball organs and pianos.

People have been wondering when the moth work is to be started in Manchester this fall. The fact is the town has no regularly appropriated funds for this purpose at the present time, that is, not enough to carry along the work to any extent. Four men were started to work this week. It is likely that a special town meeting will be held early in December to appropriate money for moth destruction.

Misses Agnes M. Sjolund and Mabelle W. Lodge, who recently went to Chicago to take up nursing at the Children's Memorial hospital, though delighted with their work and surroundings, have been rather unfortunate in one respect. Miss Lodge was taken ill last week with a light case of scarlet fever and is confined to the contagious hospital, and Miss Sjolund has been kept from her regular duties because of a badly infected thumb on her right hand.

An alarm from Box 52 telephoned to the engine house, called the fire department to West Manchester shortly after eleven o'clock Tuesday morning. A brisk woods fire was in progress when the department arrived. The fire having started just above the greenhouse on Miss A. G. Thayer's estate, and was eating its way rapidly toward the residence. The hose was turned on the flames and the fire was soon under control. It was a spectacular sight that met the eyes of the people, as they stood on the sidewalk in front of the estate and watched the work of the firemen, plainly seen on the slope of the hill, the flames leaping high in the air.

THE horseless age! Those of us who live on the North Shore and are accustomed to see so many automobiles, are inclined to think that the "horseless age" is getting to be a reality. When one visits the city and has to dodge the autos and taxicabs almost at every turn he wonders if the horse is not altogether a thing of the past. In New York this is particularly true, where hundreds of autos may be seen grouped in the public squares, and along in front of hotels and theatres, where once horses were to be seen.

It might surprise the prophet of the horseless age to tell him that in New York and other cities where automobiles are most extensively used the horse population is steadily increasing. Experts declare that it is a fact nevertheless. Intimate students of the horse insist that he indulges in laughter at times. Is it any wonder that he should do so when he hears this funny talk about driving him out of business? The horse receives special attention in countries that maintain large standing armies. In Germany, for example, every horse fit for cavalry or artillery or for the heavy hauling of the transport service is carefully listed by the government. His age, condition and weight, together with his owner's name and residence, are known, so that in case that horse is needed for the army the government is bound to get him.

Russia alone among the great nations has more horses than the United States, her horse population last year numbering upward of 29,000,000. Germany had 4,337,263 horses in 1907, the United Kingdom had 2,150,181 in 1908, and France had 3,163,025, the years in each case noted being the latest for which figures are obtainable. The Argentine Republic had 5,462,000 horses in 1907, and the Australian commonwealth had 1,869,674, while Austria-Hungary claimed 2,308,457. The federal authorities in 1908 estimated the number of horses in the United States at 19,902,000, an increase of something like 1,000,000 over the year preceding. It was also pointed out the business of horse breeding is becoming more profitable every year, and taking that fact into consideration, experts estimate that the horses in the country at present number in excess of 20,000,000. There is no hint of the horseless age in those figures.

IN connection with the woods fire at West Manchester the first of this week it is well to bring to the attention of people the necessity of stating, when they call for the fire department in such a case, that property is endangered. Forest and woods fires ordinarily come under the charge of the forest fire wards. No fire apparatus could conveniently get to the heart of the woods to fight a fire. On the other hand if the woods are close to buildings, and danger arises from a fire, then the fire apparatus could be used. Anyone telephoning for the department under such circumstances ought to state unhesitatingly that property is endangered.

THE Rice Association of America is going to conduct a campaign for the popularization of rice as a food in parts of the United States where the value of that grain food is not appreciated. The movement ought to succeed if southern methods of cooking rice are also made clear to the northern and western public, which seldom sees rice properly prepared.

It may not be generally known that in Eastern countries rice is the staple article of diet. The Chinese, for instance, couldn't partake of a meal without their rice; it is to them what bread is to us.

THE hearing at the Manchester Town hall next Friday, given before representatives of the War Department, relative to the Boston & Maine railroad bridge and better facilities for entering the inner harbor, brings to mind again the great need of some organized body of the citizens, such as a Board of Trade, Improvement Society, or something of the kind. The Manchester club (or Business Men's club as it was originally suggested) ought to take some action at its meeting tonight along this line.

THANKSGIVING! The President was late in making the annual proclamation, but that might have been expected in view of the long journey from which he has just returned. Thanksgiving has become so firmly imbedded in the life of the country that even if the President made no proclamation there would be a Thanksgiving Day just the same.

WITH Lucius Tuttle, a summer resident of Magnolia, re-elected president of the B. & M., and with Philip Dexter, who has so much salable property in that vicinity, a member of the directorate of the road, it would seem that Magnolia ought to be in line either for a new railroad station or, at least, an improvement on the old.

Former Manchester Teacher Writes of Visit to "Land of Heroic Scenery" the last Summer.

BY W. S. C. RUSSELL.

III

Our trail crossed the Raven's Rift, wound up the volcano's side, crossed the crater and descended the shingly slopes of the Kalfstindar. A few hours' ride across the plain and along the shore of Laugarvatu, (Hot-Spring-Lake), which is bordered with hot springs, and across the torrential Bruara, brought us to Geysir. Geysir is an Icelandic term signifying "Gusher." It is the name applied to the locality abounding in hot springs and geysers. The steam vents, boiling springs and geysers number hundreds and cover several acres at the base of Laugafjall, Hot-Spring-Mountain. The entire region is intensely heated below the surface and at first gives one the impression of insecurity and danger, especially when one seeks his slumber in the midst of these plutonic boilers.

A brief description of Geysir, the largest geyser in the world, must suffice for this locality. Its basin is of its own building, composed of siliceous matter contained in the ejected water. It is elevated 60 feet above the plain, is 70 feet in diameter at the rim and slopes inward at an angle of 30 degrees to the central shaft, which is 16 feet in diameter and 84 feet deep. Pen cannot portray the awe and magnificence of an eruption. A heavy rumble that causes the ground to vibrate precedes the explosion. The water in the basin is soon violently agitated. Fountains of steam and foam spurt upward from the surface. Then follows a mighty eruption in which a solid column of boiling water, the diameter of the tube, is projected from 100 to 125 feet in the air. Explosion follows explosion in constant succession with a dull and heavy booming. The column is maintained in the air from eight to 10 minutes while a virtual river of hissing, steaming water falls around the rim of the basin, plunges in a white cascade into the ravine and flows down the plain enveloped in a dense cloud of vapor. The steam escaping from such a volume of superheated water so suddenly expanded in the cool air shuts out the view of the heavens and obscures the sun.

The last explosion is over. The boiling water is rolling down the serrated slope of Geysir's cone. With heavy boots as a protection we rush up the side of the cone, enter the basin and creep cautiously down to the edge of the tube. We gaze with awe and fear into those depths which a few moments before displayed such energy. What is below? No man knows. No one can descend to ascertain. This much is clear. Far down beneath this hissing, siliceous tube there is intense heat. For ages the thermal capacity of this place has been sufficient to eject unnumbered tons of boiling water at frequent and quite regular intervals from these Plutonic safety valves. Remember that Geysir is not the sole claimant for honors. Scores of mighty boilers are around it.

Slowly the tube fills. It overflows into the basin. Dense masses of suds-like foam burst from its surface. Step by step we retreat. The basin is full and overflows a constant stream sufficient to fill an 18-inch pipe and so continues until the next eruption. Standing on the rim of the basin and gazing upon the placid azure surface of the water, the peacefulness belies the turbulence of the hour before. In the distance the glacier of Lang Jokul glistens in the brilliant sunshine albeit it is 10 at night. Yonder, across the Hvita, cloud-capped and snow-mantled Hecla rises grand and lonely above its lava-strewn plain. What a contrast! Plutonic fire and Arctic ice battling as they have done for ages for supremacy in this strange and distant land,—and the conflict still wages. The Icelanders have a saying which they have revered for centuries: "Island er hinn besta land sem solinn skinnar uppá." ["Iceland is the best land on which the sun shines."] If by "besta" they mean wonderful, their saying is correct. Loth are we to turn from the manifestation of power and imposing grandeur of Geysir; but Gullfoss lies beyond, the Thjorsa must be forded, Hecla challenges from midst of his desolation, the peaceful rural plains to the south are calling, the weird and frightful sulphur fountain of Krusivik entice—and we must saddle and away.

We were loth to leave Geysir. There is a fascination in this heated area that charms like the syrens in Ulysses tale. We mounted the ponies beside the Little Geysir, which had been spouting continuously for three hours. It was in violent action when we descended the bank to ford the Tungufjot. This rapid river drains the southern end of Lang Jokul and its three great arms spread downward through the plains, a mighty trident of power thrust outward from the glaciers during the continuous shine of the summer sun. There are also several smaller tributaries, all of which had to be forded. We had become accustomed to the methods of the ponies in these turbulent waters and fearlessly made crossing this day that we would not have ventured upon the first day of the ride.

We crossed the bog, climbed the ridge and soon reached the canyon of the Hvita and heard the mighty roar of the Gullfoss a mile up the valley. Suddenly the full glory of the Golden falls burst upon us resplendent from a clearing shower in the midst of a lava desolation. Leaving the ponies to graze by the brink of a chasm, we descended the crumbling basalt precipice to a triangle of projecting rock within the canyon which is level with the top of the final plunge of the cataract. The upper end of the canyon begins at the foot of the lower fall. Above this there is a lava pillar dividing the river into two arms, each of which is at least 100 feet in width and 80 feet deep.

It is from this point that Rider Haggard makes his hero, Eric Brighteyes, plunge into the canyon to swim to its lower end that he may thus win the hand of Gudruda the Fair. Of all the wild and imaginative tales told by Haggard this is the most improbable. Above this rock, the river, 600 feet broad, drops over a cliff 40 feet high. * * * * * The river above the upper falls widens to 1500 feet where it runs broad and deep, with troubled surface, impatient for the approaching plunge into the abysmal depths of the lava rift. From the figures given it will be seen that an enormous volume of water thus converges into a V-shaped cleft. At this point the water pours into the gorge from both sides of the V. The depth of the water on the brink of the fall is 80 feet. What a water-power! and no syndicate to control it. The canyon itself is only 50 feet wide at the top and it is estimated to be only 10 feet wide at the bottom. The depth of the canyon is over 200 feet.

It must now be plain to the readers that a measureless volume of water falls into a deep and narrow rift, the walls of which rise at least 200 feet above the projecting ledge upon which the observer stands. Above him the palisaded buttresses, drenched with spray, glisten in the morning sun and hanging over the abyss frown upon the torrent below threatening to prevent its escape. The imprisoned waters foam and plunge with frothy rage, impatient of their restriction, anxious to escape to the rural calmness of the southern plains. So mighty is the mass of water, so narrow are the depths into which it hurls itself that one must believe that subterranean passages exist or the lava rift would quickly fill and choke itself to overflowing. Possibly these hidden rifts supply the water for the hot springs far away. Perhaps the ramifications of great Geysir's tube reach even to the foot of this canyon, even as one end of the drinking horn, which Thor drank out of in the halls of Utgard-Loki, was placed in the sea, so that Thor lost his wager by being unable to empty the horn at one draft.

THE MIDDLE AGED MAN.

Something Said to Him by the Dentist Sets Him Thinking.

"My dentist tells me," said the middle aged man, "that my teeth will last as long as I do, and when he said that to me I was at first pleased, because then it seemed to mean simply that I still had pretty good teeth, good for a long time yet, and I thought that some day I would say to him, sort of half jokingly:

"Doctor, you tell me my teeth will last as long as I will. About how long do you think my teeth will last?"

"In that way, you see, by indirection I am going to get a line on how much longer he thought I was likely to live, and as I thought that over I smiled to myself, thinking that was a pretty bright idea. But do you know that when I came to think it over again I didn't ask him finally. I didn't.

"Because I think he knows. I have been going to him now for years, and he knows my teeth through and through. He knows by them how old I am, and he knows their rate of wear exactly and how much longer they will last, and he could tell me how much longer I will last. But I haven't asked him because I don't want to know. I don't want to know at all.

"As a matter of fact, I think that when we come to my time of life we don't much fancy dwelling on that, though there are times when it seems to intrude itself, when we realize that the years ahead of us are not so many as—well, as they were some years ago, when life seemed to us interminable. Any actuary could tell us what our expectation of life may be at the present moment.

"We expect, of course, that we are going to live longer, to be the exception, but even if we should so prove we can count the years still coming to us without using many figures. We are getting to where we can see the end if we look that way, and I can't say that I have any fear of it, but I certainly don't find any pleasure in contemplating it. I'd rather stay.

"So I haven't asked the dentist because I don't want to know. The thought of it does drift in on me once in awhile, but when it does I shunt it off and get busy and keep plugging and take a cheerful view.

"I'm glad my teeth are good anyhow."—New York Sun.

Turning Off the Gas.

At a fraternal banquet in Washington one of the speakers, getting back at the toastmaster, a clergyman, for some of his witticisms, told the following:

At a church service conducted by the toastmaster a lady in the congregation suddenly remembered that she had left her dinner, a roast, in the stove at home and had forgotten to turn down the gas. In her anxiety about her Sunday dinner she hastily wrote a note and handed it to her husband, a deacon, then engaged in taking up the collection. Mistaking the personal note for a church notice, the deacon carried it up and handed it to the minister, who, among other notices, read:

"Go immediately home and turn off the gas."

When the laughter had subsided a member of the banqueting party arose and said: "I would like to suggest that the lady got her note wrong end foremost. Sending it up to the minister, she probably meant to say, 'Turn off the gas immediately and go home.'"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Rooting House Plant Leaves.

Perhaps to the amateur the most interesting way of propagating plants is that of rooting leaves. There are quite a number of plants with which this is possible. Echeveria, Rex begonia and gloxinia are among the common plants propagated by this means. To root echeveria the leaf is carefully broken from the stem and inserted in the sand. It takes about four weeks for it to start into growth, when a small bud will be produced at the base of the leaf. Sometimes this bud does not start, but still the leaf will grow. I know of one leaf which has been growing in a pot for four years and still has not made a bud.—Suburban Life.

Making an Egg.

"Grandpa, does hens make their own eggs?"

"Yes, indeed they do, Johnny."

"An' do they always put the yolk in the middle?"

"They do, Johnny."

"An' do they put the white stuff around to keep the yeller from rubbin' off?"

"Quite likely, my little boy."

"An' who sews the cover on?"

This stumped the old gentleman, and he barricaded Johnny's mouth with a large lollypop. — London Scraps.

a very strong sermon at the Baptist church last Sunday night on "The Crowded Life", from the text "And others fell upon thorns" (Matt. 13:7.)
In the course of his sermon he spoke of people who are so interested in their own business and pleasures that they do not have time for God and his service. He made a timely allusion to the sentiment in some quarters against the installation of the city postal delivery service here, and used this as an illustration in point. He was surprised, he said, to find in Manchester some who are so interested in their own selfish ends that they can see no benefits accruing to the big majority of the people, in the installation of free postal delivery.

"Good morning, Johnson," said the president when the general manager stood before him. "Do you know there seems to have been a little falling off in the work of the office for the last month? No catastrophe or anything of that sort, you know, but the standard of efficiency seems to have lowered just a little. I merely wanted to call your attention to it. Nothing more. Nice day, isn't it?"

"Say, Brunner," said the general manager to the office manager, "do you know your office force is falling down? Well, it is. For the period just passed there has been a drop in your system that made considerable trouble. I'd jerk somebody up if I were you. A hint to the wise, you know."

"Wilson," said the office manager to the chief clerk, "come here. I want to tell you one thing, and that is that there's got to be a change in the way things are going around this dump. Do you hear me? What's the matter? What's the matter! That's a fine question from you! What isn't the matter is the proper thing to ask. Things have been going to the dogs for a month past. I'm not laying the fault at your door—all of it anyhow—but you know what that means, falling down. Get a hustle on you, now, and see that your clerks don't keep falling down or—I leave the rest to your imagination."

"Say, you prize mutts," said the chief clerk to his underlings, "do you know what's going to happen to about half a dozen of you? You're going to get decorated with a large, shiny tin can if you don't smoke up and do better work than you've been guilty of for the last month. You've been working like a lot of sewer diggers. I never saw anything to beat you—for the cellar championship. Now, get busy and do things, and do them right. I'd hate to have to recommend a wholesale canning stunt, but—you know what I'm here for."

The clerks went humbly back to their desks. Out to them came the office boy with a grin on his face.

"Say," he began, but three voices cut him short.

"Blank, blank, blank you!" said the voices. "You little runt! Why don't you tend to your business, so we can get things done right?" Then they all took a kick at him and went back to work satisfied

"Gee," said the office boy, rubbing his sore spots and eying the president's office, "gee, but that call down certainly traveled some!"

Rest After Meals.

Hurried eating of meals, followed immediately by some employment that occupies the whole attention and takes up all or nearly all of the physical energies, is sure to result in dyspepsia in one form or another. Sometimes it shows itself in excessive irritability, a sure indication that nerve force has been exhausted.

The double draft, in order to digest the food and carry on the business, has been more than nature could stand without being thrown out of balance. Nature does not do two things at a time and do both well as a rule. All know that when a force is divided it is weakened. If the meal were eaten slowly, without preoccupation of the mind, and the stomach allowed at least half an hour's chance to get its work well undertaken before the nervous force were turned in another direction patients suffering from dyspepsia would be comparatively few.—Family Doctor.

Dancing by Halves.

"At a dance the other night I met the most popular girl I ever saw," said a Harlem bachelor. "I asked her to dance. She said she would like to, but she had only half a dance left. If I was willing to take that, all right."

"It was a new experience to share one dance with a rival, but I agreed to her terms. I thought up to the last minute that she was fooling, but when my part of the waltz was done—she put me down for the first half—she glided away from me and sailed off in the arms of the other chap, who had been standing around awaiting his opportunity.

"That is what I call popularity raised to its very highest power."—New York Globe.

The Gallery God.

At an interminably long performance of "Monte Cristo," with Charles Fechter in the character of the hero, the curtain rose for the last act at a quarter of 1 in the morning. Fechter was discovered sitting in a contemplative attitude. He neither moved nor spoke. Just then a clear, sad voice in the gallery exclaimed, "I hope we are not keeping you up, sir!"

Believing that immediate steps should be taken by the city of Gloucester towards protecting the shore front from the ravages of the gypsy moth pest by a systematic and radical cleaning of the woods, Col. William D. Sohier has made a proposition to Mayor Parsons in which he agrees to try and raise $3000 if the city will appropriate $2000 for the work. According to the plan outlined by Col. Sohier most of the proposed work will be confined to the section of the city toward Magnolia.

From reliable sources we learn that before another season Magnolia will be provided with better facilities at the railroad station. While we cannot say a new station will be constructed, it is probable the present one will be improved and that at least the station platform will be enlarged.

"No-License" will be the subject of the sermon in the Village church next Sunday evening. Mr. Libby will answer criticisms that are circulating in Gloucester and will reply to any questions that may be asked. Every voter in Precinct 1 of Ward 8 is invited to be present.

The first whist party of the season will be held at Mrs. Theresa Knowles' residence on Magnolia ave., on Wednesday evening, Dec. 2.

The second of the popular talks on the "Pilgrims Progress" is to be given in the Village church this evening. These talks are for old and young.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

THANKSGIVING time is particularly sacred to all New Englanders. Then it is that family ties are welded more strongly than ever before.

The old folks are thrilled once more with joy and happiness when their children come back to the old home for Thanksgiving dinner.

At this time there is nothing like the TELEPHONE for getting the family together and in aiding in making all the arrangements incident to the homecoming.

Then, too, if any member of the family is unable to be present at the reunion, he may send his personality and cheering voice over the telephone wires to the gathering from and to any point within the scope of the great Bell Telephone System of the United States.

appointment but it was a satisfaction to his admirers in Boston to know that the reason for it was his tremendous success in Chicago, for he has made one of the biggest hits known

For Thanksgiving week the surrounding bill is of a particularly interesting character, one that will please the children and grownups alike.

How Everything Will Centre Around That Turkey on Thanksgiving Day

How he looms up in your mind's eye now, as you look forward to the dinner hour—and that chicken pie—and those mince pies—what a brown they will all have on. Well that's right, they ought to, but how about wife's being able to do all this in that old stove—suppose it all was a failure just because the oven wouldn't work right, as it often does, now that it is old and cranky? Wouldn't she feel badly and how much worse you ought to feel, when you have been teased for a new stove so many times, and knew you really ought to have one.

Well now don't risk any such chances as this, get the new range this week so that wife will understand it for this big annual affair and get one that you are sure will produce a dinner fit for a queen. Get

The Crawford Range

The range with the single damper. With the asbestos lined oven. With the cup joint flues. With the Titus applied low price and you get the range endorsed by all the leading cooking schools in New England. And 'twill work so perfect as soon as you get it, that you'll want to endorse it as well.

DANIEL LOW & Co., GOLD AND SILVER SMITHS, SALEM, MASS.

DIAMOND DEPARTMENT.

In the purchase of diamonds, almost more than any other article of merchandise, one has to depend upon the knowledge, integrity and reliability of the dealer, as few people, aside from experts, know the essential characteristics that determine their value. Intuitive knowledge must be supplemented by experience in handling them.

This is the reason why diamonds can be so advantageously purchased by mail, and there are many reasons why we can give you the best possible value for the amount you wish to invest.

Our diamond department is under the direct supervision of Mr. Daniel Low, senior member of the firm, who has had an experience of over forty years in the buying and selling of precious stones, and all orders are handled by men whose expert knowledge of fine stones and of settings most in favor assures careful selection and intelligent advice.

Because of the very large quantity of diamonds we sell we have exceptional facilities for securing the choicest gems, and at the present time we have a very complete stock of diamonds, many of them purchased at prices below those prevailing at present. They will be sold at a very close margin of profit over the actual cost. All our purchases are for cash, and our mail order business is distinctly on a cash basis. The expense of this department in connection with our very large business is relatively small, and we are enabled to sell at a much smaller margin of profit than the average dealer.

When we sell diamonds we invite comparison of quality and price, feeling absolutely certain that we can give you the greatest possible value for the amount you wish to pay. Should any stone fail to come up to your expectations it may be returned and the purchase price will be at once refunded. We carry in stock only pure white, perfectly cut, brilliant stones and give most careful attention to correct mounting. We are always glad to submit special designs for diamond and precious stone jewelry of any description and we make a special feature of re-setting family gems.

On advice as to requirements and price limitation we will send for inspection anywhere in the United States, at our own risk, diamonds and other precious stones, to such intending purchasers as may be known to us or who will send satisfactory references.

A goodly proportion of our diamond orders come from customers or friends of those who have already made previous diamond purchases, thus furnishing the best proof of the advantages of buying diamonds of us by mail.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

THANKSGIVING time is particularly sacred to all New Englanders. Then it is that family ties are welded more strongly than ever before.

The old folks are thrilled once more with joy and happiness when their children come back to the old home for Thanksgiving dinner.

At this time there is nothing like the TELEPHONE for getting the family together and in aiding in making all the arrangements incident to the homecoming.

Then, too, if any member of the family is unable to be present at the reunion, he may send his personality and cheering voice over the telephone wires to the gathering from and to any point within the scope of the great Bell Telephone System of the United States.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1909.

Society Notes

Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent threw open her Boston residence, 315 Dartmouth street, Monday afternoon for a pianoforte recital by Miss Virginia Wainwright, one of the season's "buds," who was introduced at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Grace Wainwright Monday week at her home on Commonwealth ave. The Wainwrights spent part of last summer at Beverly Farms. Miss Wainwright was assisted at the recital by Miss Edith Jewell, violinist. Many of the North Shore's leading families were represented in the large number that attended the recital.

Mrs. Hall McAllister has cards out announcing a series of smart musical mornings at the Somerset, Boston, on Mondays at 11.15, the first on Dec. 13. Among the artists to appear are Mme. Marguerite Sylva, Mme. Margurita D'Alvarez, Mlle. Tolanda Mero, Mischa Eiman, Frederico de Carasa and others of the opera. Mrs. McAllister gave a very successful series of afternoon musicales on the North Shore the last summer.

Miss Adele G. Thayer has cards out for an "at home," next Tuesday evening, Nov. 30, at her Commonwealth avenue, Boston, residence, to meet her cousins, the Misses Granger, of Canandaigua, N. Y.

Mrs. S. Parker Bremer's dance, Tuesday evening, for Miss Elizabeth Ayer and Miss Ruth Anthony was the leading debutante event of the week in Boston. Earlier in the evening Mrs. S. Reed Anthony gave a dinner for her daughter and some of the girls who were at the dance.

A social event of early January in the Quaker City toward which society is looking with much interest is the large ball which Edward T. Stotesbury (formerly of the North Shore colony) is to give in honor of his granddaughter, Miss Cintra Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson, of Philadelphia and Beverly Farms. Miss Hutchinson will also be the guest of honor at a dance to be given by her parents at the Bellevue-Stratford on Dec. 10. The young girl made her preliminary courtesy at a tea given by her mother earlier in the month.

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and family spent Thanksgiving at their cottage at West Manchester.

A large party of young people were down to Mrs. C. A. Munn's bungalow at Manchester last Sunday, coming here from the Harvard-Yale game.

Secretary of the Navy G. von L. Meyer came home from Washington to spend Thanksgiving with his family in Hamilton. Mrs. von Meyer and daughters will leave the shore very shortly for their Washington residence.

Mrs. Wm. Hoare has rented the Cobb Cottage on Masconomo street, Manchester, to Mrs. L. B. Harrison of Cincinnati, O., for the next season. Last year the Harrisons summered at Bass Rocks.

Following up the work which proved such a splendid success last summer, Miss Helen Frick, of Eagle Rock, Pride's Crossing, has purchased the famous "House with the iron railings" at Wenham and the poor girls of the big mill cities of the state, of Boston, Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn, and other places will find a real rest, a real vacation at the place which has been popularly called "The Frick Rest." It was last season when Miss Frick instituted the rest at Stillman farm at Wenham, and it proved such a success that her father became so much interested in the work, that the Melville place has been purchased and will be fitted up as a summer home for working girls. The Melville place is well known throughout southeastern Essex county and was for a number of years the summer home of H. H. Melville of Boston. It obtained its name from the iron railings which ran in front of the estate. It has a fine old colonial house, a great stable and about twenty-five acres of well developed land. The stables and a section of the land were leased some time ago by Childs Frick, a brother of Miss Frick, who used the stables for his string of polo ponies and had a fine polo field laid out there. Many improvements are to be made about the house and grounds and it will make one of the finest places in this section noted for fine estate.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., came over from St. David's, Pa., their country home outside of Philadelphia, for the Harvard-Yale game last Saturday, and had in their party, C. Howard Clark, 3d, their daughter Miss Amie Hampton Clark and Misses Agnes Musser and Katherine Townsend.

The death of Mrs. Joseph Sargent, which occurred Friday evening of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ellerton Whitney, in Newton, throws into mourning a large and important connection, including Joseph Sargent, who has been on the invalid list for many months, and Mrs. James S. Lee, a sister. In addition to Mrs. Whitney the family includes the Baroness Ludwig Knoop, who arrived from her home in England early in the summer, Joseph Sargent, jr., (who married Constance Caryl several years ago,) and George McC. Sargent. The late Mrs. Sargent possessed a particularly winsome and lovable disposition, and her death is bringing much sadness in its train. In former years she has spent her winters in Egypt, making her summer home in Magnolia where most of the above mentioned members of her family also have summer homes.

In the death of Miss Caroline H. King of Salem and Peabody one of the first summer residents along the Beverly shore is removed. John G. King of Salem was the first of the sojourners who came to Beverly to appreciate its beauties and to give it its start as a summer resort. He purchased the Eldredge place off Hale street near Mingo beach and built the first summer residence on the shore, commanding a magnificent view of the shore stretching from Marblehead down along the islands to Manchester. The purchase was made in 1843 and the price paid for the entire estate would not buy a small house-lot today. A part of the estate is now owned by Mrs. Susan Longworth of Cincinnati. Miss King was a sister of the first purchaser and had summered there for most of her life. The cottage is there today and many alterations were made with the passing of the years. After the Kings came other Bostonians and after the Bostonians, the Westerners, and today any sort of shore land at Beverly brings thousands of dollars.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Ground was broken at Pride's Crossing Wednesday for a new summer home for Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent, daughter of Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge of Manchester. It will be a large brick mansion, with limestone trimmings. The main house will be three stories high, and a large el will be two stories. The contract for the work has been awarded to Roberts & Hoare, the well known Manchester contractors, and they have awarded the sub-contract for foundations and stone work to Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms. The house will be located off Paine Place, the avenue leading from in front of the Pride's station, and will be on the water front, between Swiftmoor and the F. L. Higginson place.

The large greenhouses which Roberts & Hoare have been building at Eaglehead are very nearly completed. The building is about 22 by 75 feet in general dimensions, and includes besides the greenhouse proper a cold storage house and boiler house.

An addition is being built to the R. T. Paine. 2d, summer home at Coolidge's Point, including an extra bed room, dressing room, and a large lounging room. Interior changes are also being made. Roberts & Hoare of Manchester are the contractors.

John Scott, the Manchester painter and paperhanger, has the contract for the entire papering at the new parochial residence in Manchester. He also has the contract for painting the James Means summer residence on Smith's Point, and for painting the Episcopal church on Masconomo street.

Samuel Knight & Sons are to have a storage shed, about 20 by 50 feet, built on their property on Elm street, Manchester.

Emerson Whipple of East Hamilton has leased the brook that runs through his farm, to Wenham parties for three years. These parties will stock it with brook trout.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Russell, who closed their cottage at Manchester Cove last week, will spend the winter at the Lenox, Boston. They kept their house at Manchester open all last winter.

Mrs. Wm. R. Cabot closed her cottage on Beach street, Beverly Farms, Monday and returned to Boston.

Following a several months' visit to her mother, Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent, Mrs. Frank L. Higginson, jr., and her two children sailed from New York last week, on Wednesday, on the Lusitania for their London home.

Hattie Williams at the Hollis.

The visit of Hattie Williams to Boston is always a welcome event, for that charming actress has intrenched herself deeply in the admiration and affection of local theatregoers; but added interest centers in the coming two week's engagement of Miss Williams at the Hollis Street Theatre commencing Monday, Nov. 29, because she comes direct from the Garrick Theatre, New York, in a comedy-drama that would have finished out the entire season there were it not for previous contracts for the production of other plays at that theatre.

"Detective Sparkes" is a play that is full of mystery and fun. It teems with exciting incidents and the action is fast and furious. During every minute of the four acts the audience is kept guessing as to what is coming next, and not until the very end of the play is the real story ended. Unlike the average play, whether comedy or straight drama, there is no time when the auditor can sit back and say: "Well, I know it must come out."

EVELYN'S DIARY.

D. F. LAMSON.

Part III.

When Evelyn came home and settled down to the life of a lauded gentleman, England was sailing through stormy seas. But whether Cavalier or Roundhead is in power, the Diary goes on, now with glimpses of great men and the fortunes of state at home and abroad, of the Dutch war and the Long Parliament; and now noticing a new discovery or invention, as a diving bell, a portable iron oven; visits to picture galleries, gossip of 'Change and the Court, marvels and portents galore; a kaleidoscopic view of the busy world around. He attends a royal masque, "the king performing to the admiration of all," goes to see a doomed, "a very monstrous beast," and witnesses a torture scene, the sight of which was "so uncomfortable" that he soon took his leave. He records with evident satisfaction the death and funeral of "that arch-rebel Iveton," one of Cromwell's generals who had "been very bloody to the king's party"; and a few days later he notices "that celebrated eclipse of the sun so much threatened by the astrologers." He tells us of his frequent church-goings, the preachers, sermons and texts, a visit to Oxford with its halls and gardens, the inspection of wonderful curios, mechanical devices and toys, museums, statues and libraries. He relates in full the ravages of the Plague, counting as its victims in London at one time 10,000 a week, and paints in lurid light the awful visitation of the Great Fire of 1666, which destroyed nearly one hundred churches including "that goodly church St. Paul's now a sad ruin." His account of the last hours of the "merry monarch" gives an idea of the crude medical practice of the age, and lifts the curtain upon the pathetic picture of the injured queen sending to ask her lord's forgiveness for any failures in duty, while the royal profligate was sending messages to his mistress, hoping that "poor little Nell would not be forgotten," and providing for his natural children.

The Diary gives us a picture of the times, faithful in its coloring, though almost bewildering in its details; there is often a lack of perspective, owing, largely no doubt, to the nearness of the point of view. It moves on steadily to the end, without break or lessening of vitality. The good, sober, methodical, God-fearing man arranges his affairs, pays his "bills, wages and new-year's gifts, according to custom," goes to church "to give God public thanks," beseeching for himself and family continued blessings, makes his last entry in his Diary, under date of Feb. 3, 1705, consisting of notes of sermons at the chapel in the morning and afternoon," written in his own hand. On the 27th, in the 86th year of his age, John Evelyn departed this life, a type of the good old English gentleman, honest and true to the last drop of his heart's blood.

we should use the water all winter it is very probable that we might have to turn Round Pond water into Gravel Pond next summer.

"I feel that we ought to husband that water in the winter and use the old supply. We would then be using the well or spring water which would otherwise flow off into the ocean, while the pond water is being saved and stored up for use when we need it next summer.

"The home station can be run on less fuel, and in case of fire at night it would be a saving of from three to four hours in getting the pumps to work."

Chevalier at Keith's.

That Albert Chevalier has lost none of his art but on the contrary has increased his drawing power as an entertainer, is being evidenced at Keith's, where he is delighting large audiences with his characterizations of English types with which his name has been for years identified. Those who have seen and heard him can readily understand the great sensation he created in Chicago, and it is no surprise to hear that he is being held over for another week at Keith's. Chevalier never was better than he is now and unlike most great artists who have endeavored to maintain their reputations, he has not only found worthy successors to such classics as "My Old Dutch" and "Missis 'enery 'awkins," but he has gone even one better with his new songs such as "The Work 'ouse Man" and "I've got 'er 'at." This last song is one of the best things Mr. Chevalier has ever given us. We are not familiar with the type in this country, but the artist enables us to enjoy it to the fullest extent.

For his last week he is surrounded by a bill of headliners, many of them new to Boston. One of the most interesting will be Beatrice Ingram & Company, in a new comedy sketch called "The Duchess" which is said to be a sensation of laughs from start to finish.

"Rheumatics" Will Probably Have to Get Along Without Gravel Pond Water this Winter.

So many of the citizens have a desire to have the Gravel Pond water used this winter in preference to the spring, or well water at the home station, so-called, in Manchester, and inasmuch as two of the citizens expressed their desires in communications to The Breeze within the last two weeks, The Breeze this week sought an interview with Chairman F. J. Merrill of the board of Water Commissioners.

Mr. Merrill said the board had not received a petition for a continuance of the Gravel Pond water, neither had it taken any action relative to the matter. The question had been informally talked over at the meeting of the board Tuesday. Chairman Merrill had expressed himself as against running the Gravel Pond station this winter. Commissioner James Hoare would be pleased to do as the public wanted in this respect, and was inclined to favor using this water. Commissioner Jeffrey T. Stanley was inclined to be non-committal, but if anything he favored closing down the Gravel Pond station for the winter.

Mr. Merrill in his interview said:

"The members of the Board are public servants and will do what the citizens demand. If a majority of the citizens demand the Gravel Pond water, of course the board would feel bound to give it to them. At the present time the board is not in favor of doing so.

"There are several reasons why it would be unwise to do it at this time. The plant (at the home station) is brand new and we ought to run it for a time and tune it up so as to get it in smooth-running condition. We can run this plant at less expense than the larger plant at Gravel Pond.

"It was not contemplated that we should use the Gravel Pond plant in winter. It was installed as an auxiliary system to use in the summer months when the consumption was heaviest. There was no reason to expect that the town would use it in winter. No provision was made for that.

"On the ground of economy, safety and prudence, as well as convenience, it is advisable to run the town plant in winter instead of the station at Gravel Pond. The pond was drawn down considerably during the summer months and it is filling very, very slowly. It has gained only three inches since we shut it down on the 26th of October,—a month ago. If

Manchester has been in the dark the last three days. Tuesday afternoon the electric lights went out and the grocers and provision dealers who were not fortunate enough to have a left-over supply of kerosene oil lamps had to sell their goods by the light of tallow candles. Wednesday, the trouble continued. About five o'clock Thanksgiving evening the "juice" was turned on, but at midnight the trouble started again. This morning the lights and power are still minus quantities, and the Lord only knows how long it will continue. But what's the use to talk about it!

A REAL touch of ye olde colonial days was added to the Thanksgiving atmosphere in Manchester this year when the white-coated grocer clerks and white-frocked butchers dealt out quarts of cranberries, pumpkins, nuts and other "fixins" for the festive day to the light of tallow candles. Could old Mrs. Samples, the keeper of the first store in the town, have dropped around the night before Thanksgiving, she wouldn't have been the least surprised at the present-day means of lighting. It all happened through the failure of the electric lights. The night was a storm and, as usual, the electric light plant was out of commission. It wouldn't have seemed so bad if it hadn't been the busiest day of the year for the grocers and the provision men,—and one of the few nights in the winter season the stores are open. They lost dollars through the failure of the lights to work.

The trouble? Well, it is next to impossible to cast any light on that, either. One explanation is that the plant in Beverly, whence our power comes, was out of commission. Another, that a large tree fell across the wires at Beverly Farms and broke connections. Another, and the most probable, that the manholes about town were full of water.

But, what's the use of talking! No matter what we say, or how near we come to expressing the sentiment of the citizens, the corporation (controlled by the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co.) will do as it pleases.

They have the wires under our streets, and we can whistle; if there's anything to matter with the equipment they will fix it when their good and ready. And no matter whether we have the lights or not, we will have to pay for them just the same. The public will get the small end of the deal, anyway.

We will still have to pay the exorbitant price of 15 cents (instead of 12 or 13 cents as in other places), and no matter how large one's bills may be in winter, we will have to pay a minimum rate in summer.

Perhaps some generous-hearted citizens will subscribe to a fund to help the company keep a man or two on hand to look out for things.

Perhaps the public is not aware of the fact that the company which undertakes to furnish electric lights for the town of Manchester—by the way, one of the wealthiest towns in the Commonwealth—maintains a large force of TWO employees, namely, a manager and a young lady stenographer.

Just think of the tremendous expense the corporation is under!

Meanwhile please turn on the power long enough for us to print the BREEZE, so that the public may have an opportunity of reading this and saying "them's my sentiments too."

"THERE should be more attention paid to gymnastics and less to athletics. What we need is to begin with the boys and girls and give them gymnastic training as faithfully as we give them food and clothing. Boston has done much in this respect, but there is still more to be done. We have gymnasiums in the high schools, but there should be a gymnasium in every school. Children cannot obtain a great amount of benefit from exercise taken in the school room. They should have a room properly equipped, where the whole atmosphere is different and where there is no limitation or restraint."—Baroness Posse of the Posse Gymnasium, Boston.

WITH the installation of city delivery in Manchester next week the BREEZE will go to press a little earlier on Fridays. It has been going to press between 3 and 4 o'clock, but in the future the paper will be mailed in time to catch the afternoon delivery which will leave the post-office between 3 and 4 o'clock, so that all Manchester subscribers will be able to get their paper Friday afternoons. Persons who are accustomed to send items to the office for publication please remember this and get the items in early.

THE Medford Mercury is to be congratulated on its efforts to "regulate or abolish the lobby," which was the subject of a two-column editorial in its last issue. The "lobby" is one of the cancer-worms eating its way into the vitals of sound, honest legislation, and the old Bay State ought to put its foot on the worm and kill it,—or at least stifle its activities. Legislation that is bought by money, or that is killed by it, is not democracy, but plutocracy.

To Manchester stamp-savers! If you would save a dollar or so, be wise and get your Dec. 1 bills in the postoffice before closing time on Tuesday, Nov. 30. The city delivery service goes into effect on Dec. 1, and it will cost two cents a letter thereafter. Last call! This hint may be the means of cheating the government out of quite a few dollars, but—

What's the trouble with the electric power in Manchester? Don't ask us. It is well there are so few people in Manchester making commercial use of electricity. Just the time one wants to start up the motor there's no "juice." There is just one thing that can be depended upon and that is the bill will be forth-coming the first of the month.

All subscriptions to the Breeze taken this month or next will be dated Jan. 1, 1910. Have you noticed our combination offers yet? adv.

The Superior of Niagara.

Grim, grand and glorious is the Foss, surpassing Niagara in scenic environment. Under suitable conditions Niagara has its well known rainbow, but Gullfoss has several of them arching the waters one above the other in the dense volume of spray that is hurled 250 feet above the surface of the stream. If the fabled pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow arch were to be obtained, here is the place to search, for within the walls of the upper canyon the rainbows end and one may pass through them and even stand at their foot if he is willing to take the drenching of the down pouring floods of spray, larger than the sheets of water in a New England thunder shower.

Grand as is the Gullfoss its setting is even more impressive. Above the plain Lang Jokull extends for 40 miles, lifting its unexplored surface of pristine ice high in air, a challenge to the seeker after the unknown secrets of Nature, which challenge the writer hopes some time to accept. At its base and near at hand is Hvitavatn, White-water-lake, the source of the river. In the perpetual sunlight of Iceland's summer months this vast icefield discharges constant floods down its cliffs. Hence the Hvita starts upon its turbulent course to the sea a full-grown river. Toward the east the peaks of the Keriingafjall arrest the eye, around whose slopes hot springs are scattered sending up a mass of vapor.

The thunders of Gullfoss diminished as we followed the brink of its canyon southward and descended into the stony waste of Biskupstunga, where the foaming of its silt-laden stream was the only evidence of the recent travail of it waters. Two hours gallop along the bank, crossing the canyon by a narrow suspension bridge erected in 1907 to accommodate the King of Denmark, brought us to Skipholt. This is the best-appointed farm in Iceland. The owner was presented with a medal by the king for his thriftiness. The good-wife is a model hostess and entertained us in her sitting room with excellent biscuits, delicious pastry and an abundance of the rich milk so characteristic of Icelandic farms.

Oasis in Desert of Lava.

We now left the trail and picked our way over ridge after ridge of lava crags. In some places the descent was so steep that it was with difficulty that we retained our seats in the pommelless saddles. The surcingle were old and cracked and we put little trust in them. However, they held, else we would have experienced a very undignified descent. Climbing the last ridge we met a bare-backed rider, a tall, sunbrowned shepherd carrying a lost lamb in his bosom and the well known words of Elizabeth Clephane's hymn came to our lips:—

But all thro' the mountains thunder riven,
And up from the rocky steep,
There arose a cry to the gate of heaven,
"Rejoice! I have found my sheep."

It cost us an hour to pick our way across a hassocky bog luxuriant with sedges, bullrushes and cotton-grass and dotted with jets of steam puffing from the numerous fumaroles. It was Sunday evening when we arrived at the parsonage of Hruni and received a cordial welcome from the pastor and his family. His farm is a veritable oasis in a lava desert. Sunday ends at 6 p. m. The laborers were sharpening their scythes preparatory to a few hours mowing before retiring. The rosy-cheeked maids were filling the wooden buckets with foaming milk in the enclosure near the byre. Before the house an excellent patch of potatoes was in full bloom unravished by the Colorado beetle. A budding rosebush stood by the portal flanked with several old-fashioned flowers such as bloom around the dilapidated dwellings of New England's abandoned farms. The church of Hruni close by resplendent with a new coat of paint accented the peacefulness of the pastoral scene:

The cottage was a thatched one,
The outside old and mean,
But all within this little cot
Was wondrous neat and clean.

We partook of an appetizing dinner most of which was cooked in a boiling spring. After an evening in the well-stocked library, (referred to in the previous paper,) where in mingled English, Icelandic French and Latin the pastor told us of his labor, the condition of his flock, his ambitions and his botanical studies, we were shown to spotless rooms and inviting beds supplied with hand-made daintily embroidered linen and coverlets of eider-down several inches in thickness.

Continuing our way across the ridges, fording the Laka, (Salmon river) and many other torrents, we arrived at the Thijorsa, (Bull river.) A mishap to our pack saddles caused a long delay prior to crossing. All available straps and cords were brought into use and served us treacherously until that evening at Galtalakur, where we found a farmer with a small forge as primitive as that of Tubal-Cain. The Thijorsa, nearly half a mile wide runs swiftly over its jagged bed of lava. The ponies were stripped of every strap and the trappings placed in a rickety, leaking boat. We drove the ponies into the ice-cold water and rowed to the opposite shore. Perched upon the top of the luggage in the little skiff, which lurched a good bit in the white rapids, we drifted with the current in a diagonal line, rather than rowed across the stream.

Hekla, "the hooded," towered above us in the dismal plain. This was the goal. Across black sands ankle deep we jogged along, winding around enormous masses of tufa, the outer guards of serried columns that we were to attack on the morrow. Much of this lava was vesicular and it was all fragmentary, having been blown a distance of 15 miles during the first of the eruption. We entered a narrow tongue of grazing land with scanty herbage which lies between the two great lava streams of the last eruption. It is here that the awful desolation of Hekla first appeals to the traveller. Thousands of acres of the best farming land in Iceland have been entirely ruined by the outpourings of this volcano.

The Ascent of Hekla

Irregularly huge, august and high,
Mass piled on mass, and rock on ponderous rock,
In Alpine majesty; its lofty brows
Sometimes dark frowning, and anon serene;
Wrapt now in clouds, invisible, and now
Glowing with golden sunshine.

It was 6 o'clock on the morning of July 20 when we mounted the best of our ponies and turned their heads toward the cloud-capped summit of Hekla. The day did not promise much in the way of clearness and a distant view; it even threatened to envelope us in clouds and sprinkle us with an abundance of snow. However, clouds could not prevent the ascent and we believed the view of Hekla's wonderful mantle of variegated lava, varied in colors as that which Joseph wore, would well repay the toil. The night previous we had spent at Galtalakur farm, the most primitive of all we visited in Iceland. We obtained the services of the farmer to guide us. No ascent had previously been made for four years, even to the lower edge of the snow field. What the conditions might be no one could foretell. We forded the West Wrong river,—a very disagreeable crossing as the landing must be made upon a steep bank out of very deep and rapidly running water,—ascended the slope to the base of a high wall of lava which we followed till we came to a narrow gap where a torrential stream, flowing from Hekla's melting snow, has broken through.

Next Wednesday morning, Dec. 1, postal delivery service will go into effect in Manchester. The details of this have been given from time to time in the BREEZE. The carriers will start out on their first morning collection between six and seven o'clock and will collect from as many boxes as time will permit. They will start on their first delivery as soon as the seven o'clock mail is assorted. They will collect the mail on this delivery. The second delivery will be as soon as the three o'clock mail is assorted, and mail will be collected on this deliver also.

In connection with the institution of a delivery service next Wednesday there comes a change of the departure of the last mail from Manchester. The mail closing now at 6.14 p. m. will close at 7.55 and will be despatched on the 9.06 train, instead of 6.40 as at present. This is another move in the line of improvement.

The Thanksgiving reunion of the Bell family at North Beverly was the occasion of one of the largest gatherings hereabouts. Some 42 were gathered about the tables at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Rowe at North Beverly, but the happiest of the lot was Mrs. Mary E. Bell, the mother of the large family, who is now in her 73d year. There were seven children, 16 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren, and the new acquisitions to the family by marriage. The members of the Bell families from here were present.

Daniel Leach of Boston was in town over the holiday.

Miss Lila Goldsmith and mother spent Thanksgiving in Winthrop with the latter's son, George Goldsmith and family.

Miss Adele Decker of Salem spent Thanksgiving with her cousins, the L. N. Deckers, Norwood ave.

Frank Johnson and son of Lynn were in town yesterday and partook of their Thanksgiving dinner with the former's father Andrew Johnson and daughters, Bridge street.

Hearing at Manchester this Morning on Improving Entrance to Manchester Inner Harbor.

Before Lieut. Col. Edward Burr, representing the Secretary of War's office, a hearing was held this morning at the Manchester Town hall relative to the petition of the town to have the entrance into Manchester inner harbor improved by having the railroad bridge raised so as to allow more space under the bridge at highwater.

When the hearing closed at 1.30 there seemed some probability from the manner in which the case had been presented that the Boston & Maine will be ordered to improve the bridge by raising it some three and a half feet, and by putting a differently constructed bridge so that some space may be gained in that way.

The plans as presented by the last witness, Engineer Raymond C. Allen, called for raising the grade of the track beginning at the Beach St. crossing and extending some distance above Ashland av-

The bridge level would be 3½ ft. above that of the present time, and 1½ ft. at Ashland ave.

Mrs. H. G. Curry closed her summer residence this week and returned to her home in Pittsburg, Pa.

Word has been received from John C. Lycett, jr., of his safe arrival in Pinehurst, N. C., where he will work at his trade.

Mrs. John B. Knowlton is visiting her brother Clarence Allen at Greenbush, on the South Shore.

Mrs. Fred S. Lycett spent the holiday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Sanborn at West Acton.

Edward Ballou returned the last of the week from Philadelphia where he has been enjoying his annual vacation.

The first whist party of the season will be given at the home of Mrs. Teresa Knowles next Wednesday evening, Dec. 1. Men are cordially invited as well as ladies.

There will be a big No-License Rally in the Gloucester City hall next Monday evening at eight o'clock. Music by Clark's full Military Band of 20 pieces. The speakers will be the Hon. John T. Shea of Cambridge, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society of America, and Rev. Samuel B. Knobbs of Lynn, permanent secretary of the Lynn No-License League. Mr. Knobbs was formerly pastor of the Baptist church in East Gloucester and is a powerful speaker. Mr. Shea was enjoyed by everybody last year, his address being both witty and brilliant.

An informal meeting of the men of Magnolia was called at the Men's Clubhouse last Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a winter club. H. L. Hannaford was elected president and Fred Dunbar treasurer. It was voted to open the basement of the Clubhouse for bowling and pool three evenings a week, Monday, Thursday and Saturday from 6.30 to 10 o'clock. The dues for the winter club were fixed at $4.00, payable in advance. There will be no extra charge for bowling or pool except two cents a string to be given the pin-boys. Saturday night is to be ladies' night. It is probable that the gymnasium will be opened one afternoon a week for the boys. Arrangements for installing radiators have been made and the club will open next Monday evening.

A very pleasant dancing party was held at the Women's Clubhouse Thursday evening. Music was furnished by Adams Orchestra and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Rev. Theron Phelps, pastor of the Baptist church, East Gloucester, will preach in the Village church Sunday evening in exchange with the pastor.

Co-Partnership Settlement Sale.

One of the grandest opportunities ever offered North Shore people to purchase goods at low prices may now be found at the co-partnership settlement sale now on at the H. M. Bixby Co. store in Salem. The store is one of the oldest in the county, and with its age goes that degree of reliability which has placed it among the leaders. The retirement of Mr. Bixby from the firm several years ago after nearly sixty years' service left the business in the hands of George A. Morrill and John O. Hinkley, both of whom had grown up with the business, the former being connected with the establishment for 37 years. The sad death of Mr. Hinkley this fall leaves the business in Mr. Morrill's hands, and it is to settle up the business that this great sacrifice sale is on. The goods offered, at will be seen by looking over the full-page adv. in this week's BREEZE, are the same as are regularly offered, but the prices are reduced in some cases less than half.

This is a splendid chance to get in a line of mattings, rugs, wall papers,—etc., such as may be needed in household use at a very, very low figures.

Alfred Rogers, who has been a resident of the Farms since last spring, went to Halifax, N. S., this week for the winter.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Thanksgiving Day passed about as usual at the Farms. Despite the foul weather numerous "sons and daughters" returned for the day to complete the circle around some family table, while many others went out of town to partake of the festive bird. Family gatherings and reunions were the order of the day.

John Lawson and family have moved into the Otis N. Davis cottage on Everett street, formerly occupied by the J. Albert Mayberrys.

James F. O'Dea has given up the tenement on the upper end of Hart street, which he has occupied for several years, and has taken rooms in the Robert J. Brown cottage.

Mrs. Daniel Powers of North Adams has spent the last week visiting friends here. She returned home Wednesday.

The stork paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Hart street, early Wednesday morning, leaving a baby boy.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neville, who has been away from home since last June, arrived home Wednesday. He has been visiting relatives in Philadelphia during the last few weeks.

Edward Hill, chauffeur for Allen Curtis, was on trial at the district court in Salem Wednesday on the charge of over-speeding and reckless driving of his automobile on Nov. 7, when Thomas Rourke, the 10-year old lad who ran into the auto on Haskell street, was injured. Day-officer C. L. Williams testified that Mr. Hill told him he was not going over 23 miles an hour. The officer testified that there was a school house on the street and that speed signs were posted. James R. L. Wiseman and Edward Vady, both of the Farms, testified that they saw Hill going by and that he was travelling at the rate of 40 miles.

A number of Farms business men have been active the past week in raising subscriptions for the Beverly Y. M. C. A. fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Campbell are planning to move into their new cottage at Montserrat early next month.

Several new members were added to the membership of the G. A. R. Associates at the last meeting. A pitch tournament will be started shortly.

Michael Crown and family moved their household goods from Boston Wednesday to the second floor tenement of the Connolly Bros.' cottage on Vine street. Mr. Crown is the new proprietor of Wyatt's market.

The dance and social which is being conducted by Alex Southerland and Peter Deblois in Marshall's hall this evening will no doubt be largely attended. Every lady who attends will be presented with a souvenir.

The boys' drum corps is having regular rehearsals every Monday night. James McGerity is the instructor.

"The Conquest of Mexico by Hernando Cortes" was the subject of a very interesting lecture by Miss Katherine P. Loring before the Girls' club of the Baptist church Tuesday evening. The lecture was profusely illustrated with stereopticon views. It was an open meeting and many of the people took advantage of the opportunity to hear Miss Loring again. The Girls' club of Beverly attended in a body, as guests of the local club.

Charles Martin, proprietor of the garage in Central square, was in Boston last Friday evening and while in front of the Adams house on Washington street he was pushed, unintentionally, off the sidewalk into a moving taxicab. He was knocked down and had two bones broken in one leg. Mr. Martin was taken to his home in Gloucester where he is getting along as comfortably as can be expected.

John S. Wallace, who has been a foreman for the J. T. Wilson & Son carpentry concern, for a number of years past, has entered the employ of H. A. Doane, in the same capacity.

Thos. J. McDonnell, the Vine street plumber, has been awarded the contract for the plumbing and heating of the new stable and garage at the Frederick Ayer estate.

F. E. Cole, superintendent of the Spaulding estate, has leased the John O. Sullivan cottage on Webster street and expects to move into it shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Colton of Concord, N. H., are at the Farms visiting friends. They are to remain here until the early part of next week.

John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, was well represented at the Pilgrim Wanderers' gathering in Lynn Tuesday evening, where the party were guests of DeSoto colony.

The young men's class which meets on Sundays at noon at the Baptist church is increasing in membership. Last Sunday before the lesson Mayor Trowt and Postmaster Brooks spoke to the class.

James B. Dow took out nomination papers this week for re-election to the school board. This is the only additional paper for city office, from this ward, taken out since our last issue.

The girls' gymnasium class of which Miss May D. Connolly is instructor had their first lesson of this season's series last Monday evening in the assembly hall of the Farms school. The boys' class had their first lesson at the same place Tuesday evening.

A COMPLETE LINE OF

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC GROCERIES MEATS AND PROVISIONS

THE THISSELL CO., Beverly Farms

There will be no meeting of the women's gymnasium class next Monday evening, owing to the fact that many of the members will attend the Grove-Low wedding reception.

Next Tuesday evening will be an important one in the annals of Preston Relief Corps, for on that date the corps has arranged to have as its guests large delegations from the Beverly and Manchester corps. It is expected that 100 will sit down to the evening repast at 6.30. An entertainment and social hour will follow.

Fogg—Thomas.

Joseph Fogg, a popular Farms young man, and Miss Lena Thomas, daughter of Captain and Mrs. William H. Thomas of Gloucester, were united in marriage Monday evening at the parochial residence in Gloucester by the Rev. Wm. J. Hennessey. The bride was attended by her younger sister, Miss Gertrude Thomas, and Alexander Chisholm was the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Marchant street, which was attended by the immediate relatives and close friends of the couple. An orchestra furnished music and a bountiful wedding repast was served.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fogg will make their home in their attractive new bungalow cottage, near the railroad, just west of the Pride's Crossing station.

How Everything Will Centre Around That Turkey on Thanksgiving Day

How he looms up in your mind's eye now, as you look forward to the dinner hour—and that chicken pie—and those mince pies—what a brown they will all have on. Well that's right, they ought to, but how about wife's being able to do all this in that old stove—suppose it all was a failure just because the oven wouldn't work right, as it often does, now that it is old and cranky? Wouldn't she feel badly and how much worse you ought to feel, when you have been teased for a new stove so many times, and knew you really ought to have one.

Well now don't risk any such chances as this, get the new range this week so that wife will understand it for this big annual affair and get one that you are sure will produce a dinner fit for a queen. Get

The Crawford Range

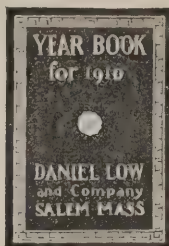

The range with the single damper. With the asbestos lined oven. With the cup joint flues. With the Titus applied low price and you get the range endorsed by all the leading cooking schools in New England. And 'twill work so perfect as soon as you get it, that you'll want to endorse it as well.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1909.

Society Notes

The Henry Pratt McKeanes, who have kept their residence at Pride's Crossing open later than usual this autumn, have just closed their place this week and have returned to their country estate at Pennlyn, Pa., where they will spend several weeks before opening their town residence in Philadelphia.

The Hugo R. Johnstones have closed their estate at Hamilton this week and were to leave yesterday for Pasadena, Cal., where they have a beautiful winter home.

Charles P. Searles closed his summer home, "Ingolsbe," on Eagle Hill road, Ipswich, Tuesday, and returned to Boston.

Mrs. C. A. Munn and family, who have been enjoying the delightful autumn on the North Shore, and have been entertaining young people at their bungalow at Manchester over most every weekend, are planning to return to Washington the middle of this month in time for the holidays.

Dr. R. H. Fitz and family, who have been at "The Mountain," at West Manchester since returning from their trip to Europe this summer, closed their place the first of this week and are at their Boston residence, 18 Arlington street, for the winter.

On the board of examiners of the Boston Public Library, recently appointed, we note the names of several well known North Shore people,—Mrs. Wirt Dexter, Oliver M. Mink, George P. Sanger, Alexander Steinert and Charles H. Tyler.

Miss Adele G. Thayer gave an "at home" Tuesday evening at her Commonwealth ave., Boston, residence, for her cousins, the Misses Granger of Canandaigua. The house was beautifully decorated with quantities of flowers sent from Miss Thayer's greenhouses at West Manchester, and on the refreshment tables were single pink chrysanthemums.

Statistics of the Boston Social Register, 1910.

The Boston Social Register, which forms part of the series covering most of the cities in the United States, has just been issued.

The members of prominent families, wherever they may be residing, are grouped under the one address with the maiden and Christian name of the married woman, and the name of the daughters and sons in the order of their age, and the younger children from 12 to 20 years of age are placed beneath their elders under the title of Juniors.

The bankers' address is given where residence is abroad, and the names of the ships and dates of arrivals from and departures to foreign ports.

Married women who may only be remembered by their maiden names may be traced by consulting the list of Married Maidens in the back of the book.

During the past year 144 persons have married as compared to 146 last year, and there are noted the deaths of 39 women and 52 men as compared to that of 46 women and 60 men last year, a very slight variation.

It may be interesting to know that during the past year there were noted in all the Social Registers covered by the Association the marriages of 2137 persons, 1327 deaths, and 15,298 changes of address during the year.

Beverly National Bank Promotions.

As a result of the death of Horace P. Foster, for many years the receiving teller of the Beverly National Bank, promotions were made by the directors of the bank at a recent meeting.

Edward S. Webber, who has been acting as paying teller was appointed to that place and Frank W. Foster was made receiving teller. The other promotions and the new places given were as follows:—bookkeeper, Fred H. Porter; assistant, W. Clifton Brown; clerk, Harry L. Perkins. The directors by the promotions have shown their appreciation of the work of the men who have been filling these positions for some time and the advancements are looked upon as deserved.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Manchester, Mass., P. O., for week ending Nov. 2: Mrs. Mary Bonia, Mrs. Carbeth, Miss Margaret Flynn, Pioto Fedowowicsu, Edgar F Hathaway, Mrs. J. W. Ketchum, Miss Jennie Mitchell, M. Moll, Miss Mamie O'Hanley, Miss Marion J. Ross, Rev. S. J. Whelan.

Real Estate :: :: And Improvements

The extensive improvements going on at Mystery Isles this fall, and in fact for the last six months, have been closed down for the winter. The work on the artificial pond and the construction of the stone ice-house has been completed, practically, so that the ice for next summer's use can be cut and stored on the island this winter. The work has been done by D. Linehan & Son.

A large addition is being built to the greenhouse on the Dr. Sears estate at Beverly Cove, from plans by Hitchings & Co., of Boston. The mason work is being done by D. Linehan & Son.

Improvements have been made at the David Fenton Co. ship-building plant at Manchester this fall under the direction of Supt. Calderwood. The wharf has been entirely rebuilt, new timbers and new top planking having been put in. The grounds between the buildings and the wharf have been greatly improved by filling in and re-grading. The whole property will be found in much better condition for those using it next season as a landing place for their yachts and power boats. The company at the present time are quite busy building tenders for next year's trade. They are building one tender from special design for Guy Norman of Beverly Cove. Though it is a little early for placing orders for yachts for next year's use, the prospects point to another busy season in this line. Several sonder boats will be built during the coming winter, and probably the Manchester defender for the Seawanhaka Cup to be raced next season will be built here.

D. Linehan & Son have the contract for making some improvements, including the construction of granolithic fences, walks, etc., at the Essex Trust Co., in Lynn.

Work has just been started by D. Linehan & Son at Pride's on the construction of a cow barn, about 25 by 30 feet, at the A. P. Loring estate. The foundations will be of concrete, and the interior will be of granolithic construction.

Pauline W. Smith of Manchester to Anna D. Howard of Boston, land and buildings rear Bridge street, Manchester, 52 by 188.8 feet.

Auto Registration Began Wednesday.

Bright and early Wednesday morning everything was in readiness at the rooms of the Massachusetts Highway commission in the Ford building, Boston, for the work of re-registering the more than 20,000 automobiles in the commonwealth. The numbers now issued figure far above 23,000 autos and above 2500 motor cycles. It is estimated that upwards of 17,000 owners will have to be registered.

There are 16 interrogatories to be answered on the new license blank for operators. The applicant will be asked to state whether he wishes a chauffeur's license; whether he has had such license in this state; if so, in what year and under what number; the date of his birth, color, sex, height, color of hair and of eyes; approximate number of miles that he has driven, and what kind of machine he has operated; whether he indulges in intoxicants habitually; whether he has a record for any criminal offense committed within two years prior; if he has mental or physical disability, and if he knew the rules of the road.

Especial care is to be taken in questioning as to horsepower. The board will generally follow the code of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers. This formula is the square of the cylinder diameter multiplied by the number of cylinders and divided by 2.5.

The new registration fees are: Under 20 horsepower, $5; from 20 to 30 horsepower, $10; 30 to 40, $15; 40 to 50, $20; over 50, $25; motor cycles, $2 each; electrics and commercial vehicles, probably $5 each.

In making application auto owners will be required to state whether there has been transfer of ownership of the machine to be licensed this year. The purpose of this is to enable the commission to trace cars that have been sold and perhaps have not been registered. The type of the machine, name of maker, manufacturer's number, character of power, manufacturer's horsepower rating, number of cylinders, bore of cylinder, if a gasoline engine, if it has adequate brakes, locking device, muffler, lamps, bell, horn or other device for signalling, predominating color of body and running gear, all enter into the category. If a chauffeur is employed, his name and address must be given with license number.

The commission is reserving the first 5000 of the new plates for present holders of low numbers who may wish to retain them for renewal. These will be reserved till Dec. 20, and any of the plates so reserved which have not then been taken will be distributed to those who may ask for them. Notices are to be sent out to holders of the first 5000 registered numbers this year, that this privilege is extended to them, and that if they wish to retain the numbers they now have they must make prompt application for blanks and send in the checks.

No Power; No Breeze.

Last week for the first time since the BREEZE has been issued the paper was one day late in reaching half of its subscribers and three days late in reaching the balance. Trouble with the Manchester Electric Co. service was responsible for the delay. Friday is the day the BREEZE goes to press. The power was off all day Friday until about 5 o'clock. The BREEZE force worked until nearly midnight Friday intending to finish the work Saturday forenoon. At 8 o'clock Saturday morning, however, the power was off again, and the edition was not off entirely until Saturday evening, when the power came on again.

Boston—1915.

Because of urgent and repeated demands that came from exhibitors, patrons, and others, the Directors of Boston-1915 voted, at a special meeting Saturday, to continue the "1915" Boston Exposition for another week, or until December 4. If the public patronage and interest should seem to warrant it, the Exposition may be maintained a second additional week.

The Return of Eleanor Gordon.

Next week at Keith's will be one of unusual interest in Boston, from the fact that it will introduce for the first time here in vaudeville Eleanor Gordon, formerly leading lady of the Boston theatre stock company, who during two seasons she played there won a popularity attained by few actresses in Boston. Miss Gordon is not simply in vaudeville for a week, in fact, she has been successful in securing one of the very best short comedies written in years, and she has made a tremendous success with it throughout the west. It is called "Tips on Taps," and was written by the famous author Edgar Allen Woolf.

The surrounding bill will be another one of those splendid entertainments that are coming in rapid succession at Keith's these days. It will include Carter De Haven, "The Beau Brummel of New York," who made such a hit there with his songs and clever dancing, making his changes of costumes in view of the audience. Other features will be "Slivers" the famous clown, in a most amusing pantomime; the Gordon Eldrid company in a sketch called "Won by a Leg;" the Nichols sisters, the Kentucky belles; Al Carleton, monologist; The Village Choir, and Apdalen's Animals.

All subscriptions to the Breeze taken this month or next will be dated Jan. 1, 1910. Have you noticed our combination offers yet? adv.

W. R. C. Entertainment and Sale.

The entertainment and sale of Allen Relief Corps of Manchester, in the Town hall, Wednesday evening, proved a successful affair, both as to the quality of the entertainment and the proceeds of the sale.

The program consisted of the following numbers, all well rendered, and all of which called for an encore, and in some cases two or three encores:

Piano solo, Selection from Faust,
Miss Helen Benfield of Peabody
Recitation, Sockery Joins the Lodge,
Miss Ethel Tucker of Peabody
Recitation, Tribulations of Biddy Malone,
Miss Ethel Tucker
Cornet solo, The Rosary,
Mrs. Nellie Keley of Beverly
Piano solo, Ripple of the Alabama,
Miss Benfield
Piano solo, Penelope's Christmas Dance,
Miss Benfield
Recitation, Entertaining Sister's Beau,
Miss Tucker
Cornet solo, Melodie in F, Mrs. Keley

The following ladies were in charge of the tables:

Candy, Mrs. L. W. Floyd, Mrs. Harlan Morgan; ice cream, Mrs. Jennie Dennis, Mrs. Seddie Follett, Mrs. Ericson; aprons, Mrs. Mary Lane, Mrs. R. A. Mitchell; fancy, Mrs. G. A. Jones, Mrs. Helen Willmontont; glass, Mrs. Carrie Cook, Miss Brenda Cook; punch bowl, Mrs. George Hildreth; fish pond, Mrs. J. S. Reed; gypsy tent, Mrs. Hannah Tappan.

The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. A. E. Hersey, and Mrs. Walen was chairman of the committee in charge of the sale.

New Catholic Cemetery at Beverly.

Catholics in Manchester and Beverly Farms will be interested in the announcement that Rev. Francis J. Curran of the Beverly church has purchased about 32 acres of land on the westerly side of Brimble ave, between Montserrat and North Beverly, from the trustees of the estate of the late Charles W. Galloupe of Swampscott for cemetery purposes. The land has a heavy growth of trees fronting on Brimble avenue which obstructs any view of the land from the street.

About seven years ago Father Curran purchased land on Balch street for the same purpose, but the United Shoe Machinery Co. needed it for its plant, so he sold it to them. Father Curran deserves great credit in securing for the Catholics of Beverly [and adjoining towns so desirable a location for burial purposes.

In the past St. Mary's cemetery at Salem has been the nearest Catholic cemetery to Manchester and Beverly Farms.

Notwithstanding the present high price of Diamonds and the prospect of a further advance in the near future we feel that our stock is larger than it should be and propose to make such prices as should reduce it.

Annie Edgecombe, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Edgecombe, celebrated her ninth birthday last Friday afternoon, at her home on Forest street. Nine of her young friends were present. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, etc., were served. Games were played and the little ones had a most enjoyable time. The little hostess received many presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Lane yesterday informally observed the 25th anniversary of their wedding. A few friends called during the afternoon, and in the evening to extend congratulations.

George Kimball, formerly superintendent of streets of Manchester, is critically ill at his home in Salem. It has been reported several times during the last few days that he had passed away. He was living at noon today, however. He is very low. He has heart trouble.

That Gravel Pond Water!

It is evident from the manner in which the citizens have signed a petition addressed to the Manchester Water board the last few days that there are many of the people who are very anxious to have the water supply taken from Gravel Pond this winter instead of from the home station.

It is claimed that the water at Gravel Pond is much softer; that it is a cure for rheumatism; or at least that it does not bring on rheumatic ills as quickly as does the spring water at present in use.

A petition has been circulated and some 125 of the most representative people of the town have signed their name to it, petitioning the water board to use the Gravel Pond water instead of the spring water.

The petition will be presented to the board Saturday, probably.

The BREEZE has had several communications in the last three weeks bearing on the matter and last week, an interview with Chairman Merrill of the board. Though Mr. Merrill is inclined to be against using this water this winter, he says he is willing to do just as the people want if they will only express themselves.

In all Essex County there is probably no person more widely acquainted with historical subjects and incidents of local interest than T. Frank Waters of Ipswich. The Ipswich Historical Society of which he is the moving spirit is one of the most active organizations of its kind in the state.

Waters' publications,—the latest from his pen. It is entitled "Candlewood—An Ancient Neighborhood in Ipswich."

Coupled with the story of "Candlewood" are the genealogies of three old Ipswich families—John Brown, William Fellows and Robert Kinsman. It is only one with deep knowledge of matters historically, and one who has made a wide study of family "trees" that could write such a volume as this latest one of Mr. Waters, which, we note on the fly-leaf is "parts 16 and 17 of the Proceedings of the Ipswich Historical Society."

The interest taken by Mr. Waters in these subjects, these genealogies, tracings of family trees, has grown in his home town to the extent that many of the so-called "summer residents" have become interested and are the society's most active workers.

As a rule history, genealogy and the like is very dry reading. Mr. Waters has a way of throwing life into his works, however, that make them interesting and quite readable.

The volume numbers one-hundred and sixty odd pages. It is from the print shop of the Salem Press Co., and is a credit to the publishers. It is of the "antique" make-up and could have been produced only in a print shop that makes a specialty of such class of work as does this Salem concern.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher and infant daughter, left Manchester last Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Fisher's relatives in Maine, before returning to their home in Torreon, Mex.

At their meeting last evening the selectmen granted a permit to Morley, Flatley & Co. to lay a drain across Vine street. They granted a permit also to Chas. Sargent to move a cottage from the F. M. Whitehouse property to Ocean street, near the Heath Fish Market.

Alexander Robertson and family moved their household effects from Hamilton to Manchester yesterday and are located at the Patterson cottage on Lincoln street. Mr. Robertson returns to Manchester to assume the management of the R. Robertson Co. branch.

It will be W. R. C. day in Manchester next Tuesday, the 7th, for on that day the local Relief Corps will entertain the Essex County W. R. C. in convention. The business session will be held in the morning at 10.30 at the Town hall, to be followed at noon by dinner at the Baptist church vestry. A social hour will be held at the Town hall in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be no evening session. Some 150 women from all over the county are expected to be present.

A special town meeting will be called for Monday evening, Dec. 13, at 7.30 o'clock, and the warrant will be posted by Monday. A meeting was called last year at this time also. The state year begins Dec. 1 and as Manchester is supposed to appropriate $5000 for moth work it is for this purpose especially that the meeting will be called. It is expected, though, that, as last year, only one half of this amount will be appropriated at this meeting. The balance will go over to the March meeting. There will be other matters to come before the voters, but nothing of any great import, from what we understand.

WHATEVER statement the electric company may see fit to make regarding the trouble with the plant at Manchester last week, whatever excuses they may offer for the power being off a greater part of the time from Wednesday noon until Saturday night, the fact remains that they are running the plant in Manchester and have run it for the last six months or more, with no employees save a manager and young lady stenographer.

If any trouble occurs they hire men to go out and hunt up the trouble and if possible remedy it. They do not look after their system until they have to. They wait until things go smash and the public are the losers thereby.

A WRITER on a city paper laments the increasing tendency of society folk to decrease the season in the city, and that they keep their country homes open too late. What the city loses in this respect, the country gains. The North Shore for instance. The season is being extended more and more every year.

To young men of the coming generation no more attractive subject of study and investigation is offered than that of forestry. It is one of the vast fields of labor before the country at the present time.

It will be a source of surprise to many who do not understand the work of the forest service to learn of the permanent improvement work which has been carried on in the national forests. On the forests of Arkansas, Arizona and New Mexico the service spent during the last fiscal year $68,923.84 for permanent improvements. The primary object of expending money in this way is to make the forests more accessible to the public; hence a very large percentage of this sum was spent in the construction and repair of roads and trails, and many miles of telephone lines were also constructed. The report shows that the money was expended in the construction and repair of 253 miles of trails, 32 miles of wagon road and 206 miles of telephone lines.

In order to effect an efficient administration of the forest it has been found that quick communication is an absolute necessity. This is especially true in regard to the forest fire problem. If a ranger can immediately telephone for help when he discovers a fire rather than ride all day to procure this help it argues that the expense involved in constructing telephone lines is justified. The telephone lines constructed by the service are also a great help to ranchers, as can be easily appreciated when one realizes that there are many ranches located at a considerable distance from settlements. Eventually it is hoped to have each ranger located on the forest in direct communication with his supervisor.

WEATHER statistics show that the figures for the month of November just closed equal the warmest November on record in this vicinity. There was a mean daily temperature of 46.5, as compared with the normal of 41.2. The cold weather of the last two days of the month prevented the month being a record-breaker. The warmest day of the month was on the 12th, when the mercury reached 76 deg., a new record for November. On the same day the mercury dropped to 53 deg. Partly cloudy weather prevailed during the month, there being but five clear days, including Tuesday of this week.

If there is any section of Manchester that is in need of improvements in the widening of the streets it is Union street,—the entire length, but especially between the Postoffice and Washington street. This street is the main thoroughfare between Gloucester and Beverly. It is travelled by autos and carriages all day and all night long in summer, and it is surprising that more than one accident of a serious nature has not happened there. It is the narrowest street in town. It ought to be widened. There ought to be more room in front of the Postoffice.

THE time has gone by when the publisher of any newspaper, even of the humblest country weekly, goes around asking support of personal friendship. But the public ought to realize just the same, that the prosperity and progress of its town is judged by outsiders by the kind of newspaper product that is sent out to represent it.

A town with poorly printed, ill written, and generally slovenly newspapers is universally judged to be on the toboggan. A town with enterprising looking sheets gives an impression that there is enterprise in the town that creates the good looking journal. When a man pays down his dollars for a subscription to his home paper, or for advertising in its columns, he is at the same time advertising his home town to the outlying country and neighboring cities. The more a newspaper's subscriptions and advertising increase, the more features the publisher can add, the faster he can improve his mechanical equipment, the more nearly can he come to realizing his ideals of newspaper making.—Exchange.

Former Manchester Teacher Writes of Visit to "Land of Heroic Scenery" the last Summer.

BY W. S. C. RUSSELL.

We entered a great amphitheater bordered on all sides by high lava bluffs, black, red, gray and very ragged. The one to the right is deep red, of compact jasper—like lava of recent eruption. We ascertained later that this terminated in a fissure rent in the side of the mountain a long way below the summit. This is a weak area in the crust, and lava frequently pours out of this weak belt which surrounds the volcano. The wall to the left is of ragged black lava of the most recent origin. It turned in front of us in a long sweep to join the base of the above-mentioned cleft. At first no visible egress appeared from this formidable cul de sac. We expected to leave the ponies here with the ascent just begun, and climb this precipice and then have the major elevation of tangled lava ropes to scramble over as best we might. A mile further on a twist in the flow, where the viscid lava rose in a billow and broke back upon itself made a precarious egress, which our ponies negotiated with the agility and surefootedness of mountain goats. Here there is a plot of grass, the last to be found upon the ascent of the mountain. While the faithful horses are partaking of a well-earned bit of forage we will recount a bit of Hekla's history.

Hekla in History.

Hekla was in eruption many times prior to the settlement of the island. Since 1004 there have been 25 recorded eruptions of violence, besides innumerable fissures that have opened from time to time to pour out more or less molten matter. The periods of quiet have ranged from 6 to 75 years. The most important of the eruptions are as follows:

1294—Violent earthquakes throughout the island. Great rifts were opened. Rivers were covered with pumice; many of them changed their courses. New hot springs came into existence; others vanished.

1300—July 13. One of the most violent on record. Ashes were carried across the north country and covered many square miles. Great earthquakes. Famine and great loss of life.

1436—The 13th eruption of record. Many homesteads and much arable land destroyed.

1510—Immense masses of ashes were hurled out. Blocks of lava were ejected, killing many people in their fall.

1597—Excessive in its violence. Thundering reports audible all over the island. Reports continued for 12 days. Eighteen columns of fire issued from the mountains. Earthquakes in many parts of the island during which many farmsteads caved in.

1845—Began on September 2. Continued for seven months. Ashes were carried to the Shetland islands and to Norway. The smoke and ashes ascended several miles into the air, (estimated), 500 feet of the summit of the cone were blown off.

With the exception of 1845, the above data are taken from Von Troll's letters, Upsala, 1777.

Hekla is situated about 30 miles from the southern coast. Its summit is divided into two peaks, craters. The ascent is made from the northwest. The base and the middle slopes are composed of twisted and tangled masses of lava flowing at different periods and adapting themselves to other and older ridges. The twisting and rolling of these semi-fluid streams of rock, the terrible rough surface, the sharp ridges and deep fissures are better imagined than described. No adequate idea can be obtained until one has made the ascent,—till one has had many a fall, cut his hands upon the obsidian, scoured his boots on the cheveaux de frise of toothed lava, lost his breath and all but lost his temper; till then he will remain in ignorance of the true condition of Hekla's horrent mantle.

On the Way to the Crater.

To return to the ponies. Little by little we climbed upward. Now and again a patch of loose sand gave respite to the sharp angular blocks of lava and obsidian that menaced a cut with every step of the horses. We followed the edge of a high bluff of ragged lava, winding up to the summit of a steep ridge. From here an extensive panorama was spread out before us. This view is well worth the labor of the ascent even though one goes no farther. Most people who "make the ascent" stop here, though it is only half way to the crater. Descending into an angle in the bend of the lava stream we tied the ponies in pairs head to tail. Here we left the poor beasts without food or water exposed to the wind for seven hours. The faithful fellows deserved better treatment in recompense for bringing us thus far on this rugged ascent.

Picking our way as best we could over a ridge of bristling lava for half an hour, we arrived at the snow which was in exceptionally good condition for climbing. It covered all the irregularities and was firm enough to support our weight. In fact it was too firm in some places, especially on the steepest slopes, and a patient climb was often basely rewarded by backward and ignominious slides. When we were two-thirds of the way to the summit, the cap of cloud was blown off and we saw that the long reach of snow which we had been using as a bridge over the edged and ragged pitfalls terminated in a sharp narrow and very steep ridge of sand and shingle leading to the top of the crater's rim. This ridge is so narrow and so precipitous on each side that a false step would surely cause a very uncomfortable tumble many rods below,—to the right down the crater's slope,—to the left into the crater upon the overhanging shelf of snow.

The View From Hekla.

Space forbids a detailed description of the view from the summit of Mt. Hekla. This would require several columns and a good map of Iceland for an appreciative understanding. A few of the more prominent features will suffice. First, the eye is arrested by the waste of lava, black and red, horrent and ill-boding, stretching 15 miles to the northeast, bisecting a fertile plain, and another reaching as far to the southwest. To the northwest the 40 miles of glacier-capped Lang Jokull glistens in its setting of black volcanic crags. The oval form of Hoff Jokull, like the frosted dome of a giant cake, is directly north, while to the northeast is spread out the vast unexplored expanse of Vatna Jokull,—the greatest glacier in Iceland, 100 miles long.

Between these last mentioned glaciers and stretching away to Sprengisandur is the mighty desert entirely void of vegetation, a dreary, desolate tract of black volcanic sand, wind driven and life-destroying. Nearer, in the fertile plain, flow the glacier born torrents, the Thjorsa and the Hvita. To the south across the moors and sheep ranges, the north Atlantic, encircling the Westman islands, wreathes the weathered headlands with snow-white garlands.

The crater is nearly filled with a mass of snow and ice. The opposite side is nearly bare and in the center the cinders are red and dry, indicating that sufficient heat escapes to melt the snow. A slight vapor rises from this spot at the bottom of the deep crater. It may be due to the evaporation of the snow in the depths, or, it is possible that it is true steam slowly escaping from the heated substratum. I crawled down to the brink of the overhanging snow arch and gazed into these giddy depths and thought of the strange contrast, fire and ice, opposing forces ever in combat in this strange land. Wherever one roams in Iceland some stage of this duel is in progress.

THE ULTRA MICROSCOPE.

It Detects Objects Whose Size or Shape Cannot Be Seen.

It will come as news to most people that science has invented instruments that go two degrees beyond the most powerful microscope in detecting small objects. The first of these is known as the ultra violet microscope. This takes advantage of the fact that a photographic plate can often see things that the human eye cannot, and for the following reason:

Things cannot reflect light and consequently cannot be seen that are smaller than the smallest wave length of light that falls on them. Violet light is the smallest that can be possibly seen with the human eye. But there exists a much smaller wave length in the part of the spectrum not visible to the eye called the ultra violet light. This has the peculiar property of affecting a photographic plate just as any other light would, so that we get a true picture of the minute object that is under examination.

Thus the deficiency of the eye is made up for by a mechanical invention of the human brain. This ultra violet light, though not detectable by the human eye, is easily seen by small animals and insects. It has been tried with great success on ants especially. With this ultra violet microscope the smallest objects that can be photographed with definiteness of dimensions are brought out with wonderful distinctness.

But there is one other instrument that can detect much smaller objects, though their shape or size cannot be seen, and that is known as the ultra microscope. This takes advantage of the fact that a small object will scatter any light that falls on it. To make the meaning clear, all of us have noticed a beam of light entering a room full of floating dust particles. We see only the dust particles in the beam of light. The reason we see them is because each little particle scatters the light that falls on it in all directions, and some of the scattered light enters the eye.

This is the principle on which the ultra microscope is based. Light is made to fall on the object in such a way that none of the direct light can enter the eye. Then the particles appear as small points of light. In this way it has been proved that the coloring in red glass is not diffused, but consists of thousands of little red particles close together.—St. Louis Republic

Got a Prize.

Wertheimer, a London art dealer, was one day passing through Mayfair when he noticed a sale about to take place of the "furniture and household effects of a deceased nobleman." He walked through the rooms where dealers were critically examining choice specimens of undoubtedly genuine Chippendale and Sheraton, interspersed among early Victorian furniture, his eyes apparently dwelling on nothing. But when the sale was about to begin he asked the auctioneer if he would take £5,000 ($25,000) for everything in the house. The offer was accepted. "Now you can resell everything for me," said Mr. Wertheimer, "except this," and he took down from the mantelpiece a dirty ornament some nine inches high and put into his pocket. It was a piece of the rarest Dresden china, bearing the coveted mark of the wand of Aesculapius, which he afterward sold for $50,000.

Dodged a Scolding.

She—George, did you mail that letter I gave you last Monday morning?

He (cornered, but fertile in expedients) — No, I didn't. And, what's more, I demand to know its contents!

She (amazed) — Why, George, what's the matter?

He (inwardly delighted) — I'm jealous—that's what's the matter—madly, desperately, insanely jealous!

She—You dear old goose! It's only a letter to Cousin Sue.

He (apparently much relieved)—Is that all? How foolish of me! I'll go out and mail it at once.—Exchange.

What Makes Electricity?

Lots of other people would like to know what makes electricity, but nobody does know it. We know a good many things about electricity, just as we know a good many things about life. But we do not know what makes the difference between a dead tree and a live tree, although we know the difference perfectly. Just so we know it is dangerous to touch what we call a "live wire," because electricity is passing through it, but we do not know what electricity is. We know how to make electricity do wonderful things for us, but we do not know what "makes electricity." — St. Nicholas.

LAGOON SHARKS.

Aitutaki Islanders Catch Them by the Tails With a Lasso.

The island of Aitutaki, one of the Hervey group, in the Pacific, is surrounded by islets underneath which are submarine caverns, the home of sharks. The natives classify them as lagoon sharks, which are quite ferocious at times and spare nothing they can seize. The lagoon shark, about six feet long, is esteemed a delicacy, and the natives supply their feasts with the toothsome dish by a remarkable style of fishing.

Arrived over the entrance to the shark cave, the fisherman leaves his canoe to the care of his companions and dives to the bottom, carrying with him a slipknot of strong cord. He expects to find two or three sharks at home, well satisfied and drowsy after feeding in the lagoon, with their tails toward the entrance. Selecting the largest, the diver adroitly adjusts a noose over the tail, taking care that it hangs loosely. If he has another noose he secures a second shark.

The shark catcher now, with one bound on the white, sandy bottom, rises to the surface in order to assist his friends in hauling up the fish. The astonished sleepers beneath suddenly find themselves ascending tails first to the surface. Once inside the canoe a smart blow from an ax between the eyes or on the nose ends the career of the fish.

One of the most successful shark catchers at Aitutaki was Reubena. Long practice had made him almost amphibious. One morning he started off with two companions to one of the more distant islets.

On entering it Reubena found several sharks lazily resting themselves. In a trice a slipknot was skillfully passed over the tail of the nearest shark without exciting its ire. The shark at this critical juncture moved so that there was not room enough for Reubena to get out.

He gently stroked the side of the shark and succeeded in inducing it to move away so as to permit his exit. This operation is said to be very agreeable to the fish, but if through nervousness the shark be stroked the wrong way its anger is sure to be excited and the diver's life would be the certain forfeit.

Reubena was making his escape when, to his dismay, another large shark came back from feeding in the lagoon and blocked up the entrance with his unwieldy body. To get out now was impossible, for even Reubena dared not stroke the head of the monster.

The captive fisherman waited, hoping the shark would go farther in so as to leave the opening free. The huge fish did not move. Reubena's agony became intense. Seconds seemed to be hours. At last the shark passed on quietly into the interior, and Reubena was barely able to get out of the cave and rise to the surface. His associates in the canoe, who had become anxious for his safety, seized him by the hair and pulled him in, blood flowing from his ears, eyes and nostrils. —Philadelphia North American.

Getting at the Facts.

A shrewd old Vermont farmer went into a lawyer's office the other day and proceeded to relate the circumstances in a matter about which he thought it would be profitable to "go to law."

"You think I hev got a good case?" he finally asked.

"Very good indeed," the lawyer assured him. "You should certainly bring suit."

"What would your fee be fer the whole thing?" the old farmer asked.

"Fifty dollars," was the prompt response.

The client pulled out an old wallet, extracted a roll of bills and counted out $50.

"Now," he said, "you hev got all you would get out of this case anyhow, so s'pose you tell me honestly just what you think my chances of winnin' a suit are."

Jolts For Mr. Graytop.

"I feel young," said Mr. Graytop, "and fondly I fancy that I look young, but every now and then I get a jolt."

"As when sometimes a young man in a car gets up and offers me his seat."

"Or when some well meaning young truck driver holds up for me on a crossing and looks down and swings his head and says, 'Go ahead, old man!'"

"But the worst came today when, in my own street, a young Italian as I was passing looked down upon me from the lofty summit of a load of waste paper he was stacking on a wagon standing by the curb and said:

"What time, papa?"

"I told him, and he thanked me politely—but really!"—New York Sun.

Lillian B. West.

The community extends their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Henry West in the loss of their eldest daughter Lillian Blanche, who passed away at her home on Englewood Road, Monday evening, Nov. 29, aged 25 years, 7 mos. and 5 days, from tuberculosis. Beside her parents she leaves two sisters, Emma and Gertrude, and a brother Albert to mourn her loss.

Funeral services were held from the family residence Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Frederick J. Libby officiating. Interment was in the Magnolia cemetery. Fifty-five of the fifty-seven papers taken out for city office were filed before the time of expiration last Wednesday. Mayor Trowt's second term is opposed by Ald.-at-Large "Jerry" Desmond and Sumner E. Glines. Ald. James A. Torrey of Ward 5 is seeking the berth of president of the Board of Aldermen, and has as opponents Councilman Phineas W. Cooke and former-Councilman Charles H. Cressey. In Ward 6 Councilmen C. H. Hull and A. P. Loring, jr., are seeking election as the alderman from this ward, and from now until the day of election there will be a pretty contest, as both have many friends who will work hard for their respective candidates. There are but three candidates for the council to fill the three positions,—John W. Philips, James R. L. Wiseman and Frank L. Woodberry. This is the first time, with perhaps one exception, there has not been a contest on for seats in the common council.

The G. A. R. Associates are to hold a public whist party in G. A. R. hall next Friday evening, Dec. 10, for which an admission charge of only 15 cents will be made. Good prizes will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattis Hanson today sent out cards recalling the invitations which had been sent out for the marriage reception of their daughter, Clara Wilhemina and Elof Nelson, to have been held at their home on Vine street next Saturday evening, Dec. 11, from 8 until 9.30. The sudden change in plans was brought about by the death of Mr. Nelson's father, Mattis Nelson, and the serious illness of Mr. Nelson's brother, in Woburn. The marriage will be a quiet home ceremony with the members of the family only being present.

The school teachers of the different grades in the Beverly Farms school have presented a petition to the school board for a raise of $50 per year. As far as the Farms school is concerned it is the general sentiment that if this increase will prevent the now too frequent changes in the corps of teachers it will be money well spent. The committee at their meeting Tuesday evening voted to refer the petition to next year's committee, which committee will have the making up of next year's estimates.

John Hickey has accepted a position as foreman with Walter Cressey at Gloucester and may later move his family to that city.

Ira B. Case, proprietor of the North Shore drug store at Pride's, which is now closed for the winter, is opening a new drug store in Dorchester. The store is being fitted with new furnishings and will be fully equipped, so that it will be one of the best in that section of the city. He expects to occupy it about the first of January. As he will conduct his business here another season, he is undecided whether or not to move his family to Dorchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fogg have returned from their honeymoon trip and are house-keeping in their new bungalow cottage on Thissell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Harris, who have been visiting the Farms the last fortnight, may move here later from their present home in Ellsworth, Me.

Mrs. Mary Haskell of North Beverly, formerly a well known resident of the Farms, has gone to Philadelphia for the winter.

Irwin Davis has returned to his work at Mendham, N. J., after spending the past week visiting his family at the Farms. He has been away since last June.

Mrs. Delia McNeil has closed her large house, corner Hale and Haskell streets and has moved into her cottage on Haskell street for the winter.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. H. E. Morgan, Mrs. J. M. Publicover, Mrs. E. Fred Day, Mrs. Elmer Standley and Mrs. Louis Hardy. Mrs. Bennett, a prominent member of the order, from Syracuse, N. Y., was among those present.

Lawrence A. Ford, a former Pride's young man, has filed nomination papers for the position of school committeeman at large, opposing Miss Mary B. Smith. Mr. Ford is a well known lawyer, connected with the firm of Gaston, Snow & Saltonstall of Boston. He attended the old Beverly Farms school and is a graduate of the Beverly High and also of Harvard. He took a prominent part last year in Mayor Trowt's campaign.

John O'Sullivan, an employee at the A. P. Loring estate, expects to move from his own home shortly into the cottage on Mr. Loring's property which has recently been moved to a new location across Thissell street.

Mrs. George S. Hadley entertained the members of the Sarah W. Whitman club at her home on Hart street and Greenwood ave., Wednesday afternoon.

The young people are beginning to get a little uneasy over the fact that nothing has yet been done toward putting the "play-grounds," so-called, into condition for a skating park for the winter. Whatever work is necessary to be done, ought to be done at once.

Miss Vessie Haskell of Beverly, formerly of the Farms, has gone to Florida for the winter.

B. I. Edwards has closed his store opposite the Pride's depot for the winter.

Pretty Wedding at Beverly Farms.

The wedding of Miss Ella Foster Low, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop F. Low, to Frank B. Grove took place last Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Valley street, Beverly Farms, at 7.30 o'clock. The Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn officiated, assisted by Rev. Clarence Strong Pond.

The bridesmaid was a sister of the groom, Miss Grace Grove of Baltimore, and the best man was Oliver Low, a brother of the bride. Only immediate relatives were present at the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, from 8 to 9.30, at the Chapel of the Baptist church, a reception was held. The large number who attended this taxed the capacity of the large room, many coming from out of town to offer their hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

The Chapel was attractively decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. The ushers were Edwin F. Campbell, Frank A. Williams, Lawrence J. Watson, 2d, and Roy Taylor, the latter of Beverly. A dozen young ladies served. They were Misses Jennie Hanson, Carrie Davis, Barbara Daniels, Ruth Hardy, Jennie Bolam, Almira Williams, Fannie Williams, Frances Connolly, Alice Leahy, Sophia Bennett, Margaret Foley and Marion Black, the latter two of Beverly.

Upon leaving the church the bridal couple was showered with rice and confetti. Although sought after by many who desired to give them a parting send-off they alluded their pursuers and in some mysterious way left the village. They are now spending their honeymoon in New York city, from which place they plan to visit the groom's home in Baltimore and then go to Washington before returning home.

The popularity of the young people was well attested by the large number of beautiful presents, of a variety that should fill almost every want. Mr. Grove is the prescription clerk at Varney's drug store.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Grove will start house-keeping in apartments at the Samuel F. Collamore house on Greenwood avenue.

WATCHES as Christmas Gifts

The reputation we have secured through forty years of successful watch handling is known throughout the world. This fact alone recommends us to the thinking watch buyer, but we believe that every watch, or prospective watch carrier should possess sufficient "watch facts" to insure satisfactory "watch time." We use only the most desirable products of the foreign and American watch marts. The greatest care is used both in the selection of the cases and the movements. A good case is necessary for the protection of a good movement. Yet this essential quality, while adding much to the value of a watch, need not increase the price to any great extent. These few watch points surely will make you gree with us when we say

Surely a Watch from "LOW'S" is a most desirable Christmas Gift.

THE satisfaction which always results from the ownership of a good and beautiful watch makes "DANIEL LOW'S" watches doubly desirable. We have proven this fact a great many times too.

OVER forty years of successful watch sales, a stock of unequaled beauty and variety, always complete, together with the assistance of an expert selling force—all these—are at your disposal.

Remember

CHRISTMAS is drawing near, and the early buyer secures the best selection. Avoid the experience of past years and shop early—mornings preferably—the benefit is all yours.

Hollis Street Theatre.

"A Fool There Was," with Robert Hilliard as the star, will be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Monday, Dec. 13.

Porter Emerson Browne vitalizes in "A Fool There Was" Sir Philip Burne-Jones' famous picture of the vampire woman and her dead dupe, which inspired Kipling to write his poem of the fool who loved "a rag, and a bone and a hank of hair." The story reverses the familiar triangle of two men and a woman and gathers force from the struggle of two women for a man. The latter is a polished man of the world, big financially, socially and diplomatically. He is ordered to Europe on a government mission and is at first revealed at his charming home at Larchmont, with his wife, child, sister-in-law and bosom friend.

The action shifts to the deck of a big ocean steamship about to sail. This is represented with startling realism of stage effect. There is the busy movement of officers, deck hands and passengers. A tall, striking woman suddenly appears.

The woman settles into her steamer chair. She arranges her magazine and her big bouquet of huge red roses. Near the railing stands Robert Hilliard as the New Yorker bound abroad. He is faultlessly dressed and has great distinction of manner. He is waving farewell to his charming wife and daughter. Suddenly he turns and meets the insinuating gaze of the red woman. She smiles at him—and the play really begins.

The story develops with cyclonic force. It is the old, old story of the man who goes to destruction, and yet the play has its comedy and dainty sentiment and witty epigrams. It is deeply symbolic of the opposing forces of good and evil that tear a human heart and torture the soul.

Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given. Seats are selling now for the Christmas performances.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, are still at their estates at Manchester Cove. They will remain until just before the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will spend most of the winter in the West Indies. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie will go to their winter home in the South. They have a beautiful place at Fernandina, Fla.

J. Warren Merrill and family and the Amory Eliots, who closed their houses at Manchester last week, are making their home at The Puritan, in Boston, this winter.

Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., and Miss Helen R. Biddle, who has been an occasional visitor of Mrs. Clark and family on the North Shore summer's, were in charge of an attractive fair and children's entertainment at the Bellevue-Stratford, in Philadelphia, Tuesday of this week. Clarence H. Clark, 3d, left last Wednesday for a trip around the world. On the Saturday night prior to his departure Mr. and Mrs. Clark, jr., gave a theatre party in his honor, followed by a supper at the Bellevue-Stratford.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stowe Bradley of the Pride's colony are to give two small house dances for their daughter, Miss Leslie Bradley, who came out last winter, but on account of mourning had no formal presentation. The dances will be given at the Bradley winter home in Boston,—the first one on Wednesday, Jan. 5, and the second some time in February.

On the outgoing "Baltic" from New York last week, en route for Egypt, were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spaulding, who remained at Pride's until late this autumn. They will travel all winter.

Mrs. Clement S. Houghton gave a luncheon at her home on Suffolk road, Brookline, yesterday afternoon, for Miss Katharine Saltonstall.

Notable among the earlier social events of the season in Boston was the ball given last Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell Putnam of Manchester and Boston, in honor of their daughter, Miss Katharine L. Putnam. So general-

New Parochial Residence at Manchester Nearly Completed.

One of the handsomest residences in Manchester is the new parochial residence, alongside the new Sacred Heart church, on School street. The building is now practically ready for occupancy by Rev. Mark Sullivan, the pastor, and his assistant, Rev. Fr. Brandley. A picture of the structure and the church is printed on our front page this week.

The new building is about 30x60 feet, of two stories, with a pitch roof and is built of red brick with stone trimmings in old English style.

The main entrance opens into a roomy vestibule, which is a part of a wide hall running through the centre of the house. Opening from the vestibule are reception rooms on either side.

The library and living room is a most commodious apartment, extending across the entire width of the house on the southern end. An attractive feature of this room is the large fireplace built into a tiled recess extending from the floor to the ceiling.

The dining room, opposite the main entrance, at the rear of the house, is also an attractive apartment, a bay window taking up the entire rear end of the room. Beyond this are the kitchen, butler's pantry and china closets.

On the second floor, over the library Father Sullivan has his study, a well appointed room having a fireplace laid up in green tile. Joining this is his bed chamber connected with double doors.

His assistant has duplicate apartments on the same floor. A well appointed bath and toilet. A spare chamber, two servants' bedrooms and bath are also on this floor.

ly accepted were the invitations that there was a large attendance of guests. The ball was given in the larger of the two ballrooms at the Somerset, which had been decorated in a scheme of pink and greenery. The adjoining sitting-out room beyond the ballroom was changed to give a pergola effect, and was decorated like an Italian garden. The supper tables were decorated with Killarney roses. The cotillon was led by Miss Putnam and S. Hooper-Hooper. Many of the better known North Shore boys, such as Gordon Prince, W. D. Sohler, jr., J. R. Coolidge, 3d, William Beal, were among the ushers. Previous to the ball Mr. and Mrs. Putnam gave a dinner at the Somerset for the ushers and a few friends.

The report of the clerk showed three additions to membership, a loss of eight, five by death, two by letters to other churches, one withdrawal, making total active membership at present 178, with absent members to the number of thirty.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Of the Massachusetts Branch of the American National Red Cross for 1909.

There are five divisions of this branch, in the counties of Berkshire, Essex, Hampden, Worcester and the Metropolitan District (Boston and surrounding cities and towns, practically covering the Counties of Suffolk and Norfolk.) There are in all 1175 members. Fourteen nurses are enrolled, one of whom is serving in the army hospitals in the Philippines and one in the Canal Zone.

The state officers act as officers for the Metropolitan District and take care of all members in the unorganized counties; they also act as a bureau of information, sending typewritten articles for the papers, or definite telegrams to all division secretaries, whenever appeals for relief are ordered. In consideration of the receipt of 25 percent of the annual dues, the state treasurer pays for the stationery used by the divisions. These officers attend meetings in all parts of the state to organize or assist. The total amount of money contributed for international relief in 1909 is $38,806.72. For tuberculosis, besides the stamp collections, $10.

One million three hundred thousand Christmas stamps were sold in Massachusetts: $3189.95 of the net amount was spent in establishing a day camp in Boston, in charge of the Boston Society for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis. The $790 raised in the Hampden Division were used by the Anti-Tuberculosis Society of Springfield in the same way, and invaluable service was rendered to this society by the officers and nurses of the division. Ninety dollars and twenty cents, received after the Christmas sale was over, was contributed to the Italian Relief Fund; the balance of the sum was distributed among various anti-tuberculosis societies in the state.

A special stamp for Italian Relief was made by the state agent, Walter Kruese, by the sale of which $3,587 was raised.

An active anti-tuberculosis society has been created by the Red Cross society organized in Amesbury (Essex division), this year; the members made 5000 pin balls, which they sold in one day, and so raised $570 for a foundation for their relief work.

The state officers took charge of a little American orphan, born of naturalized Italian parents, who were killed by the earthquake in Messina; the child was herself buried for four days; she was finally sent to her uncle in San Francisco, where the Red Cross officers of the California branch assured her welfare.

Several cases of violation of the Red Cross emblem have been stopped by action taken by the legal adviser, Mr. Saltonstall.

A safe box for the collection of small sums, to be used in stores, stations, etc., has been devised by the state officers in charge of this part of the relief work. A "first aid kit" has been designed by a committee appointed by the Massachusetts branch and the Massachusetts Humane society; as the branch is now dissolved, the box and the kit are offered to the National society.

The Massachusetts branch was organized on May 31, 1905, by authority of the central committee of the American National Red Cross. By the efforts of its members, $139,677.39 have been contributed to national and international relief; and goods amounting to the estimated value of $60,000 were sent to California after the earthquake. After the fire in Chelsea, the State officers were given the administration of the central supply station, for which they collected $524 and enlisted the services of 142 volunteers.

The state organization has been gaining steadily in public estimation; although on three notable occasions former governors have seen fit to issue appeals for relief independently, the present governor has assured the officers that he has confidence in their organization and that he would support their measures.

The officers elected by members of the state branch who are dismissed today by order of the Central Committee are:

President, Herbert L. Burrell, M. D. Vice presidents, Henry P. Walcott, M. D., Hon. Charles C. Washburn, Arthur T. Cabot, M. D., Justice W. C. Loring, Hon. W. Murray Crane, J. F. A. Adams, M. D.

Treasurer, Gardiner M. Lane, 44 State St., Boston.

Secretary, Miss Katharine P. Loring, Pride's Crossing, Mass.

Executive Committee, The Governor, The Surgeon-General, ex-officio; Most Rev. W. H. O'Connell, Alfreda B. Withington, M. D., Gardiner M. Lane, Katherine P. Loring.

Advisory Committee representing divisions, Mrs. Zenas Crane, Berkshire; Gen. F. H. Appleton, Essex; Homer Gage, M. D., Worcester; George D. Pratt, Hampden; David Cheever, M. D., Richard M. Saltonstall, Metropolitan.

The "Divisions of the Massachusetts Branch" will hereafter be called "Chapters of the American National Red Cross."

The Secretaries are: Berkshire Chapter, Dr. Alfreda B. Withington, Pittsfield; Essex Chapter, Miss Louisa P. Loring, Pride's Crossing; Hampden Chapter, Miss Anna B. Alexander, Springfield; Worcester Chapter, John W. Pearl, Worcester; Metropolitan Chapter, Miss Dorothy Forbes, Boston.

KATHERINE P. LORING, Secretary.
Washington, December 7, 1909.

Special Town Meeting.

A special Town Meeting will be held at Manchester next Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Town hall. The warrant was posted Monday and calls for appropriations of $2500 for moth work, $1500 for crushed stone, $400 additional for police department expenses, and $1000 to buy an auto wagon for use in the water department instead of hiring horse and wagon as now. The articles are as follows:

ART. 2. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $2500 for the suppression of the gypsy and browntail moths in accordance with the requirements of Sect. 5, Chap. 381, Acts of 1905 R. L.

ART. 3. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $1500 for crushing stone.

ART. 4. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $400 for the Police Department.

ART. 5. To see if the town will vote to instruct the selectmen to order all buildings fronting on any public street or way in the town, to be numbered in regular succession or take any other action relating thereto.

ART. 6. To see if the town will authorize the Water Commissioner to purchase an auto wagon for the use of the department and appropriate the sum of $1000 for that purpose.

Should Not Dump Sewage into Harbor.

Too much emphasis cannot be put on Prof. Sedgwick's assertion that Boston harbor is one of the city's richest possessions and one of its greatest assets, nor on his prediction that "the time will come when we shall not allow sewage to be poured into the harbor without purification." The Metropolitan Sewerage Commission and the city's sewerage department ought to lose no time in considering the practical problem of scientific and sanitary disposal of sewage. The present method of dumping unfiltered sewage into the harbor is a disgrace to the progress and civilization of Boston, and is today sacrificing rare values in the utility of the Harbor. —Boston Herald.

No Charge for Transportation.

The American Express Co. have notified their agents that shipments containing toys addressed to "Toy Editor, Boston Journal, Boston," for distribution to poor children, which are to be shipped Tuesday morning, Dec. 14, will be transported free. This applies to such shipments as are made on the 14th only. Persons at any of the North Shore towns, having any such articles which they wish to give to this charity, should get same to the American Express offices in time for shipment next Tuesday.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLVI.

"No perfect whole does our nature make,
Here or there the circle will break;"

It is not often that we meet with an all-round man. Sir Isaac Newton, deep as he was in Algebra and Fluxions, could not readily make up a common account; the famous Jonathan Edwards, thought by some the greatest intellect America ever produced, did not know his own cows. But the most evenly balanced natures have not always been the most serviceable to the world; there may be a symmetry of mediocrity.

Our young men, and young women too, are getting a good many things at college, but with all their getting they do not always get common sense; great is the pity of it, for if they do not get common sense all their other getting, by whatever high names it is called, is often not worth the price it costs, it may be only sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.

A great deal is said now of the conservation of our forests and our water supplies, and we have not waked up any too soon to our great need; but the greatest of all our needs as a nation is the conservation of men, for these are our greatest asset; other kinds of wealth are of importance, but of how much less than the wealth of manhood, of patriotism, of honor, of fair renown.

Spenser's opinion of the public men of his time was not a high one; he thought each trying "to thrust downe other into foule disgrace, himself to raise;" and he had too much reason for his ill opinion of the rival aspirants to Elizabeth's favor. England was in sore need of such men as Sir Philip Sidney who had lately fallen on "sad Luthphen's field" after waving a draught of water brought to him in favor of a dying soldier by his side.

Is it not true that in any great reform some who are called extremists, visionaries, fanatics, or cranks, must go too far in order that the rank and file may go far enough? If this is so, ought we not to have more charity than we often do for said extremists?

An officer in a battle, seeing a color-bearer in an exposed and dangerous position, ordered the colors back to the regiment; the reply was shouted, "bring up the regiment to the colors." The trouble often is, not that a few are too zealous and forward, in the fight against evil, and that they sometimes blunder, but that most of us are too indifferent and backward, which may be the greatest blunder of all.

Me.

I live my little life, I say my say,
To an unlistening world I lilt my lay—
"An idle singer of an empty day."

So my unfathered thought perchance may stray,
Be lost, forgot, or stored away
To re-appear some distant day
In other minds, in wisdom's interplay,
To shut men's mouths when they shall get too gay,
As Cæsar's undistinguishable clay
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away!

—J. A. Torrey.

It is well to be reminded now and then that the race of heroes is not extinct. "Bayards and Sidneys still are here;" there are heroes of the life-service and the fire brigade, the railroads and the mines, of the hospitals and the slums, the leper settlements and the cannibal islands, the jungle and the ice-pack. Not all of them wear crosses and medals, not all of them receive any earthly praise or reward. But one cannot read the narratives of rescue work and mission work, and not feel that the true knightly spirit still survives; a spirit often nobler and more unselfish than that which has sent men on crusades, or inspired them to lead a forlorn hope, or which has made historic the Charge of the Light Brigade.

Cobb—Foster.

In the Chapel of the South Evangelical church of West Roxbury, at noon, last Friday, Dec. 3, David Freeman Cobb of Hingham and Miss Ruth Cole Foster of Manchester, were united in marriage by the Rev. E. H. Byington, recently of Beverly. The double ring ceremony was used. After a short wedding trip to New York Mr. and Mrs. Cobb will live at Hingham.

Both bride and groom are well and popularly known at Manchester, where the groom has been for several summers as chauffeur with the J. Arthur Brookses of Milton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Foster. She formerly lived in Beverly and was widely known as a member of the Bob-o-link quartet. This was Mr. Byington's first service in his new pastorate.

N. S. H. S.

A special meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society will be held this evening at Lee's hall, Manchester, to take formal action relative to the final step in the incorporation of the society. The incorporation papers have been received from the secretary of state and it remains for the society to take the final vote on the matter.

Last Friday evening the members were treated to a very fine lecture by John Farquhar of the well known seed firm, on his recent trip to Norway, Sweden and other European countries. The lecture was enlivened by a splendid collection of stereopticon views. It was given in the Town hall.

Another old landmark has been removed in Manchester the last week,—the old shed on the property of the Congregational church. Though unused for many years, it carries with it considerable of a reminiscent nature to some of the older inhabitants, for it was used years and years ago, when Manchester was more of a fishing place than it is now, as a fish shed. It was built in the early part of the last century by Captain John Lee. The Captain's widow, Mrs. Martha Lee sold it to Mrs. Hooper Allen and after that Mrs. A. H. Trask bought it. When Capt. Lee owned the property fish flakes filled the field and adjoining land down to the water and his fish wharf was located there. The remains of it may still be seen.

Will Use Water at Pond.

The petition referred to in last week's BREEZE, asking the Manchester Water Board to run the station at Gravel Pond this winter in preference to the home plant, was presented to the board the latter part of last week. A meeting was held Monday night at which time the board voted unanimously to grant the petition and to open the Gravel Pond station as soon as practicable. The heating plant has not been installed there and it is first necessary to put in some sort of heat. This will be completed in less than a fortnight, probably.

THE Manchester police department need $400 additional to the amount appropriated last March to carry them through the year. The town went to considerable extra expense the last summer in keeping on special police, etc., due to the burglaries and second story breaks. It was money well spent!

VOLUME 7. December 10, 1909 NUMBER 50

THERE is an article in the Town Warrant for Manchester's special Town Meeting next Monday evening "to see if the town will vote to instruct the selectmen to order all buildings fronting on any public street or way in the town, to be numbered in regular succession, or take any other action relating thereto." It seems as if this matter ought to be favorably decided upon by the voters. The cost will be slight and the money needed can be taken from the contingent fund. This matter of numbering houses has been gone over in the past more or less, but on the whole the condition is unsatisfactory. The houses ought to be numbered. Very often during the summer, especially, people get off the train and drop into the BREEZE office to inquire where So-and-So lives. Other places of business near the station hear questions of the same kind almost every day, and the Postoffice, particularly, is a regular news bureau for matters of this sort. Now how much better it would be to answer these inquirers that the party they are looking for lives at No. So-and-So — street, instead of saying "Go down this street, turn to your right, then to your left, then the second street on the right, five houses on the left hand side, and its the second house after the yellow one with the purple blinds." Let's be more up to date and have the houses numbered all over town!

New Street Needed.

As winter comes on and the annual Town Meeting approaches questions are arising as to what improvements are needed and for what purposes money will be appropriated for next year's expenditures, in Manchester.

The BREEZE desires to suggest one improvement that it feels would prove to be much appreciated by the summer residents and by the townspeople, especially the merchants, and that is the construction of a new street, leading from Beach street at a point to the west of the Masconomo stables, and running to Sea street at its junction with Masconomo street.

The chief advantage of such a street would be in getting to Old Neck without using the steep hill that is met on the one hand by going over Sea street, and on the other by going over Beach and Masconomo streets. As most of the travel at present goes over the latter course a very bad corner must be turned in going from Masconomo street into Sea street.

A street such as we suggest would be over level land, through a natural roadway, and would do away with the hills and with the corners.

It could be done at this time, probably, at very small cost for land damages, as the Lewis H. Tappan property, through which such a road must pass, is at the present time in the hands of a receiver, and could probably be bought at a very low figure.

The need of such a road has been felt for some time. In fact it was talked of some fifteen or twenty years ago, but for some reason or other nothing was done at that time.

Travel to and from Old Neck, which such a road would particularly benefit, is quite heavy. Many will not use Sea street to reach the center of the town because of the steep and dangerous hill, and the railroad crossing. And in using Masconomo street the hill by the Misses Bartlett property, and the sharp turn in the road at that point, is counteracted; and then there is Masconomo hill, so-called.

A road starting on Beach street, to the west of Day's Creek, and running up through the little valley, along by the small brook, through the trees, would not be more than 600 feet in length. In constructing the road no blasting would be necessary so that the cost would be very small, comparatively speaking. The road would be for most of the distance a dividing line between the Mrs. J. T. Fields property and that of Lewis H. Tappan.

It might be said that some $500,000 worth of taxable property would be benefited by this road, including the McMillan estate, which is taxed for $200,000; the George Wigglesworth estate, taxed for $65,000; Amory Eliot, $40,000; Brownland cottages, $40,000; George Pierce estate, $35,000; Bullard estate, $25,000; Dr. John A. Brown, $13,000; H. S. Grew, $50,000; the Misses Bartlett, $25,000; Pickering estate, $27,000; the Chase property, $10,000; Winston estate, $6000. We mention the H. S. Grew and the Misses Bartlett estates because the rear entrance to these houses are from Sea street.

The question of land damage ought to be small, as the land in question would undoubtedly be improved, much less damaged, by such a move.

In order to bring this matter before the town for action it is necessary first to petition the selectmen to make such a layout. A petition signed by ten voters is all that is necessary to bring the matter to the selectmen. It is for them, if they approve of the road, to make the layout and bring the matter before the town and ask for an acceptance of the layout and for an appropriation to go ahead with the construction of the street, after proper hearings have been given.

We shall be pleased to have any of the citizens express their views on this matter through our columns.

THE Manchester Water Board want $1000 to buy an auto wagon to use in running around making repairs, turning on and off water, making hurried trips to the Gravel Pond station, etc. At present, as in the past, they use for this purpose horse and wagon which they hire. Well, its a step forward, and more up-to-date; let's have it! We need an auto fire truck, too!

Former Manchester Teacher Writes of Visit to "Land of Heroic Scenery" the last Summer.

BY W. S. C. RUSSELL.

VI

Unfurling the flag of the Arctic club of America,—the stars and stripes in the upper left corner of a green field,—which had been presented to me for this occasion, I photographed it and have every reason to believe that it is the first time that the American flag ever floated above a volcano in Iceland. The reading of the thermometer in the air was zero centigrade. The indication of the pocket barometer, carefully compared with a standard at Reykjavik before starting and corrected by the same instrument for the same hour, when I returned, gave on computation 5050 feet as the altitude of Hekla. Hekla was true to its tradition. The cloud enveloped it after a half-hour of sunshine. The driving wind wreathed us in fantastic swirls of condensing vapor and the snowflakes fell thickly as if the traditional demon of the mountain would obliterate all traces of our desecrating footprints.

The descent of the semiglacial snow was made in record time. We loosened many a block of lava and sent them chasing each other down half a mile of the snow-encrusted cone to dash in fragments against the lava wall which defines its boundaries. Many a slip and tumble added zest to the descent for every slide was so much gained and we laughed at the brevity of the steps in our upward trail.

A Dangerous Crossing.

A journey of two days through the lava sands skirting the base of Hekla brought us to Eyrarbakki, (Beach-bank), a small trading village. Though there is not a tree in Iceland I found that prime Norway spruce could be obtained here at two-thirds of the cost of an inferior grade in Springfield. Here we crossed the Olfusa, a very dangerous stream. As at the crossing of the Thjorsa so here, we placed all the luggage and saddles in a boat. But we did not drive the ponies in ahead of us. A small cord was fastened around the lower jaw and the guide sat in the stern of the boat and held the eight cords. The crossing is made at a point over half a mile wide and the icy waters run swiftly out to sea. The open sea is by the spit of sand on which the landing is made. Great care is necessary not to be taken out to sea, so the crossing is begun half a mile above in order that this point may be reached on account of the swiftness of the current. The boat was very leaky. The baggage was piled high and we were seated upon the top. The packing cases were nearly submerged in the sloshing water in the bottom of the boat. The poor ponies struggled for life, for the swim is a long one. Several times they went down, one at a time and often two or three at once. With the cord the guide pulled their heads above the water and with lips upturned to throw back the water from their nostrils and eyes, wild and bloodshot, bulging from their sockets, they made a new effort. Around us the seal bobbed up their heads, curious to learn the cause of the disturbance. Many horses have been drowned or swept out to sea in this passage. Our guide, Johannes Zoega, lost two the last time he made this crossing. A sigh of relief was given by one member of the party when we reached the shore. The ponies shivering and exhausted staggered to the beach.

From there to Krisuvik is an easy journey of two days. It can be made in one, but we desired to spend a portion of this time in the home of a typical Icelander and observe the methods of curing and harvesting the hay. Here also we gained a clear vision of the inner home life for we had learned how to win confidence. I spent one half day in the hayfield at work with primitive implements and comparing the utility with those of New England. But this is another story which space forbids at this writing.

The trail from Hlidarendi to Krisuvik leads over the twisted, contorted and blistered lava, which recently poured over the high basalt bluffs several hundreds of feet high, covering miles of elevated sea beach, thence dipping into the sea. If we had reason to trust our horses in the gorges of the Hvita, to confide in them on the steep escarpments of Hekla, our admiration was unbounded when we observed their sagacity in picking their unguided way over this pathless, rough and forbidding tract. A chapter is necessary to describe this remarkable formation. In all lava districts there is nothing to compare with it in utter desolation and grim, fantastic forms of the most frightful aspect.

A Great Safety Valve.

The region between Krisuvik and Thingvellir, which includes Mount Hengill, is a vast area of boiling springs and hot sulphur deposits. At the base and on the slopes of the lava cones surrounding Krisuvik are large solfataras. One of these covers an area of several acres. The jets of steam issuing from the red hot strata below bring up great volumes of sulphur vapor which sublimes in the cooler clay at the surface; these clay banks are very hot and unsafe to walk over. In traversing a ridge between two deposits of sulphur, without warning, I slumped to my knees into a mass of golden sulphur crystals. Our riding boots were transformed by an incrustation of sparkling jewels. We will say nothing about the smell. A student of chemistry will understand that great volumes of sulphur dioxide and hydrogen sulphide produce a sensation in the nostrils far different from a field of blooming clover. High up the side of the ridge a jet of steam, mingled with various sulphur compounds, issues from a crevice with such violence as to produce a heavy sonorous whistle audible for several miles. We slept that night four miles from it, and our dreams of lava scrambles and myriads of screeching sea birds were punctuated with this whistle. It is sounding now as it has sounded for centuries, a sound of peace to the few within its area for it is the safety valve of a tremendous pent up power. Below this jet thousands of tons of sulphur sublimed in Nature's furnace slope downwards to the plain awaiting the coming of some genius of industry backed with a little capital. Nearby great pools of mud, (sulphids of various ores precipitated in the water), black and viscid, boil and seeth with all the pent up fury of the nether world.

Ascending the rim of the great crater above, a panorama of surprising grandeur was spread out before us. Below, the great yellow mounds sent up clouds of odorous steam filling the air with weird, continuous roars; beyond, the tranquil sea in azure blue mirrored 10,000 water fowl on its burnished surface; to the west, Mount Hengill arrests the eye, its summit wrapped in a hazy mantle of vapor issuing in violent jets from its encircling springs and fumaroles; nearer, the deep cerulean waters of the crater lakes, the home of wild swan and duck, throw back the smiles of heaven; southwest, Reykjavik stands white against the black and beetling crags of Esja; southward, Faxa Fiord, dotted by hundreds of fishing craft, and beyond great Snaefell Jokull projects its cones of sparkling ice 6000 feet where the north Atlantic mingles with the ice-laden waters of the Arctic sea.

PRESIDENT TAFT said in his first message to Congress, Tuesday, that his second year in office will cost $94,000,000 less than this one; that he favors old age pensions for Government employes; that his tariff board are looking into the new tariff to see if it works properly. He suggested the text of a law to hurry delayed cases in courts; favored a higher postage on magazines and periodicals (not newspapers), and said the tariff is not the reason for the high cost of living, and asserted that the country is on the eve of a great business expansion.

Manchester Burglary.

Last Sunday evening, some time between 5 and 8.30 o'clock some one entered the residence of Mrs. Sarah A. Porter on Bennett street. When Mrs. Porter, who lives alone, returned from church she could hardly push the door open and when she finally did enter and lighted a lamp the sight that met her eyes almost dazed her. Clothing, the contents of drawers, papers, and articles of all descriptions literally covered the floor, and in the hall things were piled against the door so that it could hardly be opened. The bed had been torn apart, the sheets and blankets thrown off, and to all appearances the place had been bombarded. Mrs. Porter immediately sent for the police.

It was found that a burglar had entered a first story window. He was evidently after money, as it was known Mrs. Porter recently sold a house in Beverly, and it was supposed, perhaps, that she had the money in her house. The burglar took a small case containing some old fashioned jewelry, the chief value of which was in its associations. A roll of bank bills secreted in the bed was overlooked. The robber ate a loaf of cake found on the dining room table. There is no clew to the burglar.

Ruth Helena Symonds and Frederick F. Davis of Annisquam were united in marriage Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, at the parsonage by Rev. Frederick J. Libby at seven o'clock. Ruth A. Scott acted as bride's maid and Guy Symonds, a brother of the bride, as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Symonds. A supper was served consisting of shrimp and chicken salads, rolls, sandwiches, jellies, cream pie, ice cream, cake and cocoa. The couple were the recipients of many useful presents. At 8.30 o'clock the happy couple left amid showers of rice and to the accompaniment of the sleigh bells which had been attached to the coach by considerate friends, for a short trip, after which they will reside in Annisquam.

A Christmas Suggestion.

The suggestion of such a large and heavy instrument as a piano as a Christmas gift may seem out of the question to many of our readers, yet there is nothing that could go into the home that would be more appreciated, and last longer than one of these instruments. Henry J. Burke, the piano man of Beverly, tells us that he put out last year, just before the holidays, eight pianos in Manchester and Beverly Farms,—pianos that went into the home as Christmas gifts. He has a way of making the payments easy, so that by making small payments at stated intervals the poorest of families can enjoy the luxury of a far more wealthier neighbor. Mr. Burke's address is 5 Hardy street, Beverly. His place of business is open evenings.

Keith's.

Eleanor Gordon received tremendous receptions on her return to Boston last week at Keith's theatre, and she has been fortunate in securing a play that is worthy of her talent as an actress. In fact, so great has been her success that it has been decided to hold her over for another week as an extra feature of another one of those big bills that are attracting such large audiences to Keith's this season.

This one will go from drama to grand opera, the latter being represented by what is probably the most ambitious company that vaudeville has ever had. This is Lovenberg's Operatic Festival in a beautifully spectacular production called "Gipsy Life" and "A Carnival in Venice." The company is one of the largest ever appearing in vaudeville and the singers are all people of reputation. Another feature of more than ordinary interest will be the re-appearance here of those famous comedians, Howard & North, who will present their new sketch called "Back to Wellington," which has been making one of the biggest hits of any rural sketch that has been offered in vaudeville in recent years. Still another spectacular production will be that of the Lulu Beeson Trio, who will present with beautiful scenic and light effect, and plenty of action including lively dances, "A Night in El Paso."

City Election! The polls will be open next Tuesday morning in G. A. R. hall at 6 a. m. and will remain open until 4 p. m. The political pot in Ward 6 has not reached the boiling point this year. There is no contest for the common council, only three candidates being out for the same number of positions. In the aldermanic fight Councilmen Hull and Loring will be pitted at the polls Tuesday. The editor of this paper is a firm believer in the policy of giving the summer population, the ones who pay a big part of the city's expenses, a chance to say how the money shall be spent. Seldom does one of them try for a position in the city government. Mr. Loring has served several years in the lower branch. He has represented the ward well; he is not the least radical; he is on the contrary one of the most conservative men on the board the last few years. He ought to make a splendid man to represent the ward in the upper branch. As to Mayor,—it is a question of how large a vote his home ward will cast for Mayor Trowt. Desmond, and the kind of politics he represents, ought not to be given any support. He is the wrong kind of a man to be mayor of a city like Beverly. Lawrence A. Ford, a well known young man, will receive a good-sized vote from this section of the city for school committee. He formerly lived here.

Loring or Hull?

Concerning the election next Tuesday the Beverly Times says that "In Ward 6 the aldermanic contest is open and marked and the citizens must determine between Charles H. Hull and Augustus P. Loring. On the face of it these names suggest nothing personal, but they mean much to the city and should mean much to the ward. Augustus P. Loring, jr., was supposed to be the choice of the ward. He has been a man in the lower branch independent of the political influence of the ward and a man broad enough to legislate for the whole city. We need not repeat that this ward has been dominated by Aldermen Hodgkins and Mr. Loring was one he never could control, although he (Loring) always voted for measures that benefitted the ward when Hodgkins advocated them. Hull on the contrary was always Hodgkins' right bower and if elected will continue under the Hodgkins' influence. If the voters want this influence continued they will vote for Hull, if they want an independent man, one who has convictions of his own they will vote for Loring. The rest of the city will await with interest the decision of Ward Six."

Nine members of the local corps attended the Essex Co. W. R. C. convention in Manchester Wednesday.

The members of the local Fire department held their regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the close of which a collation consisting of steamed clams and "fixings" was served. There were several guests present and after the spread a social hour was enjoyed.

Miss Bessie Williams has concluded her duties for this season at the local office of Smith's Exp. Co.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Kenney of Westerly, R. I., have been visiting Beverly Farms during the week. They returned home this morning.

The Beverly Farms band is now composed of 26 members and regular meetings are being held weekly on Tuesday evening. They have vacated their quarters on Oak street and are now in larger quarters in the Hardy building on High street.

just such a requirement.Then, furniture is designed, too, today, to be so very pretty, it's appreciated very highly for that; and added, too, to this beauty, is the virtue of long service, which makes still another valued asset it possesses. And 'tis not beyond the improbable that many a gift that's made this season will some day be handed down as a cher-

This morning we put on show a collection of

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1909.

Society Notes

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., and family came down to their estate at Coolidge's Point, Manchester, yesterday to remain over the holiday season.

Mrs. C. A. Munn and family closed their cottage at Manchester this week and returned to Washington.

The delightful weather of the last week has occasioned many a trip from Boston to the North Shore. The weather has averaged around 40 degrees all the week, and motoring along the shore roads has not been in the least uncomfortable.

The news of the death at Vevey, Switzerland, of Frances, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Spaulding, last Sunday came as a shock to the host of friends of the family on the North Shore. Last summer Mrs. Spaulding and two sons went abroad for the summer, as usual, and this autumn they did not return, but intended to spend the winter in Europe, where the boys were attending school. Frances was taken with appendicitis last week and was operated upon. The operation was unsuccessful and he passed away. Mr. Spaulding returned from Europe in the late summer, and was not with his family in their bereavement.

The appointment by Secretary MacVeagh of James F. Curtis of Boston and Manchester to be assistant secretary adds another well known North Shore resident to the list of government officials. Mr. Curtis's appointment, or rather nomination, has not yet been confirmed by the senate. He will have immediate supervision over the administration of customs.

The property known as the Hutchings estate, situated on Grove street, Beverly Farms, belonging to J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling, has been sold to Nelson S. Bartlett of Manchester. It is considered one of the finest properties in this section, and was occupied the past season by the German embassy. It comprises over two acres of land, with a large modern frame house, stable, etc., and is valued at $22,000.

MOTH PEST CONFERENCE.

Local Superintendents in Charge of Suppression Work Meet State Forester F. William Rane.

Local superintendents of the work of suppressing the gypsy and browntail moths in Essex, Middlesex, Suffolk and Norfolk counties gathered last Friday at the state house for a public conference with State Forester F. William Rane.

Prof. Rane explained the necessity of cooperation not only between the local superintendents and the state office, but as well between the various municipalities, if the moth pest is to be effectually fought.

He expressed the opinion that much of the difficulty encountered in the successful carrying on the work is caused by the lack of proper support on the part of the general public, although he admitted that in some cases the public is not at fault; the moth squads in certain towns have invited criticism, and it is not wholly the fault of the members of the squads either.

Prof. Rane severely criticised the policy which has been followed in certain municipalities of placing on the moth squad men who would otherwise become public charges, declaring that in most cases the employment of such men has tended to decrease public confidence; their hearts are not in the work, and they therefore fail to give to the public that "live wire" appearance which should be instilled in the tax-payer if he is to be enthusiastic in contributing toward the suppression effort.

Local Supt. John D. Morrison of Manchester was among those who attended the meeting.

Who Were Your Ancestors? Do You Know?

If you wished to join one of the patriotic societies could you reply to the questions that would be asked about your ancestry? The Genealogical Department of the Boston Transcript, the great clearing house of genealogical data, appears twice a week, on Monday and Wednesday. With the aid of this department you would without doubt be able to locate that missing ancestor. This department has correspondents in all parts of the country as well as many in foreign lands, and information is frequently received that is practically impossible to obtain by any other means.

Send for sample copies. In them you will find full directions regarding the use of the column and you may chance on just the information you have been seeking.

Real Estate :: :: And Improvements

The purchase of a piece of property at Old Neck, Manchester, next to the Brownland cottages, by Maynard B. Gilman, manager of the cottages, affords the opportunity of making some big improvement to Brownland, as well as the other property in this section. The property which Mr. Gilman has bought is that of Mrs. Alice G. Wheaton, which includes besides the cottage some 11,520 feet of land. The cottage is on the opposite side of the driveway leading from Sea street to the Greeley and Gannett cottages, so-called, on the Brown estate. It is Mr. Gilman's intention to move the Wheaton cottage from its present location, bordering on Sea street, to the rear of the lot, where the old barn formerly stood. He will remodel and enlarge the cottage, install modern conveniences such as hot water, electric lights, baths, etc., and use it in connection with the hotel. The removal of the cottage will open up the rest of the property and will give a clear sweep from the main house and cottages to the highway. The sale has just been made and the papers were passed only a day or two ago.

Among the summer cottages being built along the Cape Ann shore this winter is the new summer home of Francis Smith of San Antonio, Texas. The house is to be one of the largest on the Rockport shore. It will stand on an elevation about 75 feet above sea level and is to be of the colonial style of architecture. It will be erected to the south of "Seacroft," the house which Mr. Smith has occupied for several years.

Schuyler S. Bartlett et al. trustees under will of Henry Lee of Brookline convey to Sydney E. Hutchinson of Philadelphia, a triangular piece of land, West street, Beverly Farms.

Michael J. Callahan to Bernice T. wife of Edmund J. Semons, land on Pine street, Manchester, 125.11 by 153.-94 feet.

John F. Silva to Helen L. Willmon-ton of Manchester and latter to Emma Francis Silva of Manchester, land on Forest street, Manchester, 60 by 90 feet.

The BREEZE a suitable Xmas gift. Sent to any part of the U. S. for 52 weeks. $2.00.

BIBLE CONFERENCE AT BEVERLY FARMS.

Quarterly Meeting of the Baptist Churches of Manchester, Beverly, Wenham and Beverly Farms. Rev. Dr. Frances of Boston Delivers Address.

The quarterly meeting of the Baptist churches of Manchester, Beverly, Wenham and Beverly Farms was held Thursday afternoon with the church at Beverly Farms. The meeting took the form of a Bible Conference. The subject was "The Bible in the Home, in the Church and in the World-Wide Field."

Rev. Frank Parker of the Wenham church spoke on the phase of the subject "The Bible and Home," in which he said in part:

"To fulfill the mission divinely intended the Bible must not only be kept in the house, but must be accepted as the supreme authority there. It is the word of God, who is the lawful ruler of all hearts, and this fact must be fully recognized if the Bible is to govern your home and mine." He developed the subject along the line of these four thoughts: 1. If the Bible is to rule the home its Divine authority must be recognized.

2. If the Bible is to rule the home its chief character must be known and honored by the inmates.

3. If the Bible is to rule the home it must be reverently perused, and not merely by one member of the household at the family altar, but by each individual for himself.

4. If the Bible is to rule the home its precepts must be obeyed. When one man obeys another it is implied that he subjects his will to the will of the other and works in harmony with its demands.

"The Bible and Missions" was discussed by Rev. Carey W. Chamberlin of Beverly. He said that the religion of the Bible is world wide in its scope. The promise made to Abraham concluded with "In thee shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." The Messianic Psalms are full of the prediction of world wide dominion for the Lord's Anointed. The prophets show the vision of all the nations brought under the beneficent sway of the Messiah. In the New Testament the prelude of the angelic announcement of the Savior's birth was "Fear not for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." In Jesus' teaching the Gospel is always for all men. This is seen in the model prayer, in his parables and in his final instructions. The Acts record the spread of the early church, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, until it was planted in the centers of the known world. In the closing messages of Revelation we hear the chorus in which heaven and earth unite "The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ and he shall reign forever." The Bible from cover to cover is missionary.

Rev. Theodore L. Frost of the Manchester church spoke on "The Bible in the Sunday School." He treated with the Sunday School teacher and the Bible, the scholar and the Bible, and the superintendent and the Bible. He spoke of the importance of preparing the lesson for the class before Saturday night and in teaching the Bible, the Bible should be taught and not athletics or science or philosophy; these things are to be used only so far as they illustrate the lesson. It should be taught in such a manner that the scholars should have a glimpse of the Christ. It should be taught in the power of the holy Spirit. Much that has been said as to the teacher is applicable in regard to the scholar. The Bible should be studied at the home before it is studied in the class. There is an old song "Nothing but Leaves." It applies too often to our Bible School. The Bible which should be in the hands of every scholar is replaced by leaves, single leaves some times, other times by quarterlies, which the scholar some times leaves behind him. The superintendent should use some portions of the scripture, in responsive or in unison, during the Sunday School lesson, and at the close of the Sunday School hour either the superintendent or the pastor should give a Bible "chalk talk," using the outline drawing furnished by some publisher or free hand drawing, thus enforcing the Bible lesson.

In the evening a Young People's Rally was held, the various C. E. societies of the district being represented by delegations. Rev. Dr. James A. Frances of the Clarendon street church, Boston, was the speaker of the evening. The meeting was at 7.30 o'clock.

After a few introductory remarks by the Pastor, Rev. C. S. Pond, Dr. Frances told the young people about winning souls to Christ, using Christ as an example. His theme was from John 4. "I had rather be a winner of souls," he said, "than anything else. Jesus Christ was the great master who won souls. He was the only perfect man that lived. He had no prejudices, and he always took the straight road."

After drawing a character sketch of the woman of Samaria he said there were two points to notice.

First, she did not understand the figure which Jesus used about the living water; second, that while she did not understand what he said, it was in the way he said it. She was won by the kindness of Jesus before she really knew him. We try to win souls but we blunder. We seem to drive people farther away from God. It is the heart that draws people near to God. "They that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Dr. Frances said in closing "Religion is personal, face to face acquaintance with Jesus Christ; religion is not believing in a certain creed and then hiding it; it is having a personal acquaintance with God. May you all become winners to Christ and to his Kingdom."

Nelson-Hanson.

The marriage of Miss Clara Wilhelmina Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mattis Hanson, and Elof Nelson, was celebrated last Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, on Vine streets, Beverly Farms. The wedding was a quiet home affair, owing to the recent death of the groom's father, and of his brother, who passed away last Friday. Rev. Clarence S. Pond was the officiating clergyman. The double ring service was used. The brother of the groom and the sister of the bride were the young people's attendants. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Holtman, and their daughter Lillian and son Arthur, formerly of Beverly Farms, but now of Barnstable.

John H. Lomasney.

John H. Lomasney, age 46, died at his home in Beverly Wednesday afternoon of typhoid pneumonia. He was a native of Manchester and spent the earlier portion of his life here. His parents were the late John and Mary Lomasney, who lived on Brook street many years. He is survived by three brothers, Thomas William of Manchester, Frank I. of Beverly Farms, and Edward, who is now in the west. He leaves a wife and four children.

Deceased was a member of the K. of C. Funeral services were held this morning at Beverly.

James H. Collins.

James Henry Collins, a well known Farms young man, passed away at the Beverly hospital last Sunday evening. He had been in poor health for the last year, and for the last three weeks he had been failing at the hospital. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Hannah M. Collins, and a sister, Mrs. Sanborn of Salem. Services were held at St. Margaret's church, Wednesday morning and interment was in Salem. Among the floral tributes was a handsome pillow from his late fellow employees of Connolly Bros.

SPECIAL MEETING.

Manchester Votes to Spend $2500 on Moth Work, $1500 for Crushing Stone, $500 for Police, and $1000 to Buy Auto for Water Dept.

The special Town meeting last Monday night at Manchester resulted in everything asked for being granted. The meeting was called to order, $5500 was appropriated for various purposes, and was dissolved again in 20 minutes.

For moth work this winter $2500 was appropriated; for crushing stone $1500 was voted; for additional police maintenance $500 was granted, and $1000 was appropriated to purchase an auto wagon for the water department. It was also voted to have the streets in town numbered.

The meeting went off in record time; there were no arguments; all the votes but one were unanimous; there were about 60 voters present,—everything was calm and peaceful.

It must not be understood that the auto for the water department is to be used for "joy" riding. It is an auto wagon, built like a wagon, and takes the place of the horse and wagon belonging to the superintendent, which the town hired heretofore.

What Was Said and Done at Town Meeting.

Town Clerk A. S. Jewett called the meeting to order at 7.30 and read the warrant. Raymond C. Allen was elected moderator and after being sworn in he thanked the voters for their continued expression of confidence in him.

He read the report of the finance committee in which the various amounts called for in articles of the warrant were recommended.

Art. 2. Edward S. Knight moved that $2500 be appropriated for the suppression of the gypsy and browntail moths in accordance with the requirements of Sect. 5, Chap. 381, Acts of 1905 R. L. He stated that the state year ended Nov. 30 and that the notice sent out from the state forester's office called for an expenditure by Manchester of $5000 during the coming year before the town can receive any reimbursement from the state. He read a letter from Mr. Rane bearing on the subject.

It was voted unanimously to appropriate the $2500 called for. The rest of the $5000 will be appropriated at the March meeting, presumably.

Art. 3. To see if the town will appropriate $1500 for crushing stone. On motion of F. K. Swett $1500 was appropriated without a dissenting vote.

Art. 4. To see if the town will appropriate $400 for the police department. Chairman Knight explained that on Dec. 4 there was a balance to this department of $701.88. The estimated expense for the balance of the year showed $1200.25 would be needed, a difference of $500.

The additional expense was occasioned by the demand of certain heavy tax-payers for better police protection during part of the summer, when there were several burglaries. Inasmuch as $500 was needed, and not $400 as the article called for, $500 was appropriated.

Art. 2. It was moved on motion of W. C. Rust that the selectmen be instructed to order all buildings fronting any public street or way in the town, be numbered in regular succession.

Chairman Knight stated that according to the town by-laws the selectmen may have streets numbered. A few years ago, he said, a former board of selectmen took up this matter. Part of the houses were numbered but there were many that were not. If the town so instructed this board they would go ahead with the matter.

It was so voted unanimously.

Art. 6. F. J. Merrill moved that the water commissioners be authorized to purchase an auto wagon for the use of the department and that $1000 be appropriated for the purpose.

He stated that the board asked for this as a matter of convenience and economy. The wagon would take the place of a horse and wagon now used for doing the team work for the department. It would also come in handy in getting men back and forth from the Gravel Pond station more conveniently. The board had looked into the matter and found among the several types of wagon one made by a concern in Syracuse, N. Y., which had a carrying capacity of 1200 pounds, and a speed of 20 miles an hour. This was the type used by the N. E. T. & T. Co., after much experience.

F. K. Hooper asked if the department had any money available for this purpose. To which Mr. Merrill replied that there was none, except the fund raised by the bond issue for the new water supply and he did not think it advisable to take this money for this purpose.

It was voted to purchase the wagon.

The report of the finance committee was accepted.

The meeting was dissolved at 7.50 after having appropriated $5500.

The members and honorary members of the N. S. H. S., not charter members, were elected members of the N. S. H. S. Inc.

The officers of the incorporated society are: James Salter, president; Dr. Waldo H. Tyler, vice pres.; John D. Morrison, clerk; James Macgregor, treasurer; James Scott, librarian; William Till, Joseph Clarke, William Swan, Eric H. Wetterlow and George Gordon, executive committee.

This evening a regular meeting of the society will be held at which time Prof. Waugh of the Mass. Agricultural College, Amherst, will deliver an address on American Landscape Gardening. The meeting will be at Lee's hall, Manchester, at 7.30.

Mrs. E. J. McComb.

Mrs. E. J. McComb of New York city, a sister of Charles O. Howe, of Manchester, died in New York Monday after a short illness at the age of 57 years. She had been operated upon at a hospital, and did not rally. Her remains were brought to Manchester for burial Wednesday, in the Howe family lot. Services were held at the Memorial chapel, the Rev. T. L. Frost officiating. She is survived by one daughter, 16 years old, who is in France. She was a native of Canterbury, N. H. She has been a frequent visitor to Manchester, her last visit here being on Thanksgiving Day.

Though only a small amount of gasoline is kept on hand, there was enough to keep the hall lighted, throughout the meeting, even if the electric juice did come on after the gas had been lighted.

If Greece and Turkey ever come together in battle there will be plenty of young men from this country who will be in the mix-up before it has progressed very far. The Greeks of this vicinity have organized military companies and are drilling in preparation for what may come. The Greeks of Gloucester and Manchester, 40 strong, are the latest to organize. They are drilling regularly in a hall in Gloucester and when the word comes they will join with hundreds of others to help protect their mother country. How much do the summer cottagers and boarders spend in New England every year? Between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000.

How much do the silver mines of the United States produce in a year? $38,256,400.

The summer vacation business of New England is more valuable than all the silver mines of the country. That was a startling and significant fact developed at the recent dinner of the Chicago business men to the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

OWING to Christmas Day falling on Saturday the next issue of the Breeze will appear in season for delivery on Friday morning of next week instead of in the afternoon as usual. Those who have occasion to send notices for publication will please take note and act accordingly. Get notices to this offices by Thursday noon.

EVERY person in the United States would have $34.98 if the money in circulation on Dec. 1 were evenly divided. This is based on the Treasury's estimate that the population of the United States is now 89,525,000. The monthly circulation statement by the Treasury Department shows that the general stock of money in the United States on Dec. 1, was $3,428,602,048 which is an increase of $712,935 since a month ago. Of this total there was in circulation $3,131,310,934, an increase of $6,631,877 over a month ago, and of $13,749,901 over a year ago. This is in striking contrast with the $816,266,721 in circulation on Jan. 1, 1879, for which comparative figures are given. The Treasury held as assets of the Government on Dec. 1 last, $297,291,114, which does not include the $35,952,787 of deposits of public money in national bank depositories to the credit of the United States Treasury. Of the general stock of money at present gold coin, including bullion in the Treasury, aggregates $1,644,906,223, standard silver dollars $564,294,719, subsidiary silver $161,304,633, treasury notes of 1890, $3,982,000, United States notes $346,681,016, and national bank notes $707,433,457.

FROM the tax figures filed by the different cities and towns in the commonwealth Deputy Tax Commissioner Fales has compiled the following statistics as to the highest and lowest rates, etc. The highest tax rate in the state is in the town of Merrimac, Essex county, where it is $27. The lowest is $2.42, in the town of Gosnold, Dukes county. It ranges from $3.70 to $9.50 in 13 towns, from $10 to $14.80 in one city and 89 towns, from $15 to $19.80 in 24 cities and 149 towns, and from $20 to $25.50 in eight cities and 68 towns.

Manchester comes in the first class, the rate being $9.40, and is therefore among the fourteen towns in the state with a rate under $9.50. In this county the towns with a rate lower than Manchester are Wenham $9.00, Boxford $8.00, Middleton $9.00. Nahant's rate this year is $11.00.

We are pleased to think so many people have taken advantage of our combination magazine offer with the BREEZE, and would suggest that those who are waiting until Christmas to make their choice should do so within the next day or two. The magazines selected to club with the BREEZE are the best published. It is understood, of course, that the price given in our advertisement on page 3 includes all postage.

Aside from this combination offer, we again call attention to the appropriateness of the BREEZE as a Christmas gift to some friend, far or near. The BREEZE in its weekly visits is a constant reminder of the beautiful North Shore and keeps one in touch with the spot which may have been at one time dear to one's affections. The BREEZE will be sent to any address in the United States, or possessions, postage paid, for one year for $2.00.

More than $10,000 was paid out by the state this year for damage done by wild deer. Returns from all over the state, particularly the western part, shows that the deer have been more troublesome this year than in years previous and have caused no end of damage. The last legislature appropriated $4500 for the purpose of remunerating those whose farms and crops have been damaged by the deer and the state auditor proposes to recommend to the incoming legislator that the appropriation for the following year be considerably increased.

Deer are becoming quite numerous in Manchester and at other points along the North Shore. A week or so ago, early one morning, one was seen within 200 yards of the Manchester Postoffice. Last Friday a deer and a small doe attracted much attention grazing in the field near the Masconomo stables, on Smith's Point.

THE Socialist orator who advocates a four hour workday leaves it undetermined whether the morning or afternoon should be devoted to labor. The morning is well adapted to golf or tennis, but the afternoon is the time for baseball or football.

EXCHANGE OF PULPITS.

Rev. Theron T. Phelps of E. Gloucester Preached at Mancheater last Sunday.

At the First Baptist Church, Manchester, last Sunday, Rev. Theodore L. Frost exchanged pulpits with Rev. Theron T. Phelps of East Gloucester. Mr. Phelps delivered two interesting sermons.

For his morning sermon he drew a text from Luke 15: 16-17, "—and he came to himself." He touched on the moral nature of the prodigal, and of the grand transformation which took place in his life. He said that every human life was full of possibilities, that each life contained a mine unexplored, and that each soul contained a divine spark. He spoke of the vast amount of talent that was going to waste in fashion, and of the church as the moral background of the nation. He said in part:

"Are we not all prodigals? We do not realize the place in which God has put us. We have a vast amount of wealth that has never been discovered. We are casting our nerve and energy away as pearls before swine, and our lives are crumbling to pieces.

"Yet there are moments when the human life comes to itself. There is no soul but what has caught a glimpse of its own spiritual possibilities. In every soul there is a closet in which are many mysterious mechanisms. To many they are as dead machinery, for the great engine of human life is going to decay. The key that was meant to turn that mighty spring is lost. What is this key? Where is it?

"The great question that confronts us is, how can we find an instrument that will bring a soul to itself? It is Jesus Christ that is the master organism that calls forth human souls. Our lives seem to consist of many layers. People do not go down into the deep recesses, they only go a little way, and they find their life is not worth living. Jesus is here to take us down, we cannot go down alone.

"Christ must equip us with golden talent. If you wish to seek a wider scope, you must live the Christ life. God has wrought strangely; he made the best of what was given to him. Why cannot we? There are two great regions that he has given us, character and service. Fling open the doors of your nature and let it shine forth. Too many other things crowd our lives, and we open these doors only on special occasions. You miss all the pleasure if you go out in life without Jesus."

In the evening, Mr. Phelps took his text from Romans 2: 5, "—the day of the revelation of the righteous judgment of God." "This judgment," he said, "is the first principle in every department of the human life. The Bible would be a strange book if it did not contain it, and so would religion. There must be some day of judgment. To Paul this righteous judgment and the day of revelation seemed different, but we must stand face to face with it sooner or later. We are living today careless lives. Every day is a doomsday, a day of settlement.

"We speak of special judgment, but there is no such thing with God. Why is it the churches burn down and the saloons stand? Why do mothers die and the children live? It is a judgment of the laws of God. So it is with the moral life. We must develop our conscience if we wish to be saved from a worse judgment.

"The day comes unexpectedly and we are taken without warning. The seeds we have sown blossom on our graves. We have but a little idea of this Divine judgment. We are not sent to Heaven, we take our judgment with us in our own person. We are responsible, and had better lose the pleasures of life than to lose our immortal souls."

"Code" Messages Will Cost More.

The new rule relative to the charges for sending telegrams went into effect this month and all combinations of letters not forming a dictionary word will be charged for according to the number of letters they contain. All words not found in the dictionary will be charged for at a rate of five letters to each word and all figures, decimal points and bars of division will be counted separately as one word.

This action on the part of the telegraph companies is done to protect them from business firms and others who use code messages, one word of which sometimes means whole sentences. The code words are exceedingly hard to send, taking sometimes twice as long as a straight message, and there is always a danger of mistake being made.

The changes made do away with the rule that each letter in an arbitrary, unpronounceable combination must be counted as one word, but does not effect words taken from seven languages, as follows: English, French, Dutch, Portuguese, Spanish, Latin, German. The five letter count applies to groups of letters forming artificial words and also applies to groups of letters made up of combinations of misspelled or abbreviated words.

The new rule applies to both the telegrams sent by the Postal Telegraph and the Western Union Companies.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Manchester, Mass., P. O. for week ending Dec. 11. Miss A. M. Edgecanaledge, Miss Mabel Frince, Joseph Fortunato, R. Holt, Walter Hull, Miss Gertrude Hatch, J. C. Jones, Miss Mammie Jefferson, Burton W. Pelton, Mrs. Minnie E. Prime, Miss Marion Lityon.

WITH THE BOWLERS.

Seventh Round of the Manchester Bowling League Finds Regals Still in the Lead. Speed Boys Establish New Score,—1421.

The seventh round of the Manchester Bowling league, which closed Monday night, brought forth some first-class rolling. The Speed Boys, though in second place, are coming to the front fast. They established a new team score for the local alleys in their match with the Regals, by rolling 1421 pins. The Regals are still at the head of the list. In the record match one string totalled over 500, which means that each man rolled an average of over 100. Crocker and H. Bell were the high liners with 308 and 307 respectively.

Thanksgiving Offering of Manchester School Children Brought Cheer to Many of Boston's Poor.

The Thanksgiving offering of fruit and vegetables and other niceties, made by the Manchester School children, brought cheer into many a Boston home, where the families were so poor that their Thanksgiving dinner this year would have been scant but for the kind acts of the boys and girls here.

Letters have been received this week from those who had charge of the distribution of baskets of food at the Denison House, 93 Tyler street, Boston, where the barrels were shipped. They have been read to the children. Following are a few extracts from the letters:

John C. Mackin,
Supt. of Schools.

My Dear Mr. Mackin: Will you please thank all the teachers and pupils who sent the barrels for Thanksgiving. We sent out some 25 dinners to those most in need of help and I am sure the gratitude was most sincere.

HELENA S. DUDLEY.

Dear Children: Perhaps you would like to know that five big baskets of apples and vegetables went to Italian families, to help those boys and girls from another land to share in our Thanksgiving gladness. There are three children in the D'Andrea family—and how their faces did shine when I brought in the big basket for them! I asked the little boy, Pietro, what Thanksgiving Day was for and he answered with the widest of grins "Eat!" And he looked as if he intended to eat, too. The little Polaro children, all six of them, were just as happy, from 11-year-old Mary down to the baby; and so were all the other children who shared in the good things. I know you would have all enjoyed going around with me, when I took the baskets, but as long as you couldn't do that you will just have to imagine how much happiness the barrels of good things which you sent were able to bring.

MARION D. SAVAGE.

My Dear Mr. Mackin: I want to tell you about one family who had a bright Thanksgiving because of the things that you sent to us. Mrs. Murphy, one of the best women in the neighborhood, has two little girls. Last summer her only boy was run over by an automobile and lived only four or five hours after being taken to the hospital. His father and mother were both away working at the time. * * * They have had a terribly hard time. I suspect they would have had hardly any dinner on Thanksgiving had we not been able to send them a good basket from the settlement. Their faces lighted up so happily when they spoke of the surprise it was. I am sure it will be a pleasure to some one to know of the brightness that came to a sad little family.

Yours truly, etc.

My Dear Mr. Mackin: I wish to join in thanking you for the joys and cheer your generous contributions brought to our neighbors Thanksgiving day. It was my privilege to make up some of the baskets to take out and I wish your school might know how much their giving helped to make the day a real Thanksgiving to many.

MARIE E. GUILLET.

American Colleges in Asia.

A man who is ambitious for a life of exceptional usefulness may find a suggestion in the careers of two American educators who have returned home after approximately half a century of epoch-making service in Western Asia—Dr. George Washburn, of Robert College, Constantinople, and Dr. Daniel Bliss, of the American Protestant College, Beirut, Syria. Dr. Washburn has just told his story in his "Fifty Years in Constantinople," but neither man has ever made efforts to attract the attention of his countrymen.

Robert College, to which Dr. Washburn devoted his life, was founded by Cyrus Hamlin, but was named after Mr. Robert (without his consent), a New York merchant who gave $400,000 for its founding. It occupies a beautiful site of twenty-three acres overlooking the Bosphorus, is near the bridge over which Darius led the Persians into Scythia, and faces a castle built by Mohammed the Conqueror in the year that Columbus discovered America. At the time of its founding, 1863, there was no other college in the Turkish Empire.

Its wholesome and enlightened influence has been stamped upon at least 3,000 young men of the Levant, chiefly Greeks, Armenians, and Bulgarians, and its graduates have, generally, been a credit to the institution. For instance, it educated the men whose leadership made it possible for the Bulgarians to establish a free state in the Balkans.

The American Protestant College, in Beirut, has had even a wider influence. It also is out-and-out American in its spirit and methods; the late Morris K. Jesup was president of its board of trustees. It has about nine hundred students a year in its seven departments and requires a teaching force of about seventy instructors. The graduates of this college occupy positions of influence in many lands. For example, an editor of this magazine discovered one at Tangier editing the most influential Arabic newspaper in Morocco. Lord Cromer employed many of the Beirut men during his twenty years' work of rebuilding Egypt.

Not the least among the results achieved by Drs. Washburn and Bliss is the stimulus to Oriental education in general. The conspicuous success has encouraged the establishment of hundreds of others schools in the Levant. There are now at least a dozen American colleges and more than a hundred other important mission schools. The example of Robert College, in particular, led the Turkish Government into an epoch of college-building—and this has doubtless had much to do with "the young Turk" movement that deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid.

There is more than national pride in the prophecy that the graduates of American schools will be the chief factors in the real upbuilding of that part of the old world which for the time being is called the Turkish Empire.—World's Work.

Grand Opportunity to Buy Clothes at Great Reduction.

One step of the Naumkeag Trust Co. as a result of the big bank combine in Salem will mean much to people in this vicinity inasmuch as the bank has decided to move into new quarters and for that purpose have purchased the Hoyt block on Essex street, now occupied by the W. E. Hoyt Co., clothiers. The benefit comes from the great reduction at which goods may be bought from this concern. They must vacate by the first of February and as they have been unable to find another suitable location in the city, their entire clothing and furnishing stock will be disposed of. Probably never before in the history of Salem have the owners of a stock such as this well-known firm carries, been forced to close it out in this short space of time.

Don't Try to Write Messages on Your Christmas Parcels.

It has been decided by the classification committee of the postoffice department that the words "not to be opened until Christmas Day," or similar inscriptions may be written only on such parcels as bear postage at first class rates, but packages that are rated at third or fourth class rates may bear the same inscription, providing that it is printed or stamped on them. When written on the parcel with pen or pencil, the words are held to be a personal communication from the sender to the addressee, thus making the matter subject to first class rates.

I have just put in a stock of mail boxes and letter plates. D. T. Beaton. adv.

✦ Magnolia ✦

Alex D. Troy has been appointed caretaker of the Magnolia cemetery by the municipal council acting as a committee on cemeteries, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John B. Dodge.

Miss Grace Story was the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story on Wednesday.

There will be a Christmas entertainment and Christmas tree at the Village Church on Christmas eve given by the members of the Sunday School, beginning at 7.30 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Henry W. Butler visited her brother Walter Allen, the first of the week, who is confined at the Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston, having undergone a serious operation on his eyes last Thursday. He is improving as rapidly as can be expected.

Rev. and Mrs. Markham W. Stackpole were in town the first of the week.

Miss Friend's dancing classes have been discontinued until after the Christmas holidays. They will be continued Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Mrs. Mary A. Lycett.

After a short illness Mrs. Mary A., wife of Arthur M. Lycett, of Magnolia, passed away on Monday, Dec. 13, aged 48 years, 7 months, 24 days. Mrs. Lycett was born in Manchester, a daughter of George and Mary Pierce. She leaves beside a husband and mother, one son Fred S. and a sister Mrs. Fred Stanley of Woburn and a brother Charles Pierce of Beverly Farms.

The deceased was a member of the Union Congregational church and secretary of the Ladies' Aid society. She was of a cheerful and loving disposition and will be greatly missed by the host of friends and relatives who are left to mourn her loss. Funeral services were held at the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Frederick J. Libby and Rev. Markham W. Stackpole officiating. Interment was in the Magnolia cemetery.

Last week Mrs. Lycett went to the Beverly hospital for treatment. She was operated upon, and the operation was successful; but heart failure followed and the end came peacefully.

Mrs. Lycett was not only endeared to a host of friends and neighbors in Magnolia, but in Manchester and Beverly Farms she had many friends and relatives to whom her death was a shock. Among the summer visitors to Magnolia, too, she was well known, as she assisted her husband and son in the management of

The public whist party given by the G. A. R. Associates in G. A. R. hall last Friday evening was largely attended. Miss Abbie Williams won first ladies prize and Miss Edith Marshall, second, each receiving a pretty vase. Miss Liz-zie Magee got the consolation, a bric-a-brac ornament. Frank Gaudreau won first prize for men, a handsome dutch long stem pipe. William Eddy secured second, a novelty in a combination match stand and ash tray. The consolation was won by S. Alfred Hanson, a match stand.

The large vote polled in Ward 6 Tuesday was a surprise, as it was expected that the vote would be rather light. It is very evident that in the contest for Mayor, Alderman-at-large, Alderman, and School-Committeeman at large, there was a lot of quiet work done. Out of a total registration of 349 there were 308 votes cast. Councilman Loring won out by a good plurality, in the contest for alderman.

William Hull has returned from Central Islip, L. I., where he has been associated with Homer Callahan, a former Farms young man. Mr. Callahan is in business for himself conducting a bicycle store and has in connection with it a pool room and bowling alley.

The many friends of Miss Florence Slavin extend their sympathy over the loss of her mother, who recently passed away suddenly in Ireland. It was a shock to Miss Slavin who had, previous to her last letter, received words of her mother's continued good health.

Just received a new lot of gold and silver-mounted pipes for Christmas at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, opposite the Postoffice. adv.

There was a large audience at the Baptist church last Sunday evening to hear the No-License cause espoused by Willard O. Wylie and Dea. John Chapman of the Farms.

In Ward 6 there are 23 women who are registered and therefore entitled to vote for School Committee. At the election Tuesday seven of them exercised their right.

Percy Noyes, who has been at an institution at Waverley for some time past, has recently been transferred to the Danvers asylum, on account of a decided change for the worse.

The women's gymnasium class will hold their masquerade party in Marshall's hall next Wednesday evening. The boys' and girls' classes are also to have a fancy dress party, which will take place in Marshall's hall at two o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Mark Knowles has been confined to the house the last week as the result of an accident. He was on a ladder, which tipped, throwing him to the ground, fracturing a rib and causing other bruises.

With the many people at the Farms all interested in the general welfare of the place there should be plenty of good news matter and the Breeze invites people to jot down any happenings and send the slip to the Breeze office, or to any representative of the paper. Sign your name to it, but this is only as a guarantee of good faith, as the name will not be used unless so requested. The editor reserves the right to rewrite or abbreviate any items or to accept the whole or any part of same. This assistance on the part of the people is necessary in order that the paper may do credit to itself and the community. The paper is getting to be far-reaching in its circulation and every week the Farms, as well as other sections of the North Shore, receives its proportion of advertising in the outside world.

A big lot of cigars in fancy boxes for Christmas, from 12 to 100 cigars in a box, all brands, at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, opposite the Postoffice, Beverly Farms. adv.

The eyes of the Farms young people have been turned towards the playgrounds, but in vain, for thus far there has been no move toward damming the water so that skating could be enjoyed.

Ralph W. Osborne, who lives at Centerville, and is warden of the Ward 6 voting place, was looked upon as somewhat of a hero when he appeared ready for his duties last Tuesday morning about 5.45. In the face of the severe storm he had walked to the Farms, through the dark woods road.

Mrs. Kate McDonald has taken rooms in the Leahy block in Central square, moving from the apartments she has occupied recently on Haskell street.

Edward A. Osborne, the well known crossing tender at Paradise Crossing, was married Wednesday evening to Miss Hannah A. Witham. Both are residents of Centerville. They have gone on a honeymoon trip to Maine.

Alderman Hodgkins is mentioned as a candidate for the water board, which position is now held by Frank Woodberry of the city proper. It is said that there may be several candidates. The position held by Mr. Woodberry, who is chairman of the board, carries with it a salary of $150. Other members of the board draw $50.

Elizabeth D. Hull.

Mrs. Elizabeth D., widow of William Hull, died at her home on Hart street, Beverly Farms, last Friday, at the age of 83 years, her death occurring on the anniversary of her birth. She was the oldest resident at the Farms, with one exception. Mrs. Hull was a woman of pleasing personality and was in her more active days a woman of much influence in the community. She was affiliated with the Baptist church. She leaves a daughter, Miss M. Elizabeth Hull and a son, Councilman Charles H. Hull. Funeral services were held at her late home Monday afternoon and after the religious services those of the Relief Corps were held. Interment was in the Farms cemetery.

The matter of widening and straightening West street, Beverly Farms, along by the property of Sydney E. Hutchinson and that of the West Beach corporation, which has been under consideration the last six months, has been adjusted and the changes are now being made. The work is being done by D. Linehan & Son. The change will make a great improvement in the road at this point.

Beverly's Election.

At the city election Tuesday Beverly voters returned Mayor Trowt of Pride's Crossing for a second term by the splendid plurality of 1415 votes over the other candidates put together. He received 2141 votes, Desmond 726, and Glines 165. The city voted no-license by a vote of 1986 to 877.

Robert Robertson, the well known plumber contractor, Augustus P. Loring, jr., of Pride's, Willis H. Bell, also well known in Manchester and Beverly Farms, and Martin R. Lane are the four new members elected to the board of aldermen. Two old members, James McPherson and Henry E. Woodberry, were re-elected, and James A. Torrey was elected alderman-at-large.

The councilmen elected are as follows: Ward 1, A. T. Foster, M. P. Kerby, W. J. Johnson. Ward 2, J. B. Goldsmith, A. E. Johnson, W. H. Ropes. Ward 3, W. F. Crafts, W. H. Carrico, G. H. Hurd. Ward 4, J. L. Saltonstall, A. L. Churchill, F. W. Hammond. Ward 5, W. C. Blaisdell, H. L. Colby, J. D. B. Bradstreet. Ward 6, J. W. Phillips, J. R. L. Wiseman, F. L. Woodberry.

At the talk fest in City hall after the election, when most of the candidates appeared, Alderman Elect Robertson of Ward 2 said that he was new to the game but he should try and do what he thought was for the best interests of the city. He thought that the City hall should be placed in some kind of shape. He believed that the North Shore was one of our best assets and that we should treat it and its residents as such. We should provide them with the best of roads and look out for them. He knew of one who had built and laid out $150,000 because the roads were better than on the South Shore where he formerly lived. He had come with no pledges and should do what he could to help better the condition of this most beautiful city of the North Shore.

James D. Hooper is probably the greatest fancier of doves and pigeons at the Farms. He has accumulated at his estate on Valley street several hundred of these birds of different breeds. It is well worth one's time to call at his place and look over the large flocks of birds, which are not allowed their liberty, but are provided with a large pigeon fly on the top of one of his buildings.

The window decorations are especially pretty.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1909.

Society Notes

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Lancashire of Alma, Mich., and Manchester, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Wright Lancashire, a granddaughter of Ammi W. Wright, to E. Laurence White, Harvard '08, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. White of Beacon street, Boston. Dr. and Mrs. Lancashire came on to Boston a day or two ago and expect to get the family together for the Christmas holidays at the Hotel Somerset. Ammi, their son, is at Yale. During their visit to Boston they will no doubt take a run up to Manchester to see how it looks in winter. They occupy the Hood cottage on Norton's Point.

Mrs. Frederick Ayer has cards out for a dance at her home on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Friday night, Jan. 7.

After a visit of nearly five months with her relatives in Magnolia and Boston Baroness Ludwig Knoop and little daughter sailed on the Ivernia from Boston last week for their English home, Claverly Park, Tunbridge Wells. The Baron, who went back to England several months ago, came over a short time ago to take his wife and daughter home. The Baroness is in deep mourning for her mother, Mrs. Joseph Sargent, whose death occurred last month.

Mr. and Mrs. George Putnam have cards out for a dinner dance on the 12th of January for their grand-daughter, Miss Katharine Putnam, who had a ball given for her at the Somerset by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, early in the month. The Putnams have one of the largest suites at the Agassiz on Commonwealth avenue, where the dinner dance will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Mandell of the Beverly Cove colony are to give a small dance at their Boston home on Tuesday evening, Jan. 4, in honor of their neices, Miss Dorothy Mandell, who came out last year, and Miss Hilda Rice, who has not yet been presented.

S. Parker Bremer and J. Arthur Brooks, who sailed for the Mediterranean the first of November, returned on the Mauretania, which was docked in New York last Friday. The Brookses are living in Milton again this winter.

Seawanhaka Cup Contest Assured.

A series of races, to be sailed in North Shore waters next July for the Seawanhaka cup now held by the Manchester Yacht club, was assured last week by the action of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal in authorizing three of its members—C. H. Routh, W. C. Finley and F. W. Sherwood—to make all the necessary arrangements for such a series with the Manchester Yacht club. According to the present plans, the first race will take place July 25 and there is every expectation that a large representation of the Royal St. Lawrence's membership will come down to witness the sport.

Two boats are to be built by the Canadians for the trial races in their own waters and it may be that another one will be gotten out in addition. J. P. Black, the rear commodore of the club, is to build one of the craft, which will be under the supervision of F. W. Sherwood and will be constructed at the yards of the St. Lawrence Yacht Company at Dorval, P. Q. A syndicate is to be formed to defray the cost of constructing a second trial craft, while the Thorella III. may also be seen in the contests. The Canadians are determined to win the Seawanhaka trophy the coming year and have certainly gone about it in the proper spirit.

The restrictions governing the construction of the competing yachts will be practically the same as have hitherto existed, with the one exception that the sail area has been increased from 500 square feet to 625 square feet. Under the conditions governing the last contest, there was a fixed weight limit governing the crews of the competing boats of 665 pounds, but this condition has since been changed. The only stipulations now made regarding the crews in the coming contest is that they shall not consist of more than four men, and that the personnel of the crews shall not be changed during the progress of the races, excepting for some reasonable cause, as, for example, sickness or accident.

The Canadians, in order to test their best boats under the same conditions as those under which the series of races is most likely to take place, will in all probability bring two boats to Massachusetts instead of only the winner of the trial races. They will also in all probability get together the heaviest crew they possibly can, consistently, of course, with good seamanship. This is on the theory that, with a heavy crew in a light

Uniform Scale for Carpenters; 44 Hours a Week, 47 3-4 cents an Hour.

For the first time in the history of the carpenters' unions in eastern Massachusetts a uniform scale is promised. Six districts have come out in favor of demanding 47 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents an hour for a 44 hour week, next May. The Boston district already has that rate established. In others various rates were paid, which caused disputes when carpenters paid the lower rates went to work in districts where the wages were higher. At a meeting of the grand council of the six districts of eastern Massachusetts held in Boston on Friday evening, the declaration was made to demand the 47 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents an hour, with Saturday afternoon off the year round. The district includes North Shore, in which Beverly belongs, South Shore, Norfolk county, Middlesex, Newton and Waltham district and the Boston district.

Practically all the unions in the North Shore district have voted on the question of asking 47 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents an hour and a 44 hour week, and it is said that the vote largely favors making the demand.

The Manchester local took favorable action some weeks ago. They have voted in favor of the 47 $\frac{3}{4}$ cent rate and 44 hours.

NEW AUTO LAWS.

Heavy Fine and Imprisonment Confronts the Reckless Operator After Dec. 31.

After December 31 automobilists who are convicted of violating speed laws will find themselves up against a stiff proposition and it will be no $10 fine that they will have to ante, but rather a fine of $200 or a six months' jail sentence.

This law also says specifically that a person convicted of reckless driving shall have his license revoked for a period of 60 days.

The state law says that 15 miles per hour through thickly settled portions of cities and towns, where houses do not stand more than 200 feet apart, shall be the established speed limit, and where streets intersect eight miles per hour shall be the limit.

It is up to the judge of the court in which the cases are tried to determine whether or not the defendants before the bar are guilty of "reckless" driving.

The police secure the evidence and after that is submitted to the judge or presiding justice it is up to him to interpret the law according to his judgment.

For the benefit of our many readers, who are owners of automobiles, and especially that portion of them that ride outside the state we print below the new law which takes effect at the end of the present month, and which therefore annuls the law of 1908. It is found in section 22 of chapter 534 of the Acts of 1909, and reads as follows:

"Whoever on any way operates an automobile or motor cycle recklessly or while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or so that the lives or safety of the public might be endangered or upon a bet, wager or race, or who operates a motor vehicle for the purpose of making a record and thereby violates any provision of sections 16 and 17 of this act, or who knowingly goes away without stopping and making himself known after causing injury to any person or property, or who uses a motor vehicle without authority, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $200 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and, if any person be convicted a second time of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, he shall be punished by imprisonment for a term of not less than one year and not more than two years. A conviction of a violation of this section shall be reported forthwith by the court or trial justice to the commission, which shall revoke immediately the license of the person so convicted. If it appears by the records of the commission that the person so convicted is the owner of a motor vehicle, or has exclusive control of any motor vehicles as a manufacturer or dealer, the commission may revoke the certificate of registration of all motor vehicles so exclusively owned or controlled. Whenever any person so convicted appeals, the commission shall suspend forthwith the license of the person so convicted, and shall order the license delivered to it, and shall not reissue said license unless such person is acquitted in the appellate court, or unless the commission in its discretion, after an investigation or upon a hearing, decides to reissue it. No new license or certificate shall be issued by the commission to any person convicted of a violation of this section until after 60 days from the date of such final conviction, nor thereafter except in the discretion of the commission."

Sections 20 and 21 of the same act, dealing with infractions of the law are of interest and read as follows:

"Section 20. The commission may suspend or revoke any certificate of registration or any license issued to any person under the provisions of this act, after due hearing, for any cause which it may deem sufficient, and the commission may suspend the license of any operator or chauffeur in its discretion and without a hearing, and may order the license to be delivered to it, whenever it has reason to believe that the holder thereof is an improper or incompetent person to operate motor vehicles, or is operating improperly or so as to endanger the public and neither the certificate of registration nor the license shall be reissued unless, upon examination or investigation, or after a hearing, the commission determines that the operator or chauffeur should again be permitted to operate.

"Section 21. Any person convicted of operating a motor vehicle in the commonwealth after his license to operate has been suspended or revoked, and any person convicted of operating or causing or permitting any other person to operate a motor vehicle after the certificate of registration for such vehicle has been suspended or revoked, and any person who attaches or permits to be attached to a motor vehicle a number plate or seal assigned by the commission to another vehicle, or who obscures or permits to be obscured the figures on any number plate or seal attached to any motor vehicle, or who fails to display on a motor vehicle the number plate or seal and the register number duly issued therefor, with intent to conceal the identity of such motor vehicle, or who wears a chauffeur's badge, not furnished to him by the commission, or who with intent to conceal his identity wears a chauffeur's badge belonging to another person, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment for a term of 10 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

CONCRETE HOUSE.

Great Durability a Strong Point in its Favor. What "Cement Age" Says.

Individuals in all sections of the country are building concrete houses says Cement Age, but there is an important development in the growing interest manifested in concrete construction by large and enterprising corporations engaged in land improvement and building operations on an extensive scale. They recognize in concrete a good investment, even where first cost may be in excess of other methods of construction.

As showing the extent to which confidence in concrete has developed in recent years, an all-concrete house has been built at Montclair, N. J., by a New York construction company. An interesting fact in connection with this house is that it is neither for sale nor to rent. The purpose of the company is to afford opportunity to the public to see exactly what an all-concrete house means. The house thus becomes an object lesson of great value and interest. It is not meant that every man who builds a dwelling shall reproduce this particular house in all its dimensions, but rather that he may see and clearly understand the great durability and superiority of concrete as exemplified in the structural processes involved. He is first given to understand that this house is built entirely of concrete and steel. During its construction every movement of the workmen was noted with extreme interest by visitors. They were first impressed with the fact, that the foundations were sufficiently strong to carry a structure 10 times the size, and that every feature was of the same indestructible character.

The house weighs 500 tons, and every part is scientifically thought out by men high in their profession. It was the purpose to erect a house that time could not injure or destroy, and that will require neither paint nor repairs and from which all danger from fire has been eliminated.

In its design and construction, all thought of other materials was put aside in order that the house might also look like concrete. The company did not claim that a house of this character could be built at far less cost than a cheap frame house, and that inexperienced workmen could erect it, but they sought to show thus the highest ultimate economy demanded the most careful and scientific methods throughout.

This led to the evolution of a house with secure concrete foundations, concrete and steel walls with air space, concrete floors, partitions, stairs, balustrades and a roof of concrete tiles—practically a monolithic mass.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XLVII.

A poet tells us how a certain renowned masterpiece once went to pieces,

"All at once, and nothing first,— and this reminds us that it is rather the tendency of bubbles to burst, whether South sea bubbles, or Wall street bubbles, oratorical bubbles, or social bubbles, or other; inflation is not good in real estate, or money, or literature, or life.
Just as bubbles do when they burst;"

The Prohibition party is but forty years old, but the Prohibition principle—"Thou shalt not"—is a good deal older. Some people think they must be allowed to do just as they please, and any check upon license is a restriction of their liberty. How long will it be before men will learn that a man's personal liberty does not allow him to do that which is an injury to other men's rights? There are many things that ought to be prohibited, things that are a wrong to individuals or to the community; indeed, human legislation as well as divine is based on the fact that man has no right to do as he pleases, except as he pleases to do right. The safety of society and the race rests on this principle.

Advanced thought—it sounds well, excellently well; but in what direction is the advance is not an impertinent question; it is sometimes better to stand still than to advance, at least until we have more light; and some of our progressive thinkers seem not to have much light.

A good library is one of the best possessions a young man can acquire; not that it can be itemized in an invoice, or exchanged for its value in stocks; "it cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx, or the sapphire." And yet, a little saved from superfluities will now buy a library which in the Middle Ages hardly the revenue of a prince-dome would purchase; "books that are books" are now so cheap that it is hardly worth while to spend money on rubbish.

It seems strange to see men who have been thought intelligent and considerate knocking away the foundation on which they stand, and what is worse knocking it away for others to do; it would not be so bad if they would put something as good in its place, but this is just what they fail

The value of knowledge depends much on what kind it is; anciently, we are told, there was a knowledge of good and a knowledge of evil; and as if knowledge of good was not enough, a certain man desired the knowledge of evil also, aspiring to be wise, which proved a great mistake; the consequences did not fully appear at the time, for "never shows the choice momentous till the judgment hath passed by;" and men are continually repeating the old mistake with the old results.

The statement has been made with great positiveness and without qualification, that aspirations are an evidence of spirituality; but that depends; with so many who have aspirations for the Presidency, for town office, for social distinction, for literary fame, for a big church and a big choir, and so on, and so on, the statement seems rather questionable; and if it is meant simply that spiritual aspirations are an evidence of spirituality, that sounds so much like a truism that it hardly seems worth the emphasis put upon it.

Editor North Shore Breeze:

Dear Sir:—The talked of road running from the rear of the Masconomo stables to the junction of Sea and Masconomo streets, would be a great convenience not only to people living at the Neck but to all our merchants, who deliver goods there. As anybody knows who has had occasion to travel over the Masconomo or Proctor hills, the road is so smooth that only a very light rig can be handled with ease over them, and besides, if this road were cut through it would make the corner at the junction of Masconomo and Sea streets much less dangerous.

This is one of the most dangerous corners in town as it is impossible to see over the high fence around the Bartlett estate and in driving either an auto or a horse around the corner one has to come almost to a stop before taking it.

I hope this matter will be brought before the town at the annual meeting in March, and that it will be acted upon favorably.

THE compliments of the season to our readers one and all!

THE Gravel Pond water in Manchester was turned on Tuesday. If you have any ills or pains, or if there is a lack of ills or pains, blame the change of brand.

SUCH delightful weather we have rarely experienced on the North Shore! Thus far we have had no extremely cold weather and only one or two snow flurries. The ground has not yet been covered with snow. Our North Shore friends who seek warmer climes at this season of year, would have no cause to find fault were they with us the last two months.

THE suggestion in the BREEZE of two weeks ago that a new street be constructed leading from Beach street to Sea street, leaving Beach street near the Masconomo stables and coming out on Sea street at its junction with Masconomo, has met with much favorable comment. One of the heaviest tax-payers in that section of the town has endorsed the plan in a communication printed this week. The one great point in favor of the new street is the fact that the hills now encountered in getting to that section of the town would be overcome; the new street would be over level land, through a natural roadway.

UNIFORMITY in automobile laws is at last beginning to attract the attention it deserves throughout the country. The legislative board of the American Automobile association, which first advocated this policy of uniformity in automobile laws, is about to bring the matter more prominently before the country at large, by the first national legislative convention, which will be held in Washington, D. C., Feb. 15, 16 and 17.

At this February convention delegates from all the clubs in the national organization have been requested to attend, and invitations have been extended to the governors of all the states. The purpose of the convention is twofold—first, to secure the passage in congress of the federal motor vehicle registration bill, and second, to bring before the official delegates of the various states the necessity of enacting a uniform state motor vehicle law.

The federal registration bill, which has been advocated persistently by the legislative board of the American Automobile association for more than two years, seeks to permit inter-state travel of motor cars by a simple method of one registration through a national registration bureau. The national registration bill was introduced into congress last year, but, owing to the tariff agitation, it failed to obtain a hearing before the judiciary committee, to which it was referred.

THE Providence Journal seeks to joke a little at the expense of one of the hunting clubs down in that section and refers to the fact that a recent shoot was enjoyed with this result:

The hunters had $50,000 worth of automobiles, $3000 worth of guns, $900 worth of fancy hunting dogs; they tramped over $80,000 worth of land, and at the finish landed one rabbit worth 25 cents.

Well, they had a good time, didn't they?

Another factor in the discussion is that indulged by some papers which like to total up the amount paid the state for hunting licenses, and then claim that it is impossible to shoot that much game.

What of it? Who wants to measure the pleasures of hunting by dollars and cents? Does a man, when he goes fishing for pleasure, decide that he has made a failure of it because he has not enough trout at so much a pound to offset the expense of the trip? He goes for the sake of getting to the field, to the wood, to the water, and no money compensation is to be placed by the side of his satisfaction from the outing.

The men who measure results in hunting or fishing from the purely monetary standpoint are very poor sports. They do not realize the pleasures of the excursion, and if they are keen upon the financial end as they seem to be, we fear they do not comprehend the reason why so many men betake themselves to the field and the forest for their pleasure. It's the life that is desired and the game results are merely secondary. And this is as it should be.—Gloucester Times.

No More Advertising in Programs.

The Salem merchants are falling in line with those of Beverly and the North Shore towns in that the Merchants' association has declared against advertising in programs, dance orders and the like. The following resolutions have been adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the Merchants' association, either as firms or as individuals, do hereby agree to decline from advertising in any program, church, social or fraternal paper or organ whatever, except those published by the Grand Army of the Republic, Salem Firemen's Relief association, Salem Police Relief association and the Empire and Salem theatres.

It is further agreed that no member or firm shall in substitution for an advertisement, purchase tickets or contribute any sum of money.

SOME TIMELY SUGGESTIONS.

Manchester Woman's Club Observes "Home Day." Papers Presented in Which Many Public Improvements are Suggested.

The Manchester Woman's club met Tuesday afternoon. It was "Home Day," and various heads of committees presented papers. During the afternoon a very pleasing musical program was rendered under the charge of Mrs. C. E. Williams, chairman of the music committee. This included vocal solo, "Stars of Normandy," by Prof. A. L. Sabin; vocal solos, "Oh Happy Day," and selections from "The Runaway Girl," by Mrs. F. G. Cheever; vocal solo, "When We are Together," by Miss Ethel McDiarmid. Interesting papers were read, including "Current Events," by Mrs. Charlotte Brown, whose paper was over-running with humor; "Civics," by Mrs. Duncan T. Beaton; "Forestry," by Mrs. Allen S. Peabody, "Arts and Crafts," by Mrs. Raymond C. Allen. Mrs. F. J. Merrill was hostess of the afternoon.

Mrs. Brown's paper was as follows:

"Madame President, Members of the Manchester Woman's club:

"When I joined the Woman's club I did so with the understanding that I would not be required to write a paper of any kind on any subject. Well, last year all was serene and all things moved along as smoothly as a well regulated automobile. But at the very beginning of this year I was very much startled with the request that I organize a class in Current Events. Knowing my incompetency, especially after hearing Mrs. May Alden Ward deliver her interesting lectures on Current Events, I wished to decline, but finally I yielded to the urgent pleadings of the president and others to start a class, and after one or two preliminary meetings the class launched its bark and sailed into comparatively unknown seas.

"No papers were to be required of members and I was secretly congratulating myself that that scare was over little thinking when I attended the last club meeting that a sword of Damocles was waiting to fall upon my head. Madame President, oh so sweetly! announced that she would expect a paper from me as leader of the Current Events class, and not only that, but suggested that it be written in a humorous vein.

"Is thy servant a feminine Mark Twain, or an Artemus Ward that she should do this thing? Then again what if I should prove to be like the eminent Dr. Holmes who once wrote a funny poem which caused a man to laugh and laugh till he burst five buttons off and tumbled in a fit.

"'Ten days and nights' says the poet, 'I watched that wretched man, and since I never dare to write as funny as I can.' But I have no anticipation of sitting by any of your bedsides for the same cause. I will give you just an idea of what we are doing in the class.

"The class having launched its bark with a crew of 12, since increased to 15 members, steered its course under command of Capt. Campbell to the frozen regions of the North Pole, to see if we could decide on the merits or demerits of the Cook-Pearry controversy. But we ran into—not an ice-floe—but such a flow and accumulation of statements, contradictions and recriminations that we were nearly swamped and as we could not settle the matter we are now seeking to decide the more momentous question as to who lost the pole? and will the discoverer present it to Mr. Taft for a golf stick?

"Then our prow, or whichever end of a ship goes ahead, was turned to the U. S. and, led by Capt. Josephs, we endeavored to inquire into the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy and settle that question, but Mr. Taft got ahead and decided for Mr. Ballinger. From this, through a Lane and by Knight we set sail for England and as we neared the coast we found ourselves in boisterous seas, indeed. Lords and Commons were having a terrible struggle and the Lords finally made Mother England herself umpire, so we left them for the time being, but we still hear a great wrestling going on across the seas and expect to hear still more by-and-by.

"Commanders Stanley and Rogers took us to Nicaragua, where we found a turmoil and fiendish behavior on the part of Zelaya, and our government standing ready to get in a knock-down blow. Later news says Zelaya has fled, or is about to do so. Skipper Beaton conducted us on a pleasant and interesting trip to Germany. Thence, a little Stone being our guide, we entered into an investigation of the Sugar Trust and we are still continuing the chase. Led by a Brownie we took a look at the Freight Strike and Capt. Johnson took us a short trip around Boston to see how the Mayoralty question was progressing.

"It is said that the garrison of the fort of Turin consisting of one man, spent his time in knitting, and like that well-manned garrison, while on these adventurous voyages, the crew of the Current Events class emulate the soldiers of Turin and also the members of the Arts and Crafts class in making embroidery and Irish lace and other work. It has even been suggested that the class mend the family hose for the hostess of the day; we offer it as an inducement for you to join our class. Should you receive any of the articles made in the class remember that besides the ordinary stitches there will be interwoven into them many thoughts noble and inspiring which will enhance the value of the gifts.

"The good ship Current Events urges you to join the crew where you will find officers and crew ready and willing to lend a helping hand at any time.

"You will not find us a very formidable body and there is no occasion for the fear that has been expressed by some who would have liked to join, that you will have to write a paper. Every subject is simply talked over as you would discuss any subject in your own families.

"Madame President, like the immortal Holmes, I have not tried to 'be as funny as I can.'"

Forestry—Some Very Good Suggestions for Manchester.

Mrs. Allen S. Peabody in her paper on Forestry made some worthy suggestions as to work which might be accomplished by the Manchester Woman's club. She traced briefly the history of the forestry movement in the United States. In 1891, Congress authorized the President to establish forest reserves, being urged to such action because the forests in the great mountain ranges of the west were being destroyed very rapidly by fire and reckless cutting.

"In Massachusetts we have a state forester and a well-organized forest department. In 1896 the legislature enacted a statute by which we get our present state and town forest warden system. The forest warden system is headed by the state forester. Each board of selectmen of the towns is required to appoint a forest warden, who, in turn, must be approved by the state forester. Each warden is therefore responsible to both state and town.

"The forest warden has the authority to appoint his own deputies and discharge them. He is clothed with sufficient power to represent the town's forest interests. It is the wish of the state forester that the selectmen appoint a public-spirited and broad-minded person for this office. This gives the state 350 forest wardens with their deputies.

"Massachusetts has recently passed a law exempting from taxation all plantation of young forest trees for a period of 10 years, after the trees have grown to an average height of two feet, and stand six feet apart.

"The state forester also gives free expert advice anywhere throughout the state; forest literature is also sent out in large quantities. So Mass. is well up in the line with those states that realize the importance of the forestry question.

"Now the question comes what can the Woman's club do in forestry? One has but to attend any gathering of representative women in convention to learn there is an overwhelming sentiment in favor of preserving forest and conserving natural resources. It is conceded that the almost universal sentiment in favor of preserving forests is due to the interest taken in the subject by the women's clubs and to the work done by them.

"The saving of the country's trees will be assured when the women earnestly devote themselves to that work. Far-reaching results may be accomplished by the women educating the men of their families and by impressing on their children the precepts of economy. The entire sentiment of the nation may be changed by the motherhood of the country in a single generation.

"The three chief attractions in Manchester are the ocean, its good roads, and its trees. Bordering on some of our roads woodland has been presented to the town to be maintained perpetually as near as possible in its present condition. We should take an interest in this. In many cities and towns the school children have been taught to plant trees, we should try to encourage this as many young seedlings can be had from the woods without cost. As Arbor Day is not celebrated by our schools the forestry committee suggests that each member find one tree for some child to plant, the tree to be labeled and a record kept of its location.

"Many of us look every day at trees planted many years ago by those who have passed from earth, and with loving gratitude we remember the planter, who has thus left a monument to us more touching than any which could be made of stone.

"As our woods are infested with the brown-tail and gypsy moth, we should do all in our power to encourage and help in the suppression of this pest. In many places the woods have been thinned that they may be sprayed, but it seems that much of this has been overdone.

"A severe thinning not only allows our best trees left to become damaged by wind and storms, but, the openings have a tendency to dry and parch the soil, thus hurting the trees."

"Develop the Public Play Grounds."

Mrs. Beaton's paper on "Civics" was substantially a report of a conference of the Civics committee of the State Federation held at Chelsea on Dec. 9, which conference she attended. She gave in brief a resume of the reports of the various departments and committees made at that time, among the subjects being stamp-saving, a noiseless Fourth movement, the international peace movement, medical inspection in schools, etc. In regard to the medical inspection in schools she said that much of laxity in regard to health laws was due to ignorance of teachers, and consequently they should have systematic instruction. The introduction of sanitary drinking cups was strongly advised. The benefits to be derived from having a resident district nurse were shown.

"Our club and town are unique in many ways, and it is difficult to apply many suggestions given at city clubs to our conditions. The plan of a Junior Civics League seemed workable to us. The motto is: 'If you would love your city, you should make your city lovely.' Some of the schemes for the developing of the playgrounds were also treated. Some of you may be familiar with the work accomplished in our neighboring city of Beverly. The playgrounds were filled up with the various out-of-door gymnasium appliances and an expert instructor was engaged to have entire supervision of the young people and to direct their sports. We have the playgrounds but we are behind the times in regard to apparatus and instruction.

"With proper appliances our grounds could become valuable out-of-door gymnasiums, doing for the children during the long summer vacation what their indoor winter classes could not accomplish. Then, above the health side and the pleasure side of this question is the moral side. We all know how greatly children are influenced by the people with whom they associate. Just as quickly as they learn badness on the street, just so quickly would they respond to goodness.

"Let our young people come into intimate relations during playhours with a clean, wholesome, attractive, manly young man, who was careful of his language and who taught ideas of fairness and squareness in their sports, who required courtesy at all times,—let our children come under such an influence and who can estimate the value upon their character now and in after life.

"There are many difficulties, I know, that would have to be overcome in developing this plan, but nothing is done without effort and I throw out this as a suggestion, hoping you will think of it seriously, agitate it, get public opinion in favor of it and finally accomplish it."

[Mrs. Raymond C. Allen's excellently prepared paper on "The Arts and Crafts Movement" is of such length that we are holding the article over to our next issue when it will be printed in full. —Ed.]

WHY COOK LEFT THE EARTH.

Oh what a mess our house is in,
Since we have lost our Cook;
He sent his trunk across the sea,
And gave us not a look.

We miss his viands sweet and cold,
Of blubber, shoes and dogs;
Now the only blubber we can get,
Is a Danish kind with sobs.

We eat his cubes and paid the price,
They tasted rather stale,
But Peary's breath was in the air,
So we laid it to the gale.

He sold the Pole and took the dough,
Got more'n the thing was worth,
We have his record now on file,
But he has left the Earth.

We wonder why he left the Earth,
Perhaps it was glued down,
As we're quite sure that if 'twas "Loose,"
The Earth could not be found.

Keith's Theatre.

One of the biggest holiday bills in the history of Keith's is in preparation for the week beginning Monday. It will contain a number of splendid features, especially suitable for the season. For this reason: "Kris Kringle's Dream" with the "Top o' th' World Dancers" and the famous Collie Ballet will be held over. This act made a tremendous hit this week at Keith's and is one of the most beautiful and liveliest that vaudeville has ever had.

Little Billy, who has also proved the sensation predicted and has simply captivated Boston with his quaint ways and splendid singing and dancing, will also be retained. A feature of more than ordinary interest will be Frank Fogarty, the famous Irish story teller. Mr. Fogarty has a brogue and a way of telling stories possessed by no other comedian now on the stage. Since he has been on the Keith circuit he has proved to be one of the biggest hits in recent years. It is not so much what he says, as the way he says it, while his stories are all new and full of point. Another special feature will be Binns, Binns and Binns, a company of musical comedians that know how to make people laugh. Others will be Alcide Capitaine, the beautiful lady gymnast; the 3 DuBoll Brothers, America's greatest dancers; and The Brunins, in the most remarkable exhibition of billiard playing that has ever been shown.

Turkeys! Turkeys! Turkeys!

We told you Thanksgiving we would save you the middle man's profit on your Turkeys. We did better. We saved you five to ten cents per pound. We bought heavy but had to disappoint lots of you.

Christmas we are going to use you as well or better than we did Thanksgiving. No Iced Turkeys,—all Fresh Killed, shipped to us direct from Vermont. If you give us your order early we will select one of the best for you.

Remember we are headquarters for BEEF, LAMB, PORK and POULTRY, also GROCERIES, VEGETABLES and FRUIT. Our teams are in Manchester, Magnolia and Essex, also Beverly, Salem and Peabody daily. Tel. us, we will use you right.

THE THISSELL CO., Beverly Farms

John Cannon has returned to his home in Jersey Heights, N. J., for the winter.

Edwin D. Hill, chauffeur for Allan Curtis, who recently lost his license because of an accident in which he figured on Haskell street, when the young Rourke had coasted down hill into the Curtis auto, has had the license restored after a hearing by the state highway commission.

A big lot of cigars in fancy boxes for Christmas, from 12 to 100 cigars in a box, all brands, at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, opposite the Postoffice, Beverly Farms. adv.

One of the most surprised persons at the gym. class Christmas tree Wednesday evening was Mrs. Alexander Carr. Mrs. Carr's package was larger than the others and when it was opened it proved to be a large picture of herself and daughter Doris, which had been displayed in the Mitchell studio at Beverly for some time as a sample of their work. Recently some friends of Mrs. Carr suggested the appropriateness of this as a gift and the suggestion was carried out when "Santa" handed the picture to Mrs. Carr Wednesday evening.

Illustrations of Mother Goose lullabies by some of the children of the Farms school on Thursday afternoon furnished an excellent entertainment, fully appreciated by those who witnessed it.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Gerry of Rockland, Me., returned to their home today after spending the last ten days visiting Farms friends.

Miss Lizzie McGloin and sister Mrs. Mary Dowd, who formerly lived at the Farms, until they purchased a home in Beverly center, have gone to New York City for the balance of the winter.

L. J. Watson, 2d, arrived home Tuesday from a three weeks' business trip spent principally in New York City and Philadelphia.

The masquerade party and Christmas tree of the women's and girls' gymnasium classes in Marshall's hall Wednesday evening proved a most delightful affair. The costumes were in some cases most fetching and the "hits" created much merriment. On the tree was a present for everyone.

John Creegan of Beverly Cove, formerly gardener at the Silsbee estate, is the new gardener for Mrs. Ada Howard, who recently bought the Smith estate at West Manchester.

John West colony was represented at the gathering of the Pilgrim Wanderers in Salem Wednesday evening. A Christmas tree was a pleasing feature of the meeting.

Fred Munn and family have moved into the upper apartment of the Haskell house, so-called, owned by J. J. Nugent, on Vine street.

Joseph Hessian, the popular chauffeur at the Spaulding estate at Pride's, is soon to leave the ranks of the bachelors. The lady is Miss Gertrude Smith of Waltham. They are planning a honeymoon trip to Cuba.

The day after election Councilman-elect F. L. Woodberry received from some unknown source a tall hat of the style of ye olden days. It is presumed he is expected to wear it on inauguration day. Mr. Woodberry is thankful there were no express charges to pay even if he is not duly appreciative of the gift.

During the week George Drinkwater and family have moved from Beverly and are now occupying the Shepherd house on upper Hart st., formerly owned by J. F. O'Dea.

Some sort of labor differences developed the latter part of last week between Supt. Cole and some of the employes at the Spaulding gardens on Greenwood ave., with the result that the foreman, Victor Allo, and some half a dozen other employes are now without positions. Mr. Allo attracted attention during the last few days by his "sandwich" method of advertising a concert and dance which he proposes to conduct in Neighbors' hall next Monday evening. He has two large placards and with one on each side of him he has paraded the streets.

At last the alleged playgrounds has been dammed and with the aid of Jack Frost the young people will be able to get some skating.

The Girls' club held a special meeting at the Baptist church chapel Tuesday evening when Mrs. Paul H. Drake of Beverly addressed them on "Manners."

A new track to facilitate the loading of carriages and automobiles, mostly, is to be built at the Farms to the west of the station and of West street, in the space between the main tracks and the Linehan property. The track is to be about 290 feet long. At the end will be a platform, with an easy grade runway. The rails and other material have already been placed on the grounds.

A. G. Campion has resigned his position at the H. C. Frick estate. He has been electrician there since the estate was built. He is to go into business for himself.

Brewer Hanson, who has been working for the Willey-Gibson Co., at the Farms, has been transferred to the Boston end of the business for the winter.

Des Hauses Zier ist Reinlichkeit,
Des Hauses Ehr ist Gastfreundlichkeit,
Des Hauses Segen ist Frommigkeit,
Des Hauses Glück ist Zufriedenkeit.

This maxim after the German style hangs in a room in Miss Clara Winthrop's little winter cottage at West Manchester, and though all who see it may not understand its meaning, they can heartily endorse its sentiment when told that in English it means:

The beauty of the house is cleanliness,
The honor of the house is hospitality,
The blessing of the house is piety,
The happiness of the house is contentment.

The young boys whom Miss Winthrop had down to her cottage last Friday, members of her Sunday school class of boys at St. Paul's in Boston, can appreciate the sentiment fully. Miss Winthrop had arranged the interior of the cottage with all that goes to make Christmas cheer. A large tree had been loaded with presents and Miss Mary Curtis had been asked to act as Santa. The boys were being entertained in the bowling alley at the large barn, when at a given signal they gave up their play and started for the cottage. At the same signal Santa had started from the hill above, with pack filled with presents, and as the young folk with Miss Winthrop left the bowling alley Santa could be seen wending his way down the slope through the trees. Overcome with surprise the boys soon collected themselves and went bounding like hares up the hill to meet Santa. Once all were inside the cottage the real fun started. The boys, who by the way are members of the vested choir at St. Paul's, sang from the balcony several Christmas selections for the amusement of Miss Winthrop and her few guests, and then Santa distributed the gifts. The gifts were in most cases useful, rather than ornamental. Miss Winthrop has been entertaining at her cottage more or less throughout the week.

Nelson S. Bartlett, who has remained at Manchester all the autumn, living at his sisters' house while improvements have been in progress on his own, left Tuesday for Boston, where he will remain for a while with his sisters, the Misses Bartlett. He will probably go to Lakewood later, and will return to Manchester in the early spring.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

There is more building operations and improvements on all along the North Shore this winter than at any time within the last eight or ten years. The splendid "open" winter up until the last week, without snow or extremely cold weather, has been a great help in carrying along the work and has been the means of keeping workmen and mechanics in all lines busily engaged all the fall.

Among the work in hand is Philip Dexter's large mansion at Manchester; the completion of the Devens cottage at Manchester; the construction of stable, garage and gardener's cottage, and land improvements at Beverly Farms for Sydney E. Hutchinson; an addition to the Mason cottage at Smith's Point, now owned by B. A. Beal; land improvements at W. A. Tucker's, Manchester; extensive land improvements, garden layout, etc., at H. C. Frick's, Pride's Crossing. And a few weeks ago work was started on the construction of a large summer mansion for Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent at Pride's Crossing.

One of the most important real estate transfers, as regards acreage, that has taken place on the North Shore for some time was put through this week, by which Louis A. Shaw, a Beverly Farms summer resident, obtains possession of three pieces of property, with a total of some forty acres of wood and tillage land, in that section of Beverly Farms, off the Wenham road, adjoining the estate of his brother, Quincy A. Shaw, 2d. The purchase includes:

The large estate of Ebenezer K. Morrill, consisting of farm house, barn and other buildings, together with about 22 acres of wood and tillage land.

The Addison Davis estate at Preston Place, consisting of house, barn and other buildings and about nine acres of wood and tillage land.

About eight acres of wood land from the heirs of the late Andrew Standley.

It is understood that the purchaser will change the whole property over into one large estate later on, upon which he will erect a mansion and other buildings for his own occupancy.

Miss Pauline Luke has been spending part of the last week at Beverly Farms visiting friends.

❖ Society Notes ❖

The delightful sleighing of the last few days has brought many parties down from Boston to the North Shore,—some to spend the day, others as house parties. A large crowd of boys and girls came down to Manchester Wednesday forenoon as guests of the Eliot young people; another party have been down to the W. L. Putmans; Miss Olivia Thorndike and Miss Kate Tweed also came out from Boston on the 10.45 train Wednesday; Dr. Washburn's sons have been down to their estate at Manchester part of the week, and there has been another small party at the George Wigglesworth estate. Mr. and Mrs. Wigglesworth and two daughters and Richard, went to the mountains. At West Manchester Mr. and Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and children have been spending the week.

Mrs. E. A. Boardman has been paying a short visit to her son, E. A. Boardman, and family, at Beverly Farms.

After a long illness with typhoid fever Thomas McKee is able to get out-of-doors again. He was stricken over two months ago and has since been confined to his Beverly Farms home.

Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge came down to his estate at Coolidge's Point today to spend New Year's. T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., and family have been spending the holidays at their estate, and a family gathering with Mr. Coolidge, sr., will mark the first day of the New Year tomorrow.

J. H. Storer and family, who have been at their country place in Waltham since leaving Manchester in the early autumn, are now settled at their Boston residence, 286 Beacon street, for the balance of the winter.

A number of invitations have been received by residents of the North Shore in Boston and elsewhere, from E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, for the large ball which he is giving in honor of his debutante granddaughter, Miss Cintra Hutchinson, for whom so many pleasant things are being done. The date is Friday, January 14. The Hutchinsons have a beautiful estate at Beverly Farms.

Society Notes

The following Pittsburg matrons, of the North Shore colony, will serve as patronesses for the Pittsburg charity ball held in that city next Monday evening, Jan. 3: Mrs. Harvey Childs, jr., Mrs. John R. McGinley, Mrs. H. M. Curry, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, jr., sister-in-law of President Taft, and the Misses Mellen.

Miss Helen C. Frick gave a luncheon for Mrs. George Westinghouse, jr., at the Pittsburg Golf club Monday evening of this week. The Fricks entertained the Westinghouse family at Pride's during the past season.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. McGinley gave a dance at the Pittsburg club, Tuesday evening of this week, in honor of Miss Marion McGinley.

Miss Martha Childs of Pittsburg was hostess of a luncheon on Wednesday in honor of Miss Helen C. Frick who is on to Pittsburg from New York for the holidays.

The death of "Mark Twain's" daughter, Miss Jean Clemens, has more than a passing interest for the North Shore contingent, since she was a summer resident on the shore during the season of 1908, making one of a party of ladies, who secured the Garland cottage at Eastern Point, East Gloucester, near "The Ramparts," the former H. C. Rouse mansion, and with the following party of ladies spent the season there: Mrs. Kaehaus, wife of the noted New York sculptor; Mildred and Edith Cowles of the Tiffany studios and Mlle. Schmidt, all of New York. Miss Clemens drove a great deal and was a familiar figure on the East Gloucester and North Shore drives and was always accompanied by a groom. She was always quietly and simply gowned and had a scholarly mien. Her distinguished father visited her during the season she was at Eastern Point.

W. Gould Brokaw, the New York millionaire, whose matrimonial troubles are being aired in the New York courts, was a visitor to Magnolia a few seasons ago.

"Town and Country" finds the unique summer home of Henry Davis Sleeper at Eastern Point, East Gloucester, worthy of special notice since Mr. Sleeper, who has become a citizen of Gloucester, has practically put all the historical treasures of the Cogswell and Choate mansions of Essex, Mass., within its walls. Since "Little Beauport," as the cottage is called, frequently opens its hospitable doors to Mrs. Jack Gardner, art connoisseur and society leader of Boston, one will readily see that a unique artistic atmosphere must induce Mrs. Gardner to frequent its environment and that she has a deep admiration for the artistic taste of the young host.

BLIZZARD DOES MUCH DAMAGE.

First Storm of the Winter Bounds in Like a Lion; Highest Tide since 1851.

The big snow blizzard which swept over New England last Saturday night and all day Sunday, doing so much damage, did not let the North Shore go untouched; the storm hit us with all its fury. Not since the great storm of 1898, when the Portland went down, has a storm of such violence fell upon us.

The full moon, aided by the strong wind, brought the highest tides of years. Not since 1851, it is said, had there been such a high tide. The newspapers spoke of it as a tidal wave. This would give a wrong impression, as there was no wave; it was simply an extremely high tide.

In some places this tide wrought heavy damage,—Chelsea for example. At some places along the North Shore much damage was caused by it; but on a whole the effect of the high water was nothing more than a temporary inconvenience. The beaches, especially, suffered. At Magnolia, for instance, the large bath-house owned by the hotels, was almost toppled over and the bulkhead along the beach was destroyed.

The bath-houses along Singing Beach at Manchester were not seriously damaged, though some of them were undermined. At West Manchester the large pier at the Miss Helen Hooper estate was broken and partly washed away. Other piers, floats, etc., were damaged.

The water was sufficiently high to rise over the road at West Manchester station and almost lap the station platform steps. It flowed over the Lester Leland gardens, put out the fire in the greenhouse and as a consequence many valuable plants were destroyed. It put out the fires in the Hooper greenhouse, too, and a great loss of valuable plants and bulbs was suffered here.

It rose far over Knight's coal wharf in the center of the town; passed in through a waste pipe to the basement of the Town hall, and almost put the fire in the large boilers out. It rose eighteen inches at the railroad station and very nearly put out the fire in the furnace there.

But the greatest damage was done by the fury of the wind and the driving snow. The snow was wet at first, but as the storm grew the snow became lighter. Wires broke under the weight of the ice and snow and as a consequence, telephone, telegraph, electric light (in places outside of Manchester), police, fire alarm, etc., were entirely out of commission, and even now only in a few cases have these been repaired.

Trains were blocked and were unable to run on anything near schedule. The six o'clock train from Boston Sunday did not arrive at Manchester until after two o'clock Monday morning.

Seldom, if ever, have the trees, laden with snow and with branches bent over to the ground, looked prettier. Scores and scores of valuable trees and much shrubbery were entirely destroyed by the storm. The whole North Shore has been a veritable white forest, and the buildings have been veritable ice palaces. The sides and roofs of the buildings are even now coated with snow and ice, and the trees have not yet (Friday) lost their mantle of snow.

Christmas Day was one of the fairest days of the winter. It was crisp, but not too cold. There was hardly a cloud in the sky. In the early evening, however, the snow began to fall lightly at first, but it steadily grew in force until midnight when it had assumed the force of a blizzard.

Bright and early Monday morning Supt. of Streets Crombie of Manchester had out a force of men and teams clearing away the snow. One hundred men were put to work that morning and these have been lessened each day until this morning only a score were put to work. One has only to go out of town to realize the excellent service Manchester has had in having the streets and sidewalks cleared of snow. By Monday night nearly every street in town had been gone over in one way or another and Tuesday the outlying streets and sidewalks were reached. The streets are probably in better condition than in a majority of the cities.

The Arts and Crafts Movement

BY CAROLYN E. ALLEN

(Paper read before the Manchester Woman's Club, Dec. 21, 1909.)

Historical Setting.

As remotely in history as we have any traces either mythical or authentic, men and women have shaped with their hands the things they wanted. At first they made utensils for use in the home and at work, and implements of warfare. Gradually, as the immediate wants were satisfied, they began to make things of beauty as well as use, and decorated the utensils and implements, and today in our museums we marvel at the beauty they wrought.

In medieval times this handwork was brought to what I think we may call its height. The crafts were very carefully taught and their secrets guarded. An apprentice was bound to his master for a period of seven years, usually, and was required to perfect himself in his craft. After his term of apprenticeship had been served, he was a craftsman and released from his bondage. But he must yet work years more before he could hope to be a master at the craft and able to teach apprentices. Each craft had its guild and this was a secret society of workers who guarded the secrets of their craft very jealously, and punished, sometimes with death, any member who dared reveal one of those secrets. We see in the skilled workers who in our own day come from the old world, the result of this system of training, as in many of its essentials it is the same now as in medieval times. The workman knows his craft, and does not have to guess at things.

In our own country, in the days of our grandfathers, men learned their trade in much the same way and first served a long apprenticeship before they were deemed competent workers.

Our own cabinet shops here in Manchester serve as a fine example. In the height of their prosperity they employed many skilled workers who gained their skill by years of work under a master. The work they sent out was work to be proud of, and not so much machine made furniture to sell as cheaply as possible. The grandmothers had their share in hand work also. The wool and flax must be spun and woven at home, and then the garments made from the fabric they had produced. When time would permit the needle beautified garments and hangings with embroidery. If thread or fabric of other than the natural color was desired, the women had to get roots and dye-stuffs from the ground and learn the secrets of dyeing with these materials. They produced some beautiful soft tones which in many cases have stood the wear and tear of years of service. The light to sew by at night must be made at home and this meant treating the fats and then either moulding or dipping a season's candles. And into all these intimate things of the home and the woman's making, there needs must enter the woman's skill, good taste and individuality.

Decadance.

But with the invention of labor saving machinery and factories, these industries were lost from the home and they and the crafts suffered at the hands of unskilled workers, who simply ran a machine and used only sufficient brains to do that, without thought for the product. Of course none of us would care to go back to the time when we should have to make everything we owned with our own hands, but I think we all can see how making a thing on a machine, by the hundreds and thousands, and not knowing or caring where any of them were to go, must of necessity take from the joy of the work and thus from its value as a piece of craftsmanship. In England, especially, the craftsman and his work were gradually pushed aside and the people bought for use the thing which could be purchased most cheaply.

Renaissance.

To such a degree had art as applied to the everyday, useful things, become degraded during the period of the 1860's and 70's, that a group of English craftsmen, together with men who desired that true beauty and good workmanship should once more be joined, gathered about William Morris in England and worked toward such an end. And about thirty years ago they held an exhibition which included work in wood, leather, glass, metal and any material adapted to artistic expression, as well as what had before been termed art products, such as paintings, sketches and the like.

To emphasize the thought they were trying to advance, they coined the phrase "Arts and Crafts," as a name for the exhibit. "The term stood for a protest against the accepted limitation of the word art; against the tawdryness, sham and ugliness of the industrial product of the day, and against the conditions which those products represented." These men felt that art must come into the homes and be felt there as well as in the art galleries. Wm. Morris, himself, was both designer and craftsman and his influence was great for that union of design and workmanship which finally resulted in the Arts and Crafts movement. Morris said that "real art is man's expression of pleasure in labor. Art applied to the crafts; thought and design expressed in good hand work are the elementary principles underlying the whole movement. The spirit of the movement spread to America and grew there, and on the death of Morris about twenty years ago, when everyone was hearing of his life and work, received fresh impetus. From then on it has developed rapidly, till at present we have many evidences of it all over the country.

Present Status and Types.

Perhaps one of the most interesting forms of the movement to the casual observer, is that represented by the Village Industries. The best known of these is beyond all doubt, Old Deerfield. Lying between the Connecticut and the Deerfield rivers, it was, in colonial times, the scene of wild battles and massacres. But in spite of the hardships and terrors, the village women of those olden days did exquisite work with their needles, embroidered counterpanes and hangings, wove rugs and baskets for the beautifying of their homes.

In 1896 two ladies, Miss Whiting and Miss Miller, hunted up these old embroideries and copying the quaint old figures, made new designs and worked them out in the old time colors,—blue thread on white linen. Soon a group of needlewomen gathered about them, and the Blue and White Needlework Society was established. One woman undertook the dyeing of the linen thread. For this only the best Bengal indigo was used and the secrets of the grandmothers hunted up and the "blue pot" started. This is said to be a very careful process and the "yeast" as they call it, used to be passed along from one to the other. The two promoters designed, hunting out all the old figures, and the needlewomen wrought in the old stitches. This society flourished and furnished impetus for other groups to start. One group makes baskets of the palm leaf and corn husks, such as some of them made when they were young girls. Another group weaves baskets of reed and raffia, while still another group weaves the rag rugs in the old fashioned hand looms. All the materials are dyed by the same woman, and very soft, beautiful colors are produced, which are very durable.

It seems odd to the stranger to go into Memorial Hall, where their old time relics are on exhibition, and see one of the women caretakers setting in a rocking chair, sewing and winding balls of rags for the weavers to make into rugs. Art is certainly applied to all the work here, and only articles of true worth and beauty are made. All the groups are allied and each summer hold an exhibit of their work, and strangers from all over the country go to Deerfield to see, admire and purchase. The men, too, are interested and three worked together a few years ago to reproduce an old bridal chest.

Across the Connecticut lies Montague and there is another group of women reviving the old time industries. Their work is very nearly identical with that of Deerfield and both societies send their articles to cities far and near to be sold, and have great demand for them. Still another town to join in this work is Greenfield, and the three villages lying close by each other as they do, form one of the most interesting groups to craftsmen all over the country. The Montague society was the outgrowth of an effort to form a community along socialist lines. The community as such was a failure, but the various interests which emanated from it, have lived and are doing good. One in special, which is just now being promoted, is the Dyke Mill. An old saw mill has been taken and remodelled as a printing shop, cabinet shop, dye house and rug room. Here the men who are responsible for its purpose to make good furniture, similar to that made here in the Dodge mill, to do exceptionally good printing, and to dye linens, raffia and other material for sale. Also to weave good artistic rugs, having the material dyed and woven to suit the purchaser. This interest is backed by several prominent craftsmen and it would seem now at its inception to give promise of good work. Here also the fragrant bayberry candles are made and sent all over the country.

I have recently been in Montague and seen the work of the women there and also visited the Dyke mill. The village industries give occupation which is useful, interesting and remunerative to many women who otherwise would have little money for spending and much spare time to waste.

The work of the Roycrofters under Elbert Hubbard's leadership, shows excellent specimens of the art of bookbinding, also fine printing and illuminating.

The Boston society of Arts and Crafts was "incorporated in 1897 for the purpose of promoting artistic work in all branches of handicraft.—To bring designers and workers into mutually helpful relations.—To stimulate an appreciation of the value and dignity of good designs.—To counteract the desire for over-ornamentation and specious design.—To insist upon the necessity of sobriety and restraint, of ordered arrangement and of due regard for the relation between the form of an object and its use, and of harmony and fitness in the decoration put upon it." These are its avowed purposes and one going into the shop on Park street and seeing the beautiful objects on exhibition there and for sale, cannot but feel that some if not all of those purposes, are being accomplished. The following principles are held by the society:

Principles of Handicraft.

1. Motives.—The motives of the true Craftsman are the love of good and beautiful work as applied to useful service and the need of making an adequate livelihood. In no case can it be primarily the love of gain.

2. Conditions.—The conditions of true Handicraft are natural aptitude, thorough technical training, and a just appreciation of standards. The unit of labor should be an intelligent man, whose ability is used as a whole, and not subdivided for commercial purposes. He should exercise the faculty of design in connection with manual work, and manual work should be part of his training in design.

3. Artistic Co-operation.—When the designer and the workman are not united in the same person, they should work together, each teaching the other his own special knowledge, so that the faculties of the designer and the workman may tend to become united in each.

4. Social Co-operation.—Modern Craftmanship requires that the idea of patronage be superseded by that of reciprocal service and co-operation.

5. Results.—The results aimed at are the training of true craftsmen, the developing of individual character in connection with artistic work, and the raising of standards of beauty in objects of use.

Looking through the report for the year, one finds that its members are from all over the United States and several foreign countries, and represent forty-three crafts. This society is made up of masters, craftsmen and associate members, and is well supported by those people of means who wish to see and buy beautiful things, who also are glad in the knowledge that hand and brain were co-workers in the making of the beauty, and not separated as in factory work.

Within the last twenty years, and more especially in the last decade, there has been a renaissance of very many of the old time crafts.

The ceramic art has had a notable revival, and potteries have started in many places. About Cincinnati are some fine ones, perhaps the best known being the Rookwood pottery. The Hampshire pottery at Keene, N. H., produces some very beautiful articles, which combine usefulness with beauty of shape, coloring and decoration. Near at hand are the Greubey pottery at South Boston and the Marblehead pottery. Each of these potteries aim to produce beautiful things along craftsman lines.

Wood carving and cabinet making have been taken up by many, both men and women, and are being taught in most good manual training schools. Many artistic picture frames are now to be found. One artist and craftsman makes very beautiful ones, finding in this craft an expression of his art that is at once satisfactory and remunerative.

The ancient arts of bookbinding and illuminating the printed page are claiming the attention of many, and very beautiful are some of the results done in leather hand tooled and gilded, with pages brilliant in illuminated titles, initials, head and tail pieces and so forth.

We have borrowed from the Indians the art of basketry which is most fascinating, and can be done easily by women in the home. The work in raffia, reeds, palm leaf and even corn husks, find many workers who create beautiful and useful baskets.

Jewelry and enamel work and work with silver and gold are being revived and old designs and shapes being sought out, as well as new designs made.

In the arts and crafts shop in Boston, one finds a splendid display of such things. Old time porringers, spoons, ladles, trays and the like are being reproduced in silver; new and odd designs are worked out in the same metal and the semi-precious stones while the work of enamel on metal produces marvelously beautiful effects.

Glass work is being revived also. One man designs all his pieces and then sees that those designs are reproduced by the blowers, to give the idea he had in mind—thus bringing designer and worker in close touch and fulfilling one of the fundamental principles of handicraft. Much work is also being done in leaded and stained glass.

Leather as a medium for artistic expression lends itself very nicely. Hand tooling and illuminating have a large following, both among the skilled craftsmen and among amateurs as well.

Brass, too, is being used to produce useful things and its decoration is done by piercing, hammering and etching. Here also the amateur can make for himself many things as well as a skilled workman.

Stencelling is a craft that has perhaps had the most widespread revival on account of its ease and adaptability.

The Japanese have used this art for centuries and it is found in its perfection there. Everything from the common hand towel to the most elaborate gown or drapery is stencelled.

England has used it for many years but only within a very few years has it been used to any extent in this country.

A most interesting craft has been started in Boston, that of lace making. One woman has spent much time and study on the old laces in the museums and learned from an Italian woman in the North End how to make the coarsest pillow lace. From this humble beginning she has studied out the way of making the most exquisite laces and has taught a class of girls under the auspices of the Boston Society of Arts and Crafts and is prepared to mend rare old laces as well as make new.

The whole movement has a great influence over manufacturers as is seen by the various textiles, furniture and decorative articles for sale now. Look through the advertising pages of any of the best known magazines and see how many of the advertisements have the names, "Arts and Crafts," "Handicraft," "Craftsman," and the like attached.

This is one of the signs that the manufacturers have noted the desire for Arts and Crafts articles and are promptly responding. Some of these are really good—some merely seem good at first glance.

The craze for mission house furniture and textiles is still another sign of the influence. In the rebound from the fussy over-decoration of twenty years ago people have in some instances swung too far and clumsiness and weight serve to label anything "Mission" or "Craftsman."

Even the advertisements themselves have caught the spirit and are in themselves quite artistic.

Educators have realized that the boys and girls needed training with the hand as well as the brain, and that the two should work together.

As a result manual training schools and departments have been established in connection with every up-to-date and thoughtful school system. Our own town schools give a splendid example of what is being done in such lines. Sewing and cutting of garments as well as drawing and design for the girls; work in wood, brass and leather for the boys.

Articles are made with thought for both use and beauty and the designer and workman are in most cases combined in the same boy. What is being done here is done in thousands of schools all over the land to a greater or lesser degree.

The factories give boys and girls no chance to learn design or workmanship. So the great need is for schools which shall teach a trade from start to finish; in other words, make Craftsmen. Massachusetts has such a school in the Lowell Textile school. There boys are taught the treating of the raw material, dyeing and its chemistry, weaving and the designing of the fabrics, the machinery and the production of the finished fabric. A department of design has recently been established for girls, which should prove useful in training for craftsmanship.

Many of these hand-crafts are taught to the blind in the state institute, and thus those who would otherwise be dependent are given a means of expression of their art and a chance to earn a livelihood.

Handicraft studios have sprung up mushroom like all over the country, and in each one, some one is trying to do something well, and in all, beautiful things are for sale.

The movement has had a great influence in the homes, and more beautiful things, and fewer ugly ones are found in the majority of homes. Articles are chosen for their true worth and use, rather than because they are gaudy or "the thing."

Whether the movement is to be permanent and prove a success, depends to a great extent upon the purchasing public. If we buy with discrimination and refuse the tawdry, cheap, imitation trash that is put out by manufacturers as "Arts and Crafts Goods"—then those true craftsmen who must live by their craft will be encouraged to go on to better work, and we shall have the Arts and Crafts with us permanently and not just as a fad.

Thomas Carlyle says of buying: "No good man did, or ever should encourage cheapness at the ruinous expense of unfitness, which is always infidelity, and is dishonorable to a man. If I want an article, let it be genuine, at whatever price; if the price is too high for me, I will go without it, unequipped with it for the present—I shall not have equipped myself with hypocrisy, at any rate. This, if you will reflect, is primarily the rule of all purchasing and all producing men. They are not permitted to encourage, patronize, or in any form, countenance the working, weaving or acting of hypocrisy in this world."

We have noted how craftsmanship rose and attained its glory in medieval times—then its slow decadence and later its supercession by the factories. Today in the midst of the rebirth and looking forward to years of prosperity for good craftsmen and the love of honest well made things, let us listen to Lowell's thought on honest work.

"I'm older'n you, an' I've seen things an' men,

An' my experience,—tell ye what it's ben;
Folks thet worked thorough was the ones thet thriv',

But bad work follers ye, es long's ye live;
Ye can't git red on 't; jest ez sure ez sin,
It's allers askin' to be done again."

A Happy New Year!

THE BREEZE had 53 issues in the year just closing,—there were 53 Fridays in 1909.

CONSTANTINOPLE, with about 1,000,000 inhabitants, has no electric light, no trolley, no telephone system, poor water works and an inadequate ice plant.

OUR neighboring town of Essex at a special town meet this week decided to introduce electricity for lighting the town's streets. A contract has been signed for a seven years' term with the Gloucester Electric Light company, for 104 incandescent lights and one arc light, at a cost of $1600 per year.

PROSPERITY! United States Census Director Durand is considerably perturbed over the prospective shortage of census enumerators. The difficulty is in the west and south, and especially in the cities. Director Durand explains the lack of applicants for census jobs only on the theory that there is so much general prosperity in the country that the government jobs are not wanted. The time for applications for these jobs ends on Jan. 25, and Mr. Durand invites public-spirited and patriotic people to join in the census work, even if the pay proves no inducement. Applicants are required to pass test, but only a common school education is needed to qualify. There are 68,000 enumerators' places to be filled.

WE call the attention of our readers to a departure which we are making this week in publishing the first installment of a continued story. We have never tried this. We have made arrangements with the American Press Association to supply us with "The Guest of Quesnay," one of the latest stories from the pen of the gifted author, Booth Tarkington. Mr. Tarkington wrote such works as "The Man from Home," "The Conquest of Canaan," "The Gentleman from Indiana," "The Two Van Revels," and "Monsieur Beaucaire,"—works which have been published in book form, as will also this newest work. It is a story of 14 chapters, the first chapter of which we print this week. If the departure meets with favor on the part of our readers we will probably follow this work with another.

As vehemently as we upbraided the Manchester Electric Co. a few weeks ago for the poor service received Thanksgiving week, we now wish to praise it for its part in maintaining good service during the troubles of the last week. Though Sunday's storm put the electric power in most of the cities and towns along the coast, and inwardly, too, out of commission, Manchester people were able to use their lights through it all, with the exception of a short space of time on Sunday. Beverly, whence our power comes, was in darkness. No "blow-outs" were caused here this time by high tides. But it was largely to the hard work and indefatigable efforts of Manager Cushing that this was so. He is working under a great disadvantage. He has to run the whole system alone.

Whatever good we can say of the company and the system, however, we must still reprove it for trying to serve Manchester and its citizens with insufficient help. A manager ought not to be expected to run the whole plant night and day.

THE purchase of a combination hose and chemical wagon for the Manchester fire department, as agitated in the Breeze last summer after the department had been given two or three long runs to fires in distant parts of the town, is being talked up for the forth-coming March meeting.

The following clipping was sent in a few days ago by one of our summer residents, who is evidently interested in the efficiency of Manchester's fire department, as he writes over the clipping "this is what Manchester needs."

"In order to be thoroughly up to date the town of Brookline has just purchased a combination hose and chemical wagon of the new type manufactured by the Knox Automobile Company of Springfield. The new machine will be a valuable addition to the equipment of the town, which has always had an enviable reputation for all-round efficiency. In responding to alarms the new machine will be able to cover a great deal of territory.

"The gasoline machine will be located at station A in Village square, and from this central point the new piece of apparatus will be a great help in protecting property. It will carry an emergency crew of picked firemen, who will be selected by Chief George Johnson. The machine will be equipped with 800 feet of hose and as Brookline has a high pressure water service the new machine is expected to render prompt and efficient services."

And we might add that what Brookline does along this line is a good example for Manchester, or any other place that can afford it. Brookline is very conservative in its expenditures and before doing anything the town generally knows well what sort of a move it is making.

THE higher rate of living is a subject of universal discussion. Editorials are written about it, housewives discuss it, the head of the house pays the bills with a bitter realization that he is being robbed.

The Secretary of Agriculture at Washington has investigated the high price of meats and has made some discoveries. Among them is that the wholesale price of beef and that paid by the last purchaser shows a difference of thirty-eight per cent. He claims, however, that this great difference does not indicate great profit for the retailers for a large portion is attributed to the expense attached to the special delivery of the product. The Secretary says that the retail business is overdone, that the multiplication of small shops is a burden to consumers and no source of riches to the small shop keepers. When twenty or more small shops divide the retail business within an area that could be served by one large shop the expense of the many shops for labor, delivery, horses, rent and other things that are in excess of what would be sufficient for the one shop must go to increase the retail prices of the meat sold. In other words the Secretary of Agriculture would recommend the suppression of nineteen-twentieths of the small butcher shops, but how is he going to do it?

Is the North Shore overcrowded with butcher shops? In Manchester, with a population in summer of more than 4000 people, there are three shops. In Beverly Farms, and adjacent territory, with a population in summer of 3000 or less, there are five shops.

Mrs. Otis Lane.

After a lingering illness Mrs. Otis Lane passed away last Sunday at her home on Vine street, Manchester, at the age of 57 years, 19 days.

Mrs. Lane was born Dec. 7, 1852, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Butterfield, but she was later adopted by Mr. and Mrs. William Hodgdon of Fall River. She lived for a greater part of her life in Lanesville. Of late years she has been failing in health, but only for the last six weeks has she been seriously ill. She died on Dec. 26th, from Bright's disease.

Funeral services were held Wednesday and burial was at Lanesville. Rev. T. L. Frost officiated.

Besides a husband she is survived by five children,—two daughters, Mrs. Mattie Coombs, Miss Bertha B. Lane, and three sons, Henry L., Ralph H. and Dana B. Lane.

ARMY OF PARASITES.

Woods Will be Full of Them Next Summer.
Forestry Department will Liberate 40 or 50 Kinds.

The woods will be full of gypsy and brown-tail moth parasites next summer, for the moth division of the state forestry department already has on hand at the experiment laboratory in Saugus between 40 and 50 different kinds of them to be released during the heydays of the pests.

The forestry department believes that it has solved the problem of destruction by parasite, and that from next summer the work of the moths' natural enemies will do what men have been unable to accomplish in the work of extermination. Forester Frank W. Rane does not expect the moths ever to be completely destroyed, but he does believe they will be reduced to a point where their damage is minimum.

W. F. Fiske, who has charge of the laboratory at Saugus, says that of the twoscore or more of parasites to be released next summer, 10 show no preference between the gypsy or the brown-tail, devouring both with evident enjoyment. The remainder are exclusive in their tastes.

It has been discovered that the cycle of the parasite's activity, with one or two exceptions, is about 10 days. Each has his specialty during that time. One may attack the eggs, another the caterpillar and a third the moth itself, but no one has yet been found that is available for a general campaign.

One of the most ferocious of the parasites now on hand is the large predaceous beetle, which attacks the gypsy moth caterpillar, tearing it to pieces. Its ability to kill is measured only by the time at its disposal, and it is a particularly desirable parasite for a number of different reasons, not the least of which is that the female raises a family of 500 children in a season. Another desirable feature of the predaceous beetle is the fact that it lives to be 3 years old.

There is also the monodontonerus, a parasite so small that individuals can hardly be seen by the naked eye. This little fellow is voracious out of all proportion to his size, however, and his particular fodder is the pupa of the gypsy moth.

The managers of the Saugus laboratory imported the monodontonerus from Europe in 1906, and the first consignment was liberated in the same year.

Very soon the colony was lost, and not a trace of it was seen for three years. Last summer it was located, and the entomologists discovered that it had spread and had covered an area of 500 square miles, over all which it was doing excellent work for the forestry department.

Another of the gypsy moth parasites is the schedius, an immigrant from Japan which has a scheme of its own for working destruction. The larva hatches and feeds, developing the pupa stage before leaving the gypsy moth egg. There will be liberated from the Saugus laboratories some 2,000,000 of them.

THE OF By Booth

"The Guest of Quesnay" tells the story of a pure woman's love and sacrifice for a debased, misled, pleasure loving man; it tells in captivating vein of picturesque Paris, too—of the cosmopolitan life of the famous capital. Its character sketches of continental society as well as peasantry are unmistakable in their picturing, and its romance, its mystery and its refreshing comedy give the same qualities to the novel that placed the author's "Monsieur Beaucaire" among the masterpieces of contemporary fiction.

CHAPTER I.

THERE are old Parisians who will tell you pompously that the boulevards, like the political cafes, have ceased to exist, but this means only that the boulevards no longer gossip of Louis Napoleon, the return of the Bourbons or of General Boulanger, for these highways are always too busily stirring with present movements not to be forgetful of their yesterdays. In the shade of the buildings and awnings the loungers, the lookers-on in Paris, the audience of the boulevard, sit at little tables, sipping coffee from long glasses, drinking absinth or bright colored sirups and gazing over the heads of throngs afoot at others borne along through the sunshine of the street in carriages, in cabs, in glittering automobiles or high on the tops of omnibuses.

From all the continents the multitudes come to join in that procession—Americans tagged with race cards and intending hilarious disturbances, puzzled Americans worn with guidebook plodding, Chinese princes in silk, queer Antillean dandies of swarthy origin and fortune, ruddy English thinking of nothing, pallid English with upper teeth bared and eyes hungrily searching for signboards of tea rooms, over-Europeanized Japanese unpleasantly immaculate, burnosed sheiks from the desert and red fezged Semitic peddlers, Italian nobles in English tweeds, Sudanese negroes swaggering in frock coats, slim Spaniards, squat Turks, travelers, idlers, exiles, fugitives, sportsmen. All the tribes and kinds of men are tributary here to the Parisian stream, which on a fair day in spring already overflows the banks with its own much mingled waters—soberly clad burgesses, bearded, amiable and in no fatal hurry; well kept men of the world swirling by in miraculous limousines, legless cripples flopping on hands and leather pads, thin whiskered students in velveteen, walrus mustached veterans in broadcloths, keen faced old prelates, shabby young priests, cavalrymen in casque and cuirass, workingmen turned horse and harness to carts, sidewalk jesters, itinerant vendors of questionable wares, shady loafers dressed to resemble gold show-ering America, motor cyclists in leather, hairy musicians, blue gendarmes, baggy red zouaves, purple faced, glazed hatted, scarlet waistcoated, cigarette smoking cabmen, calling one another "onions," "camels" and names even more terrible. Women are prevalent over all the concourse—fair women, dark women, pretty women, gilded women, haughty women, indifferent women, friendly women, merry women, fine women in fine clothes, rich women in fine clothes, poor women in fine clothes, worldly old women reclining befurred in electric landaulets, wordy old women hoidenishly trundling carts full of flowers, wonderful automobile women, quick glimpsed, in multiple veils of white and brown and sea green; women in rags and tags and women draped, coifed and befrilled in the delirium of maddened poet-milliners and the hasheesh dreams of ladies' tailors.

So if you sit at the little tables often enough—that is, if you become an amateur boulevardier—you begin to recognize the transient stars of the pagant, those to whom the boulevard allows a dubious and fugitive role of celebrity and whom it greets with a slight flutter, the turning of heads, a murmur of comment and the incredulous boulevard smile, which seems to say: "You see—madame and monsieur passing there. Evidently they think we still believe in them."

This flutter heralded and followed the passing of a white touring car with the procession one afternoon just before the Grand Prix, though it needed no boulevard celebrity to make the man who lolled in the tonneau conspicuous. Simply for that, notoriety was superfluous; so were the remarkable size and power of his car; so was the elaborate touring costume of flannels and pongee he wore; so was even the enameled presence of the dancer who sat beside him. His face would have done it without accessories.

My old friend George Ward and I had met for our aperitif at the Terrace Larue, by the Madeleine, when the white automobile came snaking its way craftily through the traffic. Turning in to pass a victoria on the wrong side, it was forced down to a snail's pace near the curb and not far from our table, where it paused, checked by a blockade at the next corner. I heard Ward utter a half suppressed guttural of what I took to be amazement, and I did not wonder.

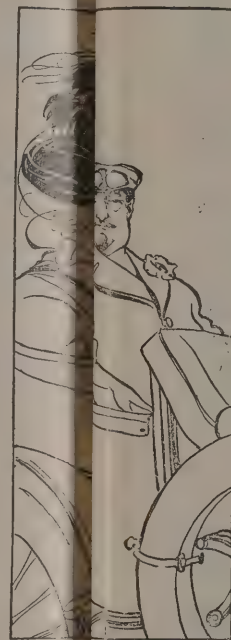

The face of the man in the tonneau detached him to the spectator's gaze and singled him out of the concourse with an effect almost ludicrous in its incongruity. The hair was dark, lustrous and thick, the forehead broad and finely modeled and certain other ruinous vestiges of youth and good looks remained, but whatever the features might once have shown of honor, worth or kindly semblance had disappeared beyond all tracing in a blurred distortion. The lids of one eye were discolored and swollen almost together. Other traces of a recent battering were not lacking, nor was cosmetic evidence of a heroic struggle on the part of some valet of infinite pains to efface them. The nose lost outline in the discolorations of the puffed cheeks. The chin, tufted with a small imperial, trembled beneath a sagging gray lip.

The figure was fat, but loose and sprawling, seemingly without the will to hold itself together. In truth, the man appeared to be almost in a semistupor, and, contrasted with this powdered Silenus, even the woman beside him gained something of human dignity. At least, she was thoroughly alive, bold, predatory and, in spite of the gross embonpoint that threatened her, still savagely graceful. A purple veil dotted with gold floated about her hat, from which green dyed ostrich plumes cascaded down across a cheek enameled dead white. Her hair was plastered in blue-black waves, parted low on the forehead. Her lips were splashed a startling carmine, the eyelids painted blue, and from between lashes little spikes of blackness. Her companion with a less vividly suggested suggestion of a look when nearer the kitchen.

"Who," staring at the man and not turning toward ing me. She's done worse than all the anarchy. She danced at the Polka."

"Thank I said gratefully, 'point out the Louvre tower to me some day Mariana.'"

"What?"

What was so obvious that I found in surprise. "I mean her," I said.

"Oh," sourly. "That carriage."

"You acquaintance?"

"Every boulevard knows who he is," I said, and with very little mirth. "He continued."

"and acquaintance with him—yes, I distinguish of being his way, a way so small, I added in his becoming mine by marriage. Harman."

That somewhat familiar to read newspapers even he was fairly out of collection regenerated into brawl and debauch. What had been scrapes for the boy became scandals for the man, and he gathered a more and more unsavory reputation until its like was not to be found outside a penitentiary. The crux of his career in his own country was reached during a midnight quarrel in Chicago, when he shot a negro gambler. Harman's wife left him, and the papers recorded her application for a divorce. She was George Ward's second cousin, the daughter of a Baltimore clergyman; a belle in a season and town of belles and a delightful headstrong creature from all accounts. She had made a runaway match of it with Harman three years before, their affair having been earnestly opposed by all her relatives, especially by poor George, who came over to Paris just after the wedding in a miserable frame of mind.

Harman next began a trip round the world with an orgy which continued from San Francisco to Bangkok, where, in the company of some congenial fellow travelers, he interfered in a native ceremonial with the result that one of his companions was drowned. In Rome he was rescued with difficulty from a street mob that unreasonably refused to accept intoxication as an excuse for his riding down a child on his way to the hunt. Later we had been hearing from Monte Carlo of his disastrous plunges at roulette.

I still take three home newspapers, trying to follow the people I knew and the things that happen, and the ubiquity of so worthless a creature as Larabee Harman in the columns I dredged for real news had long been a point of irritation to this present exile. Not only that. He had usurped space in the continental papers, and of late my favorite Parisian journal had served him to me with my morning coffee, only hinting his name, but offering him with that gracious satire characteristic of the Gallic journalist writing of anything American. And so this grotesque wreck of a man was well known to the boulevard—one of its sights. That was to be perceived by the flutter he caused, by the turning of heads in his direction and the low laughter of the people at the little tables. Three or four in the rear ranks had risen to their feet.

Some one behind us chuckled aloud, "They say Mariana beats him."

"Evidently."

The dancer was aware of the flutter and called Harman's attention to it with a touch upon his arm and a laugh and a nod of her violent plumage.

At that he seemed to rouse himself somewhat. His head rolled heavily over upon his shoulder, the lids lifted a little from the red shot eyes, showing a strange pride when his gaze fell upon the many staring faces.

Ward pulled my sleeve.

"Come," he said, "let us go over to the Luxembourg gardens where the air is cleaner."

Ward is a portrait painter, and in the matter of vogue there seem to be no pinnacles left for him to surmount.

He has painted most of the very rich women of fashion who have come to Paris of late years, and he has become so prosperous, has such a polite celebrity and his opinions upon art are so conclusively quoted that the friendship of some of us who started with him has been dangerously strained.

His sister, Miss Elizabeth, looks after him now. She came with him when he returned to Paris after his disappointment in the unfortunate Harman affair, and she took charge of all his business as well as his social arrangements (she has been accused of a theory that the two things may be happily combined), making him lease a house in an expensively modish quarter near the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne. Miss Elizabeth is an instinctively fashionable woman, practical withal, and to her mind success should be not only respectable, but "smart."

It was George's habit to come often to see me. He always really liked the sort of society his sister had brought about him, but now and then there were intervals when it wore on him a little, I think. Sometimes he came for me in his automobile, and we would make a mild excursion to breakfast in the country, and that is what happened one morning about three weeks after the day when we had sought pure air in the Luxembourg gardens.

We drove out through the Bois and by Suresnes, striking into a roundabout road to Versailles beyond St. Cloud. It was June, a dustless and balmy noon, the air thinly gilded by a faint haze, and I know few things pleasanter than that road on a fair day of the early summer and no sweeter way to course it than in an open car.

"After all," said George, with a placid wave of the hand, "I sometimes wish that the landscape had called me. You outdoor men have all the health and pleasure of living in the open, and as for the work—oh, you fellows think you work, but you don't know what it means."

He indicated the white road running before us between open fields to a curve, where it descended to pass beneath an old stone culvert. Beyond stood a thick grove with a clear sky flickering among the branches. An old peasant woman was pushing a heavy cart round the curve, a scarlet handkerchief knotted about her head.

"You think it's easy?" I asked. "Easy! Two hours ought to do it as well as it could be done—at least, the way you fellows do it!"

He was interrupted by an outrageous uproar, the grisly scream of a siren and the cannonade of a powerful exhaust, as a great white touring car swung round us from behind at a speed that sickened me to see and, snorting thunder, passed us.

"Seventy miles an hour!" gasped George. "Those are the—Oh, Lord! There they go!"

The Wonderful Camel.

When the nature of the work performed by the camel is considered it is perhaps its very somnolent organization which best fits it for that work and, which gives color to the accusations of laziness and stupidity made against it. It can live on a diet as appetizing as "a green umbrella," to use Sir Samuel Baker's words. Barren, leafless twigs, dried shrubs and the tough, paperlike substances of the dome palm form the chief courses in the menu prepared by nature for this denizen of the desert. The marvelous arrangement for the retaining of a supply of water sufficient to last for many days makes the camel's powers of endurance phenomenal. The ordinary freight camel is expected to carry a load of from 500 to 1,000 pounds across the desert at the rate of twenty-five miles a day and to keep it up for three days without a fresh supply of water. Some will cover fifty miles a day for five days without water, and the swifter species will carry their riders 100 miles a day.—London Spare Moments.

The Humming Bird's Flight.

The flight of the little humming bird is more remarkable than that of the eagle. We can understand the flapping of the eagle's immense wing supporting a comparatively light body. But our little bird has a plump body. His wings are not wide, but long, so he must move them rapidly to sustain his weight, and this he can do to perfection. The vibrations of his wings are so rapid as to make them almost invisible. He can use them to sustain himself in midair, with his body as motionless as if perched on a twig. In this way he can sip the nectar of the delicate, fine stemmed flowers without alighting for a moment. He never alights while so engaged. He moves from flower to flower with a graceful and rapid movement, sometimes chasing away a bee or humming bird moth, of which he is very jealous. Nor is he much more favorably impressed with any small birds that seem in his way. He knows his power of flight, and he has no fear of any other bird.—St. Nicholas.

Miss Marion G. Scott, who came home from Danielson, Conn., where she teaches, to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, Norwood ave., has gone to New York to spend New Year's with her brother, George E. Scott and family.

William Sheehan, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sheehan of Norwood ave., came home from New York to spend Christmas with his parents. His brother, Patrolman Sheehan, is a member of the New York police force.

The W. R. C. last evening initiated two new members. After the business of the evening the members turned to a Christmas tree for the entertainment feature. In the absence of a real Santa one of the members, as Cook from the North Pole, took charge of the distribution of gifts. There was a present for all, and some of the gifts were accompanied by original verses.

Lewis Hutchinson, the popular clerk at Valentine's market, played the part of the Good Samaritan on Christmas, or rather Sunday. While walking from his home in Peabody to Salem, during the storm, he came upon a man buried to his neck, apparently, in a snow bank. The man was very weak and fatigued when Lewis came upon him, and but for his timely arrival it is probable the fellow would have died from exposure.

Raymond C. Allen was successfully operated upon at the Beverly hospital Tuesday for appendicitis and at the present time is getting along as nicely as could be expected. Another trouble was encountered after the operation for appendicitis, and this, too, was successfully taken care of by the surgeons. Mr. Allen will be confined to the hospital a month, probably.

The condition of Tree Warden William Young, who was taken to the Beverly Hospital last week, as the result of a fall in Gloucester in which he broke a blood vessel in his arm, is more serious than at first thought. On examination it was found that he had a twisted joint in the shoulder, and he will probably be laid up seven or eight weeks. It is said the arm will never be as well as formerly, which will prove sad indeed, if true, as Mr. Young lost the use of his other arm some years ago by having it cut off above the wrist by a mowing machine.

LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

Prof. Waugh of M. A. C. Gives Informal Talk on the Subject Before North Shore Gardeners.

Prof. Waugh of the Mass. Agricultural College, Amherst, gave a talk on landscape gardening before the North Shore Horticultural society, Manchester, on Friday evening, Dec. 17.

Prefacing his talk with an allusion to the grand opportunity for gardening in this section of New England and the beautiful estates on the North Shore, and the money spent in gardens and in laying out estates, Prof. Waugh spoke at length of American landscape gardening and of the men who were most prominent in the work in this country.

Andrew Jackson Downing, he said, was the first strictly American landscape gardener. He had written three fine books, two dealing with architecture and the other with landscape gardening. He designed a few places, but none can be found today. It was Olmstead that introduced the Italian garden into this country.

"They are really American gardens as they are made in America, but are made in the Italian style and copied from the gardens in the old world. These gardens have caused a great deal of discussion among our gardeners and most of them prefer our own style which is more natural and adapted to this country. I have seen many of these gardens and some I call very fine, in fact the best that can be done along this line, but I think I prefer our own style. Charles A. Platt of Boston has designed many of these gardens. He is one of the most skillful designers in the Italian style, and possibly knows less about gardening than any man. He does not know anything about it and does not pretend to, but he excels in designing and has good men to carry out his ideas.

"American gardening is entirely different from all others and has to be designed accordingly. We are impressed by the bigness and vastness of America when compared with other countries. Take for instance the great Niagara Falls; the ranges of the Rocky Mountains, none other like them in the world; the lakes, which are called the Great Lakes; our large river, the biggest in the world with one exception and that is in the wilderness. The miles and miles of planes. These features are strictly American and this bigness belongs to America alone. This is the landscape we have to work with. The gardeners over here have vast estates to lay out, acres of forests, lawns and gardens. There is a great contrast between these and the small estates in England, Scotland, Germany, Italy and other countries.

"Possibly some of you have ridden on the Midland Railroad in Scotland and have seen the scenery there. Nice smooth banks, everything as neat as a front yard. Compare it with a journey in this country. The roads are hewn out of large boulders and rough forests and dirty gravel pits. It will be thousands of years before this country is laid out anything like England. We are just in our infancy. The landscape gardeners have to contend with the bigness and vastness of everything and adapt their designs accordingly."

Prof. Waugh spoke at some length of Olmstead's work. He is considered one of the best architects that the American continent has ever produced.

"Franklin Park in Boston is one of the best samples of his work. Some of this is his work and some of it is not. It has been under the supervision of different people and some of them have not carried out his schemes. It really takes fifteen or twenty years to develop a place of this kind and your ideas can begin to be seen. By this time the founder is dead. Olmstead tried to adapt his designs to the scenery and surroundings. Sometimes the landscape is more important than the garden and sometimes the garden is more important than the landscape. He rejuvenated the natural style in the parks and made it as natural as possible, using domestic shrubs and plants. He differed very much from Downing in this respect. Downing took great delight in importing odd plants from Asia, Japan and other countries, while Olmstead would rather have sumachs or other native shrubs more adapted to American surroundings. Downing would use one plant while Olmstead used carloads, or if the place would permit, would use several carloads. However, in massing, this was only done in certain places where it was suitable for thick and heavy growth. It does not mean that this can be done everywhere. He would place one plant here, a mass over there and rocks in other places, according to the surroundings and advantages.

"Olmstead also had his peculiarities about making roads. It is said you can always tell a road that has been laid out by him. He always brought the best spots to advantage. Mr. Parker of Hartford, Conn., says that Olmstead's roads were laid out in nodes and inter-nodes. These nodes were sort of centers where a striking contrast was made so there would be no repetition along the road. There would be a curve or a certain vista which would show to advantage in just this place and then the road would extend along till it crossed a small brook with a rustic bridge or something to break the monotony and uniformity so that one driving along could not help but notice these breaks."

In summing up he said that America has some of the most beautiful places in the world. Natural scenery abounds and is aided by our skill in trying to introduce everything beautiful in the large, industrious cities.

John Drew at the Hollis.

There are only a few real light comedians on the American stage and of these John Drew is easily the most distinguished and the most deservedly popular. His annual engagements at the Hollis Street Theatre are always events which attract the most fashionable and the smartest audiences of the season. It is expected that such an audience will be present on Monday night, Jan. 3d, when he begins an engagement of two weeks in his latest comedy success, "Inconstant George." A certain sentimental interest will attach to this occasion inasmuch as it will mark Mr. Drew's first return to the stage since his recent accident in Central Park, New York, an accident which required the sudden ending of his run at the Empire Theatre.

"Inconstant George" provides this popular player with a typical John Drew role. He plays the part of George Bullin, a Parisian gentleman of the world without a serious motive or a sincere propelling principle. This gentleman is somewhat unusual in that he suffers from a mild form of neurasthenia which he himself calls "anemia of the will power." This renders it impossible for him to make decisions and keeps him constantly entangled in four or five love affairs simultaneously, it being absolutely impossible for him to decide which of his adored ones he likes best.

AT THE CHURCHES.

Storm Last Sunday Kept Attendants Away.
No Services at Congregational Church.

Last Sunday's severe storm kept people away from church in Manchester. At the Congregational church no services were held, the regular morning service and the concert in the evening, for which considerable pains had been taken, were omitted.

At the Catholic church both masses were held in the morning and despite the storm, they were fairly well attended. On Christmas Day two masses were held, one at 8.30 and High Mass at 10.30, at which Rev. Fr. Brandley sang the mass and the pastor, Rev. Fr. Sullivan, preached the Christmas sermon. In the afternoon the children were treated to Christmas sweets, pictures, etc., in the chapel of the church.

At the Baptist church in the morning Pastor T. L. Frost was greeted by a small congregation of a dozen beside himself. He abbreviated the services but preached his Christmas sermon in full. His text was taken from Luke 2:14—"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." He said in part:

The Song the Angels Sang.

"We are apt to think of heaven as far removed from earth. We think of angels, if we think of them at all, as interested in singing praises around the throne of God, but the Gospel story brings out the fact that angels are interested in men, and are conscious of what men are doing upon earth. Christ's birth was foretold by an angel, and the angels announced to the shepherds that the Christ was born. Angels ministered to Jesus after the temptation in the wilderness. Angels rolled the stone away from the tomb in which the body of Christ was placed. Angels announced to the disciples that Christ would come again upon the clouds. We are interested this morning in the song the angels sang when they announced the birth of Jesus. Let us try and understand something of the meaning of this wonderful anthem the angels sang.

1. The Angels Song was a Song of Glory.

"God created man for His glory, and He was glorified thereby. The greatest glory that has ever come to God came in the birth of Jesus Christ. It was the highest glory, for it was above all other glory in time, extending to all time. It was above all other glory in its wonderful effects. No wonder that the angels sang 'Glory to God in the highest.'

2. It was a Song of Joy.

"The little child in the manger was to bring to the world a fullness of joy it had never known. There is no joy equal to the joy Christmas brings. Every true Christmas celebration is lacking in much if it contains not the note of great joy. Even though sorrow and distress have come to our lives still there should be joy in spite of these things at the Christmas time.

"You remember in Ralph Connor's little book, 'The Angel and the Star,' how the shepherd kissed his wife and beautiful babe and went off to tend his flock. That night the Saviour was born and he was one of the shepherds to whom the announcement came. The day dawned and he returned to his own home. As he approached the house there arose the wail for the dead, and the sound pierced his heart. Yet in spite of the fact that he knew death must have entered his home he was strangely comforted. 'Earth; its sorrows and its joys seemed small to him who had been gazing into Heaven's glory and listening to Heaven's music welcoming Heaven's King.' As his wife met him at the door dreading his agony at the news that his little child had died, he said, 'Peace, He is come.' Then he told of the coming of the Messiah. The mourners left the house leaving the two alone with their dead. Gathering his wife to his heart the shepherd said 'Dear, one, I cannot weep today because of the great joy that has come. Even though death has touched our babe, death's victory is gone.'

3. The Song was a Song of Hope.

"It meant hope for woman. She was henceforth to be man's equal. It meant hope for the oppressed. It meant hope for those bound in the shackles of sin.

4. It was a Song of Love.

"It told of God's love to the race. 'God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son.'

5. It was a Song of Peace.

"Hatred and jealousy are never so out of place as at Christmas time. An unkindness is put aside, as men try to be generous and loving and forgiving they find peace. He only who gives peace to some other life finds peace. He only finds peace who serves Christ and lives for God's glory. As Christ's principles of life take hold of nations there will be the growth of peace among the nations.

"Every Christmas carol is simply an echo of the Angel's Song. Glorious as was the song the angels sang, the song of the redeemed in heaven will be grander. Shall we be permitted to sing that song? It depends upon whether our lives have been opened to the Christ of Christmas, and whether we try day by day to live in the spirit of Christmas; or in other words, the spirit of Christ."

THE BARBER'S TRADE.

Men Who Followed It and Afterward
Rose to Fame.

Perhaps the best known of all barbers who have attained fame were Arkwright, the improver of the spinning jenny, who is said to have turned to mechanics when the wigmaking trade fell off, and Jeremy Taylor, who was brought up in his father's shaving shop at Cambridge.

Edward Sugden, afterward made Baron Saint Leonards, was the son of a hair cutter in a shop in Lincoln's inn, London. A story is told to the effect that once when Sugden was addressing a crowd in the interest of his candidacy to parliament a man called out to know what soap cost and how lather was made. "I am particularly obliged to that gentleman," Sir Edward is reported to have said, "for reminding me of my lowly origin. It is true that I am a barber's son and that I myself was once a barber. If the gentleman who so politely reminded me of these facts had been a barber he would have continued to remain one till the end of his life."

Charles Abbott, Baron Tenterden, was also a barber's son, and it is related how, when he was made a peer of England, he took his own son to a little Westminster shop and bade him remember it was there that his grandfather had been accustomed to shave others for a penny.

William Falconer, the poet, was a poor barber in Edinburgh until his poem "The Shipwreck" brought him renown and incidentally a commission in the royal navy.

Craggs, associated with the south sea bubble, was a barber turned promoter. He became enormously wealthy. But when the south sea crash came his fortune dwindled, and in despair he committed suicide.

Giovanni Belzoni of Padua was a barber with a varied and interesting history. Belzoni set up a shop in England, but soon found more profit in posing at Sadler's Wells as the "Patagonian Samson." Being of thrifty temperament, Belzoni accumulated quite a fortune as the discoverer of interesting relics in the tombs of Egypt and as a traveler.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Professor's Tact.

While conducting examinations at an English university Professor D'Arcy Thompson learned that one of the students to be examined, a young woman who was a candidate for a degree, was so timid and nervous that it was likely she would not do herself justice in the examination, and he was asked to make allowances for this. Professor Thompson asked to be presented to her before the hour for examinations, and after meeting her he suggested that as they had a few moments at their disposal he would be pleased to have her show him about the museum. She gladly agreed, and they spent a delightful half hour. But when the dreaded time approached the nervousness of the young woman became apparent. Finally she summoned courage to ask when the ordeal would take place. The conclusion of the story is obvious—Professor Thompson told her the dreaded hour was over. While they sauntered about the museum he had put her through a rigid examination. She had answered his questions brilliantly, and she received her degree.

Heroes That Pass Unhonored.

The unselfish nurse who devotes her days and nights on the battlefield or in the hospital to the relief of suffering humanity; the poor overworked mother who sacrifices her pleasure and her health for the sake of her offspring; the laborer who toils and toils for the support of his family, in sickness as in health and in spite of the difficulties that beset his uphill path—all these and many more are doing things perhaps more truly heroic than the deeds of some whom the world acclaim as its greatest heroes.—Baltimore Sun.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams spent Christmas with Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. E. H. Withers, Brookline, bringing back their niece to spend the holidays at the Farms.

The Beverly Farms Firemen Home Benefit association held their annual business meeting last evening at which time the present officers were elected for the ensuing year, as follows: Eli R. Hodgkins, president; R. E. Grush, vice pres.; Wm. R. Brooks, recording secy.; Lewis G. Williams, financial secy.; Elmer Standley, treasurer; R. E. Grush, Benjamin Osborne, William S. Pike, Lewis G. Williams, James E. Cole, board of directors. The organization is composed of active and ex-firemen at the Farms, and in the past has done much good in a financial way among its members, the primary object being to pay sick and death benefits.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Campbell are moving into their new cottage at Montserrat today. Their departure from the Farms, where they have lived many years, is much regretted by their many friends and neighbors.

William J. Hayes of Providence, R. I., has been at the Farms this week visiting friends.

Luigo Angelo, an Italian, employed upon some construction work at Pride's, was taken to the Beverly hospital yesterday morning, the victim of a dynamite explosion. It is thought that a small piece of dynamite failed to explode in a blast and that the man later struck this with his pick, causing it to explode. He was injured about the head and arm quite badly and it will be some time before the full extent of his injuries can be determined.

In the death of Edward B. Haven, who passed away at his Boston home this week, the Farms loses one of its old-time summer residents. He was a regular visitor and was among the best liked of those who come here each year; he will be greatly missed.

Last Sunday morning at the Beverly Farms Baptist church a preaching service was held. There was a small audience. There was no Christmas music as planned by the music committee and organist and choir director, Miss Annie Kemp Holmes. The Christmas music will be sung next Sunday morning. The evening sessions in the church were omitted on account of the storm. The Christmas concert will be carried out as printed in this paper last week at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening.

Denman Thompson at Keith's.

The most important vaudeville engagement announced in years is that of the veteran actor Denman Thompson, who will appear at Keith's, January 3rd. For more than 20 years Mr. Thompson has not appeared in anything except his famous play "The Old Homestead," which is still on the road with another actor in his part. He has been anxious, however, for a long time to return to the stage in the short comedy in which he first attained fame, and from which "The Old Homestead" originated. It is called "Joshua Whitcomb" and the leading character of which still appears in "The Old Homestead." Mr. Thompson, now nearly 80, is as vigorous and active as ever, but hardly equal to the requirements of a long play. He is confident, however, of his ability to play his old part as well as ever in the original sketch and the thousands who enjoyed his acting for years will have a rare treat at Keith's.

With such a headline feature the bill must necessarily be a strong one and it will be bright with comedy. One of the strongest features in this line will be Will Murphy and Blanche Nichols in a new version of their famous sketch called "The Rehearsal," without question one of the greatest laughing vehicles vaudeville has ever had. On the same bill will be the Great Lester, America's premier

The BREEZE wishes its readers a most prosperous and happy New Year.

The Farms school will open next Monday morning, after a week's vacation.

Mrs. Alexander Carr was called upon one evening this week by a party of friends, on the occasion of her birthday.

Deacon and Mrs. Edwin Pride will spend most of the winter in Winter Hill with their son, Edwin L. Pride.

F. I. Lamasney has spent a part of this week in Philadelphia on a business trip.

Miss Agnes Harlow has resigned her position as teacher at the Farms school. Her parents have removed to Halifax, N. S., and she has secured a position in that vicinity.

The snow and moonlight nights of the last week have been taken advantage of by a number of Farms young folk. Sleigh, or rather hay-rack rides, have been in favor.

With the ground, buildings, trees and everything, in fact, covered with snow, and with the moon shining in all its fullness, the evenings have been exceedingly attractive the last week.

Mrs. John Daniels is ill at her home on Hale street. A trained nurse is in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Hearne of Nashua, N. H., have spent the last week visiting Farms friends. They returned home this morning.

Some of the Farms young ladies have formed a Girls' club, and the following are its officers: Margaret Connolly, president; Frances Connolly, vice president; Mary Brady, treasurer; Katherine Donovan, secretary. Last Monday evening they gave a select invitation party in Marshall's hall, at which dancing was a pleasant feature.

Harry Howell, the local fisherman, continues to meet with good success. He has a trawl set in the vicinity of Pride's Rock and one day this week he landed about 400 pound of good sized cod.

A Christmas tree will be the entertainment feature provided for the meeting of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, next Friday evening, Jan. 7. There will be a present for everyone. The committee desires the BREEZE to say that those who wish to put any presents on the tree should send same to the committee or bring them to the hall that night.

Foreman Wm. E. Elliott of the street department had a busy time of it the first of the week. He was out early Monday with a big squad of men and teams breaking out the roads and sidewalks. Good work was done in record time and this was fully appreciated by the Farms residents.

At a meeting of the 1909 board of aldermen Tuesday evening Alderman R. E. Hodgkins, who retires after nine years of continuous service, was tendered a rising vote of thanks by his colleagues. Mr. Hodgkins spoke feelingly in reply, saying that he had enjoyed the work and had made many friends. He should miss the work, but his interest would continue and cause him to follow the doings of the City Council closely. He said that the experience had been a great benefit to him in the study of human nature and of municipal affairs. He closed by wishing the incoming city government much success. Alderman Hodgkins has certainly done good work for Ward 6 and many improvements now enjoyed here are due to his especial energy and interest. He retires with the goodwill of Ward 6.

Master Herbert Perkins celebrated his fourth birthday Wednesday by having some twelve of his little friends at his home in Central square. They played games and had a glorious time.

Victor Allo's lecture, concert and dance, was held as per schedule in Neighbors' hall, Monday evening. More than 100 persons were present, despite Mr. Allo's contention, that the occasion would wax warm enough to make up for the lack of artificial heat in the hall. Among those present were a number of ladies.

Jeremiah Donovan, a laborer, who had spent much of his time the last few years at the Farms, working for various contractors, died suddenly Monday. About six o'clock, while eating his supper at his boarding house, Daniel Coughlin's, off High street, he suddenly threw up his hands and expired without a sound. He was about 60 years of age and the only known relatives are a brother at Revere and another at South Boston. The funeral services were held Thursday at Beverly, from the undertaking rooms of J. F. Desmond & Co., and also from the Star of the Sea church.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew D. Owens of Rockland, Me., are visiting friends at the Farms this week.

The Storm at the Farms.

The Farms suffered alike with other places along the shore in last Sunday's blizzard and high tides. Trees and shrubbery especially suffered under the weight of the snow and wind. West Beach was the center of interest and many went there to view the effect of the storm. The pier received a good shaking and will require considerable repairs. The waves undermined many of the bathhouses with the result that they are now standing, or tilting, at various angles. The new bulkhead at the Hutchinson estate was about three-quarters destroyed and about 25 feet of the land in the rear was washed away. The George Lee breakwater and land adjoining, and also that of F. B. Bemis and John T. Morse, jr., the latter at Pride's, was damaged. Numerous floats and boats that had not been put high enough above the extreme high tide were swept away.

invested in a diamond is as sound an investment as one could make. So many points are to be considered in the purchase of a DIAMOND that the selection should be left to one who has had experience, and in whom you have confidence. Many people send us the amount of money they wish to invest and ask us to send them the best value, that amount will buy. Intending purchasers, not posted in DIAMOND values, should consider whether it is not likely to be safest to make their purchases from a house whose business record and reputation commands the confidence of the public than from a illegitimate trader. Our facilities for the buying of fine DIAMONDS is so perfect that we sincerely believe that there exists no honest or just competition that can undersell us. On this basis we solicit your business.
